See note under § 5140.

5142. Order, how served—A copy of the order filed in accordance with the preceding section, together with a written notice that the same has been so filed and will be put in force unless the owner or occupying tenant shall file with the clerk of said court his objections and answer thereto within the time specified in the next succeeding section, shall be served upon the owner of the building or structure so directed to be altered, repaired or demolished, and if there be a tenant occupying the building, then also upon such occupant, which service shall be made upon such owner, and tenant if there be one, personally, either within or without the state; but if the whereabouts of such owner is unknown and the same cannot be ascertained by the state fire marshal in the exercise of reasonable diligence, then upon his filing in the office of the clerk of the district court his affidavit to this effect, service of said notice upon such owner may be made by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks in a newspaper printed and published in the county in which such building or structure is located and by posting a copy thereof in a conspicuous place upon said building or structure, and the service so made shall be deemed to be complete upon the expiration of said publication period. Proof of service of said notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court within five days after the service thereof. (Amended '17 c. 469 § 1)

If no answer is so filed and served, the owner and all other persons in interest shall be deemed to be in default, and thereupon the court shall affirm the order of condemnation and direct the state fire marshal to proceed with the enforcement thereof; but if an answer be filed and served as herein provided, the court shall hear and determine the issues so raised and give judgment thereon as herein provided. (Amended '17 c. 469 § 1)

5144. Order for hearing—Trial and judgment—The court, upon application of the state fire marshal, shall make its order fixing a time and place for such hearing, which place may be at any convenient point within the judicial district and which time shall be within ten days from the date of the filing of the answer, or as soon thereafter as may be; and upon such trial the order of condemnation shall be prima facie evidence of the existence of the facts therein recited. [5175—]1. Trees, plants or shrubs from which diseases or insects may spread—Powers and duties of state inspector of nurseries, etc.—Appraisal—Duty of carriers—Penalty—When any tree, shrub or plant, not itself diseased or infested, which is a host for any organism inducing a plant disease, new to or not heretofore widely prevalent or distributed within or throughout this state, or host for any destructive insect, new or not heretofore widely prevalent or widely distributed throughout this state is situate within three thousand feet of any tree, plant or shrub which is infested with any such organism or insect, the state inspector of nurseries may for the purpose of preventing the spreading of such organism or insect, cause such tree, plant or shrub not itself so diseased or infested, to be destroyed as hereinafter provided.

(a) No tree, plant or shrub not itself diseased, shall be ordered destroyed without the approval in writing of the order therefor signed by a majority of a committee consisting of the experiment station entomologist; president of the Minnesota Horticultural Society and by the director of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station and by the plant pathologist of the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station if a plant disease is concerned, or without opportunity being given to owner of such trees, plants or shrubs for an open hearing if he objects to such action on the part of the inspector.

(b) When the destruction of any such trees, plants or shrubs is determined upon the state inspector of nurseries shall by notice in writing, approved as provided for in subdivision "A" of this section, direct the owner or lessee of the land on which such plants, trees or shrubs are situate to destroy as many of such plants as the state inspector may deem necessary, within such period of time as shall be therein specified, provided, however, such tree, plant or shrub shall not be required to be destroyed until the value thereof shall have been appraised as hereinafter provided.

(c) Immediately upon the issuance by the state inspector of nurseries of an order for the destruction of any trees, plants or shrubs, other than trees especially valuable for lumber, he shall designate three or more persons to be selected from the list of appraisers hereinafter provided for in subdivision H of this section, to appraise the value of such trees, plants or shrubs.

(d) In case the order issued by the state inspector of nurseries directs the destruction of any tree, or trees chiefly valuable for timber purposes, the same shall be appraised as hereinafter provided for by the state forester, the assistant state forester or such suitable employé of the state forester's department as shall be designated in writing by the state forester.

(e) It shall be the duty of the appraisers so appointed to forthwith take and subscribe an oath to fairly and honestly determine the value of the trees, plants or shrubs so ordered to be destroyed and determine the fair cash value thereof at the place and in the condition the same may be in at the time of the issuance of the order. The appraisers so appointed shall receive as compensation for their services such sum, not to exceed six dollars per day, as shall be fixed by the state inspector of nurseries, for each day necessarily employed in the performance of their duties, together with the necessary traveling expenses and hotel bill, incurred in the performance of their duties provided, however, that no officer or employé of the state shall receive any compensation for the performance of the duties herein imposed, but shall be reimbursed for his actual and necessary expenses. Such compensation and expenses, when approved by the state inspector of nurseries shall be audited and paid by the state auditor from the appropriation made for the purposes of this act.

(f) The appraisers so appointed shall forthwith give notice to the owner or lessee of the land on which the trees, plants or shrubs ordered to be destroyed are situate of the time when they will visit the premises for the purpose of making their appraisal. Such owner or lessee shall at the time so specified, be given a full opportunity to be heard on the question of the value of the trees, plants and shrubs so ordered to be destroyed. The appraisers shall thereupon determine, as hereinbefore provided, the cash value of such trees, plants and shrubs and make and file with the state inspector of nurseries a report in duplicate of their appraisal and shall also give a copy thereof to the owner or lessee. The said reports shall each be signed by the appraiser. One of the copies thereof filed with such inspector shall be attached to a voucher which voucher after approval by the state inspector of nurseries, shall be transmitted to the state auditor for audit and after allowance by him the amount therein specified shall be paid from the money appropriated for the purposes of this act, to the owner of the trees, plants or shrubs ordered to be destroyed. The state inspector of nurseries shall attach to the voucher approved by him a certificate that the trees, plants and shrubs so appraised and specified in the voucher and appraisal have been destroyed in accordance with the order. The oath of the appraisers hereinbefore specified shall be attached to and filed with the copy of the appraisers' report filed with the state inspector of nurseries.

(g) Upon the delivery to him of the appraisers' report the owner or lessee of the land on which the trees, plants or shrubs ordered to be destroyed are situate, shall forthwith destroy the same in the manner directed by the state inspector of nurseries, and within the time as specified in subdivision B, and any owner or lessee who fails so to do within a period of five days after the expiration of said time specified in subdivision B shall be guilty of a felony and in addition to such criminal liability, the state inspector of nurseries may, after the failure of the owner or lessee for said five days to so destroy the same, cause the said trees, plants or shrubs to be destroyed at the expense of the owner, in the manner and as provided for in section 1 of this act [5175—1], and such expense in such case shall be deducted from the amount payable to the owner. Provided that said owner, lessee or representative shall not be guilty of a felony if within five days after receiving the notice for the destruction of such trees, plants and shrubs as provided for in subdivision B he shall notify said state inspector of nurseries in writing that he prefers to have said state inspector of nurseries destroy such trees, plants and shrubs as provided in this section.

(i) The state inspector of nurseries is hereby authorized and empowered to prohibit by proclamation the importation into this state of any plant, tree or shrub which has been grown or propagated in any state, province or country or in any place where it shall be determined by the said state inspector of nurseries after due investigation, that there exists and is prevalent to a dangerous extent, White Pine Blister Root or any other plant disease or destructive insect new to Minnesota which is liable to or capable of spreading to and infecting the plants, trees and shrubs of this state and which may be carried and transported to and into this state on or in trees, plants and shrubs there grown. It shall be the duty of said state inspector of nurseries upon the making and promulgation by him of any such proclamation to forthwith mail a copy thereof to each certified nurseryman and to each railroad company doing business in this state and to publish a copy thereof in a newspaper published at the city of Duluth and at the city of St. Paul, and any person, firm or corporation or common carriers which shall after thirty days from the reception of said notice introduce or transport into this state any tree, plant or shrub grown or propagated in the territory described in such proclamation, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor and in case the offender be a corporation, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars for each shipment so introduced into this state. SALES BY AUDITOR

5204. School lands—Minimum price—Pine lands, etc.—The minimum price of school lands shall be five dollars per acre, and all sales thereof shall be within the county in which said lands are situated; provided, that pine lands shall not be sold until the timber thereon has been sold according to the provisions of this chapter; and, when such timber has been sold and removed, the land may be appraised and sold as in this chapter provided. Not more than one hundred thousand acres of school lands shall be sold in one year. Provided, further, however, that where patent has been issued by the federal government to any school land as above defined previous to 1864, and the taxes thereon have been paid for a period of at least fifty years, that then and in such event the state auditor may in his discretion cause such amount of such taxes to be applied upon the minimum price of $5.00 per acre as above provided, as he may deem proper, in order that the minimum sales price of the land may be so reduced as to make it saleable. (Amended '17 c. 76 § 1)

5210. Terms of payment—Interest—The terms of payment on the sale of all state lands other than pine lands shall be as follows: On those which are chiefly valuable for the timber thereon, the purchaser shall pay at the time of sale the value of such timber, and on other lands fifteen per cent of the purchase price. [5217—]1. Resurveys—Whenever a tract of land has been sold by the state of Minnesota, according to the United States survey, and the state auditor is of the opinion that an injustice has been done the purchaser because of an incorrect survey, he may cause a re-survey thereof to be made by a competent surveyor, who shall thereafter prepare a plat showing the correct acreage of each subdivision so re-surveyed to be filed in the state auditor's office and in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county, and the said auditor is hereby authorized to call in such land certificates as are affected by the re-survey and to issue new ones in lieu thereof showing the correct acreage, giving full credit for all payments of principal and interest which had previously been made. Cited (135-408, 161+156).

5229. Assignment—Extensions of payment—

A quitclaim deed by the holders of a certificate of sale conveys their equitable interest in the land (135-408, 161+156). Public Lands, ~~§~~135(5).

An assignment of a certificate, with the assignee's name left blank, is a nullity until the name of the grantee is inserted therein; and a purchaser of the interest of such assignee has no right to judgment against the original assignor for breach of contract to transfer the certificate (135-449, 161+155). Public Lands, ~~§~~135(5).

The assignment is a conveyance of real estate within § 6813, and, when recorded, protects a good-faith purchaser against a prior unrecorded assignment (135-408, 161+156; 135-449, 161+155). Public Lands, ~~§~~54(10), 138.

[5229—]1. Certain assignments validated—That all assignments of school land certificates of real property within this state, made during the month of October, 1911, wherein a married woman has assigned such school land certificate, and the real property therein described, direct to her husband, shall be, and the same are hereby declared to be legal and valid, and the record of such assignments heretofore actually recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county, shall be in all respects legal and valid, and such assignments, and the record thereof, shall have the same force and effect in all respects, for the purpose of notice, evidence and otherwise, as may be provided by law in regard to assignments and conveyances in other cases. Provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any action or proceedings now pending in any of the courts of this state. And provided further, that this act shall not impair vested rights heretofore acquired by third parties in such property. ('15 c. 267 § 1)

5230. Effect of certificate—Record—

The holder of a certificate of sale of public land is the equitable owner, and an assignment of the certificate is a conveyance under § 6813, and a purchaser in good faith of a certificate, who places his assignment of record, is protected by the recording acts against a prior unrecorded assignment (135-408, 161+156; 135-449, 161+155). Public Lands, ~~§~~54(10), 138.

5237. Patents—

Where, after a good-faith purchaser of a certificate of sale of state land has become the owner of the equitable title by recording his assignment, the holder of a prior unrecorded assignment pays the balance due the state and surrenders the certificate, and receives a patent, the patent cannot be canceled and the legal title revested in the state at the suit of the equitable owner; but the patentee may be adjudged to hold the legal title in trust for the equitable owner, and may be required to convey it to him upon payment of the amount so paid to the state (135-408, 161+156). Public Lands, ~~6~~138.

[5245—]1. Investment secretary for board of investment—There is hereby created an investment secretary, who shall be the secretary of the state board of investment (called in the Constitution board of commissioner), and who shall perform the duties of his office under the direction of the state board of investment; provided, however, that the responsibility for the safe investment of all state trust funds, under its jurisdiction, shall remain with the board. ('17 c. 271 § 1)

[5245—]3. Same—Powers and duties—The said secretary shall, under the direction of said board of investment, have general supervision of the investigation of applications for loans, the negotiation of new investments, examination of securities, and the records of municipalities applying for loans, and such other work relative to the trust funds of the state as shall be required by the said board of investment. The secretary shall report to the board of investment all relevant facts in connection therewith. ('17 c. 271 § 3)

[5245—]4. Same—How appointed—Term, etc.—The investment secretary shall be appointed by the state board of investment. The first appointee shall hold office until January 1, 1920. Thereafter the term of the secretary shall be three years and until his successor shall be appointed and qualified. The board of investment may remove the secretary at its discretion. Vacancies caused by resignation or removal shall be filled by the board of investment for the unexpired term. ('17 c. 271 § 4)

[5245—]5. Same—Assistants—Bonds—The secretary shall, with the approval of the board of investment, appoint and dismiss all assistants. The said board shall require the secretary and, in its discretion, may require his assistants to give a bond payable to the state in such sum as the board shall determine. ('17 c. 271 § 5)

[5245—]6. Same—Quarters—Expenses—Said secretary shall be provided with suitable quarters, office furniture and supplies, and be allowed necessary expenses when traveling on official business. All expense accounts of the secretary shall be approved by the board of investment, and when so approved, shall be audited and paid as provided by law. ('17 c. 271 § 6)

[5245—]7. Same—Custody of bonds and securities—The state treasurer shall continue to have the custody of the bonds and securities belonging to the trust funds of the state, but the secretary shall have access thereto in the presence of a representative of the state treasurer, during the usual office hours of the treasury department. ('17 c. 271 § 7)

[5251—]1. Sale of bonds of other states—Reimbursement of funds—That the state board of investment is hereby authorized to sell the bonds of other states, or any part thereof, now held in the trust funds of the state, for a sum less than the cost to such funds, should the board of investment deem it for the best interests of the state to make such disposition of said bonds. In order that the principal of such funds, as derived from the sales, or other disposition of said lands, or other property, granted or intrusted in this state for educational purposes, or for purposes of internal improvement, shall not be impaired, the said board of investment is hereby authorized to make up any deficit, or loss, which may accrue by reason of the sale of said bonds, from the fund hereinafter created, or from the profit derived from former sales of bonds of said trust funds, as shown upon the books of the state auditor, or partly from the said fund and partly from said profits. ('17 c. 464 § 1)

[5251—]2. Same—Fund to meet prospective loss—Bonus on bonds purchased from municipalities—The board of investment is hereby authorized to create a fund to meet any prospective loss arising from the sale of such bonds, or any portion thereof, by charging a bonus upon the bonds of municipalities of the state purchased by said investment board, not exceeding one-fourth of one per cent per annum for the period for which the loan is to run. Such bonus shall be deducted from the amount of such loan when made and credited to such fund. The board of investment may, in its discretion, exempt loans to school districts from the provisions of this section. Municipalities making application to the state for loans under this act are hereby authorized to pay such bonus upon approval by the governing board of such municipalities. ('17 c. 464 § 2)

[5251—]3. Same—Loss from sale of bonds, how paid—Whenever the board of investment shall sell any of said bonds and a loss to the trust funds shall accrue therefrom, the amount of such loss shall be paid from the fund provided for by section 2 [5251—2], if said fund is created by the board of investment, if the amount in said fund, or the anticipated receipts thereto, be sufficient to meet such loss; if insufficient the deficiency shall be paid from the profits of former sale of bonds of said trust funds. ('17 c. 464 § 3)

[5251—]5. Same—Appropriations—There is hereby appropriated from the revenue fund such sum as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, not to exceed $100,000; and there is also appropriated from the profits of the former sale of bonds, as shown upon the books of the state auditor, such sum as the board of investment may deem necessary to expend for the purposes of this act. ('17 c. 464 § 5)

[5256—]1. Lease for certain purposes—The State Auditor may at public or private vendue and at such prices and under such terms and conditions as he may prescribe, lease any unsold school, university, internal improvement, and swamp land, for the purpose of taking and removing sand, gravel, clay, rock, marl, peat, and black dirt therefrom for storing thereon ore, waste materials from mines or tailings from ore milling plants, and for building or garden sites, and for other temporary uses that shall not result in any permanent injury to the land; provided that no such lease shall be made for a term to exceed one year, except in the case of leases of lands for storage sites for ore, waste materials from mines or tailings from ore milling plants, which may be made for term not exceeding ten years; provided further that all such leases shall be made subject to sale and leasing of the land for mineral purposes under legal provisions. All money received from leases under this act shall be credited to the fund to which the land belongs. ('15 c. 192 § 1, amended '17 c. 31 § 1)

[5257—]1. Revolving fund for clearing school and swamp land—The sum of $100,000 is hereby set apart and appropriated from the fund derived from the sale of school and swamp lands. The said sum of money is to be used as a revolving fund and as contemplated by the amended section 2 of article 8 of the Constitution of the State of Minnesota in clearing unsold school and swamp land. ('17 c. 164 § 1)

[5257—]4. Same—Auditor to have charge of improvements, etc.—Engineers, etc.—The state auditor shall have charge of the improvements of all public lands and of the administration of this act. He shall appoint such engineers, agricultural experts, and other employes as shall be necessary for the administration of this act and determine their compensation; provided that the governor may on recommendation of the auditor require any expert work necessary in the administration of this act to be performed under the direction of the auditor by employes of other state bureaus, departments and institutions. ('17 c. 164 § 4)

[5257—]5. Same—Improvements, where made, etc.—The auditor shall, from time to time, determine the townships within which the improvement of state lands shall be made and he shall at all times give preference to those lands which, in his judgment, can most successfully be used at the time for agricultural purposes; provided that unless the state land improvement board shall decide otherwise, and consent in writing, no contract shall be let for an improvement involving less than the equivalent of one section of state land within the limits of any township, unless and until the state shall have no land in such quantity which, in the judgment of the auditor, is suitable for improvement under this act. ('17 c. 164 § 5)

[5257—]6. Same—Extent and character of improvements, how determined—The auditor shall determine the extent of the improvements to be made on any area, the character of the improvements to be as provided in this act; provided that not more than five acres shall be cleared on each forty-acre tract and the total cost of the improvements on any area improved shall not exceed $300.00 on each forty (40) acre tract. ('17 c. 164 § 6)

[5257—]7. Same—Contract, how let, etc.—The work of making any improvements upon state lands, authorized by this act, shall be done under contract by the lowest responsible bidders. Contracts may be let for different classes of work separately or combined, or for different tracts in the same selected area separately or combined. The contractor may be paid for his work either on its completion or from time to time during its progress as the state auditor shall determine; provided that no payment shall be made until a competent inspector appointed by the auditor shall have examined the work and shall have certified that the work was done well and fully justifies the payment. Contracts shall be let under such regulations, terms and conditions as the state auditor, with the advice and consent of the state land improvement board, may determine. ('17 c. 164 § 7)

[5257—]8. Same—Cost, how apportioned—The actual cost of the improvement of any selected area, and a proper proportion of the cost of the administration of this act, shall be apportioned in equal portions to the forty-acre tracts upon which any such improvement is made, to be repaid to the state as hereinafter provided; provided that the cost of administration to be so charged shall include only the expenses actually incurred by reason of this act and shall include no charges for the general administration of state lands as otherwise provided for by law. ('17 c. 164 § 8)

sign an agreement in writing that he will establish his residence upon such tract within eighteen months of the date of purchase, that he will cultivate and further improve it in a husbandlike manner, and that he will so maintain his residence and so cultivate and improve the land until the cost of improvements apportioned to that tract are paid to the state in full. Such agreement shall be a condition of the sale and its breach shall terminate the contract of sale, unless within three months after notice given by the state auditor, residence is established on the land purchased, and unless such residence is maintained and the other conditions agreed to be performed for the period herein provided. Provided, however, that the condition in said contract as to actual continuous residence on said land may be waived by the state auditor when because of the death of the purchaser or for other good cause arising after the establishment of such residence he believes such waiver will be just and equitable to all concerned. ('17 c. 164 § 9)

[5257—]10. Same—Price of land and cost of improvements, how paid—Interest—Lien—On the sale of any lands improved under this act the purchaser shall pay at the time of sale a sum equivalent to 15% of the purchase price of the land, exclusive of improvements, which sum shall be received by the state auditor in part payment of the cost of such improvements, in lieu of the part payment of the purchase price of the land provided for in Section 5210, General Statutes 1913, and the same shall be turned into the revolving fund herein provided for. The purchase price of the land, exclusive of improvements, shall be payable at any time within forty years at the option of the purchaser, as provided in section 5210, General Statutes of 1913. The balance of the cost of such improvements shall be payable twenty-five (25%) per cent in two years from date of purchase, twenty-five (25%) per cent in three years from date of purchase, twenty-five (25%) per cent in four years from date of purchase, and twenty-five (25%) in five years from date of purchase. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying any larger sum at any time. Interest at four (4%) per cent per annum shall be collected annually on all accounts remaining unpaid. The state shall have a first lien upon the land for the interest and unpaid principal of the cost of such improvements. ('17 c. 164 § 10)

[5257—]11. Same—Revolving fund, how credited, etc.—As soon as any tract of land improved under this law shall have been sold or disposed of under contract of sale with agreement on the part of the purchaser to pay for such improvements, as provided, in this act, the state auditor shall credit to the revolving fund the principal amount contracted to be paid for such improvements by the purchaser. Such amount when collected in whole or in part shall thereupon become a part of the revolving fund provided for by this law, and may again be expended for the purpose of carrying out this act. It shall be a first lien on the interest of the person holding the certificate or other title to such land. ('17 c. 164 § 11)

TRESPASS ON STATE LANDS

5258. Damages—Penalty—Presumption—

This act is not violative of Const. art. 4 § 27, providing that no law shall embrace more than one subject, which shall be expressed in its title (128-300, 150+912). Statutes, §=117(1).

A complaint alleging that one cut timber on state lands without a permit required by R. L. 1905 § 2442 states a cause of action in trespass, though words equivalent to "wrongfully" or "willfully" are not used; and a holder of a permit to cut timber of not less than a specified size is a trespasser in cutting timber of a less size (128-300, 150+912). Public Lands, §=16.

TIMBER LANDS

[5269—]1. State appraiser—The state auditor is hereby empowered to appoint one or more employees to be known as state appraiser. Whenever it is necessary to appraise state lands under the terms of existing law the state auditor shall appoint as such appraiser on the part of the state land commissioner or state auditor, one of the state appraisers duly qualified as herein provided, who shall except as herein otherwise provided, hereafter perform the duties heretofore devolved upon state land examiners or timber estimators. ('17 c. 162 § 1)

Section 6 repeals inconsistent acts, etc.

[5269—]2. Same—Duties—The duties of such state appraiser shall be to estimate and appraise timber upon all state lands; to make valuations of lands suitable for agricultural purposes; to check scale timber cut from state lands in trespass either situated upon state lands or removed therefrom; to check-scale any scale of timber cut on state land; to make check scales by the stump and top or any other method of timber removed from state lands; and to perform such other duties as may be assigned to him by the state auditor. Nothing contained in this act, however, shall be construed to in any way amend the provisions of title 1, chapter 38, General Statutes 1866, or any act amendatory thereto relating to the appointment of appraisers by officials other than the state auditor. ('17 c. 162 § 2)

[5269—]3. Same—Oath of—Each such state appraiser shall before entering upon the duties of his office take and subscribe an oath before a person qualified to administer oaths, that he will faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as appraiser according to the best of his ability, and that he is not interested directly or indirectly in any of the state lands or materials improvements thereon, and has entered into no combination to purchase the same or any part thereof, which said oath shall be made a part of the bond as hereinafter provided for. ('17 c. 162 § 3)

[5269—]4. Same—Bond—Powers and duties—Arrest of trespassers—Badge—Report, etc.—At the time of the appointment of any such state appraiser he shall give a bond to the state in a penal sum of not less than $5,000 conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties, which bond shall be approved by the attorney general, and together with the oath as hereinbefore provided for, be filed in the office of secretary of state. Such bonds shall be paid for out of the general land, timber, swamp or contingent fund of the auditor of the state.

Every such state appraiser is hereby authorized to arrest any person found trespassing, or to have trespassed, upon state lands and deliver him to the sheriff of the county, and such state appraiser shall immediately enter a complaint before a court of competent jurisdiction in said county charging the person so arrested with such trespass, and the person so charged shall be arraigned and given a hearing on such complaint.

Such state appraiser shall wear when upon duty a badge of office to be designated and provided by the state auditor.

It is hereby declared a misdemeanor for any person not a duly appointed and acting state appraiser to wear a badge or to impersonate or claim to be a state appraiser.

Whenever an appraisal or valuation is made upon lands suited for agricultural purposes, such state appraiser shall place an estimate and valuation of any timber thereon, and make a separate report thereof; such report shall be made from his field notes made on the land and be by him entered in his own hand in a book kept for that purpose, and shall be made a part of the record of the state auditor's office, such entry shall be dated when made and sworn to upon the record at the same time the state appraiser shall file in the state auditor's office all plats and field notes made by him, and affix his signature to each said plat and to each said page of the field notes. Such records shall show that said state appraiser was actually upon the land when such estimate and valuation was made.

No such report shall embrace more than one section or fractional section of land according to the government survey thereof, and shall show the amount of timber upon each forty acre tract or subdivision; provided, however, that as ownership may appear to each subdivision of land so appraised in the various trust funds of the state, so shall all appraisements, sales, and accountings therefor be done according as such title may appear as of record in the office of the state auditor; and provided further, that where appraisals, sales, and accountings heretofore made have not been made in accordance with this provision, the state auditor is authorized to make such apportionment to the various funds as he may deem equitable and just to each such fund, and such apportionment is hereby legalized and confirmed.

The report shall state the amount of each kind of timber, the value per thousand feet, and the value per piece of all such timber.

In making such estimate and valuation the appraiser shall take into consideration distance of the timber from the nearest lake, stream, or railroad, and the character of the land, what amount, if any, of the timber has been burned, and the extent and character of such burning; the situation of the timber relative to risks from fire or damage of any kind, and the injury which will result in the prospective price that may be obtained in the future by reason of the removal of timber operations contiguous to or in the community of, such tract, thereby leaving such tracts isolated and the value of the timber to the State thereby lessened. ('17 c. 162 § 4)

[5269—]5. Same—False report—Penalty—Every such State Appraiser, who shall make a false report, or insert in any such report a false date, estimate appraisal, valuation quantity or statement of whatever nature; or shall make any such report without having examined the land embraced therein, or without having actually been upon the land; or who in executing his oath of office; or who in stating his qualifications as State Appraiser to the state auditor for the purpose of securing such appointment or who shall insert therein any false statement, shall be guilty of a felony. ('17 c. 162 § 5)

5270. Board of timber commissioners—Powers and duties—Rules, etc.—The governor, treasurer, auditor, state forester and attorney general shall constitute a board of timber commissioners, of which the governor shall be chairman. The auditor shall be ex-officio secretary of the board, and he or his deputy shall attend each meeting and make full minutes of the proceedings, which shall be signed at the close of each meeting by the commissioners present, and shall be kept subject to public inspection in the office of the auditor. The governor and two other members shall be a quorum for the transaction of business. Before any timber is sold the auditor shall submit to the board, which shall meet from time to time, upon the call of the governor, the question of such sale, and shall produce the record of appraisal of such timber and the board shall examine the same, together with other documents and records and such witnesses as it may require. If the governor and at least two other members of the board shall so determine, they shall enter upon the record of appraisals a statement, dated and signed by them that such timber is in danger of being injured, and that a sale thereof is necessary to protect the state from loss. Thereafter, and not before, the auditor may make such sale. Whenever any member of the board becomes satisfied, before issuance of a permit, that, by reason of fraud or misstatement on the part of any estimator, witness or officer, or by reason of any combination or irregularity, the interests of the state so demand, he shall withdraw his approval of any sale, by an entry signed by him upon the record of the appraisals. No sale of timber shall be made until not less than two independent estimates have been made.

The timber board shall upon call by the chairman thereof, meet during the month of January and formulate rules to be followed in regard to the bark mark, end mark, or other mark or marks to be utilized by the purchasers of timber, the method to be pursued in the settlement of trespass cases, and to establish such other rules as it may deem wise in the transaction of the state's timber business.

The timber board shall have power to instruct the state auditor how timber that has been seized by him shall be disposed of, and it may order sold at private vendue timber cut in trespass or removed from state lands in violation of law, where the appraised value thereof shall not exceed $50.00. ('05 c. 204 § 13, amended '17 c. 326 § 1) spruce, tamarack, cedar, balsam, balm of gilead, birch or poplar, on any tract of state land not exceeding one section in area, where the estimated quantity of log timber thereon does not exceed 100,000 feet, at public auction to the highest bidder, at the county seat of the county in which such tract is located. He shall give three weeks' published notice of any such sale in a paper published at the county seat of the county where such land is situated, instead of eight weeks' notice in papers at St. Paul and Minneapolis, as provided for in section 15 for the sale to be held at the capitol building. Such notice of sale shall contain a description of each tract of land upon which is situated any timber that is to be offered, and a statement of the estimated quantity of each kind of timber thereon, and of the appraised price of each kind of such timber per thousand feet, or per piece, or per cord, as the case may be. Timber estimated and appraised as log timber shall be offered and sold by the thousand feet; timber estimated and appraised as tie, or pole or post timber shall be offered and sold by the tie, or pole, or post, as the case may be; timber estimated and appraised as pulpwood, or lathbolts, or mine lagging, or wood for fuel purposes, shall be offered and sold by the cord; all cords to be single cords. The sale shall be made to the party who shall bid the highest price for all the several kinds of timber as advertised. The purchaser of any such timber at any such sale shall immediately pay to the auditor, or the person conducting the sale for him, for delivery by such official to the state treasurer, 25 per cent of the appraised value of such timber, and shall thereupon be entitled to receive from the auditor a permit to enter upon such land and cut and remove such timber. Before receiving such permit, however, he shall execute a bond to the state of Minnesota, with sureties to be approved by the auditor, in an amount at least double the appraised value of such timber, conditioned upon cutting of all said kinds of timber that there may be upon said land, clean, acre by acre, and paying the state the balance that may be due therefor, and for the faithful performance of all the terms and conditions of the law governing such matters. All timber cut on any of the state lands under any such sale and permit is to be scaled, or counted, as the case may be by a deputy surveyor general. In no case shall any such timber be removed from the land where it was cut, until it has been so scaled or counted by a deputy surveyor general. Any person removing any such timber from the land where it was cut before it has been so scaled or counted by a deputy surveyor general shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and may be prosecuted criminally therefor. The purchaser of any such timber shall pay the state for all timber that may be cut upon or removed from such land during the life of his permit, at his purchase price per thousand feet, or per piece, or per cord, as the case may be. In all other respects such sale shall be subject to all the restrictions and conditions applicable to the sale of other state timber. ('05 c. 204 § 16, amended '09 c. 476; '17 c. 325 § 1)

5274. Annual and emergency sales—Except as provided in this and the preceding section, there shall be only one sale of timber in each year, which shall be held not later than November 1st, and may be adjourned from day to day, but no longer, until complete; provided, that in case of emergency, if the board of timber commissioners shall unanimously determine that it is for the best interests of the state that more sales shall take place before the next regular sale, they shall be held under the same regulations, so far as practicable, as are provided for regular sales. ('05 c. 204 § 17, amended '17 c. 322 § 1) survey, shall be described in any one permit, and no permit shall be issued to any person other than the purchaser in whose name the bid was made. The permit shall state the amount of timber estimated to be thereon, the estimated value thereof, and the price at which it is sold, or the price per thousand feet, in case it is sold by the thousand feet, and shall specify the bark, end or other mark to be used. A separate bark, end or other mark shall be used on the timber cut under each permit, and, if the permit covers more than one season, it shall specify a separate mark to be used each season. It shall provide that the purchaser shall place the specified bark mark, upon every piece of timber cut, and also plainly upon the end thereof the stamp mark MINN, and, that, in case of any failure to place both bark and stamp mark upon any such piece, the state shall have the right to take possession of the same wherever found. It shall contain such other provisions as may be necessary to secure to the state the title of all timber cut thereunder, wherever found, until full payment thereof, and until all provisions of the permits have been fully complied with. It shall also provide that all timber standing on the land and sold shall be cut; that the same shall be cut clean, acre by acre, without damage to other timber; that the purchaser agrees to remove all timber whether it be log timber or any other timber of value, unless specifically withheld under the terms of sale, and that timber sold by board measure, determined by the state auditor as not convertible into board measure may be paid for by the piece upon a graduated scale based upon the size, species, or value of each piece or cord, as may be determined by the state timber board; that the purchaser shall pay to the state the permit price for all timber, including timber which he fails to cut and remove, and the amount of fees of the surveyor general; and that he shall, in writing, notify the surveyor general for the district, and also the auditor, at least fifteen days before any cutting is done, at what time such cutting will begin, at least fifteen days before any timber is removed from the land, at what date such removal will begin.

It shall provide that the purchaser shall make a report in writing to the state auditor under oath, enumerating and stating the amounts of timber cut under such permit; the kinds of timber removed and the amounts of each in board feet per piece, in cords, or any other dimension, in the manner and forthwith whenever so required by the state auditor. The permit shall further state that a false return made contrary to the provisions of the permit shall constitute a gross misdemeanor and be punished as such, and such return when wilfully made is hereby declared to be a gross misdemeanor, and shall be punished as such. The permit shall state that the state auditor shall have power to order suspended all operations under the permit and any timber cut or removed during the period of suspension is hereby declared to be cut in trespass. The permit shall further state that the timber board may cancel the permit at any time when in its judgment the conditions thereof have not been complied with, and such cancellation shall constitute repossession of the timber by the state. The purchaser shall have ninety days within which to remove his equipment from such land. The permit shall further state that if the purchaser at any time fails to pay any obligation to the state under all or any other permits, this, any or all other permits may be cancelled as hereinbefore provided for. The permit shall also state that any timber removed in violation of the terms of the permit or any law shall constitute trespass. A provision shall be contained in the permit that the statute of limitations shall not prevent the bringing of an action growing out of any violation of any provision, either civil or criminal, of this act, and no statute of limitations shall so operate. The permit shall state that the timber board reserves the right to change the bark end or other marks of identification from time to time as may be expedient which the purchaser must place upon all timber purchased from the state. The state board of timber commissioners, state forester, attorney general, or state auditor are hereby specifically empowered to enforce all provisions and all conditions contained in any timber permit executed pursuant to the provisions of this act. Any permit failing to conform to the requirements of this section shall be void on its face. All permits shall be filed for record with such surveyor general. ('05 c. 204 § 19, amended '17 c. 327 § 1)

[5278—]1. Certain permits extended—All logging permits, the holders of which could not cut and remove the timber described in them before their expiration, whether said expiration was at the time of the original expiration or after one or more extensions thereof, are hereby extended for another logging season ending June 1, 1917, provided, that the facts relative to the failure to cut and remove timber under said permits be presented to the board of timber commissioners within thirty (30) days from the passage of this act and be found by said board sufficient justification for the failure of said logging permit holders to conform to the terms of said permits prior to June 1, 1916. ('17 c. 28 § 1)

Section 2 provides that this act shall be of no force and effect after October 1, 1917.

5284. Rescale—

Finding that rescale was made jointly by the representative of the state auditor and the deputy surveyor general held sustained by the evidence. Such officer selected by the state auditor to make a rescale held not disqualified because he participated in making the original scale. It may be shown that the rescale included timber which the purchaser had no right to remove under the contract, and such timber may be deducted from the recovery by the state. In an action by the state to recover from a purchaser of pine timber for a deficiency in the scaling of the timber as shown by a rescale, held, that the findings of a trial court are sustained by the evidence. The demand for a rescale was properly made upon the person holding office of surveyor general at the time the demand was made (122-400, 142+717). Officers, ¶110; Public Lands, ¶16.

If the doctrine of laches applies against a state, held, that there was no unreasonable delay in demanding a rescale of timber sold (122-400, 142+717). Equity, ¶71(2).

5302. Limitation of actions—The statutes of this state limiting the time for bringing either civil, or criminal actions shall not apply to any action brought by the state for trespass upon any of its lands, or for violating any of the terms of the permit under which timber is removed from state lands, or for failure to pay the state for all the timber removed under any such permit, or to any criminal prosecution instituted under this chapter. and any civil action brought under this chapter may, at the election of the attorney general,

EMINENT DOMAIN

5395. Scope of chapter—

The state's power of eminent domain defined (125-194, 145+967). Eminent Domain, ¶4.

The use of the words "private property" does not prevent the implication that state lands may be appropriated under the power of eminent domain. State land cannot be appropriated, unless expressly or by necessary implication authorized by statute. This authority was granted by G. S. 1894 § 2606, and such right was carried forward into the revision of 1905 (124-271, 144+960). Eminent Domain, ¶46.

5396. Definitions—

Executor may recover proceeds of land condemned (121-233, 141+170). Eminent Domain, ¶156; Executors and Administrators, ¶130(1).

5397. Proceedings, by whom instituted—

The petition need not allege that the proceedings have been authorized by the board of directors of the petitioning corporation (128-415, 151+198). Eminent Domain, ¶191(2).

Where a leasehold estate is taken, the measure of damage is the fair market value of the estate so taken; and if only a part be taken, the measure of damages is the difference between the value of the entire estate and the value of the part not taken (135-389, 160+1021). Eminent Domain, ¶147.

Measure of damages, where leasehold in part of premises is taken, front wall of building removed, which landlord is not required to rebuild, and where lease is terminable on 60 days' notice and payment of a specified sum, stated (see 135-389, 160+1021).

All parties entitled to share in an award in gross for land taken for street purposes had the right to appeal from the award and have the same reassessed (135-389, 160+1021). Eminent Domain, ¶254.

Under a provision of a special municipal charter authorizing an appeal "from an assessment of damages and benefits," an aggrieved party on such appeal could not question the regularity of the proceedings, the jurisdiction of the municipal council, or the validity of the provisions of the charter authorizing the proceeding (135-436, 161+154). Eminent Domain, ¶251.

Where the commissioners imposed on the railroad company the duty to construct a cattle pass and culverts for the benefit of the landowner, such conditions were not nullified by the failure of the petitioner, in its notice of appeal from the award, to mention such conditions, and such conditions remained in force after determination of the appeal (128-321, 150+906). Eminent Domain, ¶238(4).

5408. Trial—Costs—

The appeal is to be treated, and heard and disposed of, as an ordinary civil action commenced in the district court; and hence such appeal, where taken on the question of damages, may be dismissed without the consent of the respondent, under § 7825 (128-66, 150+222). Eminent Domain, ¶238(1, 7).

5411. Record evidence, how perfected—

To bar a party from sharing in the award on the ground that it has been determined in the condemnation proceedings that he was entitled to no part thereof, it must be shown affirmatively that the question was in fact considered and determined in such proceeding (135-389, 160+1021). CHAPTER 42

MILLS AND DAMS

WATER POWERS

5429. Dams—For what purposes—Eminent domain—

The rights of a public service corporation to divert water from navigable streams of one drainage basin into those of another drainage basin determined (127-23, 148+561). Eminent Domain, §1, 13, 66; Navigable Waters, §34.

LOGGING DAMS

5433. County board may license—

Liability for damages by flooding of land below a log dam (see 123-476, 144+154). Navigable Waters, §39(5).

It is immaterial that a logging corporation was not licensed to take possession of a river by the county commissioners as provided by this section, as defendant's authority is granted by the statute under which it was incorporated. An instruction that defendant, a logging corporation, had no rights in or to a navigable stream superior to the right of plaintiff, a mill owner, held error. The construction of flooding dams by logging corporations is not unlawful, and no damages can be recovered therefor, unless the construction thereof and the conduct of the same be unreasonable (127-8, 148+517). Navigable Waters, §39(2, 5, 6).

UNIFORM STAGE OF WATER IN LAKES

5443. Revision—Confirmation, etc.—Lien—Assessment, how distributed, etc.—The court may revise, correct, amend or confirm such assessment, in whole or in part, or it may order a new assessment, in whole or in part, and, upon like notice, revise, correct, amend, or confirm the same. A copy of the assessment as finally determined or of so much thereof as relates to assessed lands lying in the several counties, shall be filed with the auditor of each such county; and such assessment shall be a lien upon the tract to which it relates. Such assessment may be distributed over a term of years not exceeding ten, and shall be extended and collected along with the taxes levied thereon. (Amended '17 c. 395 § 1)

5447. Cities and villages—The council of every city and village within which the whole, or any part of any navigable or meandered lake is situated, or the council of any city or village which is a riparian owner on any such lake adjoining such village or city, shall have all the powers in respect to establishing and maintaining the waters thereof at a uniform level that are conferred by this chapter upon county boards, and all the provisions of this chapter regulating the exercise of such powers shall be applicable in such cases. The council of any village or city may, for the purpose of this act, acquire title to any navigable lake which is not meandered. Such village or city is authorized to issue its certificate of indebtedness or bonds at a rate not to exceed 6 per cent per annum, to mature at a date corresponding with the date of payment of assessments upon benefited property, as provided by section 5443 of this chapter. Provided, however, that this act shall not apply to cities or municipalities incorporated under a home rule charter. (Amended '17 c. 395 § 2)

[5452—]1. Lakes in certain counties—Powers of county board—When the whole or major part of any navigable lake in this state is situated in a single county having a population of not more than 18,000 inhabitants, the county board of that county, in order to improve navigation on said lake or to promote the public health or welfare, may appropriate a sum not exceeding

$1,000.00 in any one year, for any or all of the following purposes, viz: to erect or maintain sufficient dams or embankments upon and along the shores of said lake or across any of its outlets; to raise and maintain the waters therein at such uniform height as said board may establish, as provided by law; to acquire by condemnation or otherwise the necessary lands for the erection of such dams or embankments; to acquire by condemnation or otherwise the right of way for such public highways leading to such lake, dam or embankment as may be necessary or convenient for public uses; to acquire by condemnation or otherwise lands for public play grounds or public parks and for public roads thereto; to acquire by condemnation or otherwise all lands to be overflowed by raising the waters of such lake; to pay for such damages as may be caused to, or upon, adjacent lands by the overflowing thereof, to pay the cost and expenses of such proceeding and for any other purpose incidental or necessary to such improvements. ('17 c. 338 § 1)

[5452—]3. Same—Power to appropriate—The county board of the county in which the smaller part of any such lake is located may likewise appropriate a sum not exceeding $500.00 in any one year, for any of the purposes hereinbefore mentioned. ('17 c. 338 § 3)

[5452—]4. Same—Other powers not curtailed—This act shall in nowise curtail any of the powers or authority granted to such county board by the provisions of chapter 42, revised laws 1905, or acts amendatory thereof. ('17 c. 338 § 4)

LOGS AND LUMBER

5479. Wilfully injuring booms, etc.—

One who destroys a boom in a navigable river does not violate this section, where such boom constitutes an unauthorized obstruction to navigation (130-229, 153+532, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 267). Logs and Logging, §=37.

DRAINAGE

STATE DRAINAGE COMMISSION

5480. Commission created—How constituted—

Sections 5480 to 5512 and 5523 to 5589, being chapter 470 of Laws 1907, chapter 230 of Laws 1905, and subsequent amendatory acts, are in pari materia, and should be construed together as one law (133-90, 157+998). Drains, §=2(2).

5481. Powers—The drainage commission of the State of Minnesota shall have power to construct as hereinafter provided, any ditch, drain or other water course within the State of Minnesota, and such ditch, drain or other water [course] may in whole or in part follow and consist of the bed of any creek, stream, or river, whether meandered or not, and they may widen, deepen, straighten, change, lower or drain the channel or bed of any creek, river, lake or other natural water course, whether navigable or whether meandered or not, and may construct new and additional outlets to any marshy, shallow or meandered lake, for the purpose of draining the same, and may follow and extend the same into or through any city or village within the state far enough to secure a sufficient fall and flow of water to reasonably effectuate the purpose for which the work is extended, and may confine any such creek, river or other natural water course by means of dykes, levees and embankments to its natural or artificial bed, as laid out, (and shall also, whenever it shall appear to its satisfaction that the drainage of any territory may be made more effective by the construction and maintenance of dams, or other works, for retaining and controlling the flood waters tributary to such territory, have the power to construct or acquire such dams or other works, and flowage rights therefor, and to maintain and operate the same;) Provided, that when in any such proceedings the waters of any creek, river or other water course are diverted from their natural bed by such artificial ditch or drain, such ditch or drain shall as nearly as practicable follow the general direction of such creek, river or water course, and terminate therein.

And, provided, further, that no meandered lake shall be drained under the authority of this act, except in case such lake is normally shallow and grassy and of a marshy character or except in case such meandered lake is no longer of sufficient depth and volume to be capable of any beneficial public use of a substantial character for fishing, boating or public water supply. Provided, further, that no meandered lake shall be drained or lowered under the authority of this act unless petitioned for by at least sixty per cent of the legal voters residing within four miles of such lake, who are freeholders, whose lands are affected as shown by the viewers' report and filed in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county in which such proceedings are had. (Amended '15 c. 273 § 1)

1915 c. 273 § 1 adds the words in parenthesis.

[5481—]1. Application of preceding section—All the provisions of law applicable to the laying out, establishing and acquisition of the public works authorized by Section 5481 shall apply to the work authorized by said Section 5481 as amended by Section 1 of this act. ('15 c. 273 § 2)

See note under § 5481.

5481-A. Rules and regulations—Duties of engineer—The state drainage commission of the state of Minnesota is hereby authorized and empowered and it shall be its duty to prescribe rules and regulations for the establishment and construction of drainage projects under any and all of the drainage laws of the state in accordance with what may seem to said commission to be just and proper and consistent with the provision of law governing ditch proceedings and such commission shall furnish copies of said rules and regulations for the use of engineers, county officials and others engaged in such work, but said rules and regulations shall be construed to be advisory only.

It shall be the duty of any engineer appointed by any court or board to take charge of any drainage project to proceed therein and be governed as far as practicable in his work therein by the rules and regulations made by the said drainage commission and all such engineers engaged in any such project shall make an additional copy of their plats, maps, profiles and reports, and shall transmit such copy of all said papers to the drainage commission and such commission shall file and keep the same and shall make and keep a permanent record of such items thereof as it may deem proper in books to be prepared for that purpose and kept in the office of such commission.

In taking the levels of the surface of the ground over which the engineer shall make his survey for any such drainage project, he shall, whenever practicable, use as his base datum the sea level datum as determined by the use of the elevation of bench marks, which have heretofore or may hereafter be established by the United States geological survey, the United States coast and geodetic survey, the United States corps of engineers and other reliable engineering authorities. ('17 c. 441 § 1)

1917 c. 441 § 1 amends this chapter by adding a section to be known as § 5481-A.

5481-B.—Commission to pass on plans on request—Submission of questions—Physical examination—Expenses—The state drainage commission is further authorized and directed upon request to examine, criticise and pass upon any plans for the construction of drainage projects which may be submitted to it by officials having the same under consideration.

Any court or county board having before it any proceedings to establish or repair any drainage project may submit to said drainage commission the petition, engineers' reports and other papers in connection therewith and propound to said commission any question relative to said proceedings or said project which it may desire to have answered and said commission and the state engineer or his deputies and assistants shall forthwith proceed to examine all the papers so submitted and shall in good faith answer all such questions so propounded and if in the opinion of the drainage commission there is any defect in any of the plans and designs so submitted, the said commission shall report the same back to such court or county board with its recommendations as to what alterations, corrections or additions should be made.

And whenever in the opinion of said drainage commission or said engineer it shall be deemed advisable and for the best interest of such drainage project that an examination upon the ground should be made of the route of the proposed drainage project, then said commission is hereby authorized to cause such examination to be made before passing upon the report of the engineer in said proceedings. In case such physical examination shall be made of the proposed route, the expense thereof shall be at once reported to said court or board and such expense, as it may be allowed by said board, shall form a part of the expenses of said drainage project and shall be paid as other claims against the same.

During all the proceedings carried on relative to the drainage project the commission shall give its advice to the courts or county boards, engineers and other officials connected with or in charge of such proceedings whenever advice is required. ('17 c. 441 § 2)

1917 c. 441 § 2 amends this chapter by adding a section to be known as § 5481-B.

5497. Contract, how let—Payment, how made—

Notice to the contractor and his surety, as required by § 8249, need not be given before bringing action on the bond given under this section (133-90, 157+998). Drains, ~~§~~ 49.

5511. Duties of secretary—Expenses, fees, etc.—

COUNTY DITCHES

village at any annual or special election held for such purpose. (Amended '15 c. 300 § 1; '17 c. 441 § 3)

1907 c. 470 and 1905 c. 230, and subsequent amendatory acts, being §§ 5480 to 5512 and §§ 5523 to 5589 herein, are in pari materia, and should be construed together as one law (133-90, 157+998). Drains, ¶2(2).

The act of 1909 confers jurisdiction on the district court, or the judge thereof, though the proposed ditch is wholly within one county and will not result in benefit or damage to lands in an adjoining county (131-43, 154+617). Drains, ¶26.

The act of 1909, in conferring jurisdiction on the district court of proceedings for a ditch located wholly within one county, and not benefiting or damaging lands in an adjoining county, is not unconstitutional as conferring nonjudicial powers (131-43, 154+617). Constitutional Law, ¶70(1), 74.

5525. Petition—Bond—New bond, etc.—Before any public ditch or drain or other work specified in section 5523 shall be established under the provisions of this act, a petition signed by not less than 25% of the owners of the land described in such petition, but in no event shall more than eight signers be required, or by the supervisor of any township or the duly authorized officers of any city or village council, which township, village or city is liable to be affected by or assessed for the proposed construction or by the duly authorized agent of any public institution, corporation or railroad whose lands or property will be liable to be affected by or assessed for the expense of the construction of same or by the state board of control or its duly authorized agent, setting forth the necessity thereof that the same will be of public utility and will promote the public health, the description of the starting point, the general course and the terminus of same together with a description of the lands over which the proposed ditch or improvement passes, and that the petitioners will pay all costs and expenses which may be incurred in case the proceedings are dismissed, or for any reason no contract for the construction thereof is let, shall be filed if for a county ditch with the county auditor and if for a judicial ditch, with the clerk of the district court.

Upon the filing of such petition and before any action is taken thereon, one or more of such petitioners shall make and file a bond payable to the county in the sum of not less than two thousand dollars, with good and sufficient sureties to be approved by the officer with whom the same is filed, conditioned to pay all costs and expenses which may be incurred in case the proceedings are dismissed or for any reason no contract is entered into for the construction of the ditch or drain petitioned for. If it be made to appear at any time prior to the letting of the contract for the construction of such ditch or drain, that the bond of the petitioners is insufficient, either in amount or as to surety, to protect the county from loss on account of any cost or expense incurred or to be incurred, the court or the board may, and it shall be its duty, to require, a further and additional bond and all further proceedings shall be stayed until such bond is furnished, and in case such additional bond is not furnished within ten days from such notice, the proceedings shall be dismissed.

Any party signing such bond, either as surety or principal, or a majority of the petitioners, may at any time subsequent to the filing of the engineer's report, and prior to the letting of the contract, pay the costs and expenses incurred to that time, and upon ten days' notice in writing to the petitioners of their intention so to do, cause such proceedings to be dismissed, unless one or more of the petitioners in the meantime cause a new bond to be filed in lieu of the former one. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 4)

In general—Application to construction of rural highways (see 125-325, 146+1110).

An order directing a survey and appointing an engineer is not a final determination of any rights of persons who might be affected by the establishment of the proposed ditch so as to support certiorari (134-435, 159+965). Certiorari, ¶16.

The act of 1909 confers on the district court or judge thereof jurisdiction of a drainage proceeding, though the proposed ditch is wholly within one county, and does not benefit or damage land in an adjoining county (131-43, 154+617). Drains, ¶26.

Constitutionality—The act of 1909, in conferring jurisdiction on the district court of proceedings for a ditch located wholly within one county and not benefiting or damaging lands in an adjoining county, is not unconstitutional as conferring nonjudicial powers (131-43, 154-617). Constitutional Law, §70(1), 74; Drains, §26.

Bond—In an action on the bond given under this section, the proceedings of the county board cannot be collaterally attacked on the ground that the viewers appointed under § 5528 were disqualified by interest; such defect not being jurisdictional (129-151, 151+897). Drains, §39.

Amount of bond (see 134-435, 150+965). Drains, §29.

Petitioners executing a bond are liable to the county, which in good faith proceeds with the petition, though the description of the route and termini of the ditch in the petition is so defective as to render the proceeding invalid on jurisdictional grounds (124-495, 145+380). Drains, §29.

Where the engineer took the oath, acted in the ditch proceedings, and received his compensation and expenses from the county, it will be presumed, in the absence of evidence, that he gave the bond required in this section (123-437, 143+970). Evidence, §83(4).

Petition—Amendment—Jurisdiction—An amendment of the petition, made upon notice, by which the object sought to be attained was preserved, though the source and the course of the ditch was changed, did not oust the court of jurisdiction, though the original petition was still technically pending (131-43, 154+617). Drains, §28, 41.

A petition is a jurisdictional prerequisite to the authority of the county board to proceed, and where the board denies a petition to establish a particular drainage system described in a petition its power in such proceeding terminates (161+378). Drains, §35.

[5525]—1. Limit of expense of survey—Bond—In all drainage ditch proceedings in which a survey of the line of the proposed ditch has been directed by order of the court or county board, the expense of such survey shall not exceed the penalty named in the bond given by the petitioners in said proceeding and no claims in excess of such amount shall be audited or paid by direction of the court or board unless in any such proceeding one or more of the petitioners therein shall within such time as the county board, in case of a county ditch, or the court, in case of a judicial ditch, shall direct, make and file a bond with sufficient sureties in such amount as such county board or court shall direct, conditioned as required by section 5525, General Statutes 1913. ('17 c. 455 § 1)

5526. Appointment of engineer—Oath and bond—Duties—Report—Duties of auditor—Notice of hearing—Order—Survey and report—Powers of engineer, etc.—Upon the filing of the petition and bond as herein provided, the county board in a county ditch proceeding and the judge of the district court in a judicial ditch proceeding, shall within 30 days thereafter by order appoint a competent and experienced civil engineer, and direct him to proceed and examine into and report within the time fixed in said order to said board or court all matters necessary and essential to disclose the practicability, necessity and advisability of the construction of the proposed ditch or improvement, and the engineer so appointed shall within 10 days thereafter take and subscribe an oath to faithfully perform the duties assigned to him according to the best of his ability, and shall give a bond in the sum of $5,000 with good and sufficient surety, payable to the county or counties affected by the proposed ditch or improvement, for the benefit of such county or counties, and also for the use of all parties aggrieved or injured by any negligence or malfeasance on the part of said engineer, conditioned that he will diligently, honestly, and to the best of his skill and ability perform his duties as such engineer in said proceeding, said bond to be approved by the auditor or the clerk, as the case may be, and thereupon said engineer shall without delay proceed and examine all matters named and referred to in said petition, and make such preliminary survey of the territory likely to be affected by the proposed improvement as will enable him to fully determine whether the same is necessary or practicable and report accordingly, and if some other or different plan than that described in the petition is found practical, said engineer shall so report, giving such detail and information as will be necessary to fully inform the court or county board on all matters pertaining to the practicability or feasibility of the proposed plan either as outlined in said petition or according to some other or different plan that may be designated or recommended by said engineer, but it shall be his duty to outline and designate all changes whether by extension, adding main laterals or otherwise that may be necessary to make the plan of the proposed improvement practicable and feasible, showing the probable size, character and cost of such laterals, and if the construction of a ditch or drain is involved in the proposed improvement, said engineer shall especially examine and report the nature and capacity of the outlet and any extension that may be necessary to supply the same, and if he finds the improvement petitioned for is feasible, he shall include in his report a map of the proposed improvement, giving the description of the different tracts of land likely to be affected, and outline thereon any recommended changes, and give so far as known, the names of the owners of the property and corporations affected, and the probable area that is likely to be drained or affected by the proposed improvement, and such other information as the board or court may order.

Upon the filing of the report of the engineer as herein provided with the county auditor or clerk of the district court, as the case may be, it shall be the duty of said auditor to immediately notify the county board, or the clerk, the judge of the district court of the filing of said report, and the said auditor or said clerk with the approval of the judge, shall fix a time for the hearing thereon, not to exceed 30 days from the date of filing thereof, and within 10 days thereafter shall by mail notify the several petitioners and the owners of the several tracts of land affected by the proposed proceeding as shown in the engineer's report, of the time and place of said hearing, and at such time and place fixed, said engineer shall attend before said county board or judge of the district court, and make such explanation and supply such information as may be necessary to fully inform said board or court of all facts named or referred to in his report, and such other facts as affect or relate to such improvement petitioned for or as recommended by him, and the petitioners and all other parties interested may appear and be heard, and if upon full hearing, it shall appear that the proposed improvement is not practical and no plan is reported by the engineer whereby it can be made practical, or is not of public benefit or utility, or that the outlet is not of sufficient capacity, then said petition shall be dismissed, but if the county board or district court shall be satisfied that the proposed improvement as outlined in said petition or as modified and recommended by the engineer is practical, that there is necessity therefor, and that it will be a public benefit and promote the public health, and have an outlet of sufficient capacity, then said board or court shall so find and by said order shall designate the changes that shall be made in the proposed improvement from that outlined in the petition; said changes may be described in general terms, and shall be sufficiently described by attaching to said order and said petition, a map drawn by said engineer outlining the proposed improvement thereon, and the changes made, and thereafter said petition shall be treated as modified accordingly. Upon the filing of said order, said board or court shall order said engineer or any other engineer, if a change of engineers shall be determined, to proceed and make a detailed survey and furnish all necessary plans and specifications for the proposed improvement, and report the same to said board or court with all reasonable dispatch, and in case of a change of engineers, each new engineer shall make and file the oath and bond as provided in this section.

Upon the filing of such order, such engineer shall forthwith make a correct survey of the line of said ditch, drain, creek or water course, and of the branches thereof, if any, from its source, or sources, to its outlet, or outlets; and he shall cause stakes or monuments to be set along said line, numbered progressively up or down stream, each one hundred feet; and he shall make a computation of the number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed from said ditch, drain, creek or water course between each of the one hundred foot stakes, and the estimated cost per cubic yard for the removal thereof, and shall sum up the total number of cubic yards of earth to be excavated and removed for the entire length of such ditch, drain, creek or water course, and shall make an itemized tabulation of all cleaning of obstructions of water courses, building of flumes, of other wood or masonry work, construction of fences for protection of the ditch, and construction of bridges or other additional construction work found necessary, together with the estimated cost thereof, and shall make an estimate of the total cost of laying out, establishing and constructing the whole work (including branch ditches, if any) and including all preliminary and other expenses connected therewith, and with the inspecting and certifying to the work when and as the same is completed. He shall also, in tabular form, give the depth of cut, width at the bottom and width at the top, at the source, outlet, and at each one hundred foot stake or monument of said ditch, creek or water course; and he shall specify the time, so far as practicable, and the manner in which the work shall be done, and may for that purpose set a different time for completing the several contracts, and also for completing any station or stations included in each contract, and shall have power, when he finds it necessary, to provide for running said ditch under ground, through drain tiles, or other materials, as he deems best, by specifying the size and kind of tile, or other material to be used in such underground work, and shall estimate the cost of the same, as a part of the total cost of the work.

He shall also include in his report a form of contract as complete in its provisions as practicable and which shall contain detailed and complete specifications by direct statement, or by reference to other parts of the report, and shall provide for all necessary supervision of the laying of tile, excavation and other construction work of the contractor or contractors, and which shall define the relation which shall exist between the county and the contractor or contractors and which shall give the engineer the right with the consent of the county board or the judge of the district court, as the case may be, to modify his reports, plans and specifications as the work proceeds, and as circumstances may require, provided no changes are made that will substantially impair the usefulness of any part of the ditch, or substantially alter its original character or increase its total cost by more than ten per centum (10%) of the total original contract price for the construction thereof, but no such increase shall make the cost of the ditch or work exceed the total estimated benefits as found by the court or board, which added cost is to be paid by the county to the contractor at the cost fixed for like work in said contract, and the county attorney, upon request from the engineer, shall assist him in the preparation of said form of contract, specifications and provisions. In locating a public ditch, drain, creek or water course or the branches thereof, the engineer may vary from the line described in the petition, as finally adopted by the board or court, or from the starting point thereof, as he deems best, and as he finds necessary for the complete drainage of the lands likely to be assessed for the ditch originally petitioned for, and, provided, that he shall have authority to specify such branch ditch, or ditches, as in his opinion may be necessary to give owners of lands likely to be assessed for the construction of the main ditch as finally modified by the court or board, the full benefit thereof, and he shall do the same things and report the same data, tabulations and estimates with reference to said branches as are required by this law with reference to the public ditch, drain, creek or water course or the branches thereof, described in the petition; provided, that such branch ditch, or branch ditches may either be opened at the same time and in the same manner as the main ditch, or the engineer may only locate said branch, ditch or ditches for future construction, but he must fix a time limit as to the construction of any such branch ditches. In all cases in which the route proposed is along highways already established, the engineer shall locate the ditch at sufficient distance from the center of such highway to admit of a good road along the central line thereof. That earth taken from the ditch shall be so placed, and the brush or timber taken from the right-of-way of such ditch may be so placed upon the roadway as to form a turnpike, which shall be provided with sufficient and suitable culverts or openings so as not to obstruct the natural flow of surface water in time of high water, and no nearer to the margin thereof than two feet. When there is not sufficient fall in the length of the route described in the petition to drain the land adjacent thereto, or when for other reason it appears expedient, he may shorten or extend the ditch from the outlet named in the petition far enough to reasonably effectuate the purpose for which the work is intended. When, in his opinion, it will not be detrimental to the usefulness of the whole work or to the usefulness of any extensive section of the whole work, he shall, as far as practicable, locate the ditch on division lines between lands owned by different persons; and he shall, as far as practicable, avoid laying the same diagonally across lands, but he shall not sacrifice the general utility of the ditch to avoid diagonal lines.

Where a more feasible outlet will be had the engineer may, with the approval of the board or court first obtained, shorten or extend the ditch from the outlet described in the petition far enough to effectuate the purpose sought, and where more economical or better results will be accomplished, provide for different parts of the drainage to flow in different directions with more than one outlet, and in all such cases the viewers shall assess benefits and damages to such additional lands. It shall not be necessary for such ditches to connect if they embrace the drainage area intended to be affected by the petition instituting the proceedings. Where no practical outlet can be had but through the lands of an adjoining state, he shall procure a description of the necessary right-of-way and probable cost thereof and estimate the cost of constructing an outlet through the same. Provided further, that if in any pending proceedings an engineer has been appointed to make a survey as contemplated by chapter 44, General Statutes 1913, and said engineer has made such survey but has not filed his report, the preliminary survey provided for in this act shall not be required.

In making a survey the engineer shall fix and establish suitable bench marks upon permanent objects not more than one mile apart along the side of the line surveyed, so that the same will not be destroyed in constructing the system and carefully note the location thereof in his field book.

The engineer shall enter all field notes made during the survey and construction into a field book properly ruled, make a complete and accurate map and profile of the drainage system as surveyed by him upon good tracing cloth; such map shall be drawn to a scale, show the number of the section, township and range in which the lands affected are situated, the division of such lands into farms, the number of acres, and the names of the owners thereof, the location of the buildings thereon, each station number in figures, location of the bench marks, the public streets, highways and railroad right-of-way affected, the names of the county, township and municipality in which such lands or any part thereof are situated, and all other matters necessary to the understanding of the board or of the court. The profile shall be drawn on a scale, show the elevation, grade, depth of cut, size of tile, and the elevation in figures of each branch and lateral at its source and outlet. When the work of construction is completed, or when for any cause the engineer ceases to longer act as such he shall cause the original maps, profiles, and field books to be filed, in the office of the clerk or auditor where such proceedings are pending. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 5)

In general—The county, recognizing the necessity and value of the extra work, having paid the contractor not only the 10 per cent. permitted by this section, but $600 in addition, though the county auditor had not consented to any part thereof being ordered by the engineer, the money so paid should be applied upon the extra work performed by the subcontractor, and no part thereof should go to the contractor, though he claimed that the extra work was done without his knowledge and consent, there not being a sufficient amount to pay the subcontractor the stipulated price for the extra work. A subcontract provided that the contractor should pay for "excavation of extra yardage over and above the estimate, required to be done by the engineer, the sum of 9½ cents per cubic yard." Other provisions required the work to be done according to the plans and specifications. Held, that the extra yardage and work must be limited to such as the engineer might lawfully require under this section, which became a part of the subcontract (135-5, 159+1072). Drains, ¶49.

Complaint on engineer's bond held not subject to demurrer on the ground that it does not appear from the statute and complaint that it was the duty of the engineer to supervise the laying of the tile (122-504, 142+899, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 945). Drains, ¶29.

Bond—Where the bond contained the statutory conditions, and also other conditions, it will be so construed as to give effect to the statutory condition, unless the language of the bond precludes such construction (122-504, 142+899, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 945). Bonds, ¶50.

Changing route and extent of ditch—That the route of the ditch, as finally recommended by the engineer and established by the court, was not the route called for by the petition or the amended petition, did not invalidate the order, the same lands being benefited by the ditch as established (131-43, 154+617). Drains, ¶41.

An engineer, exercising the care, skill, and ability usually shown by the members of his profession, is not liable in damages for an honest error of judgment in extending a ditch beyond the limits named in the petition. Evidence held to show that the extension was desirable, practicable, and necessary (129-210, 152+406). Drains, ~~§~~38, 41.

Where a county board refuses to establish the ditch petitioned for, the last paragraph of this section, constituting the proviso, does not authorize the board to establish a ditch wholly within a drainage district other than the one sought to be drained by the ditch petitioned for, though the starting point of the ditch asked for is within such other drainage district (161+378). Drains, ~~§~~26.

1907 c. 448 §§ 3, 5, 17, cited—122-504, 142+899, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 945.

5527. Reports of engineer—Duties of court and county board—He shall thereupon make a detailed and complete report of his doings, which shall include all maps, profiles, specifications and matters herein provided for, and submit therewith the necessary plans and specifications and a description of the lands over which the ditch or ditches is or are surveyed. Such report shall give the names of assistants and laborers and the time each was employed by or under him, together with his own time on the work, and every other item of expense by him incurred in and about the said work, and he shall forthwith file such report with the auditor after having subscribed and sworn to the same. All reports, except reports as to assistants and expenses incurred, all plans, specifications, maps or profiles herein required to be made by the engineer shall be made by him in triplicate and filed in the office of the county auditor or the clerk of the district court, as the case may be, one for each auditor, one for the state drainage commissioner and one with a copy of the contract shall be delivered to the contractor at his request at any time after the execution of the contract.

Every such engineer shall every two weeks after the beginning of his work and during the time he is engaged in the same, up till letting of contract, make an accurate report of all expenses connected with such drainage project incurred by him or under his direction and file the same with the auditor or clerk, as the case may be, and under no circumstances shall he incur a greater expense on account of such ditch project than the bond provided by the petitioners calls for.

It shall be the duty of the court in the case of all ditches established by it to cause all contracts entered into under the provisions of this section to be carried into effect and to cause all ditches and drains so contracted for to be constructed according to such contracts and the plans and specifications of the engineer; and it shall be the duty of the county board in the case of all ditches established by it, in like manner, to cause all such contracts to be carried out as above provided. 5528. Viewers—Meeting—Duties—

The viewers and the jury on appeal in assessing benefits on the basis of added land should have in view an apportionment of the land in the manner that would obtain in a partition suit. The jury is required to ascertain the amount and value of the land added to a shore owner by the drainage of a meandered lake, but the jury should not include therein dry and usable land lying between the government meander line and the present ordinary high-water mark of the lake. Jury on appeal held to have adopted a wrong and inequitable basis for assessing the benefits to accrue to appellant from added acreage from the lake bed to be drained (130-176, 153+858). Drains, ~~§~~79.

Objection that the viewers were disqualified because of interest in land that might be affected could not be raised for the first time in an action on a bond to pay expenses (129-151, 151+897). Drains, ~~§~~38, 39.

In view of the requirement of § 5533, that the county board order the damages paid, the viewers should find the amount of the damages, and not merely deduct the damages from the benefits (122-392, 142+802). Drains, ~~§~~32.

5530. Report of viewers—Persons interested not to be present, etc.—Said viewers shall forthwith file with the county auditor a report of all their doings and findings in detail, including expenses and the actual time they were engaged. They shall in every case completely perform every duty by this act imposed upon them (except in case of a re-reference, as hereinafter provided), within thirty days from the date of their first meeting; provided, that if the water be so high, or the weather so inclement, or such unavoidable accidents occur as in the opinion of the board of county commissioners to practically and reasonably prevent them from so doing, the necessary delay caused thereby may be excused by such board; but the report of said viewers must in such case state the reason for such delay, and if such reason be not deemed sufficient by the board of county commissioners such viewers shall forfeit one-half of the compensation hereinafter provided. No attorney, engineer or any other person interested in the ditch shall be with the viewers while they are considering and determining the assessments of benefits and damages to be fixed by them. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 7)

5531. Final hearing—Notice—Rehearing—Reassessment—Change of course—

In general—The county board may either establish or refuse to establish a ditch at a special meeting called at a rehearing of petition and report, when the final order has been held void for failure to give proper notice (124-495, 145+380). Drains, ¶34.

On reversal by the district court of an order for the drainage of a meandered lake, because the lake was not subject to drainage, the county board could proceed with the drainage project, under this section, in so far as it did not involve draining the lake (128-69, 150+209). Drains, ¶36(2).

Evidence held to justify the finding of a court as to the amount of preliminary expense (124-495, 145+380). Drains, ¶38.

After the county board has established and ordered constructed a state rural highway, it cannot abandon the project, and the auditor has no discretion with respect to letting the contract, and cannot refuse to consider proper bids on the ground that the enterprise has been abandoned (132-36, 155+1048). Highways, ¶79(1), 113(1).

Sufficiency of notice—Posting notices in a township, within which a village, connecting its drainage system with the ditch, lies, is sufficient (159+758).

Changes in ditch—Under this section, as amended, the elimination by the county commissioners of 4½ miles of branch ditches in a drainage project in which the main ditch was 22 miles long, was not such a departure from the plan petitioned for as to invalidate the proceedings; it appearing that the elimination was advantageous to the project (130-176, 153+858). Drains, ¶41.

5532. Report of engineer, etc.—Order establishing ditch—

125-325, 146+1110; 134-435, 159+965.

The word "establish" need not appear in the order (159+758).

Collateral attack on proceedings (129-151, 151+897). Drains, ¶39.

A petition being a jurisdictional prerequisite to the authority of the county board to establish a ditch, where a petition is denied, the authority of the board terminates, and it cannot order the establishment of a ditch wholly within another drainage district, though the starting point of the ditch asked for in the petition is within such other drainage district (161+378). Drains, ¶26.

Abandonment of projected rural highway established and ordered constructed by the county board (see 132-36, 155+1048). Highways, ¶79(1). See, also, note under § 5531.

131-372, 155+626; note under § 5534, post.

In view of the requirement that the county board shall order the damages paid, it is necessary for the viewers, and for the jury on appeal, to make a separate award of damages, and not merely deduct the damages from the benefits, and assess the balance (122-392, 142+802). Drains, ¶32.

Abandonment of project for construction of state rural highway (see 132-36, 155+1048). Highways, ¶79(1). See, also, note under § 5531.

5534. Appeal to district court—Jury trial—Any person or corporation aggrieved thereby may appeal from an order of the county board made in any ditch proceeding and entered upon its records, determining either of the following matters:

First: The amount of benefits to any tract of land or owner of any public or corporate road or railroad.

Second: The amount of damages allowed to any person, persons or corporation or assessed to any tract of land.

Third: Refusing to establish such proposed ditch.

Any person so appealing on the first or second ground may include and have considered and determined benefits or damages affecting lands other than his own in such ditch proceeding.

He shall specify in his notice of appeal the particular land and the assessment appealed from, and such notice of appeal shall be served upon the owner or occupant of such land or upon the attorney who represented such owner in the proceedings before the court or board. In case such owner has made no appearance by attorney or otherwise in such ditch proceeding then said notice of appeal shall be served upon the clerk or auditor where said proceedings are pending.

To render such appeal effectual such appellant shall file with the county auditor within thirty days from the date of such final order a notice of appeal which shall briefly state the grounds upon which such appeal is taken, accompanied by an appeal bond to the county board with sufficient surety in not less than $250.00 to be approved by the auditor of the county in which such appeal is taken conditioned that said appellant will duly prosecute the appeal and pay all costs and disbursements that may be adjudged against him and to abide the order of court. Within 30 days after such filing the auditor shall make a complete transcript of all the papers and proceedings on file and of record in his office so far as the same pertain to the premises or matter on account of which the appeal is taken together with the notice of appeal and file the same in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county. For such services the auditor shall receive the sum of $3.00.

Any person deeming himself aggrieved in a county or judicial ditch proceeding by an order of the county board or the court, as the case may be, determining the amount of his benefits or damages, or the benefits or damages assessed upon lands other than his own as hereinbefore provided, may demand a jury trial to determine the amount of such benefits or damages, as the case may be, on account of the construction of such ditch. Such demand shall be in writing, signed by the party making the same, or by his agent or attorney, and with a copy of the proposed bond shall be served upon the attorney for the petitioner, if any, and if not, then upon the county attorney of the county wherein proceedings were instituted and the original bond and notice, with proof of service as herein required, shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court within and for the county in which the proceeding is pending within 20 days after the filing therein of the order confirming the report of the viewers. In a judicial ditch proceeding such demand shall be accompanied by a bond in the sum of at least $250.00 with sufficient sureties to be approved by the clerk of the district court wherein such proceedings were commenced, said bond to be conditioned that demandant will pay all costs and disbursements adjudged against him and further conditioned to abide the order of the court therein. The issues raised by such demand shall stand for trial and shall be fully tried and determined at the next term of the district court held within the county in which such proceedings were commenced, or in such other county in which such trial shall be held as hereinbefore provided, beginning after the filing of such demand, and shall take precedence of all matters of a civil nature in said court. If there be more than one demand triable in one county, they may be consolidated and tried together, but the rights of such demandants shall be separately determined by the jury in its verdict. If the demandant or appellant fails to recover more damages than awarded to him or fails to reduce the amount of benefits assessed against his land, then the costs of such trial shall be paid by the demandant or appellant as the case may be. The construction of any such ditch shall not be hindered, delayed or prevented by the prosecution of any appeal or demand herein mentioned. In case of demand for a jury trial as to assessments of damages or benefits to land situated in a county other than the county wherein such ditch proceedings were instituted and are pending, and in case such demandant for jury trial so requests in such demand, such trial as to the land situated in such other county shall be held at the next term of the district court of the county wherein such lands are situated, and in such case the clerk of the district court where such demand is filed shall make, certify and file in the office of the clerk of the district court of the county where such trial is to be had a transcript of the papers and documents on file in his office in such proceeding so far as pertain to the matter on account of which said appeal is taken. After such trial the clerk of the district court of the county where such action is tried shall make, certify and return the verdict of the district court of the county wherein such proceedings were instituted and such verdict or order shall be entered and enforced as a part of the proceedings in such last mentioned county. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 8)

Demand for jury—Neither § 7746 nor § 7786 gives the court power to extend the time for demanding a review by a jury of the order of the court fixing the benefits and damages (131-372, 155+626). Drains, ¶82(1).

A demand for jury trial held sufficient, though the appellant by the demand did not connect himself with the title to any property assessed in the proceeding. (134-291, 159+629). Jury, ¶25(8).

A demand for a jury trial under this section is sufficient, if it recites the statutory conditions upon which the right depends, and from it the assessment and land intended are reasonably ascertainable (133-113, 157+1004). Jury, ¶25(8).

A demand for a jury trial, though not describing the land assessed, the description appearing in the proceedings in which the appeal was taken, held sufficient (134-290, 159+629, following 133-113, 157+1004). Jury, ¶25(8).

Bond on appeal—When one landowner conveys to another pending the ditch proceeding, and both join in the demand for a jury trial, only one bond is required (133-113, 157+1004). Drains, ¶29.

Review—When judgment is entered, the propriety of the dismissal of a demand for a jury trial is reviewable upon an appeal from the judgment (133-113, 157+1004). Drains, ¶36(4).

Collateral attack—Collateral attack on proceedings (129-151, 151+897). Drains, ¶39.

Finding of viewers—The court should instruct the jury that the findings of the viewers should have no effect on their verdict, a mere statement that they were not bound by the report of the viewers not being sufficient (122-392, 142+802). Drains, ¶36(4); Trial, ¶133(1).

Care should be taken that the findings of the viewers upon the subject of damages and benefits do not reach the jury on appeal (130-176, 153+858). Drains, ¶57.

Damages and benefits on jury trial—In view of the requirement of § 5533 that the county board order the damages paid, the jury on appeal should find the amount of the damages, and not merely deduct the damages from the benefits and assess the balance (122-392, 142+802). Drains, ¶32.

Where land, prior to its drainage, was boggy, the jury on appeal was warranted in finding that the landowner suffered no damage on account of loss of water supply (130-176, 153+858). Drains, ¶57.

Abandonment of rural highway—Abandonment of project for establishment and construction of state rural highway (see 132-36, 155+1048). Highways, ¶79(1). See, also, note under § 5531.

5536. Letting of job—Within ten days after the filing in the office of the auditor or clerk as the case may be, of the order establishing a ditch or drain, the auditor, chairman of the county board and the clerk of court, or a majority of them in the first instance, and in the second instance, the auditors of the respective counties meeting for that purpose at the office of the auditor of the county in which the proceedings are pending with the chairman of the county board and clerk of court of said county, or a majority of them, shall proceed as hereinafter provided, to sell the job of digging and constructing the entire work either as one job or in one or more linear sections of 100 feet each, each of said sections to be known and numbered by the stake or monument set by the engineer at the foot of each such section as shown in the engineer's report, commencing at the one, including the outlet and thence in succession up the stream to the one including the source. The auditor or auditors, as the case may be, together with such chairman of the county board and clerk of court, or a majority of them, may with the approval of the engineer, sell separately from the jobs of excavation, any jobs of building of flumes or other wood or masonry work, fencing or other construction work specified in the engineer's report. The auditor or auditors as the case may be, with such chairman and clerk, or a majority of them, may if deemed for the best interests of all concerned, let a separate contract for the furnishing of material for the construction of such system. The auditor or auditors, as the case may be, with such chairman and clerk, or a majority of them shall contract in the name of the county or in the name of the respective counties as the case may be, each acting by and through its auditor, chairman and clerk, with the party to whom any of such jobs of construction work or any section or sections is or are sold, requiring him to construct the same in the time and manner and according to the specifications, provisions and form of contract upon which the ditch is established, and shall take from him a bond in the penal sum of not less than 75% of the entire contract price with sufficient surety payable to the county or to the respective counties, or any two or more of them, as the case may be, for the use of such county or counties, as the case may be and also for the use of all persons who may show themselves to be aggrieved or injured by any breach thereof, or of the contract for which such bond is given; to be by said auditor or auditors, and such chairman and clerk, approved, conditioned that such party shall faithfully perform and fulfill his contract, and pay all damages which may accrue by reason of the failure to complete the work in the manner and within the time required in the contract therefor, and otherwise conditioned as in this act provided, which bond shall include a stipulation that no change, extension, alteration or addition to the terms of the contract or specifications shall in any wise affect the obligation of the principal or principals or surety on said bond. The auditor of the county in which the proceedings were taken shall give notice of the letting of such contract by publication for three successive weeks in the official paper of such county of the time when and place where such contracts shall be let to the lowest responsible bidders; and in such notice shall state the approximate amount of work and the estimated cost and shall invite bids for the work as one job, and also for any one or more of such sections or any one or more of such construction jobs, and if a separate contract for the furnishing of material shall be deemed advisable such notice shall contain all matters hereinbefore specified, so far as applicable, and a statement of the kind and size of tile, the number of lineal feet of each size required, and the general specifications of all other materials required, the estimated cost thereof, the time within which the same are to be furnished, with such other matters as he may deem proper for the information of bidders. He shall reserve the right to reject any and all bids and no bid shall be entertained which exceeds more than thirty per cent of the estimated cost of the construction of the part of said work covered by said bid; nor unless accompanied by his certified check payable to the auditor or to the respective auditors, as the case may be, for not less than ten per cent of the bid; and said auditor and auditors, chairman and clerk, may adjourn such letting from time to time until the whole work shall be taken and with the approval of the engineer may let any one or more of such sections or any one or more of such construction jobs. When the estimated cost of the construction is more than $3,000.00, the auditor may also advertise such letting in a trade paper. If no bids are received which can be entertained, the bondsmen for the petitioners may have the right at any time to pay the costs of the proceedings, and dismiss the same. The engineers shall attend to the letting of the work, and no bid shall be accepted without his approval, as to the compliance with plans and specifications. (Amended '15 c. 300 § 2; '17 c. 441 § 9)

5537. Contract and bond—Extensions—Tile work, etc.—The bond and contract shall be attached to each other and the contract shall contain the specific description of the work to be done, either expressly or by reference to plans and specifications, and refer to the number of the section or sections, as provided for in the preceding section and shall provide that the work shall be done and completed as provided for in the report of the engineer, and subject to his approval and that of the auditor or auditors, as the case may be.

Such contract shall be drawn to the satisfaction of the engineer and the county attorney. Every such contract and bond shall embrace all the provisions provided by law for the giving of bond by contractors for public works and improvements and for the better security of the contracting county or counties and of the parties performing labor and furnishing material in and about the performance of such contracts and shall provide that time shall be the essence of the contract, in that if there should be any failure to perform the work according to the terms of said contract, within the time limited therein, originally or by extension, the contractors shall forfeit and pay to the county in which the portion of the work in default shall be located, a certain sum, to be named therein, and which shall be fixed by the county auditor or auditors, as the case may be, for each day that such failure shall continue.

The bond shall expressly provide that the bondsmen shall be liable for all damages resulting from any such failure, whether the work be resold or not, and that any person showing himself injured by such failure may maintain an action upon such bond in his own name and that such actions may be successive in favor of all persons so injured. Such contractor shall be considered a public officer and such bond an official bond within the meaning of the statutory provisions construing such official bonds, of public officers as security to all persons and providing for action on such bonds by any injured party in the district court.

No extension of time shall be granted by the auditor or auditors, as the case may be, unless applied for in writing to the auditor or auditors, as the case may be, stating to his or their satisfaction good and sufficient reasons therefor; nor shall any extension affect the right to enforce such forfeiture, if any, as shall occur after the time originally limited and before such extension, or accruing after the limit of the extension. One such extension may be made for a period of time not exceeding one year without notice.

No extension after the first above provided for, shall be granted until a hearing upon such application shall be held after such notice as hereinafter provided. In such case, the auditor of the county wherein such drainage proceedings were instituted, shall cause to be prepared and published as hereinafter provided, a brief notice setting forth the filing of such application and setting forth the time and place when and where the said application will be heard, considered, and determined by such auditor or auditors, as the case may be. At the time and place so designated the said auditor issuing such notice and if present such other auditors upon whom service of such notice is herein provided for, shall proceed to hear, consider and determine such application and shall make written order in relation thereto.

Such notice of hearing shall be published for two successive weeks prior to such hearing in each county affected by such drainage proceedings in the newspaper therein duly designated to publish the delinquent tax list for such year, and shall be served upon the county auditor of each such county so affected. The expense of such hearing and the publication and service of such notice shall be paid by such contractor applying for such extension.

Provided, that whenever tiling is used in the construction of any ditch or drain or any part thereof and the petition for said drain so requires, or at any time previous to the commencement of advertising for the sale of the job or jobs for the construction of the same upon a request of a majority of the petitioners in writing therefor, filing with the county auditor of the proper county, such contract shall require the contractor of the whole tile work or the contractor of any part thereof, as the case may be, to guarantee all of such tile work done by any such contractor for a period of three years after the completion of any such contract, against any fault or negligence on the part of any such contractor and any failure during said period of any part of said tile work constructed by any such contractor, to accomplish the purpose of drainage for which it was intended, shall be prima facie evidence that the same is due to the fault or negligence of said contractor. Notice of such request shall be given by the county auditor in the advertisement for sale of such job or jobs.

The said contractor shall give a good and sufficient bond for the performance of such undertaking and contract. The acceptance of such tile ditch by the engineer or county board shall not relieve or exempt said contractor or his bondsmen from the liability therein imposed on said contractor for said three-year period.

Provided, further, that at the end of each year of each season's work, after giving such contractor's bond, and prior to the completion and acceptance of such job of construction the contractor may make verified application to the county board in case of a county ditch, or in case of a judicial ditch, to the judge of the district court of the county where the proceedings were instituted, setting forth approximately the total yardage of excavation completed and total amount of other work completed, the contract price thereof and the value of the work theretofore certified as complete by the engineer, and the amount of money received by contractor, and further setting forth the amount then owing or unpaid by said contractor for labor or material already furnished in the matter of the completion of such contract, and asking an order reducing the amount of the contractor's bond.

Upon the receiving such application, the said judge of the district court or the said county board, as the case may be, shall proceed to hear, consider and determine said application upon such notice as shall be directed by such judge or by such county board respectively, and if upon such hearing, it is determined that no loss will result thereby, the said judge or the said county board may by order reduce the penalty of such bond to such a sum as shall be deemed advisable by such judge of such county board, as the case may be, but such reduction shall in no case exceed by more than twenty-five per cent the amount already paid to the contractor and such reduction shall not affect the validity or the enforcement, or in any manner otherwise affect the remaining amount of the penalty of such bond. The provision of this section, declaring a contractor's bond an official bond and a contractor a public officer, places the contractor's bond, in respect to actions thereon, in the same position as other bonds of public officers. Work in dismantling a ditching dredge and reassembling the parts and putting the dredge in condition to perform a drainage contract, performed by an employé of the drainage contractor, is a necessary part of the work and a proper liability against the surety on the contractor's bond. Section 8249 requiring notice to be served before commencement of an action on a building contractor's bond, has no application to a bond given under this section (126-435, 148+454). Drains, ¶49.

A bondsman, who has undertaken to complete the work after default of the contractor, can not assert as a defense that the work has not been completed and accepted, to defeat an action on the bond by a claimant furnishing labor or materials (133-54, 157+901). Drains, ¶49.

The provision of this section declaring the contractor's bond an "official bond" held applicable to the bond given under § 5497, and that it is unnecessary to comply with § 8249, requiring notice to the contractor and his surety before action is brought on the bond (133-90, 157+998). Drains, ¶49.

5539. Reinstating and extending contract in certain cases—

Petition and writ in mandamus held not demurrable, as showing that contractors had forfeited their rights under a contract by delay in performance, where it appeared that an extension had been lawfully granted (123-50, 142+945). Drains, ¶49.

5541. Duties of engineer—Certificates—Payments, etc.—It shall be the duty of the engineer on being notified by the contractor that his job is completed, to inspect the same, and if he finds it complete according to the contract, plans and specifications he shall report that back to the county board or court, as the case may be, and give to the contractor a certificate stating that said Section or Sections (by number) or other jobs of construction, are completed according to the contract, plans and specifications as set forth in the report of said engineer.

Provided, that when the work for which such certificate is to be issued, affects more than one county, proportionate certificate shall be issued to each county. Upon the filing of such report of the engineer that any ditch or job has been completed, the board or court shall fix a day when it will meet or hear the same of which meeting ten days notice of mail shall be given by the auditor or clerk of court to all the land owners whose lands are assessed for benefits by the construction thereof, who are residents of the county, or whose postoffice address is known. Service of such notice shall be sufficient if the same is mailed ten days before the date of such hearing; whereupon, if approved by the county board or court, as the case may be, and upon presentation and surrender of said certificate with such approval endorsed thereon to the auditor or clerk, of the proper county said auditor or clerk shall draw a warrant on the county treasurer of his county, in case of the auditor, and of the separate counties in case of clerk, for the proportionate amount found to be due from such county on said contract, according to such preliminary certificate, as herein provided; and that said warrant shall be paid out of the general ditch fund to be provided by the county board as hereinafter specified. Said warrant shall become due and payable out of said funds at once, and if there shall be no cash in said fund to pay said warrant when the same is presented the county treasurer shall endorse said warrant "Not paid for want of funds" and date and sign such endorsement, and the amount of said warrant shall draw interest at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum until called in by the treasurer or auditor of said county and paid.

At any time during the progress of the work of construction, the engineer may issue preliminary certificates for work done and approved or for material or supplies furnished and delivered along the line of said proposed ditch, or otherwise delivered according to the contract therefor and to be used for the construction or installment of tile or other enclosed drains or for bridges or culverts along the line of and as a part of said proposed ditch system; which preliminary certificates shall contain the station number or numbers of the work covered by such certificate, the actual yardage of the excavation certified, and the total value thereof according to the contract of construction, or in case the same is for material furnished, then an estimate of the total value of such material according to contract. Such certificates shall further show the percentage of such total value of the work or material to be paid by the county or counties, and if the proportion has been fixed by the district court, such certificate shall further show the proportion of such total value to be paid by the respective counties. Such certificate shall be executed in duplicate by the said engineer, or in such number as may be necessary and as many thereof marked "duplicate" shall be delivered to the contractor as there are counties affected, and such engineer shall further file one thereof with the county auditor of each county affected; provided, that except as hereinafter provided no engineer in drainage proceedings shall by preliminary certificate certify or recommend for payment and no county auditor shall cause to be paid a sum exceeding 85% of the total value of work done and approved or exceeding 65% of the total value of bridge and culvert material and not exceeding 50% of the total value of all other material or supplies furnished or delivered as such total value is shown by such preliminary certificate.

And provided further, that when the excavation work thereof on an open ditch or the construction work thereof on a tile system exclusive of the tile furnished shall be 50% or more completed and the contract of construction shall not be in default the engineer shall issue a further preliminary certificate allowing to the contractor 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ % of the retained 15% on excavation or construction and of the retained 35% on material and thereupon the auditor shall issue his warrant therefor payable as herein provided for payment of warrants issued after the full completion of the contract of construction.

In case where the total estimated cost of construction of any such drainage ditch shall exceed the sum of $30,000.00 and where fifty per cent (50%) of the total amount of said excavation as shown by the engineer's report is complete and where the contract is not in default, the engineer may issue a further preliminary certificate setting forth the total value of previous construction work theretofore certified as complete by the engineer, the total amount of warrants issued to such construction contractors for such work, the total balance of sums retained by the county or counties involved, from preliminary estimates theretofore made, and the total percentage of the yardage of excavation theretofore finished and certified by engineer and the proportion of the cost of construction to be paid by the respective counties if more than one. Such further preliminary certificate shall be executed, delivered and filed by the engineer as other preliminary certificates provided for in this section and upon presentation thereof to the county auditor, such auditor shall thereupon forthwith issue to the contractors presenting the same his warrants for such county's proportionate share of 75% of the balance of such sums retained by the county or counties involved from preliminary estimates theretofore made as set forth in such further preliminary certificates provided for in this paragraph, provided that in case of ditch proceedings wherein the contract of construction has been entered into prior to the passage of this act, before the issuing and delivering of the said warrant to such contractors there shall be filed with the said county auditor the assent thereto in writing of the surety on such contractor's bond, such assent to provide that such payment upon such preliminary certificates shall not in any manner affect or reduce the liability of such surety upon such contractor's bond.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all public ditch proceedings heretofore or hereafter instituted, under any law of this state, except state and township ditches.

Provided, that no certificate or certificates of partial completion or of furnishing of material shall be furnished or delivered by the engineer unless the said certificate or certificates shall be accompanied by the engineer's written certificate that no loss will result from such partial payment. Provided, further, that the county or counties paying a preliminary estimate of the engineer on material furnished or delivered shall have a lien on the said material to the amount of all payments made thereon by such county or counties.

Provided, that the said certificate or certificates of the engineer in the matter of any county or judicial ditch proceedings of any other estimate or certificate required under any of the drainage laws of this state to be made by him, shall not constitute prima facie or other evidence of the truth of the contents thereof, or of the completion of any ditch or any part thereof by the contractor or otherwise, or of the fulfillment of the contract or part thereof.

It shall also be the duty of the engineer to inspect the laying of tile, excavation and all other work of construction from time to time, as provided for in the specifications and provisions in his report and as provided for in the contract for construction, and every thirty days during the progress of the work to report in writing to the county board or the judge of the district court as the case may be, as to all work completed since the last prior report, and his services for making such inspection shall be paid for at the rate and in the same way as his services in making his original survey and report. (Amended '15 c. 300 § 3; '17 c. 441 § 11)

This act is not unconstitutional as special legislation, in that the classification therein made is arbitrary (123-59, 142+945). Statutes, ¶97(3).

This section, in its retroactive aspect, cannot be held to interfere with a vested right or impair a contract let under § 5536, as the county, in conducting drainage proceedings, is the agency of the state, and the contracts let are subject to the control of the legislature (123-59, 142+945). [5541—]1. Warrants, when no funds—Interest—That in all cases where a warrant shall be issued by the auditor of any county under and pursuant to the provisions of Section 5541 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913, and there shall be no cash in the fund therein mentioned to pay said warrant when the same is presented, and the county treasurer shall endorse said warrant "not paid for want of funds," and shall date and sign said endorsement as in said act provided, then and in that event the interest on said warrant therein provided shall be paid on said warrant annually on the 1st day of July in each year until said warrant is called in and paid by said treasurer, or bonds are issued by the county to care for said warrants. Provided that this act shall not apply to warrants now issued and outstanding. ('15 c. 246 § 1)

5542. Bonds of county—The county board of each and every county wherein any drainage ditch is proposed to be wholly or partly located and established, or wherein lands are located which are assessed for benefits by reason of the construction thereof, are hereby authorized after the lien statement prepared by the county auditor has been filed in the office of the register of deeds, to issue the bonds, of their respective counties in such amounts as may be necessary to defray in whole or in part, the expenses incurred or to be incurred in locating, constructing and establishing or repairing so much of any such ditch as may be located within said county; or in such relation to such county as to affect lands therein within the terms of this act. All such bonds shall be sold and negotiated as provided by section 1856 of the General Statutes of Minnesota 1913, and not otherwise. The word "expenses" shall be construed to mean and cover every item of cost of said ditch from its inception to its completion, and all fees and expenses to be incurred in pursuance thereof. Such bonds shall be payable at such time or times not to exceed twenty years from their date, and shall bear such rate of interest not to exceed six per cent per annum, payable annually or semi-annually, all as the county board shall by resolution determine. Each bond shall contain a recital that it is issued by authority of and in strict accordance with the provisions of this act, or such bond may be in such form as the state board of investment may prescribe, and shall be signed by the county auditor, who shall keep a record thereof. Said county board shall have power to sell and negotiate said bonds, as hereinbefore provided, but for not less than their par value. The proceeds from the sale of all such bonds shall be placed in a general ditch fund which is hereby created. The county auditor shall keep a separate account with each drainage ditch system, which account shall be credited with all moneys arising from the sale of bonds, all moneys received as interest or penalties or upon liens, charges, assessments and from all other sources on account of such drainage system, and which account shall be debited with every item of expenditure made on account of such drainage system. Such county board shall provide moneys for the payment of the principal and interest of said bonds as they severally mature, which moneys shall be placed in the general ditch fund, into which fund it may transfer any surplus moneys remaining in the general revenue fund or other funds of the county which can be properly used for the purpose of this act, into which fund shall be paid all moneys received from the payment of any liens created under the provisions of this act. And such board is hereby authorized to pay drainage bonds issued under the provisions of this chapter out of any available funds in the county treasury, when the moneys on hand in the general ditch fund of the treasury are insufficient to meet the payment of bonds issued in ditch proceedings when the same mature, but the fund from which such moneys have been taken or used for the payment of bonds as they mature shall be replenished with interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from collections of unpaid assessments, for ditches, drains or watercourses constructed under any proceedings had hereunder.

Except as herein otherwise stated, the provisions of this act shall not affect the rights or liability of any party to any existing contract or any surety on any existing bond, and existing statutes shall be deemed in force as to all such contracts and bonds. [5542—]1. Transfer of moneys from ditch to revenue fund legalized—Where the board of county commissioners or other officers of any county in this state shall have heretofore, pursuant to orders or resolutions of such county board, borrowed and transferred or caused to be transferred from the general, or any special ditch fund of such county, to the general revenue fund of such county, any sum or sums of money, and at the time of the passage of this act, the same has not been repaid to the fund from which it was taken, and where at the time of the passage hereof, there is not money on hand in such general revenue fund from which it was taken, [and where at the time of [the passage was taken] such transfer or transfers are hereby legalized and validated, and the total amount of such money so transferred from such ditch fund or funds and not re-paid, together with interest thereon from the date of such transfer, at six per cent per annum, is hereby declared to be the valid outstanding indebtedness of such county, and the same or any part thereof may be refunded as hereinafter provided. ('15 c. 301 § 1)

The phrase inclosed in brackets does not appear in enrolled bill in secretary of state's office, but appears in printed session laws.

[5542—]2. Same—Bonds for repayment to ditch fund—When the total amount of money so transferred from such ditch fund or funds and not repaid, shall have been ascertained, and a certificate showing such facts, signed by the county auditor and treasurer, shall have been filed in the office of the county auditor, the board of county commissioners of said county is hereby authorized to issue and negotiate the negotiable bonds of said county in such amount as they shall deem advisable, but not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000.00), and not exceeding the amount of such sums so transferred from the ditch funds and unpaid as aforesaid, with interest thereon from the date of transfer to the time of issuance of the bonds at six per cent per annum, for the purpose of repaying into said ditch fund or funds the amount due thereto as aforesaid; and such bonds shall be a valid charge and obligation against the said county. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be placed in the ditch fund or funds from which the money was originally borrowed or in the general ditch fund of the county if one be maintained; and shall be used to meet the obligation due from such fund or funds. ('15 c. 301 § 3)

[5542—]4. Same—Proceedings when instituted—No county shall be entitled to avail itself of the provisions of this act unless it shall institute proceedings to do so, by the adoption by the county board of the resolution provided for in section 3 [5542—3], within sixty days after the passage of this act. [5546—]1. Erroneous statement and summary—Corrected statement to be filed, etc.—That in all cases in this state where a public drainage ditch has been regularly established by order of a county board or by order of the district court or a judge thereof pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 230 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905 and acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto, and where a county auditor or county auditors, as the case may be, has made a tabular statement and summary as required by Section 19 of Chapter 230 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905 [5543] and filed the same for record in the office of the register of deeds in and for the proper county, which said statement and summary is erroneous and which does not conform to the order of the county board or the order of the district court or the judge thereof, as the case may be, the county auditor or county auditors, as the case may be, shall at the earliest practicable time after the discovery of said error make and prepare in tabular form a correct list and statement of the facts required by said Section 19 of Chapter 230 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905 [5543], the said corrected statement to be signed and executed by the county auditor or the county auditors, as the case may be, in the manner required by Section 20 of Chapter 230 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1905 [5544], which said corrected statement and summary shall then be filed with and recorded by the register of deeds of the proper county. ('15 c. 178 § 1)

[5546—]2. Same—Corrected statement to take place of erroneous statement—That when said corrected statement and summary has been prepared and filed for record as hereinbefore provided, then and thereupon the said corrected statement and summary shall take the place of the said erroneous statement and summary and the amounts set forth therein shall be of the same force and effect as liens against the lands described therein as if the erroneous statement and summary had been correctly made and in conformity with the order of the county board or of the district court, as the case may be. ('15 c. 178 § 2)

[5546—]3. Same—Liens in erroneous statement discharged—Substituted liens—That in any case where it becomes necessary to make a corrected statement and summary as hereinbefore provided, the county auditor of any county affected is hereby authorized to release and discharge of record the liens set forth in the erroneous statement and summary in the manner following, to-wit: he shall issue under his hand and official seal a certificate stating that the original statement and summary has been found to be incorrect; that a true and correct statement and summary has been filed in his office and for record in the office of the register of deeds, and that the liens set forth in the corrected statement and summary are substitutes for and in lieu of the liens set forth in the erroneous statement and summary, and shall authorize the register of deeds in and for the proper county to release and discharge the liens set forth in said erroneous statement and summary, and shall direct said register of deeds to substitute in lieu thereof as liens against the lands described therein the amounts set forth in the corrected statement and summary; and when said certificate is recorded in the office of the register of deeds the liens evidenced by the erroneous statement and summary shall thereupon be released and discharged and the corrected statement and summary and the liens evidenced thereby shall take the place and be in lieu thereof, and the register of deeds in and for the proper county shall thereupon be authorized to release and discharge the original tabular statement and summary and the liens evidenced thereby of record. ('15 c. 178 § 4)

[5546—]5. Same—Corrected statements and summaries legalized—That in all cases where the county auditor or county auditors, as the case may be, have proceeded in the manner herein provided for correcting erroneous statements and summaries in county or judicial ditches, the same are hereby in all respects legalized and the erroneous statement and summary is hereby declared to be null and void and the corrected statement and summary is hereby given the same force and effect as if an erroneous statement and summary had never been made or filed. ('15 c. 178 § 5)

5548. Liens, how paid—Interest—Taxes, etc.—That payment of such liens shall be made to the treasurer of such county, as follows:

One-tenth of such principal on or before November 1st subsequent to the filing of lien in the office of the register of deeds and one-tenth on the first day of November of each year thereafter until the whole thereof is paid.

Provided, that if in the final order establishing said ditch or at any time thereafter the judge of the district court or the county board, in his or its discretion so orders, then payment of such lien shall be made to the said treasurer as follows:

One-fifteenth of said principal on or before five years from November 1st subsequent to date of said filing in the office of the register of deeds and one-fifteenth on the 1st day of November of each year thereafter until the whole amount of said principal is paid.

Except as provided in Section 5545 General Statutes 1913, the said principal lien shall bear interest at a rate not to exceed six per cent (6%) per annum payable annually on November 1st, reckoned from the date of the filing of the lien statement in the office of the register of deeds, and interest on the whole of the principal of such lien remaining from time to time unpaid shall be paid annually on November 1st, except as hereinafter in this section otherwise provided. In case bonds shall be issued by the county then the lien shall bear the same rate of interest as such bonds.

On or before the 15th day of November next following such filing the county auditor shall for the purpose of enforcing payment of such lien, enter on a ditch lien record of said county the whole amount of such lien remaining unpaid against each respective tract of land subject thereto, and shall at the same time or before tax lists for such year are turned over to the county treasurer, compute interest as in this law provided on such unpaid amount to the first day of June following, and shall enter such interest together with the installment, if any then due on the tax lists for such year and each thereof (installment and interest) shall be collected in the same manner as real estate taxes for that year on the tract in question are collected and the county auditor shall, in same manner, each year thereafter, compute interest on amount of such lien remaining unpaid and not previously entered on tax lists of prior year or years, together with interest to the 1st day of June, and enter the same on the tax lists with such portion of the principal of such lien as shall be due, said installment and interest to be collected in the same manner as the first payment, until the whole amount of any such lien and accumulated interest shall have been so entered on the tax lists of such county and all of the provisions of law now or hereafter existing in relation to the collection of real estate taxes so far as applicable hereto are hereby adopted for the purpose of enforcing payment of such liens and installments thereof and of the interest thereon and of each of the same, but no penalty shall be added to any such installment or interest thereon in case of default in the payment thereof.

When payment of the full amount of such liens, with accumulated interest, shall thus, or at any one time be made, the auditor, upon presentation of a receipt from the treasurer to that effect, shall issue under his hand and official seal a certificate of such payment, and the same when recorded in the office of the register of deeds, shall release and discharge said lien of record.

If any items of the cost of a ditch established under this or any prior drainage law by the terms of which the cost of construction is assessed against the benefited property or corporation, from its inception to its completion, has been or shall be omitted from the original tabular statement for assessment made and filed by the auditor, with the register of deeds, then a supplementary statement for assessment shall be made by said auditor in the same form and manner as the original statement, so far as practicable, showing such omitted costs, which supplementary statement for assessment shall be filed for record in the office of the register of deeds and shall be due, payable and collectable in the same manner, time and form as if a part of the last annual installment of the original assessment. (Amended '15 c. 300 § 5)

Compensation of county treasurer for making collection of installments of assessments for county ditches (see 135-274, 160+766; note under § 5571).

5551. Benefits to municipalities, railroads, etc., how assessed—Any township, village, city, county or other municipality receiving any benefits from the construction of drainage improvement under the provisions of this act shall be assessable therefor for any improvements to any public roads, street or other property owned or controlled by such municipality, and in the case of villages or cities they shall also be assessable for any benefits derived from the construction of such drainage improvement by way of furnishing an outlet for drainage of surface waters from within or in the vicinity of such city or village and for the removal of unhealthful conditions in the vicinity of such village or city by the drainage of stagnant waters from within or in the vicinity of such city or village, or for the furnishing of any other drainage or sewer outlet that may result in any benefit to or improvement of the healthful conditions of said city or village, and it shall be the duty of the viewers appointed under the provisions of this law to assess such benefits to such municipalities. Whenever any public road or street shall have been found to be so benefited the city, village, town or county which is by law chargeable with the duty of keeping such road or street in repair shall be assessed the amount of such benefits accruing to such road or street within the limits of such town, village, city or county, and all benefits that shall result to any such village or city in consequence of being furnished an outlet for drainage of any kind or improvement of the healthful conditions of said city or village as hereinbefore specified, shall be also assessed against such village or city, by reason of the construction of such improvement and the same, being fixed and determined by order of the board or court at any final hearing, or in case of appeal at any subsequent hearing before the court, the amount of the liability of such municipality for such assessed benefits shall be determined in the manner provided in section 5543 of the General Statutes of Minnesota of 1913 and the amount thus ascertained shall thereupon become a liability of such city, village, town or county, and shall be due and payable in ten annual installments beginning on the first day of June next following the date of the entry of the lien against private individuals as herein provided, and if such installments are not paid within thirty days after its maturity the amount thereof shall be extended by the county auditor against all the property in such city, village or town liable to taxation, and a levy thereof made thereon and the same shall become due, to be paid and collected in the same manner and at the same time as other taxes. In the event that for any reason an additional lien statement shall be filed in any drainage improvement the same method shall be pursued to ascertain the actual liability of each municipality or other party, and additional lien statement made and filed with reference to municipalities the same as in the case of lands or individuals. Provided: when any public road found to be benefited is a county or state road, as defined by the laws of this state, the benefits accruing thereto shall not be assessed against any city, village or town chargeable with the duty of keeping such roads in repair, but the same shall be assessed against the county and the amount thereof shall be charged to and paid out of the general road and bridge fund of said county. Whenever the lands of any railroad company shall be determined in any such proceeding to be benefited by any such improvement said lands shall be assessed their just proportion of the benefits as other lands are assessed, and such assessments shall be collected from the owners of such lands and in the same manner as in the case of other lands.

Whenever any railroad or the lands of any railroad company shall be determined in such proceedings to be benefited by any such ditch, such railroad, or the lands of such railroad company shall be assessed their just proportion of such benefits as other lands benefited are assessed, which assessment shall be collected from the owner of such railroad or from such railroad company in the same manner as personal taxes are collected by law. From the date of the filing by the county auditor or in the office of the register of deeds of the statement aforesaid, the amount of such assessment, with interest, shall constitute a lien against all property of such owners and railroad company within such county. Such lien may be foreclosed by action in the same manner as provided by law for the foreclosure of mortgage liens. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 13)

5552. Repairs—Assessments—Lands in other counties—State ditches, etc.—After the construction of any public drainage ditch within the State of Minnesota under any law of this state the county board of the county in which the said ditch or any part thereof is located shall keep the same or such part thereof in proper repair and free from obstruction so as to answer its purpose, and in case there is sufficient funds to the credit of the drainage ditch so to be repaired to make such repairs such fund may be expended by the county board for such purpose without further assessment; provided that no part of such original ditch fund shall be used for repairing or cleaning such ditch until such ditch has been completed according to the original plans and specifications therefor. In case there is not sufficient funds to the credit of such drainage ditch so to be repaired, except as hereinafter otherwise provided, the county board shall pay for the same out of the general revenue funds of the county, and to raise the necessary money to reimburse that fund it is hereby authorized to apportion and assess the cost thereof upon all lands originally assessed for benefits by reason of the construction of said ditch, said apportionment and assessment to be in the same proportion as was the original assessment for benefits.

Such county board shall make a written statement of such assessment and deliver the same to the auditor of the county who shall put the same upon the next succeeding tax duplicates of said county and who shall make and file in the office of the register of deeds, the lien statement covering the costs and expenses of such repairs in the manner so far as consistent, as provided by Sections 5543 and 5544, General Statutes, 1913, and such assessments shall be a first and paramount lien upon the lands affected, the same as state and county taxes.

In case such assessment or any part thereof is chargeable against lands in another county then the amount thereof chargeable against such other county shall by the county board of the county which has paid the same, be certified to the county auditor of such other county chargeable therewith and such last mentioned county auditor shall thereupon draw his warrant therefor in favor of and deliver the same to the county treasurer of the county which has paid the same, and such auditor drawing such warrant shall thereupon apportion and assess and file lien for the amount thereof upon all lands in his said county originally assessed for benefits by reason of the construction of said ditch in the same proportion as was the original assessment for benefits.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all works constructed for the purpose of drainage under any law now or heretofore in force in this state including state ditches. In case of repair of state ditches by the county board the cost of the same shall be paid out of the general revenue fund of the county, and to raise the necessary money to reimburse that fund the county board is hereby authorized and empowered and it shall be their duty to appoint viewers to assess and apportion the cost of such repairs and preliminary and other expenses in connection therewith, said assessment and apportionment to be for benefits to all lands which may have been benefited by the construction of said ditch and of any lateral or spur ditch emptying therein in proportion to such benefits.

All laws of this state in regard to county drainage ditches designating the number and qualification and duties and compensation of viewers, prescribing rules and directions governing the making of assessments of benefits and the manner and time of giving notice of meeting, governing and making, filing and the approval, change and adoption of the final report of the viewers, providing for a hearing thereon, and such other provision thereof as is necessary and is as adaptable therefor shall govern proceedings for repair of state ditches, and a statement of the assessment for repairs shall be made and such assessment levied and collected in like manner as hereinbefore in this section provided for the making of a statement of and collecting assessments for repairs of county or judicial ditches.

In case the total cost and expenses of repairing any ditch exceeds a sum equal to twenty-five (25%) per cent of the original cost of construction of such ditch, then the moneys to pay for such repairs may be obtained by the sale of the bonds of such county as provided by Section 5542 General Statutes 1913. The lien for the payment of assessments of benefits shall be payable in the same manner as is provided by law for the payment of assessments for the original construction of ditches and all provisions of law regarding the issuance of drainage bonds and the liens for benefits and the payment thereof and the filing of liens statement so far as applicable thereto shall apply to the repairs referred to in this paragraph.

Provided that if the repair of any county or judicial ditch is made necessary, or if it shall be necessary to widen, deepen or extend the same in consequence of the construction of lateral or private ditches or in consequence of the construction of other ditch or ditches which connect with or empty into said original ditch or into a lake or lakes which are drained, in whole or in part, by such original ditch, and which lateral, private or public ditch or ditches are constructed subsequent to and not included in the assessment for such original ditch, and which increases the volume of water to be taken care of by the original ditch or which deposit sediment in the original ditch and thereby contribute to the necessity for such repair, widening, deepening or extending, or in consequence of such ditch not being constructed in the first instance of sufficient capacity to furnish adequate drainage of the land affected, then the county board shall appoint an engineer who shall make such survey of said ditch and all branches and laterals discharging waters therein, whether a part of said original ditch proceeding or not, as he may deem necessary. He shall make an itemized tabular statement of the cost of repairing said ditch, and deepening, widening and extending the same to a new or different outlet where necessary, together with a description of the lands, roads, railroads and other property if any, that may be benefited or damaged by said deepening, widening and extending. He shall also in tabular form give the depth of cut, width at the bottom and width at the top, of all parts of said ditch that may be deepened or widened, and in case said ditch is extended to a new or different outlet, shall include in relation thereto as far as practicable all requirements of the engineer's report designated in Section 5536 of this law.

He shall make a complete report of his doings and submit therewith the necessary plans and specifications and a description of the lands over which said ditch if extended to a new and different outlet is surveyed.

Such report shall give the names of assistants and laborers and the time each was employed by or under him, together with his own time on the work and every other item of expense by him incurred in and about the work, and he shall forthwith file the same with the auditor of the county wherein he was appointed.

If the county board find from such report that such ditch is in need of such repair, widening, deepening or extending, said board shall at their first or any subsequent meeting thereafter, appoint three viewers whose qualifications shall be as herein provided, and thereupon proceedings shall be as near as practicable in conformity with the provisions of law relating to original ditch proceedings, except that the cost of such repairs, widening, deepening and extending, including all damages awarded and paid by reason thereof, shall be equitably apportioned between the lands benefited respectively by such original ditch and those benefited by such private, lateral, or other ditches constructed as aforesaid, in proportion to the benefits to such respective ditch systems resulting from the construction of such original ditch and of such lateral, private and subsequent ditch or ditches, the same as if such original ditch and such lateral, private and subsequent ditch or ditches were originally one ditch system, and such viewers shall then equitably apportion and assess the portion of the cost of such repairs and expenses so determined to be borne by such private, lateral or other ditches upon the lands benefited by the construction of such lateral, private or subsequent ditch or ditches, or by branches, thereto, in proportion to the benefits to such lands resulting from such construction, and shall likewise apportion and assess the portion of such cost determined to be borne by such original ditch upon the lands benefited by the establishment and construction thereof in proportion to such benefits. The fact that such portion of such cost of repair, widening, deepening or extending, and such expenses respectively apportioned to such lateral and subsequent ditch system or systems, and to such original ditch system is respectively apportioned and assessed against the respective lands benefited thereby, in the same proportion as the respective original assessment of benefits therein shall in all cases be prima facie evidence that such assessment and apportionment is made in compliance with the provisions and requirements of law.

Such viewers shall perform like duties and be governed by the same rules and restrictions in acting hereunder as is provided by law for viewers in judicial ditch proceedings, and such viewers shall within sixty days after their appointment file their report in writing with the county auditor of the county and such county auditor shall give notice of the hearing on such report as is provided by law for hearing on engineer's and viewers' report in judicial ditch proceedings. At such hearing the county board shall proceed to consider such viewers' report and adopt or modify the same and the power and authority of such county board in relation thereto shall be the same as is possessed by the judge at a final hearing on the engineer's and viewers' report in judicial ditch proceedings under the laws of this state. The same right of appeal from or review of the assessment of benefits and damages and the same procedure in relation thereto shall exist in regard to orders herein as exist by law in the case of county ditch proceedings.

After final action by the county board in relation to such assessment, the county auditor shall proceed as is in this section provided in case such assessment for repairs were made by the county board. The repairs herein provided for shall be construed to include the taking from said ditch of sediment deposited therein, the removal of obstructions therein, the widening and deepening thereof so as to answer its original purpose or so as to provide for additional flow of waters caused by other ditches or any other reason, the cutting and removal of weeds or grass from the bottom, sides, banks, or right of way of such ditch and such other changes or alteration therein as will enhance its usefulness for the purpose of drainage, and shall further be construed to include the extension of said ditch to a new outlet when and in case the same is found by the county board to be necessary or advisable. (Amended '15 c. 300 § 6)

5552-A. County ditch inspector—Duties and salary—Duty of county board—That in all counties where drainage ditches costing in the aggregate not less than $50,000.00, have been or hereafter shall be constructed under the provisions of the laws of the state of Minnesota, by the district court or county board, there shall be appointed by the county board, a competent man who shall be known as county ditch inspector, whose duty it shall be to travel over the line of all of such county and judicial ditches in said county at least twice in each season and inspect the same, observe their operations and what repairs thereto or improvements may be necessary or proper, and immediately after such inspection he shall make a full report in writing to the county board of his work, together with his estimate of the cost thereof.

He shall also include in such report an itemized statement of the time spent upon each ditch and of his expenses incurred in connection therewith.

Whenever it shall appear by the report and recommendations of such inspector that it is necessary and proper for any drainage ditch in such county to be repaired or improved, the county board shall take such steps as it may deem advisable to determine the necessity for such repairs and improvements and if in its judgment any repairs and improvements are necessary then it shall make an order specifying the same and it shall require said work to be done under the provisions of section 5552 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913 as amended by chapter 300 of the General Laws of Minnesota for the year 1915 and all the provisions of said last named section shall apply to the making of such repairs and improvements so far as applicable.

The salary of such county ditch inspector shall be fixed by the county board and shall be paid out of the general revenue funds of the county which shall be reimbursed as provided for in said section 5552 by assessment upon all lands originally assessed for benefits by reason of the construction of the ditches inspected by him. ('17 c. 441 § 14)

1917 c. 441 § 14 amends this chapter by adding a section to be known as § 5552-A.

5552-B. Tile drainage system—Petition—Powers of county board—Bond
—Whenever one or more parties owning land adjoining or in the vicinity of any outlet or any public ditch or drain, adjoining or in the vicinity of any body of water forming a part of or connected with any such ditch or drain, and having right of way connecting his or their land therewith, shall petition the county board of the county wherein said land is located for the establishment of a tile drainage system draining his or their land and connecting the same with said ditch or drain or body of water, and fully describing said proposed system in general terms, and said petitioners shall in their said petition fully authorize and empower said county board to do and perform all things necessary to establish and construct such tile drainage system and to exercise in so doing all the authority by this act or any other law of this state granted to the board of county commissioners in the establishment of county ditches or county drainage improvements without the giving or service of any notice in connection therewith, and expressly waiving all such notice, and shall in and by said petition fully authorize said county board to order established and constructed said tile drainage system as finally determined upon by them, and to levy and assess the cost thereof against the property drained and benefited, and shall file said petition in the office of the county auditor of such county, then and in that event the county board shall have jurisdiction of all persons and property named, described and referred to in said petition, and are hereby authorized to cause to be surveyed said drainage system as petitioned for, or as may be established, by them, and upon the coming in of the engineer's reports may order said system established and cause the same to be constructed, and shall have and may exercise together with the county auditor all power and authority by this act granted to county board and county auditors in the establishment and construction of county ditches or county drainage improvements, including the letting of contracts, the filing of summary statements and lien statements, the establishment of liens and the time and manner of payment and the issuance and sale of bonds, and all other acts and things by this act authorized, so far as the same may be necessary, as fully and with the same effect as in the case of regular proceedings to establish a drainage improvement under the provisions of this act. Provided: no county board shall incur any expense under the provisions of this section until a proper bond is furnished by said petitioners, in at least the sum of $1,000.00 with sufficient sureties to be approved by the county auditor and payable to the said county, conditioned to hold the county harmless from any cost in connection with said proceedings, and all costs and expense incurred in connection therewith shall be added to and treated as a part of the costs of said proceedings, and assessed against the property benefited, and if the parties themselves have agreed upon a plan of division of the costs such plan may be adopted, otherwise viewers may be appointed with like authority and effect as in the case of ordinary county drainage proceedings. Provided, further: that in the event that the land or some part thereof has not been assessed for the construction of said main ditch or drain then such system shall be connected with said ditch or drain only upon condition that all lands not assessed shall be assessed as provided by this act in the case of connecting laterals, and said lateral or tile system when connected shall be and form a part of said ditch for all future purposes. ('17 c. 441 § 15)

5553. Judicial ditch—Petition—Bond—

The act of 1909 confers jurisdiction on the district court or judge thereof, though the proposed ditch is wholly within one county and does not benefit or damage land in another county (131-43, 154+617). Drains, ¶28.

The act of 1909 is not unconstitutional as conferring nonjudicial powers (131-43, 154+617). Constitutional Law, ¶70(1), 74.

5554. Hearing in district court—

134-435, 159+965.

5555. Appointment of engineer—Survey—Report—

Engineer's report held not subject to the objection that it was void for uncertainty in locating the proposed ditch (131-43, 154+617).

5557. Filing of report—Notice of hearing—

5558. Hearing—Proceedings—

The order establishing the ditch need not use the word "establish," if the intent is otherwise manifest (159+758).

5562. Abandoned or dismissed proceedings—Use of former survey—Re-fundment under bond—

After the county board has ordered the establishment and construction of a state rural highway, it has no power to abandon the enterprise, and the auditor has no discretion to decline to receive bids on the ground that the project has been abandoned (132-96, 155+1048). Highways, ¶79(1), 118(1).

5565. Damages arising after construction—Petition—Viewers—Notice—Hearing—

Damages awarded held not excessive (see 135-198, 160+493). Eminent Domain, ¶150.

5567. Appeals—Bond—

The practicability of a drainage plan is for the determination of the trial court, there being nothing in the evidence returned to the supreme court justifying interference by that court (131-43, 154+617). Drains, ¶7.

Where the record does not affirmatively show that the notice of appeal and the bond were not filed within 30 days after the filing of the award, an objection that the appeal was not perfected in time cannot be sustained (135-198, 160+493). Drains, ¶57.

5571. Compensation of engineers and other officers—Referee—Appeal, etc.—The following fees and expenses shall be allowed and paid for services rendered under this act. To engineers a sum not exceeding the sum of $10.00 per day, to be fixed by the judge or the county board making the appointment, for every day necessarily engaged and actual and necessary expenses including cost of bond. To each viewer the sum of $4.00 per day for every day necessarily engaged in viewing ditches and traveling therefor and making up the reports and actual and necessary expenses. To each rodman a sum not exceeding $3.00 per day and actual and necessary expenses. To each chainman, axeman and other like employees not herein mentioned and necessary to the prompt execution of the work of locating or constructing a public ditch, a sum not exceeding $2.50 and actual and necessary expenses. To each member of the county board the sum of $5.00 per day for each day actually occupied in proceedings to establish or repair or inspect any ditch after its completion or during the course of the work if appointed as a committee for that purpose and the sum of 10 cents per mile each way for travel necessary in attending any special meeting of the county board called for the purpose of transacting any business pertaining to such ditch and for travel in inspecting ditches or any other necessary travel in said ditch matter. To the county auditor, county attorney, attorney for petitioners, clerk of the district court, the register of deeds, the sheriff and other officials performing duties thereunder, such reasonable compensation as shall be fixed by the county board or court as the case may be, and the fees and compensation of all such county officials and other officers in ditch proceedings shall be in addition to all sums and fees allowed them by law, provided that the fees of such auditor shall in no case be less than $20.00 nor more than $250.00. In all proceedings where any county is directly interested the county attorney thereof shall represent the county unless otherwise provided by the county board. No county attorney or his assistants or any attorney associated with him in business shall otherwise appear in any drainage proceeding for any person or party whatsoever interested therein. All fees, per diem, compensation and expenses provided for in this act and fees for such other legal service, and expenses as may be necessary shall be allowed and paid upon the order of the county board or the judge of the district court, as the case may be.

The said judge or county board, as the case may be, may appoint a referee in any ditch proceedings to perform the duties hereinafter set forth and such referee shall qualify by taking the appropriate oath and giving bond to the county or counties affected by such ditch in such sum as shall be fixed by such judge or board, as the case may be. Said bond shall be conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such referee. Said referee shall be a qualified civil engineer. The fees of such referee shall be fixed by said judge or board, as the case may be, and shall be paid out of funds of such ditch as shall be ordered by said judge or board. It shall be the duty of such referee, if appointed, to consider all bills of account or applications for payment in such ditch proceedings and to hear evidence if offered in relation thereto and to report in writing to such judge or county board his approval, rejection or amendment thereof as such referee who shall also keep accurate record and account of all bills of account and all applications for payment acted upon by him and reported to said judge or county board together with copies of all such reports and all proceedings had in relation thereto. It shall further be the duty of said referee by order of said judge or board to inspect and examine and make report upon all work of construction in the matter of such ditch prior to final acceptance thereof and for the purpose of making such examination or inspection and upon application of such referee the said judge or board may appoint and designate a competent and experienced civil engineer, other than the one officially acting as such in such ditch proceedings, to examine such ditch and the plans and specifications thereof and report thereon to said referee and it shall be the duty of such referee and if requested by such referee of said engineer to appear and testify before the judge or county board considering the final acceptance of such ditch. When order of said judge or county board approving a report of such referee and allowing a bill of account or application for payment in such ditch proceedings shall constitute and be construed as an accounting and allowing of such account by such judge or county board within the meaning of this section and the approval by said judge or county board of any order of said referee shall constitute the said report of said referee, the order of said judge or county board (in such proceeding, provided in all cases and said judge or county board) may reject such report and make an independent order in relation thereto covered by or contained in such report. Such referee shall be subject to removal at the pleasure of said judge or county board.

Any land owner, employé or other person aggrieved by any order of court or county board relative to the allowance of fees or fees and expenses may appeal from such order to the district court of any county in which the proceeding is pending and by notice given on or before the first day of the term, demand and obtain a jury trial. All such appeals shall be taken within thirty (30) days after the order allowing such claim and shall be governed as far as applicable by the provisions of section 5534 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for 1913, save that in all appeals taken by parties whose lands are assessed for said improvements, then the expenses thereof shall be paid by the county and assessed against said improvement. (Amended '17 c. 441 § 16)

A county attorney, who performs services for the county in proceedings to establish a county ditch, is not entitled, under this section, to compensation therefor, unless his services are required or requested by the county board, or the services were rendered in protection of some special interest of the county which it is his general duty as county attorney to protect. The county has no such special interest in the question of damages and benefits to be paid by and to the owners of affected property, and no such interest to protect on an appeal to the district court from an award thereof (161+382). District and Prosecuting Attorneys, ¶5(1).

The county treasurer is not entitled to compensation in addition to his salary for making collection of installments of principal and interest on assessments for the construction of county ditches, by virtue of the provision for compensation to "other officers * * * performing duties hereunder" (135-274, 160+766). Counties, ¶74(3).

In action on bond given under this section it was held that it is not necessary that the county auditor's compensation be fixed before the auditor does his work, or at any particular time. The bill of the auditor for compensation having been presented to the county board and having been approved, such action amounts to a fixing of the compensation (123-437, 143+970). Drains, ¶29.

5576. Stranger to proceedings cannot question same—Liens, assessments and contracts not invalidated, when—

A landowner, who suffers no damage by the proposed connection of a village drainage system with a judicial ditch, and whose assessment is not affected thereby cannot maintain certiorari to review the judgment authorizing the connection, the village not complaining (159+758). Drains, ¶82(4).

5577. Appeal to supreme court—

Form and requisites of writ of certiorari from supreme court to review ditch proceedings (see 161+714). Certiorari, ¶45; Drains, ¶37. See, also, notes under §§ 8313, 8314.

5589. Order draining meandered lake—Appeal—

The question of the propriety of diverting the waters of a meandered lake may be determined upon appeal to the district court, but the propriety of the order in any other respect cannot be considered by the court; hence upon reversal of the order of the county board, because it provided for the draining of a meandered lake not properly subject to drainage, it may proceed with the drainage project under § 5531, except in so far as it affects the meandered lake (128-69, 150+209). Drains, ¶36(2).

[5590—]1. Omissions—Additional supplementary statement for assessment—Wherever any items of cost of a ditch established under the provisions of Chapter 230 of the General Laws of 1905, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, from its inception to its completion, have heretofore been omitted from the original tabular statement for assessment made and filed by the auditor with the register of deeds and the supplementary statement for assessment made and filed by said auditor under the provisions of Section 5590, General Statutes 1913, and such omitted items have been paid by the county by warrant on the ditch fund thereof, then and in that case an additional supplementary statement for assessment shall be made by said auditor in the same form and manner as the original statement, so far as practicable, showing such omitted items and interest accrued on the warrants issued in payment thereof, which additional supplementary statement for assessment shall be filed for record with the register of deeds in the proper county, and in the discretion of such county auditor, may be made due, payable and collectible either in the same manner, time and form as if a part of the last annual installment of the original assessment, or in installments, the number thereof to be equal to the number of installments remaining unpaid on such original statement for assessment at the time such additional supplementary statement shall be filed; and in either event such additional supplementary statement shall be and operate as a lien on the land affected as fully as though part of such original assessment. ('17 c. 369 § 1)

[5590—]2. Same—Duty of auditor—Upon the filing by the auditor of such additional supplementary statement for assessment with the register of deeds, said auditor shall notify each person by mail whose lands are affected thereby of the filing of such statement and the individual assessment due thereon. Such notice shall be sent to the last known address of such persons. ('17 c. 369 § 2)

5601. Change of method of construction—Enlarging, deepening or changing location, etc.—Whenever proceedings have been or hereafter shall be taken to lay out a drainage ditch according to law and the same has been or hereafter shall be laid out and established, and the contract for the construction thereof let, and it has been or thereafter shall be found to be impossible, by reason of unfavorable weather or other good cause, for the contractor to construct the same, and the engineer in charge of such ditch concludes after examination, that better results can be obtained by a different method of construction, thereupon, upon a petition of not less than seventy-five per centum of the owners of the land affected by the construction of such drainage ditch, as shown by the viewers' report in such proceedings, and upon the filing with the county auditor of the county where such proceedings are pending in case of a county ditch, or with the clerk of the district court where such proceedings are pending in case of a judicial ditch, by said contractor and his bondsmen of an agreement in writing consenting thereto, the said county auditor or county clerk or county auditors, as the case may be, may alter or modify the contract theretofore entered into with such contractor as to the manner, method or time within which such drainage ditch shall be constructed, in accordance with the recommendation of the engineer in charge thereof, upon the filing of such recommendation with such auditor, or auditors, or clerks as the case may be.

Provided further, that if, after the establishment of any county or judicial ditch, and before the completion thereof, it shall become apparent that said ditch or any of the branches thereof should be enlarged, deepened or otherwise changed or that a change or alteration in the location should be made for the better service thereof, the county board in case of a county ditch or the court in case of a judicial ditch may authorize such change or changes as the engineer shall recommend. Provided, however, that before any action shall be taken by the court or the county board, as the case may be, a petition signed by twenty-five per cent of the resident owners of lands affected by said ditch as named in the order establishing said ditch not exceeding in any case more than fifty such resident owners shall be filed with the county auditor if a county ditch, or with the clerk of court if a judicial ditch, setting forth the necessity for the changes or alterations in said ditch, and at the time of filing such petition one or more of such petitioners shall give a bond with good and sufficient freehold sureties payable to the county to be approved, including amount and sureties, by the court or the county auditor, as the case may be, conditioned to pay all expenses in case the county board or the court shall fail to make the alteration or change prayed for in said petition. The same notice shall be given as is given on the filing of an original petition for a new ditch. If upon the hearing of said petition the county board or the court, as the case may be, from the evidence considers it necessary or advisable that changes or alterations be made in said ditch, either in size, location or otherwise, the county board or the court, as the case may be, shall have authority to resubmit the same to the engineer who had charge of said ditch or appoint a new engineer to re-examine said ditch and make report as to changes or alterations he may deem necessary for the betterment of said ditch. Said engineer shall within thirty (30) days make report thereon as to the changes and alterations thereon for the improvement of said ditch. If changes and alterations are recommended by the engineer in said ditch, the viewers shall re-examine said ditch with the proposed changes and alterations and shall within twenty (20) days, after the filing of said engineer's report, file with the auditor or with the clerk of said court, as the case may be, their amended viewers' report.

Upon the filing of the amended viewers' report with the county auditor in the case of a county ditch or with the clerk of the district court in the case of a judicial ditch, the county auditor or clerk of court, as the case may be, shall give the same form of notice as was given on the filing of the original view-

5614. Same—Services and compensation of officers—

A county attorney, who performs services for the county in proceedings to establish a county ditch, is not entitled, under this section, to compensation therefor, unless his services are required or requested by the county board, or the services were rendered in protection of some special interest of the county which it is his general duty as county attorney to protect. The county has no such special interest in the question of damages and benefits to be paid by and to the owners of affected property, and no such interest to protect on an appeal to the district court from an award thereof (161+382). (d) For regulating the flow of water in streams or water courses.

(e) For regulation and control of flood waters and the prevention of floods, by deepening, widening, straightening or dyking the channels of any stream or water course, and by the construction of reservoirs or other means to hold and control such waters.

(f) For diverting in whole or in part streams or water course and regulating the use thereof, and as incident to and for the purpose of accomplishing and effectuating all the purposes of this act, may make all such orders as may be necessary to authorize and direct the straightening, widening, deepening or changing of the course or terminus of any natural or artificial water course and to build, construct or maintain all necessary dykes, ditches, canals, levys, wall-embankments, bridges, dams, sluice ways, locks and other structures that may be found necessary and advisable, and to create and establish and maintain the necessary reservoirs or other structures; to hold, control and regulate any and all flood waters within said districts, and acquire title to, in the name of said district of all necessary lands and other property to construct and maintain reservoirs, dykes or other structures to secure the proper control of the flood waters within said district. Provided, nothing in this act contained shall be construed to interfere with the operation and use of any drainage law of this state. ('17 c. 442 § 1)

[5671—]2. Petition—Limits of district—Before any district court shall establish any drainage and flood control district as outlined in section 1 of this act [5671—1], a petition shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the district court in any county containing territory to the extent of five townships included in said proposed district which shall be signed by not less than 25 resident free holders from each county abutting upon the main stream of the district having more than five townships within the proposed district.

Said petition shall set forth:

1. The proposed name of said district.
2. The necessity for the proposed work; and that it will be conducive to the public health, safety and convenience and promote the welfare of the inhabitants of said district; and aid in the control of flood waters in said boundary waters and streams or rivers flowing into or from the same in this state.
3. A general description of the nature and purposes of the contemplated plan of improvement, explaining the necessity therefor, and shall include, in general terms, a description of the territory proposed to be included in said district. Said description need not be given by metes and bounds or by legal sub-division, but shall be a sufficiently definite and accurate description so that the territory affected may be generally understood, and, unless good reason be shown to the contrary, the same shall include all territory within a given watershed or drainage basin or all territory from which the water from natural or artificial channels find their course through one general stream or channel. The territory to be thus included in any district shall be limited to territory within the natural watershed of the particular basin petitioned to be organized.
4. Said petition shall pray for the organization of the district, the appointment of a governing board therefor and that the boundaries thereof may be specifically fixed and defined by order of said court and said district organized.

No petition containing a requisite number of signatures or petitioners shall be void or dismissed on account of any defects therein but the court shall at any time permit the petition to be amended in form and substance to conform to the facts by correcting any errors in the description of the territory or by supplying any of the defects therein. Several similar petitions or duplicate copies of the same petition for the organization of the same district may be filed and all together be regarded as one petition and any withdrawal of any signatures or petitioners from such petition after the same has been filed, shall in no manner affect the jurisdiction of the court, and all petitions filed prior to the hearing hereinafter provided shall be considered by the court as a part of the original petition. Provided; that no district shall be organized under the provisions of this act in any basin consisting of a stream or river wherein waters are flowing from any lake or body of water constituting the boundary waters where the territory of said district shall extend farther than forty miles in a direct line along said valley from said boundary waters, but may include all tributaries that enter said basin or connect said stream within the limits of said district. ('17 c. 442 § 2)

[5671—]3. Bond—At the time of filing the petition provided for in section 2, of this act [5671—2], or before the notice of hearing thereon is given, a bond shall be filed by said petitioners with the clerk, to be approved by said court and in such sum as he shall designate, sufficient to pay all expenses connected with said proceeding, in case the court refuses to organize said district, and, if at any time during the proceeding the court shall be satisfied that an additional bond is needed, he may so order, provided that if the petition is signed by the proper officials of two or more counties, accompanied by a copy of a resolution passed by the board of county commissioners of said counties, that said counties will be responsible for such costs, then, and in that event, no bond shall be necessary. ('17 c. 442 § 3)

[5671—]5. Hearing—Findings and order—District to be body corporate, etc.—At the time and place set for hearing on said petition, all parties interested may appear and be heard for and against the granting of said petition, but no delay shall be granted at said hearing except when necessary and as the court may order, and if upon said hearing it shall appear that the purpose of this act would be subserved by the creation of a drainage and flood control district, comprising the whole or certain portions of the territory outlined in the petition, and the court shall so determine, then said court shall immediately make and file its findings of all matters involved in said petition, and shall by order, direct and declare said district organized, designating in said order the name by which it shall thereafter be known, and upon the filing of said order with the clerk of the court, where said petition was filed, and a certified copy thereof in the office of secretary of state, said district shall be and become for all purposes of this act, a body corporate endowed with all the rights, privileges and authorities herein designated, with power to sue and be sued, to incur debts and obligations and to do and perform and exercise all the rights and privileges in this act enumerated.

If upon said hearing the court finds that any portion of the territory named in said petition should not be included in said district the same may be excluded, but any territory not included in said petition within the forty mile limit hereinbefore defined may at said hearing or any subsequent hearing ordered by the court upon petition of twenty-five freeholders of said territory to be included be added to said district, and the boundaries thereof fixed accordingly, and if upon full hearing the court determine that the territory described in said petition or some part thereof should not be organized in said district, then said petition may be dismissed and the cost incurred be taxed against the petitioners. After an order is entered, establishing the district, the same shall be deemed final and binding upon all persons and property within said district, and the organization of said district shall not be collaterally questioned in any suit or action in any court in this state. In all cases where a reservoir is created, either in a natural basin or otherwise, and said board shall conclude that the creation of said reservoir will create a waterpower or establish conditions whereby waterpower can profitably be constructed in connection with said reservoir, said board either in the original petition provided for the creation of said reservoir, or at any subsequent time may petition the court, presenting maps and details therewith and ask that such additional land and other rights or privileges as may be deemed necessary be condemned and title acquired in connection with said reservoir property, to enable said board to improve the same and use the waters of said reservoir and other waters in any manner connected therewith for waterpower purposes, to the end that the waters of said reservoir or holding basins together with all streams connected therewith may be utilized and produce income for the benefit of said district and to aid in the general expense thereof, and in the upkeep of all drainage and flood control improvements within said district.

Said board may also include in said petition a statement giving the reasonable value of said property owned by the district in connection with said reservoir and proposed water power and a detailed estimate of the amount of water power likely to be produced by the proposed improvement and the probable income to be derived therefrom annually; and may in said petition ask the court to fix and determine the amount of bonds that the board may issue against the property of the district in connection with said reservoir together with the income therefrom and the court shall have authority to authorize said board to issue the bonds of said district in such sum as such improvement may require not to exceed 60% of the reasonable value of the proposed water power, and not to exceed such sum as the income from said water power may reasonably be expected to pay the interest on; and upon the making of said order, the board of directors are hereby authorized to issue the bonds of said district not to exceed such sum as specified in the order of the court in such denomination and in such form as the board may determine, payable in not less than 10 or not more than 20 years from date with interest not to exceed 6% per annum payable annually, which bond shall be signed by the clerk and president of said board and registered in the same manner as county bonds under the laws of this state and upon the issuance of said bonds it shall be the duty of said board to create an interest fund and provide for the accumulation of the necessary sum to pay the interest on said bonds promptly when due.

If, at the time of the filing of the petition for the establishment of any reservoir or holding basin or at any time thereafter it shall appear that the waters of such reservoir or holding basin can be utilized for the purpose of irrigation or for any other purpose and the board of such district shall, after examination, so determine, it may cause to be made all necessary plats, plans and specifications and upon filing the same, together with a petition with the clerk of the district court of any county affected and by such proposed improvements or use, a hearing shall be had thereon upon like notice, as provided in section 11 of this act [5671—11], at which hearing the court, after due consideration of the showing made, shall have authority to make such order as may be necessary to authorize said board to acquire title to all necessary rights of way, ditches or property to enable it to utilize waters of any such reservoir for irrigation purposes and to hold, keep and control the same and all property so acquired in any such proceeding shall be and become the property of said district. ('17 c. 442 § 17)

[5671—]18. Contracts with United States government, state governments, etc.—The board of directors shall also have the right and authority to enter into contracts or other arrangements with the United States Government or any department thereof, with persons, railroads or other corporations, with public corporations, and state government of this or other states, with drainage, flood control, conservation, conservancy, or other improvement districts, in this or other states, for co-operation or assistance in constructing, maintaining, using and operating the works of the district or the waters thereof, or for making surveys and investigations or reports thereon; and may purchase, lease or acquire land in other property in adjoining states in order to secure outlets to construct and maintain dykes or dams, or for other purposes of this act, and may let contracts or spend money for securing such outlets or other works in adjoining states. Provided, that no board of directors of any drainage district organized under the provisions of this act shall have the right, power, or authority to connect by artificial means boundary waters having different natural outlets so that the waters of one may be discharged into the other. herein contained shall interfere with any action by the Congress of the United States. ('17 c. 442 § 18)

[5671—]19. Rights of various parties to waters—Lease or permission to use—Applications—Preferences—Regulations—Rates—Right of state, etc.—The rights of land owners, municipalities, corporations, and other users of water to the waters of the district for domestic use, water supply, industrial purposes, for water power, or for any other purposes shall extend only to such rights as were owned by them prior to the organization of the district. Wherever the organization of, or the improvements made by the district make possible a greater, better or more convenient use of, or benefit from, the waters of the district for any purpose, the right of such greater, better, or more convenient use of, or benefit from, such waters shall be the property of the district; and such rights may be leased, or assigned by the district in return for reasonable compensation; but the appraisal of benefits made by the board or any appraisers in any proceeding for the establishment of any improvement under the provisions of this act shall not be construed to in any manner include benefits for such greater, better or more convenient use of or benefit from the waters of the district, unless so specified in the petition or report of the board, but the compensation for such benefits shall be made in accordance with the provisions of this section except as hereinafter provided.

Persons, corporations, municipalities, or other parties desiring to secure such use of the waters or water courses of the district or of the district rights therein, may make application to the board of directors for lease or permission for such use. Such application shall state the purpose and character of such use, the period and degree of continuity and of the amount of water desired. In case any party makes greater, better or more convenient use of the waters of the district without formal application the fact of such use shall serve all purposes of an application, and the board may proceed to determine a reasonable rate of compensation the same as though formal application had been made. Where it is not possible nor reasonable to grant all applications, preference shall be given to the greatest need and to the most reasonable use, as may be determined by the board of directors, subject to the approval of the court. Preference shall be given, first to domestic and municipal water supply, and no charge shall be made for the use of water taken by private persons for home and farm yard use, or for watering stock.

The board of directors shall not permanently sell, lease, assign or grant any permit or otherwise part with permanent control by the district of the use of the waters thereof and the rates for light, power or other services charged by vendees, assignees, lessees or licensees of such district, but such leases, assignments or permits of any kind or other contracts for the use of water shall be entered into only after a report has been made by the board of such district to the court setting forth the terms and conditions of said lease, permit or other contract relative to the use of any property of the district, whereupon, the clerk of said court shall give due notice to all parties interested by mail, and shall cause to be published notice of said application stating therein the purpose of said application and the time and place of hearing thereof, at which time the court may hear all showing made for and against such proposed contract and make its order accordingly; but subject to revision and control by the state law and such conditions and restrictions as may be necessary at all times to protect the interests of said district and of the public; said leases or permits may be made for periods not to exceed ten (10) years but subject to said conditions and subject to the right of renewal for further reasonable period not to exceed ten (10) years on condition that a new determination may be made as to the reasonable charge therefor.

The board of directors may make regulations for the determination and measurement of the increased, or better, or more convenient use of, or benefit from the water supply of the district, for the purpose of determining rates of compensation, and for the purpose of securing to all parties interested the greatest and best use of the water thereof. The board shall have power to determine the rates of compensation for such greater, better, or more convenient use of, or benefit from the water supply of the district, which rates of compensation shall be reasonable, and may require bond to be given to secure the payment for such use. Upon the determination of any rate, or rates, the board shall make a report of its determination to the court. The court shall thereupon cause personal notice by summons to be given to the parties interested, stating that such determination of rate, has been made, that a hearing before the court will be had thereon on a certain day, and that objection may be made at such time to such determination of rates. A hearing may be made before the court, objections may be made and appeals taken in the same manner as in case of the appraisal of benefits, but the rate as fixed by the court shall control until modified on appeal. In case no appeal is made within the time provided, or upon the final determination of the matter by the court, the determination of such rates of compensation shall be conclusive and binding for the term and under the conditions specified in the lease or other agreement. The right of the district, its successors, assigns and lessees, and of land owners, municipalities, corporations and all other users of the waters of the district to use such water for water power purposes, shall ever be subordinate to the right of the state, to acquire such water powers; and the state may at any time acquire such water power rights by paying to the governing boards of such drainage and flood control district for the use of such district and of persons, firms and corporations claiming under such district, the excess of the cost of improvements made pursuant to this act and damages therefrom, over the benefits to lands affected. ('17 c. 442 § 19)

CURATIVE AND MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

5672. Extension of ditches in certain cases—Second assessment—Proceedings—Certain payments confirmed—Whenever there has heretofore been filed with the county auditor or clerk of court, as the case may be, a petition and bond for the establishment of a public drainage ditch and where the requirements of the drainage laws of this state with reference to the establishment and construction of drainage ditches have been complied with and a ditch has been established by the court or county board in accordance with said petition and the assessments for damages and benefits to the land affected have been made and confirmed or where in addition to the foregoing said ditch has actually been constructed, on the assumption that such ditch should end at the terminus or outlet named in the petition, or in the order establishing the same, and where it is found that in order to make such ditch effectual to drain the land sought to be drained thereby or where it is found that such ditch, as constructed, was not constructed to a proper and adequate outlet, or that such ditch carries and deposits water upon lands lying at, near or below the terminus thereof, without providing adequate facilities for its escape therefrom and where no damage or adequate damages have been awarded on account thereof and it will be necessary to extend such ditch beyond the outlet named in the petition and the order establishing the same to a point beyond such designated outlet which may be within or outside the boundary of such county and state, then the court or county board, as the case may be, may employ an engineer and appoint viewers and proceed to ascertain the cost of the extension of such ditch to the point, of outlet necessary to make said ditch effectual to drain the lands sought to be drained, and to extend such ditch so as to provide a proper and adequate outlet thereto and prevent the water carried therein from being deposited on lands lying at, near or below the terminus of said ditch, as fixed in the petition or order establishing the same without having adequate facilities for the escape therefrom, and when such cost is so ascertained said court or board may make a second assessment to cover such cost on the same lands and in the same proportion as the first assessment for such ditch or such equitable assessment upon lands affected thereby as may under all of the circumstances be just and proper and the moneys arising from said second assessment shall be used exclusively to defray the expenses of such extension to such new outlet. The proceedings herein provided for may be initiated by petition signed by one or more land owners whose lands were affected by said original ditch or whose lands are liable to be affected by or assessed for the extension. In the doing of such work by said court or board it shall be governed by all the provisions, so far as applicable, of section 5552 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913, as amended by section 300 of the General Laws of Minnesota for 1915 and other provisions of law applicable thereto.

Any employment of an assistant or consulting engineer to assist the drainage engineer in any ditch proceeding and any payment heretofore made to such assistant or consulting engineer by the county board or on the order of any district judge are hereby legalized and confirmed. final order vacated as to all assessments of benefits and allowances of damages and a new final order as to such benefits and damages made and entered, such board or court shall make an order directing that such petition be heard at a time and place therein specified. The same notice shall be given as was required to be given upon the final hearing in the proceeding in which said final order was made, excepting that the notice shall also specify that the former final order as to all assessments and damages may be vacated upon such hearing. Upon such hearing the board or court shall hear and consider the matter as to assessments of benefits and damages de novo and may make reference to the same or other viewers and may make such new order as to benefits and damages as shall be proper, with the right of appeal and demand of jury trial as in other cases of final order in such proceedings determining assessments of benefits or damages. Such new order shall have the effect to vacate any appeals or demands for jury trials, taken from such former final order. The board or court may in its discretion allow appellant in any appeal or demandant for a jury trial under the former final order, such sum if any as may be just to compensate for expenses incurred subsequent to the taking of such appeal or making of such demand, and such allowance shall be made in the new final order, but the allowances made to appellants or demandants from the former final order who shall appeal or demand jury trial under the new final order shall become void upon the making of a new appeal or new demand. Provided that in the event more than nine months have elapsed since the order establishing any ditch was made and the contract for the construction thereof has not been let, then upon the written application of not less than seventy-five per cent of the then owners of lands assessed for benefits for the construction of such ditch under this law, such ditch may be vacated by the county board or court on payment by such applicants of all costs and expenses, and thereupon any such ditch proceeding shall be dismissed. ('15 c. 274 § 1)

[5703—]15. Payment of drainage contracts in certain cases authorized—In any case in which a contract has heretofore been let for the construction of a drainage ditch in a judicial ditch proceeding in which the entire ditch to any of them were not constructed pursuant to the general construction contract or by the general construction contractor, and sixth; where the said engineer has made and filed or shall hereafter make and file in the office where such original preliminary estimate was filed a supplemental estimate certified by him setting forth the total cost of all bridges and culverts and roads or road improvements already constructed or installed in the said ditch matter, an estimate by said engineer of the proposed cost of construction and installation of all bridges, culverts, roads or road improvements and the location of each thereof, not yet constructed but considered necessary by the said engineer, and an estimate by said engineer of the reasonable or proposed cost per cubic yard of excavation of all such additional branch or lateral ditches already constructed or hereafter to be constructed and certified as necessary by said engineer as hereinbefore provided, the location thereof, the size and dimensions thereof, the amount of yardage of excavation in each one hundred foot station thereof, and the proposed cost of levelling the waste bank thereof, and seventh; where the total cost of construction of such public drainage ditch, including such additional cost of bridges, culverts and roads already built, installed or constructed, and including the additional cost of such bridges, culverts and roads deemed by the said engineer necessary to be hereafter built, installed and constructed, and the additional cost of such additional branch or lateral ditches does not exceed the total amount of assessment of benefits as returned by the viewers in said ditch matter and as fixed or approved by the judge of the District Court, and eighth; where the said engineer in charge of said public drainage ditch has made or shall hereafter make his certificate certifying that the foregoing facts exist and that the foregoing requirements have been complied with, and files such certificate in the office where such original preliminary estimate was filed. ('15 c. 42 § 1)

Said list and statement shall then be filed in the office of the register of deeds, in accordance with the provisions of said chapter 230 of the Laws of 1905, and the respective amounts chargeable to each piece or parcel of land shall be a lien upon said land, in accordance with said chapter 230 of the Laws of 1905 and the same shall be collected as therein provided. ('17 c. 269 § 2)

[5703—]22. Same—Proceedings legalized—Payments to be made—Order of district court for hearing—Then and in the foregoing cases, first; all work of construction of bridges and culverts and all road improvement and road construction heretofore made, the cost whereof is in excess of the respective amount of the estimated cost thereof as shown in such original engineer's estimate of cost duly filed, and all contracts or agreements, however made, of construction or installation of the said roads, bridges or culverts are hereby legalized and validated to the same extent as if such excess of expenditures had been within the amount of such respective items of cost shown as such in said original preliminary estimate, and to the same extent as if all said contracts or agreements of construction or installation had been for amounts within such original preliminary estimate, and second; all items of such cost of construction or installation and all cost of construction of such additional branch or lateral ditches, already incurred, but not yet paid, shall be paid by the respective counties in a like manner and with like effect as if such contract or contracts were for bridges, culverts, roads or ditches authorized to be constructed or installed pursuant to the said original engineer's estimate, and third; the clerk of the district court where such supplemental estimate and such engineer's certificate have been filed as aforesaid shall forthwith notify the judge of the District Court of the said county of the fact of such filing, and such judge shall thereupon by order fix a time and place for a hearing thereon before the said court to determine the necessity of such additional branch or lateral ditches and such additional bridges, culverts and roads, already constructed or yet to be constructed, and to determine the reasonable cost thereof and of each of the same, and to determine and decide all other necessary matters in relation thereto within the purview of this act and to change, alter, modify or enlarge the work proposed to be done as said court may deem advisable. ('15 c. 42 § 2)

the date of said hearing. At the time and place fixed for such hearing, the said judge of the district court shall receive evidence of all parties interested in said drainage matter, and from the said engineer, and shall proceed to determine the necessity of such additional branch or lateral ditches, bridges, culverts and road or highway improvements, whether heretofore constructed or hereafter to be constructed, and to determine the reasonable cost thereof and of each of the same, whether done or performed pursuant to contract of construction, or otherwise, and to determine all other necessary matters in relation thereto within the purview of this act, and if the said judge from the evidence shall determine that such additional branch or lateral ditches, bridges, culverts and road improvements or any or either of the same are or will be of public utility, and that the proposed respective cost thereof is reasonable and that the requirements of this act have been complied with, and that the facts required by this act exist said judge shall thereupon decree the necessity of said respective additional branch or lateral ditches, bridges, culverts and road improvements, and shall approve such supplementary estimate of said engineer, as filed or as modified by said judge at said hearing. The reasonable cost of all such additional branch or lateral ditches, bridges, culverts, and road improvements already constructed or installed, and decreed as necessary by said judge, shall be found and determined and fixed as a lawful charge or expense in said drainage proceeding. Such additional branch or lateral ditches, bridges, culverts and roads not yet constructed or installed and so decreed necessary shall be established, constructed and installed. Contract or contracts therefor or for any of said additional work or material of installation, construction or excavation shall be let and entered into in like manner and upon like notice as is provided by law in case of an original contract of construction in such drainage matter, provided no contract shall be entered into involving a price for such additional work or material which exceeds by thirty per cent such respective proposed estimate of cost thereof as set forth and approved in such supplemental estimate, and all the laws of this state relating to the letting of contracts in case of judicial ditch matters and to contractors' bonds and to completing said contracts and making payment thereof and accepting same and the work or material thereunder shall apply to such contracts for such additional work or material the same as if said last mentioned contract or contracts were the original contract of construction. Such additional cost shall become a part of the expense of construction of said ditch, and such additional cost to be so incurred, together with the cost of the said bridges, roads and culverts already constructed in excess of such original estimate, together with all other items of cost or expense of said ditch, however incurred, when approved by said judge, and found or determined by said decree to be necessary and reasonable in cost, shall be included in a supplementary lien statement to be made and filed by the county auditor and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in like manner as in case of the original lien of benefits, and said supplementary lien, when so filed and recorded, shall constitute a valid lien against all lands described therein with like effect as in case of the original lien statement in such drainage proceedings, and the assessment of benefits against the lands described therein shall be collected by the respective county officers as in case of other supplementary liens under the drainage laws of this state. ('15 c. 42 § 3)

[5703—]24. Same—Appeal—Any party interested in said drainage matter may appeal from said order and decree herein provided for in like manner as in case of appeals from or review of the final order establishing a judicial ditch, and all the laws of this state appertaining to an appeal from or review of a final order establishing a judicial ditch shall apply to an appeal from the order herein provided for. ('15 c. 42 § 4)

[5703—]26. Notice of the time and place of such hearing shall be given in the manner designated in said order, and at such hearing evidence as to such change of assessment of benefits or damages shall be heard and considered and said judge of the district court or county board, as the case may be, shall make such decree or order in reference thereto as is required by said evidence and as may be just and equitable. Appeal or review of such order shall be had in the manner provided by law for appeals from final order establishing a judicial ditch. and that the estimated benefits exceed the estimated cost of construction and damages and said estimated benefits shall exceed the cost of the construction and the damages awarded said ditch shall be ordered and said drainage system shall be established by order of court, and said order shall relate back and take effect as of the date of the entry of the aforesaid order attempting to establish such ditch. Thereafter, upon the making of the order establishing such ditch and drainage system and confirming the assessment of benefits and damages, the county auditor, whose duty it is under said drainage law to make and file the lien statement in the case of the construction of public ditches shall prepare and file the lien statement for said improvement and said ditch comprising the cost of the construction of said ditch and the damages awarded, if any, not, however, exceeding the estimated benefits as the same may be confirmed. RESIGNATIONS—VACANCIES—REMOVALS

Laws 1915 c. 168, amending §§ 809, 810, post, by providing that clerks of district court elected in 1912 should hold over until January, 1919, and that their successors should be elected in November, 1918, held to create a vacancy commencing in January, 1917 (132-426, 157+652). Clerks of Courts, ¶7.

Where a successful candidate for the office of county superintendent of schools prevailed on a contest entered by the predecessor in the office, who was a candidate for re-election, on the ground of violation of the corrupt practices act, and the office was surrendered to the contestee, who qualified, but thereafter, on appeal by contestant, the contestee was ousted, and resigned, and the county board appointed respondent to fill the vacancy, such appointment was valid, as there was a vacancy; contestee not holding over under § 810 (131-1, 154+442). Schools and School Districts, ¶48(3).

This provision does not prevent a prior incumbent from holding over, he not having waived or surrendered or abandoned his right; nor does it create a vacancy to be filled by appointment, though the former incumbent has given actual possession to one holding a certificate of election (131-401, 155+629). Judges, ¶9.

5727. Appointment—How long to continue—Impeachment—

Cited (131-401, 155+629).

An appointee to fill a vacancy in the county board, in a county not newly organized, or in which the number of commissioners is not increased, holds only until the next election occurring after there is sufficient time to give the notice prescribed by law, and until a successor is elected and qualified; this section governing, and not § 680 (129-359, 152+758). Counties, ¶43.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

5799. Penalty for violation—

Failure to comply with statute does not prevent introduction of recorded weights in evidence (121-321, 141+298). Weights and Measures, §7.

INTEREST AND NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

INTEREST

5805. Rate—

Notes given for the price of land located in another state, though executed and delivered in this state, will be presumed to be governed by the law of the state which renders the notes valid as against a claim of usury (128-30, 150+229, L. R. A. 1916D, 739). Usury, §2(1).

Where one makes a loan to another from his own funds, but with a view to sell one of the notes to a third person, and the borrower actually receives less, after computing interest at the highest legal rate, than he agrees to repay, the transaction is usurious (132-323, 156+666). Usury, §55.

Whether a transaction is usurious is usually a question of fact; but where the facts are undisputed, and only one inference can be drawn therefrom, usury becomes a question of law (132-323, 156+666). Usury, §119.

In action for damages for false representations in the sale of a stallion, plaintiff was entitled to interest on the amount paid for the animal as an element of damages (124-265, 144+954). Damages, §157(4).

A building loan is not usurious, though the addition of specified monthly dues to the stipulated rate of interest would call for a total rate of 12 per cent. per annum, where there is a further provision in the loan agreement that the borrower shall participate in the profits of the building association, the amount of which is not shown, and which may be sufficient to reduce the rate actually paid to less than 10 per cent. (132-19, 155+765). Building and Loan Associations, §33(6).

5807. Usurious contracts invalid—Exceptions—

Where a loan is made under an agreement that it shall be governed by the laws of another state, in which state the money is made payable, and under the laws of that state the loan is not usurious, though it would be usurious under the laws of this state, a mortgage given to secure the loan on lands in this state is valid (132-19, 155+765). Usury, §2(4).

Though a note secured by mortgage has passed to a bona fide purchaser of the note free from the defense of usury, the mortgage cannot be enforced (132-323, 156+666). Usury, §128.

Expenses incident to making a loan which do not give the lender a greater return than the maximum rate on interest do not render the loan usurious. A loan for which the borrower paid the maximum rate of interest, and in addition paid the mortgage registry tax, held not usurious (125-218, 146+350, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 465, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 774). Usury, §53.

5812. Salary loans and chattel mortgage loans—License—Before any such corporation shall engage in the business of making such loans, and charge the rates and fees permitted by this act, it shall first obtain and have in force and effect a license for carrying on such business in the city in which such business shall be transacted. Such license shall be issued by the city clerk or corresponding officer of such city, and it shall be renewed annually, and shall not be transferable. Such license shall be granted on application to such city clerk or corresponding officer in writing pursuant to such form as such clerk or corresponding officer, or city council, or corresponding body may prescribe, for which license the licensee shall pay annually to the treasurer of said city at the time of taking out said license or renewal a uniform fee of $25.00 per year. Such licenses shall not be granted until the applicant therefor shall file a statement under oath by its treasurer or some other officer, stating the place in the city where the business is to be carried on, the names of the corporation's officers and manager, and also an affidavit by its treasurer that in the fiscal year of said corporation next preceding the date of said application, the corporation did not pay its stockholders upon their shares in money or money's worth dividends in excess of eight per cent (8). (Amended '15 c. 117 § 1)

TITLE I—NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS IN GENERAL

ARTICLE I. FORM AND INTERPRETATION

5814. Certainty as to sum—What constitutes—

Cited (133-230, 158+253).

5835. Forged signature—Effect of—

This section protects the party whose signature has been forged or affixed without his authority, but does not release other parties from liability actually assumed by them in signing the note (135-171, 160+667). Bills and Notes, § 378. See, also, note under § 5936.

ARTICLE II. CONSIDERATION

5836. Presumption of consideration—

124-532, 144+1135.

5837. Consideration, what constitutes—

The issuance and delivery of a life policy is a sufficient consideration for a note previously given for the first premium (128-241, 150+870). Insurance, § 187(3).

An indorsee of negotiable paper, taken before maturity as collateral security for an antecedent debt, in good faith and without notice of defenses, holds the same free from such defenses (127-390, 149+658). Bills and Notes, § 358.

Subsequent bankruptcy of a corporation does not establish failure of consideration for a note given for the purchase price of a share of stock (123-208, 143+353, L. R. A. 1915A, 464, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 420). Corporations, § 90(1).

5838. What constitutes holder for value—

Where bank discounts note before maturity, and places proceeds to credit of payee, a depositor, the bank is not a holder for value until the deposit is exhausted by payment of checks, the amount of checks being charged against the oldest item of deposit (122-215, 142+139, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 977). Bills and Notes, § 356, 525, 537.

5840. Effect of want of consideration—

Want of marketable title held a good defense to a note given for the price of land (123-66, 142+1041). Bills and Notes, § 335; Vendor and Purchaser, § 308(1).

Parol evidence held admissible to show that a note was without consideration, and that the proceeds thereof were given to the maker as a gift from his father, the payee (125-115, 145+785). Evidence, § 482.

ARTICLE III. NEGOTIATION

5855. Indorsement where name is misspelled et cetera—

That word of name of corporate payee was omitted from body of note, while indorsement was in correct name, did not affect validity of indorsement (122-215, 142+139, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 977). Bills and Notes, § 271½.

5861. Transfer without indorsement—Effect of—

Delivery of notes to surety on his payment of same (128-519, 151+529). Bills and Notes, § 209, 315.

ARTICLE IV. RIGHTS OF THE HOLDER

5864. What constitutes a holder in due course—

Evidence held to show that plaintiff was not an innocent purchaser of the note sued on (123-374, 143+980). Bills and Notes, § 516.

Whether plaintiff purchased the note sued on before maturity, and paid a specified sum therefor, held, under the evidence, a question for the jury (127-291, 149+467). Bills and Notes, § 537(6).

The transfer of negotiable paper for value and in the usual course of business, as collateral security, vests in the holder a valid title, similar in all respects to that held by an unconditional indorsee (127-113, 143+1080). Pledges, § 21.

Where maker of note did not schedule it in bankruptcy proceeding, and an accommodation indorser was compelled to pay it, the maker, sued by such indorser, was required to show that holder had actual notice of bankruptcy proceeding (162+1076). Bankruptcy, § 425.

In action by receiver of state bank to recover money received by defendant bank on checks of state bank's officer and paid out of state bank's funds when officer's deposit was insufficient, evidence held to show the good faith of defendant in receiving checks and of those participating in their collection (162+1051). Bills and Notes, ¶525.

5868. What constitutes notice of defect—

One claiming to be a holder in due course of corporation notes signed by its president alone is charged with notice of a by-law of the corporation requiring that notes shall be signed by the president and secretary, where such by-law was enacted in accordance with the requirement of § 6172, post (134-445, 153+1078). Corporations, ¶429.

Payment by bank of draft payable to bank, and in hands of stranger thereto (127-105, 149+8, L. R. A. 1915B, 287). Banks and Banking, ¶138.

Personal check of a bank officer drawn upon the bank and accepted in payment of his note does not charge holder with notice that there is an attempt to misappropriate bank's funds (162+1051). Banks and Banking, ¶112.

5871. Who deemed holder in due course—

Where bank discounted note before maturity, and placed proceeds to credit of payee, a depositor, and defendant pleaded breach of warranty of automobile, for the price of which note was given, the burden of proving that plaintiff bank was not a holder in due course was on defendant (122-215, 142+139, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 977). Bills and Notes, ¶497(2).

If a defense of fraud in procuring a note is established by the evidence, it is the duty of the court to instruct that plaintiff, a transferee of the note, has the burden of proving that he was a bona fide purchaser (127-291, 149+467). Bills and Notes, ¶491.

ARTICLE VI. PRESENTMENT FOR PAYMENT

5882. Effect of want of demand on principal debtor—

When a note is payable on demand after date, suit may be maintained, though a demand has not been made (161+398). Bills and Notes, ¶395.

5894. When presentment may be dispensed with—

Cited (161+398).

5897. Time of maturity—Every negotiable instrument is payable at the time fixed therein without grace. When the day of maturity falls upon Sunday, or a holiday, the instrument is payable on the next succeeding business day. Instruments falling due or becoming payable on Saturday are to be presented for payment on the next succeeding business day, except that instruments payable on demand may, at the option of the holder, be presented for payment before twelve o'clock noon on Saturday when that entire day is not a holiday; and if presented after 12 o'clock noon on Saturday when that entire day is not a holiday may at the option of the payor be then paid. (Amended '17 c. 204 § 1)

ARTICLE VIII. DISCHARGE OF NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS

5932. When persons secondarily liable on, discharged—

A promise to pay a past-due debt is not such a consideration for an extension of time of payment, as will release a surety (124-541, 145+164). Principal and Surety, ¶108(2).

5936. Alteration of instrument—Effect of—

Where Knox and Burchard executed a note payable to the order of "ourselves," by signing their individual names upon the face of the note and indorsing their individual names on the back thereof, and the note was subsequently altered so that it purported to be executed by the Knox-Burchard Mercantile Company, and to be indorsed by that company and by Knox, Burchard, and others individually, and thereafter the note was negotiated to plaintiff, a holder in due course, Burchard is liable on the note according to its original tenor, in view of this section, which applies to the situation, and not § 5835 (135-171, 160+667). Bills and Notes, ¶378.

5937. What constitutes a material alteration—

The act of a third person in signing a note as surety before delivery to the payee, without the knowledge of the maker, does not discharge the maker; the alteration not being a material one (128-519, 151+529). Alteration of Instruments, ¶8.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

6015. Instrument obtained by fraud—

Evidence held to show that a note was procured by fraud (123-374, 143+980). Bills and Notes, ¶520.

Evidence held to justify a finding of the jury that defendant was induced to sign a note by fraud in the belief that it was not a note (126-42, 147+823). Bills and Notes, ¶520.

[SALE OF GOODS]

PART I—FORMATION OF THE CONTRACT

[6015—]1. Contracts to sell and sales—(1) A contract to sell goods is a contract whereby the seller agrees to transfer the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price.

(2) A sale of goods is an agreement whereby the seller transfers the property in goods to the buyer for a consideration called the price.

(3) A contract to sell or a sale may be absolute or conditional.

(4) There may be a contract to sell or a sale between one part owner and another. ('17 c. 465 § 1)

"An act to make uniform the law of sales of goods." The act enacts the so-called "Uniform Sales Act" recommended to the legislatures by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws and now in force in many states. Section 4 [6015—4] departs from the Uniform Act in one particular.

[6015—]2. Capacity—Liabilities for necessities—Capacity to buy and sell is regulated by the general law concerning capacity to contract, and to transfer and acquire property.

Where necessities are sold and delivered to an infant, or to a person who by reason of mental incapacity or drunkenness is incompetent to contract, he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

Necessaries in this section mean goods suitable to the condition in life of such infant or other person, and to his actual requirements at the time of delivery. ('17 c. 465 § 2)

FORMALITIES OF THE CONTRACT

[6015—]3. Form of contract or sale—Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf, a contract to sell or a sale may be made in writing (either with or without seal), or by word of mouth, or partly in writing and partly by word of mouth, or may be inferred from the conduct of the parties. ('17 c. 465 § 3)

[6015—]4. Statute of frauds—(1) A contract to sell or a sale of any goods or choses in action of the value of fifty dollars or upwards shall not be enforceable by action unless the buyer shall accept part of the goods or choses in action so contracted to be sold or sold, and actually receive the same, or give something in earnest to bind the contract, or in part payment, or unless some note or memorandum in writing of the contract or sale be signed by the party to be charged or his agent in that behalf.

(2) The provisions of this section apply to every such contract or sale, notwithstanding that the goods may be intended to be delivered at some future time or may not at the time of such contract or sale be actually made, procured, or provided, or fit or ready for delivery, or some act may be requisite for the making or completing thereof, or rendering the same fit for delivery; but if the goods are to be manufactured by the seller especially for the buyer and are not suitable for sale to others in the ordinary course of the seller's business, the provisions of this section shall not apply.

(3) There is an acceptance of goods within the meaning of this section when the buyer, either before or after delivery of the goods, expresses by words or conduct his assent to becoming the owner of those specific goods. ('17 c. 465 § 4)

This section departs from the Uniform Act by substituting fifty for five hundred. It takes the place of §§ 6999, 7000.

SUBJECT MATTER OF CONTRACT

[6015—]5. Existing and future goods—(1) The goods which form the subject of a contract to sell may be either existing goods, owned or possessed by the seller, or goods to be manufactured or acquired by the seller after the making of the contract to sell, in this act called "future goods."

(2) There may be a contract to sell goods, the acquisition of which by the seller depends upon a contingency which may or may not happen.

(3) Where the parties purport to effect a present sale of future goods, the agreement operates as a contract to sell the goods. ('17 c. 465 § 5)

[6015—]6. Undivided shares—(1) There may be a contract to sell or a sale of an undivided share of goods. If the parties intend to effect a present sale, the buyer, by force of the agreement, becomes an owner in common with the owner or owners of the remaining shares.

(2) In the case of fungible goods, there may be a sale of an undivided share of a specific mass, though the seller purports to sell and the buyer to buy a definite number, weight or measure of the goods in the mass, and though the number, weight or measure of the goods in the mass is undetermined. By such a sale the buyer becomes owner in common of such a share of the mass as the number, weight or measure bought bears to the number, weight or measure of the mass. If the mass contains less than the number, weight or measure bought the buyer becomes the owner of the whole mass and the seller is bound to make good the deficiency from similar goods unless a contrary intent appears. ('17 c. 465 § 6)

[6015—]7. Destruction of goods sold—(1) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have wholly perished at the time when the agreement is made, the agreement is void.

(2) Where the parties purport to sell specific goods, and the goods without the knowledge of the seller have perished in part or have wholly or in a material part so deteriorated in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the sale:

(a) As avoided, or

(b) As transferring the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the sale was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for the goods in which the property passes if the sale was divisible. ('17 c. 465 § 7)

[6015—]8. Destruction of goods contracted to be sold—(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault on the part of the seller or the buyer, the goods wholly perish, the contract is thereby avoided.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, and subsequently, but before the risk passes to the buyer, without any fault of the seller or the buyer, part of the goods perish or the whole or a material part of the goods so deteriorate in quality as to be substantially changed in character, the buyer may at his option treat the contract:

(a) As avoided, or

(b) As binding the seller to transfer the property in all of the existing goods or in so much thereof as have not deteriorated, and as binding the buyer to pay the full agreed price if the contract was indivisible, or to pay the agreed price for so much of the goods as the seller, by the buyer's option, is bound to transfer if the contract was divisible. ('17 c. 465 § 8)

THE PRICE

[6015—]9. Definition and ascertainment of price—(1) The price may be fixed by the contract, or may be left to be fixed in such manner as may be agreed, or it may be determined by the course of dealing between the parties.

(2) The price may be made payable in any personal property.

(3) Where transferring or promising to transfer any interest in real estate constitutes the whole or part of the consideration for transferring or for promising to transfer the property in goods, this act shall not apply.

(4) Where the price is not determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions the buyer must pay a reasonable price. What is a reasonable price is a question of fact dependent on the circumstances of each particular case. ('17 c. 465 § 9)

[6015—]10. Sale at a valuation—(1) Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods at a price or on terms to be fixed by a third person, and such third person without fault of the seller or the buyer, cannot or does not fix the price or terms, the contract or the sale is thereby avoided; but if the goods or any part thereof have been delivered to and appropriated by the buyer he must pay a reasonable price therefor.

(2) Where such third person is prevented from fixing the price or terms by fault of the seller or the buyer, the party not in fault may have such remedies against the party in fault as are allowed by parts IV and V of this act. ('17 c. 465 § 10)

CONDITIONS AND WARRANTIES

[6015—]11. Effect of conditions—(1) Where the obligation of either party to a contract to sell or a sale is subject to any condition which is not performed, such party may refuse to proceed with the contract or sale or he may waive performance of the condition. If the other party has promised that the condition should happen or be performed, such first mentioned party may also treat the non-performance of the condition as a breach of warranty.

(2) Where the property in the goods has not passed, the buyer may treat the fulfillment by the seller of his obligation to furnish goods as described and as warranted expressly or by implication in the contract to sell as a condition of the obligation of the buyer to perform his promise to accept and pay for the goods. ('17 c. 465 § 11)

[6015—]12. Definition of express warranty—Any affirmation of fact or any promise by the seller relating to the goods is an express warranty if the natural tendency of such affirmation or promise is to induce the buyer to purchase the goods and if the buyer purchases the goods relying thereon. No affirmation of the value of the goods, nor any statement purporting to be a statement of the seller's opinion only shall be construed as a warranty. ('17 c. 465 § 12)

[6015—]13. Implied warranties of title—In a contract to sell or a sale, unless a contrary intention appears, there is—

(1) An implied warranty on the part of the seller that in case of a sale he has a right to sell the goods, and that in case of a contract to sell he will have a right to sell the goods at the time when the property is to pass.

(2) An implied warranty that the buyer shall have and enjoy quiet possession of the goods as against any lawful claims existing at the time of the sale;

(3) An implied warranty that the goods shall be free at the time of the sale from any charge or encumbrance in favor of any third person, not declared or known to the buyer before or at the time when the contract or sale is made.

(4) This section shall not, however, be held to render liable a sheriff, auctioneer, mortgagee, or other person professing to sell by virtue of authority in fact or law goods in which a third person has a legal or equitable interest. ('17 c. 465 § 13)

[6015—]14. Implied warranty in sale by description—Where there is a contract to sell or a sale of goods by description, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall correspond with the description and if the contract or sale be by sample, as well as by description, it is not sufficient that the bulk of the goods corresponds with the sample if the goods do not also correspond with the description. ('17 c. 465 § 14)

[6015—]15. Implied warranties of quality—Subject to the provisions of this act and of any statute in that behalf, there is no implied warranty or condition as to the quality or fitness for any particular purpose of goods supplied under a contract to sell or a sale, except as follows:

(1) Where the buyer, expressly or by implication, makes known to the seller the particular purpose for which the goods are required, and it appears that the buyer relies on the seller's skill or judgment (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be reasonably fit for such purpose.

(2) Where the goods are bought by description from a seller who deals in goods of that description (whether he be the grower or manufacturer or not), there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be of merchantable quality.

(3) If the buyer has examined the goods there is no implied warranty as regards defects which such examination ought to have revealed.

(4) In the case of a contract to sell or a sale of a specified article under its patent or other trade name, there is no implied warranty as to its fitness for any particular purpose.

(5) An implied warranty or condition as to quality or fitness for a particular purpose may be annexed by the usage of trade.

(6) An express warranty or condition does not negative a warranty or condition implied under this act unless inconsistent therewith. ('17 c. 465 § 15)

SALE BY SAMPLE

[6015—]16. Implied warranties in sale by sample—In the case of a contract to sell or a sale by sample:

(a) There is an implied warranty that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.

(b) There is an implied warranty that the buyer shall have a reasonable opportunity of comparing the bulk with the sample, except so far as otherwise provided in section 47 (3) [6015—47(3)].

(c) If the seller is a dealer in goods of that kind, there is an implied warranty that the goods shall be free from any defect rendering them unmerchantable which would not be apparent on reasonable examination of the sample. ('17 c. 465 § 16)

PART II—TRANSFER OF PROPERTY AS BETWEEN SELLER AND BUYER

[6015—]17. No property passes until goods are ascertained—Where there is a contract to sell unascertained goods no property in the goods is transferred to the buyer unless and until the goods are ascertained, but property in an undivided share of ascertained goods may be transferred as provided in section 6 [6015—6]. ('17 c. 465 § 17)

[6015—]18. Property in specific goods passes when parties so intend—

(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific or ascertained goods, the property in them is transferred to the buyer at such time as the parties to the contract intend it to be transferred.

(2) For the purpose of ascertaining the intention of the parties, regard shall be had to the terms of the contract, the conduct of the parties, usages of trade and the circumstances of the case. ('17 c. 465 § 18)

[6015—]19. Rules for ascertaining intention—Unless a different intention appears, the following are rules for ascertaining the intention of the parties as to the time at which the property in the goods is to pass to the buyer.

Rule 1. Where there is an unconditional contract to sell specific goods, in a deliverable state, the property in the goods passes to the buyer when the contract is made and it is immaterial whether the time of payment, or the time of delivery, or both, be postponed.

Rule 2. Where there is a contract to sell specific goods and the seller is bound to do something to the goods, for the purpose of putting them into a deliverable state, the property does not pass until such thing be done.

Rule 3. (1) When goods are delivered to the buyer "on sale or return," or on other terms indicating an intention to make a present sale, but to give the buyer an option to return the goods instead of paying the price, the property passes to the buyer on delivery, but he may revest the property in the seller by returning or tendering the goods within the time fixed in the contract, or, if no time has been fixed, within a reasonable time.

(2) When goods are delivered to the buyer on approval or on trial or on satisfaction, or other similar terms, the property therein passes to the buyer.

(a) When he signifies his approval or acceptance to the seller or does any other act adopting the transaction;

(b) If he does not signify his approval or acceptance to the seller, but retains the goods without giving notice of rejection, then if a time has been fixed for the return of the goods, on the expiration of such time, and, if no time has been fixed, on the expiration of a reasonable time. What is a reasonable time is a question of fact.

Rule 4. (1) Where there is a contract to sell unascertained or future goods by description, and goods of that description and in a deliverable state are unconditionally appropriated to the contract, either by the seller with the assent of the buyer, or by the buyer with the assent of the seller, the property in the goods thereupon passes to the buyer. Such assent may be expressed or implied, and may be given either before or after the appropriation is made.

(2) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell, the seller delivers the goods to the buyer, or to a carrier or other bailee (whether named by the buyer or not) for the purpose of transmission to or holding for the buyer, he is presumed to have unconditionally appropriated the goods to the contract, except in the cases provided for in the next rule and in section 20 [6015—20]. This presumption is applicable, although by the terms of the contract, the buyer is to pay the price before receiving delivery of the goods, and the goods are marked with the words "collect on delivery" or their equivalents.

Rule 5. If the contract to sell requires the seller to deliver the goods to the buyer, or at a particular place, or to pay the freight or cost of transportation to the buyer, or to a particular place, the property does not pass until the goods have been delivered to the buyer or reached the place agreed upon. ('17 c. 465 § 19)

[6015—]20. Reservation of right of possession or property when goods are shipped—(1) Where there is a contract to sell specific goods, or where goods are subsequently appropriated to the contract, the seller may, by the terms of the contract or appropriation, reserve the right of possession or property in the goods until certain conditions have been fulfilled. The right of possession or property may be thus reserved notwithstanding the delivery of the goods to the buyer or to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer.

(2) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the seller or his agent, or to the order of the seller or of his agent, the seller thereby reserves the property in the goods. But if, except for the form of the bill of lading, the property would have passed to the buyer on shipment of the goods, the seller's property in the goods shall be deemed to be only for the purpose of securing performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract.

(3) Where goods are shipped, and by the bill of lading the goods are deliverable to the order of the buyer or of his agent, but possession of the bill of lading is retained by the seller or his agent, the seller thereby reserves a right to the possession of the goods as against the buyer.

(4) Where the seller of goods draws on the buyer for the price and transmits the bill of exchange and bill of lading together to the buyer to secure acceptance or payment of the bill of exchange, the buyer is bound to return the bill of lading if he does not honor the bill of exchange, and if he wrongfully retains the bill of lading he acquires no added right thereby. If, however, the bill of lading provides that the goods are deliverable to the buyer or to the order of the buyer, or is endorsed in blank, or to the buyer by the consignee named therein, one who purchases in good faith, for value, the bill of lading, or goods from the buyer will obtain the property in the goods, although the bill of exchange has not been honored, provided that such purchaser has received delivery of the bill of lading indorsed by the consignee named therein, or of the goods, without notice of the facts making the transfer wrongful. ('17 c. 465 § 20)

[6015—]21. Sale by auction—In the case of sale by auction—(1) Where goods are put up for sale by auction in lots, each lot is the subject of a separate contract of sale.

(2) A sale by auction is complete when the auctioneer announces its completion by the fall of the hammer, or in other customary manner. Until such announcement is made, any bidder may retract his bid; and the auctioneer may withdraw the goods from sale unless the auction has been announced to be without reserve.

(3) A right to bid may be reserved expressly by or on behalf of the seller.

(4) Where notice has not been given that a sale by auction is subject to a right to bid on behalf of the seller, it shall not be lawful for the seller to bid himself or to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on his behalf, or for the auctioneer to employ or induce any person to bid at such sale on behalf of the seller or knowingly to take any bid from the seller or any person employed by him. Any sale contravening this rule may be treated as fraudulent by the buyer. ('17 c. 465 § 21)

[6015—]22. Risk of loss—Unless otherwise agreed, the goods remain at the seller's risk until the property therein is transferred to the buyer, but when the property therein is transferred to the buyer the goods are at the buyer's risk whether delivery has been made or not, except that—

(a) Where delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or to a bailee for the buyer, in pursuance of the contract and the property in the goods has been retained by the seller merely to secure performance by the buyer of his obligations under the contract, the goods are at the buyer's risk from time of such delivery.

(b) Where delivery has been delayed through the fault of either buyer or seller the goods are at the risk of the party in fault as regards any loss which might not have occurred but for such fault. ('17 c. 465 § 22)

TRANSFER OF TITLE

[6015—]23. Sale by a person not the owner—(1) Subject to the provisions of this act, where goods are sold by a person who is not the owner thereof, and who does not sell them under the authority or with the consent of the owner, the buyer acquires no better title to the goods than the seller had, unless the owner of the goods is by his conduct precluded from denying the seller's authority to sell.

(2) Nothing in this act, however, shall affect—

(a) The provisions of any factors' acts, recording acts, or any enactment enabling the apparent owner of goods to dispose of them as if he were the true owner thereof.

(b) The validity of any contract to sell or sale under any special common law or statutory power of sale or under the order of a court of competent jurisdiction. ('17 c. 465 § 23)

[6015—]24. Sale by one having a voidable title—Where the seller of goods has a voidable title thereto, but his title has not been avoided at the time of the sale, the buyer acquires a good title to the goods, provided he buys them in good faith, for value, and without notice of the seller's defect of title. ('17 c. 465 § 24)

[6015—]25. Sale by seller in possession of goods already sold—Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods, the delivery or transfer by that person, or by an agent acting for him, of the goods or documents of title under any sale, pledge, or other disposition thereof, to any person receiving and paying value for the same in good faith and without notice of the previous sale, shall have the same effect as if the person making the delivery or transfer were expressly authorized by the owner of the goods to make the same. ('17 c. 465 § 25)

Section 7011 stated the former law as to this section and the following section.

[6015—]26. Creditors' rights against sold goods in seller's possession—Where a person having sold goods continues in possession of the goods, or of negotiable documents of title to the goods and such retention of possession is fraudulent in fact or is deemed fraudulent under any rule of law, a creditor or creditors of the seller may treat the sale as void. ('17 c. 465 § 26)

See note under § [6015—]25.

[6015—]27. Definition of negotiable documents of title—A document of title in which it is stated that the goods referred to therein will be delivered to the bearer, or to the order of any person named in such document is a negotiable document of title. ('17 c. 465 § 27)

[6015—]28. Negotiation of negotiable documents by delivery—A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by delivery—

(a) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the bearer, or

(b) Where by the terms of the document the carrier, warehouseman or other bailee issuing the same undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of a specified person, and such person or a subsequent indorsee of the document has indorsed it in blank or to bearer.

Where by the terms of a negotiable document of title the goods are deliverable to bearer or where a negotiable document of title has been indorsed in blank or to bearer, any holder may indorse the same to himself or to any other specified person, and in such case the document shall thereafter be negotiated only by the indorsement of such indorsee. ('17 c. 465 § 28)

[6015—]29. Negotiation of negotiable documents by indorsement—A negotiable document of title may be negotiated by the indorsement of the person to whose order the goods are by the terms of the document deliverable. Such indorsement may be in blank, to bearer or to a specified person. If indorsed to a specified person, it may be again negotiated by the indorsement of such person in blank, to bearer or to another specified person. Subsequent negotiation may be made in like manner. ('17 c. 465 § 29)

[6015—]30. Negotiable documents of title marked "Not negotiable"—If a document of title which contains an undertaking by a carrier, warehouseman or other bailee to deliver the goods to the bearer, to a specified person or order, or to the order of a specified person, or which contains words of like import, has placed upon it the words "not negotiable," "non-negotiable" or the like, such a document may nevertheless be negotiated by the holder and is a negotiable document of title within the meaning of this act. But nothing in this act contained shall be construed as limiting or defining the effect upon the obligations of the carrier, warehouseman, or other bailee issuing a document of title of placing thereon the words "not negotiable," "non-negotiable," or the like. ('17 c. 465 § 30)

[6015—]32. Who may negotiate a document—A negotiable document of title may be negotiated—

- (a) By the owner thereof, or
- (b) By any person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted by the owner, if, by the terms of the document the bailee issuing the document undertakes to deliver the goods to the order of the person to whom the possession or custody of the document has been entrusted, or if at the time of such entrusting the document is in such form that it may be negotiated by delivery. ('17 c. 465 § 32)

[6015—]33. Rights of person to whom document has been negotiated—A person to whom a negotiable document of title has been duly negotiated acquires thereby;

- (a) Such title to the goods as the person negotiating the document to him had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value and also such title to the goods as the person to whose order the goods were to be delivered by the terms of the document had or had ability to convey to a purchaser in good faith for value, and

- (b) The direct obligation of the bailee issuing the document to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document as fully as if such bailee had contracted directly with him, ('17 c. 465 § 33)

[6015—]34. Rights of person to whom document has been transferred—A person to whom a document of title has been transferred, but not negotiated, acquires thereby, as against the transferor, the title to the goods, subject to the terms of any agreement with the transferor.

If the document is non-negotiable, such person also acquires the right to notify the bailee who issued the document of the transfer thereof, and thereby to acquire the direct obligation of such bailee to hold possession of the goods for him according to the terms of the document.

Prior to the notification of such bailee by the transferor or transferee of a non-negotiable document of title, the title of the transferee to the goods and the right to acquire the obligation of such bailee may be defeated by the levy of an attachment or execution upon the goods by a creditor of the transferor, or by a notification to such bailee by the transferor or a subsequent purchaser from the transferor of a subsequent sale of the goods by the transferor. ('17 c. 465 § 34)

[6015—]35. Transfer of negotiable document without indorsement—Where a negotiable document of title is transferred for value by delivery, and the indorsement of the transferor is essential for negotiation, the transferee acquires a right against the transferor to compel him to indorse the document unless a contrary intention appears. The negotiation shall take effect as of the time when the indorsement is actually made. ('17 c. 465 § 35)

[6015—]36. Warranties on sale of document—A person who for value negotiates or transfers a document of title by indorsement or delivery, including one who assigns for value a claim secured by a document of title unless a contrary intention appears, warrants:

- (a) That the document is genuine;
- (b) That he has a legal right to negotiate or transfer it.
- (c) That he has knowledge of no fact which would impair the validity or worth of the document, and
- (d) That he has a right to transfer the title to the goods and that the goods are merchantable or fit for a particular purpose, whenever such warranties would have been implied if the contract of the parties had been to transfer without a document of title the goods represented thereby. ('17 c. 465 § 36)

[6015—]37. Indorser not a guarantor—The indorsement of a document of title shall not make the indorser liable for any failure on the part of the bailee who issued the document or previous indorsers thereof to fulfill their respective obligations. ('17 c. 465 § 37)

[6015—]38. When negotiation not impaired by fraud, mistake or duress—The validity of the negotiation of a negotiable document of title is not impaired by the fact that the negotiation was a breach of duty on the part of the person making the negotiation, or by the fact that the owner of the document was induced by fraud, mistake or duress to entrust the possession or custody thereof to such person, if the person to whom the document was negotiated or a person to whom the document was subsequently negotiated paid value therefor, without notice of the breach of duty, or fraud, mistake or duress. ('17 c. 465 § 38)

[6015—]39. Attachment or levy upon goods for which a negotiable document has been issued—If goods are delivered to a bailee by the owner or by a person whose act in conveying the title to them to a purchaser in good faith for value would bind the owner and a negotiable document of title is issued for them they cannot thereafter, while in the possession of such bailee, be attached by garnishment or otherwise or be levied upon under an execution unless the document be first surrendered to the bailee or its negotiation enjoined. The bailee shall in no case be compelled to deliver up the actual possession of the goods until the document is surrendered to him or impounded by the court. ('17 c. 465 § 39)

[6015—]40. Creditors' remedies to reach negotiable documents—A creditor whose debtor is the owner of a negotiable document of title shall be entitled to such aid from courts of appropriate jurisdiction by injunction and otherwise in attaching such document or in satisfying the claim by means thereof as is allowed at law or in equity in regard to property which cannot readily be attached or levied upon by ordinary legal process. ('17 c. 465 § 40)

PART III—PERFORMANCE OF THE CONTRACT

[6015—]41. Seller must deliver and buyer accept goods—It is the duty of the seller to deliver the goods, and of the buyer to accept and pay for them, in accordance with the terms of the contract to sell or sale. ('17 c. 465 § 41)

[6015—]42. Delivery and payment are concurrent conditions—Unless otherwise agreed, delivery of the goods and payment of the price are concurrent conditions; that is to say, the seller must be ready and willing to give possession of the goods to the buyer in exchange for the price and the buyer must be ready and willing to pay the price in exchange for possession of the goods. ('17 c. 465 § 42)

[6015—]43. Place, time and manner of delivery—(1) Whether it is for the buyer to take possession of the goods or for the seller to send them to the buyer is a question depending in each case on the contract, express or implied, between the parties. Apart from any such contract, express or implied, or usage of trade to the contrary, the place of delivery is the seller's place of business if he have one, and if not his residence; but in case of a contract to sell or a sale of specific goods, which to the knowledge of the parties when the contract or the sale was made were in some other place, then that place is the place of delivery.

(2) Where by a contract to sell or a sale the seller is bound to send the goods to the buyer, but no time for sending them is fixed, the seller is bound to send them within a reasonable time.

(3) Where the goods at the time of sale are in the possession of a third person, the seller has not fulfilled his obligation to deliver to the buyer unless and until such third person acknowledges to the buyer that he holds the goods on the buyer's behalf; but as against all others than the seller the buyer shall be regarded as having received delivery from the time when such third person first has notice of the sale. Nothing in this section, however, shall affect the operation of the issue or transfer of any document of title to goods.

(4) Demand or tender of delivery may be treated as ineffectual unless made at a reasonable hour. What is a reasonable hour is a question of fact.

(5) Unless otherwise agreed the expenses of and incidental to putting the goods into a deliverable state must be borne by the seller. ('17 c. 465 § 43)

[6015—]44. Delivery of wrong quantity—(1) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods less than he contracted to sell, the buyer may reject them, but if the buyer accepts or retains the goods so delivered, knowing that the seller is not going to perform the contract in full, he must pay for them at the contract rate. If, however, the buyer has used or disposed of the goods delivered before he knows that the seller is not going to perform his contract in full, the buyer shall not be liable for more than the fair value to him of the goods so received.

(2) Where the seller delivers to the buyer a quantity of goods larger than he contracted to sell, the buyer may accept the goods included in the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole. If the buyer accepts the whole of the goods so delivered he must pay for them at the contract rate.

(3) Where the seller delivers to the buyer the goods he contracted to sell mixed with goods of a different description not included in the contract, the buyer may accept the goods which are in accordance with the contract and reject the rest, or he may reject the whole.

(4) The provisions of this section are subject to any usage of trade, special agreement, or course of dealing between the parties. ('17 c. 465 § 44)

[6015—]45. Delivery in instalments—(1) Unless otherwise agreed, the buyer of goods is not bound to accept delivery thereof by instalments.

(2) Where there is a contract to sell goods to be delivered by stated instalments, which are to be separately paid for, and the seller makes defective deliveries in respect of one or more instalments, or the buyer neglects or refuses to take delivery of or pay for one or more instalments, it depends in each case on the terms of the contract and the circumstances of the case, whether the breach of contract is so material as to justify the injured party in refusing to proceed further and suing for damages for breach of the entire contract, or whether the breach is severable, giving rise to a claim for compensation, but not to a right to treat the whole contract as broken. ('17 c. 465 § 45)

[6015—]46. Delivery to a carrier on behalf of the buyer—(1) Where, in pursuance of a contract to sell or a sale, the seller is authorized or required to send the goods to the buyer, delivery of the goods to a carrier, whether named by the buyer or not, for the purpose of transmission to the buyer is deemed to be a delivery of the goods to the buyer, except in the cases provided for in section 19, rule 5, or unless a contrary intent appears.

(2) Unless otherwise authorized by the buyer, the seller must make such contract with the carrier on behalf of the buyer as may be reasonable, having regard to the nature of the goods and the other circumstances of the case. If the seller omits to do so, and the goods are lost or damaged in course of transit, the buyer may decline to treat the delivery to the carrier as a delivery to himself, or may hold the seller responsible in damages.

(3) Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are sent by the seller to the buyer under circumstances in which the seller knows or ought to know that it is usual to insure, the seller must give such notice to the buyer as may enable him to insure them during their transit, and, if the seller fails to do so, the goods shall be deemed to be at his risk during such transit. ('17 c. 465 § 46)

[6015—]47. Right to examine the goods—(1) Where goods are delivered to the buyer, which he has not previously examined, he is not deemed to have accepted them unless and until he has had a reasonable opportunity of examining them for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(2) Unless otherwise agreed, when the seller tenders delivery of goods to the buyer, he is bound, on request, to afford the buyer a reasonable opportunity of examining the goods for the purpose of ascertaining whether they are in conformity with the contract.

(3) Where goods are delivered to a carrier by the seller, in accordance with an order from or agreement with the buyer, upon the terms that the goods shall not be delivered by the carrier to the buyer until he has paid the price, whether such terms are indicated by marking the goods with the words "collect on delivery," or otherwise, the buyer is not entitled to examine the goods before payment of the price in the absence of agreement permitting such examination. ('17 c. 465 § 47)

[6015—]48. What constitutes acceptance—The buyer is deemed to have accepted the goods when he intimates to the seller that he has accepted them, or when the goods have been delivered to him, and he does any act in relation to them which is inconsistent with the ownership of the seller, or when after the lapse of a reasonable time, he retains the goods without intimating to the seller that he has rejected them. ('17 c. 465 § 48)

[6015—]49. Acceptance does not bar action for damages—In the absence of express or implied agreement of the parties, acceptance of the goods by the buyer shall not discharge the seller from liability in damages or other legal remedy for breach of any promise or warranty in the contract to sell or the sale. But, if, after acceptance of the goods, the buyer fail to give notice to the seller of the breach of any promise or warranty within a reasonable time after the buyer knows, or ought to know of such breach, the seller shall not be liable therefor. ('17 c. 465 § 49)

[6015—]50. Buyer is not bound to return goods wrongly delivered—Unless otherwise agreed, where goods are delivered to the buyer, and he refuses to accept them, having the right so to do, he is not bound to return them to the seller, but it is sufficient if he notifies the seller that he refuses to accept them. ('17 c. 465 § 50)

[6015—]51. Buyer's liability for failing to accept delivery—When the seller is ready and willing to deliver the goods, and requests the buyer to take delivery, and the buyer does not within a reasonable time after such request take delivery of the goods, he is liable to the seller for any loss occasioned by his neglect or refusal to take delivery, and also for a reasonable charge for the care and custody of the goods. If the neglect or refusal of the buyer to take delivery amounts to a repudiation or breach of the entire contract, the seller shall have the right against the goods and on the contract hereinafter provided in favor of the seller when the buyer is in default. ('17 c. 465 § 51)

PART IV—RIGHTS OF UNPAID SELLER AGAINST THE GOODS

[6015—]52. Definition of unpaid seller—(1) The seller of goods is deemed to be an unpaid seller within the meaning of this act.

(a) When the whole of the price has not been paid or tendered.

(b) When a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument has been received as conditional payment, and the condition on which it was received has been broken by reason of the dishonor of the instrument, the insolvency of the buyer, or otherwise.

(2) In this part of this act the term "seller" includes an agent of the seller to whom the bill of lading has been indorsed, or a consignor or agent who has himself paid, or is directly responsible for, the price, or any other person who is in the position of a seller. ('17 c. 465 § 52)

[6015—]53. Remedies of an unpaid seller—(1) Subject to the provisions of this act, notwithstanding that the property in the goods may have passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller of goods, as such, has—

(a) A lien on the goods or right to retain them for the price while he is in possession of them;

(b) In case of the insolvency of the buyer, a right of stopping the goods in transitu after he has parted with the possession of them;

(c) A right of resale as limited by this act;

(d) A right to rescind the sale as limited by this act.

(2) Where the property in goods has not passed to the buyer, the unpaid seller has, in addition to his other remedies, a right of withholding delivery similar to and coextensive with his rights of lien and stoppage in transitu where the property has passed to the buyer. ('17 c. 465 § 53)

UNPAID SELLER'S LIEN

[6015—]54. When right of lien may be exercised—(1) Subject to the provisions of this act; the unpaid seller of goods who is in possession of them is entitled to retain possession of them until payment or tender of the price in the following cases, namely:

- (a) Where the goods have been sold without any stipulation as to credit;
- (b) Where the goods have been sold on credit, but the term of credit has expired;
- (c) Where the buyer becomes insolvent.

(2) The seller may exercise his right of lien notwithstanding that he is in possession of the goods as agent or bailee for the buyer. ('17 c. 465 § 54)

[6015—]55. Lien after part delivery—Where an unpaid seller has made part delivery of the goods, he may exercise his right of lien on the remainder, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an intent to waive the lien or right of retention. ('17 c. 465 § 55)

[6015—]56. When lien is lost—(1) The unpaid seller of goods loses his lien thereon—

(a) When he delivers the goods to a carrier or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer without reserving the property in the goods or the right to the possession thereof;

- (b) When the buyer or his agent lawfully obtains possession of the goods;
- (c) By waiver thereof.

(2) The unpaid seller of goods, having a lien thereon, does not lose his lien by reason only that he has obtained judgment or decree for the price of the goods. ('17 c. 465 § 56)

STOPPAGE IN TRANSITU

[6015—]57. Seller may stop goods on buyer's insolvency—Subject to the provisions of this act, when the buyer of goods is or becomes insolvent, the unpaid seller who has parted with the possession of the goods has the right of stopping them in transitu, that is to say, he may resume possession of the goods at any time while they are in transit, and he will then become entitled to the same rights in regard to the goods as he would have had if he had never parted with the possession. ('17 c. 465 § 57)

[6015—]58. When goods are in transit—(1) Goods are in transit within the meaning of section 57—

(a) From the time when they are delivered to a carrier by land or water, or other bailee for the purpose of transmission to the buyer, until the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, takes delivery of them from such carrier or other bailee;

(b) If the goods are rejected by the buyer, and the carrier or other bailee continues in possession of them, even if the seller has refused to receive them back.

(2) Goods are no longer in transit within the meaning of section 57—

(a) If the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, obtains delivery of the goods before their arrival at the appointed destination;

(b) If, after the arrival of the goods at the appointed destination, the carrier or other bailee acknowledges to the buyer or his agent that he holds the goods on his behalf and continues in possession of them as bailee for the buyer or his agent; and it is immaterial that a further destination for the goods may have been indicated by the buyer;

(c) If the carrier or other bailee wrongfully refuses to deliver the goods to the buyer or his agent in that behalf.

(3) If goods are delivered to a ship chartered by the buyer, it is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case, whether they are in the possession of the master as a carrier or as agent of the buyer.

(4) If part delivery of the goods has been made to the buyer, or his agent in that behalf, the remainder of the goods may be stopped in transitu, unless such part delivery has been made under such circumstances as to show an agreement with the buyer to give up possession of the whole of the goods. ('17 c. 465 § 58)

[6015—]59. Ways of exercising the right to stop—(1) The unpaid seller may exercise his right of stoppage in transitu either by obtaining actual possession of the goods or by giving notice of his claim to the carrier or other bailee in whose possession the goods are. Such notice may be given either to the person in actual possession of the goods or to his principal. In the latter case the notice, to be effectual, must be given at such time and under such circumstances that the principal, by the exercise of reasonable diligence, may prevent a delivery to the buyer.

(2) When notice of stoppage in transitu is given by the seller to the carrier, or other bailee in possession of the goods, he must redeliver the goods to, or according to the directions of, the seller. The expenses of such delivery must be borne by the seller. If, however, a negotiable document of title representing the goods has been issued by the carrier or other bailee, he shall not be obliged to deliver or justified in delivering the goods to the seller unless such document is first surrendered for cancellation. ('17 c. 465 § 59)

RESALE BY THE SELLER

[6015—]60. When and how resale may be made—(1) Where the goods are of a perishable nature, or where the seller expressly reserves the right of resale in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time, an unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu may resell the goods. He shall not thereafter be liable to the original buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale or for any profit made by such resale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) Where a resale is made, as authorized in this section, the buyer acquires a good title as against the original buyer.

(3) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of an intention to resell the goods be given by the seller to the original buyer. But where the right to resell is not based on the perishable nature of the goods or upon an express provision of the contract or the sale, the giving or failure to give such notice shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the resale was made.

(4) It is not essential to the validity of a resale that notice of the time and place of such resale should be given by the seller to the original buyer.

(5) The seller is bound to exercise reasonable care and judgment in making a resale, and subject to this requirement may make a resale either by public or private sale. ('17 c. 465 § 60)

RESCISSION BY THE SELLER

[6015—]61. When and how the seller may rescind the sale—(1) An unpaid seller having a right of lien or having stopped the goods in transitu, may rescind the transfer of title and resume the property in the goods, where he expressly reserved the right to do so in case the buyer should make default, or where the buyer has been in default in the payment of the price an unreasonable time. The seller shall not thereafter be liable to the buyer upon the contract to sell or the sale, but may recover from the buyer damages for any loss occasioned by the breach of the contract or the sale.

(2) The transfer of title shall not be held to have been rescinded by an unpaid seller until he has manifested by notice to the buyer or by some other overt act an intention to rescind. It is not necessary that such overt act should be communicated to the buyer, but the giving or failure to give notice to the buyer of the intention to rescind shall be relevant in any issue involving the question whether the buyer had been in default an unreasonable time before the right of rescission was asserted. ('17 c. 465 § 61)

[6015—]62. Effect of sale of goods subject to lien or stoppage in transitu—Subject to the provisions of this act, the unpaid seller's right of lien or stoppage in transitu is not affected by any sale, or other disposition of the goods which the buyer may have made, unless the seller has assented thereto.

If, however, a negotiable document of title has been issued for goods, no seller's lien or right of stoppage in transitu shall defeat the right of any purchaser for value in good faith to whom such document has been negotiated, whether such negotiation be prior or subsequent to the notification to the carrier, or other bailee who issued such document, of the seller's claim to a lien or right of stoppage in transitu. ('17 c. 465 § 62)

PART V—ACTIONS FOR BREACH OF THE CONTRACT, REMEDIES OF THE SELLER

[6015—]63. Action for the price—(1) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the property in the goods has passed to the buyer, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay for the goods according to the terms of the contract or the sale, the seller may maintain an action against him for the price of the goods.

(2) Where, under a contract to sell or a sale, the price is payable on a day certain, irrespective of delivery or of transfer of title, and the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to pay such price, the seller may maintain an action for the price, although the property in the goods has not passed, and the goods have not been appropriated to the contract. But it shall be a defense to such an action that the seller at any time before judgment in such action has manifested an inability to perform the contract or the sale on his part or an intention not to perform it.

(3) Although the property in the goods has not passed, if they cannot readily be resold for a reasonable price, and if the provisions of section 64 (4) [6015—64(4)] are not applicable, the seller may offer to deliver the goods to the buyer, and, if the buyer refuses to receive them, may notify the buyer that the goods are thereafter held by the seller as bailee for the buyer. Thereafter the seller may treat the goods as the buyer's and may maintain an action for the price. ('17 c. 465 § 63)

[6015—]64. Action for damages for non-acceptance of the goods—(1) Where the buyer wrongfully neglects or refuses to accept and pay for the goods, the seller may maintain an action against him for damages for non-acceptance.

(2) The measure of damages is the estimated loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the buyer's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages is, in the absence of special circumstances, showing proximate damage of a greater amount, the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted, or, if no time was fixed for acceptance, then at the time of the refusal to accept.

(4) If, while labor or expense of material amount are necessary on the part of the seller to enable him to fulfill his obligations under the contract to sell or the sale, the buyer repudiates the contract or the sale, or notifies the seller to proceed no further therewith, the buyer shall be liable to the seller for no greater damages than the seller would have suffered if he did nothing towards carrying out the contract or the sale after receiving notice of the buyer's repudiation or countermand. The profit the seller would have made if the contract or the sale had been fully performed shall be considered in estimating such damages. ('17 c. 465 § 64)

[6015—]65. When seller may rescind contract or sale—Where the goods have not been delivered to the buyer, and the buyer has repudiated the contract to sell or sale, or has manifested his inability to perform his obligations thereunder, or has committed a material breach thereof, the seller may totally rescind the contract or the sale by giving notice of his election so to do to the buyer. ('17 c. 465 § 65)

REMEDIES OF THE BUYER

[6015—]66. Action for converting or detaining goods—Where the property in the goods has passed to the buyer and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain any action allowed by law to the owner of goods of similar kind when wrongfully converted or withheld. ('17 c. 465 § 66)

[6015—]67. Action for failing to deliver goods—(1) Where the property in the goods has not passed to the buyer, and the seller wrongfully neglects or refuses to deliver the goods, the buyer may maintain an action against the seller for damages for non-delivery.

(2) The measure of damages is the loss directly and naturally resulting in the ordinary course of events, from the seller's breach of contract.

(3) Where there is an available market for the goods in question, the measure of damages, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damages of a greater amount, is the difference between the contract price and the market or current price of the goods at the time or times when they ought to have been delivered, or, if no time was fixed, then at the time of the refusal to deliver. ('17 c. 465 § 67)

[6015—]68. Specific performance—Where the seller has broken a contract to deliver specific or ascertained goods, a court having the powers of a court of equity may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the buyer, by its judgment or decree direct that the contract shall be performed specifically, without giving the seller the option of retaining the goods on payment of damages. The judgment or decree may be unconditional, or upon such terms and conditions as to damages, payment of the price and otherwise, as to the court may seem just. ('17 c. 465 § 68)

[6015—]69. Remedies for breach of warranty—(1) Where there is a breach of warranty by the seller, the buyer may, at his election—

(a) Accept or keep the goods and set up against the seller, the breach of warranty by way of recoupment in diminution or extinction of the price;

(b) Accept or keep the goods and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty;

(c) Refuse to accept the goods, if the property therein has not passed, and maintain an action against the seller for damages for the breach of warranty;

(d) Rescind the contract to sell or the sale and refuse to receive the goods, or if the goods have already been received, return them or offer to return them to the seller and recover the price or any part thereof which has been paid.

(2) When the buyer has claimed and been granted a remedy in any one of these ways, no other remedy can thereafter be granted.

(3) Where the goods have been delivered to the buyer, he cannot rescind the sale if he knew of the breach of warranty when he accepted the goods, or if he fails to notify the seller within a reasonable time of the election to rescind, or if he fails to return or to offer to return the goods to the seller in substantially as good condition as they were in at the time the property was transferred to the buyer. But if deterioration or injury of the goods is due to the breach of warranty, such deterioration or injury shall not prevent the buyer from returning or offering to return the goods to the seller and rescinding the sale.

(4) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so, the buyer shall cease to be liable for the price upon returning or offering to return the goods. If the price or any part thereof has already been paid, the seller shall be liable to repay so much thereof as has been paid, concurrently with the return of the goods, or immediately after an offer to return the goods in exchange for repayment of the price.

(5) Where the buyer is entitled to rescind the sale and elects to do so, if the seller refuses to accept an offer of the buyer to return the goods, the buyer shall thereafter be deemed to hold the goods as bailee for the seller, but subject to a lien to secure the repayment of any portion of the price which has been paid, and with the remedies for the enforcement of such lien allowed to an unpaid seller by section 53 [6015—53].

(6) The measure of damages for breach of warranty is the loss directly and naturally resulting, in the ordinary course of events, from the breach of warranty.

(7) In the case of breach of warranty of quality, such loss, in the absence of special circumstances showing proximate damage of a greater amount, is the difference between the value of the goods at the time of delivery to the buyer and the value they would have had if they had answered to the warranty. ('17 c. 465 § 69)

[6015—]70. Interest and special damages—Nothing in this act shall affect the right of the buyer or the seller to recover interest or special damages in any case where by law interest or special damages may be recoverable, or to recover money paid where the consideration for the payment of it has failed. ('17 c. 465 § 70)

[6015—]71. Variation of implied obligations—Where any right, duty or liability would arise under a contract to sell or a sale by implication of law, it may be negatived or varied by express agreement or by the course of dealing between the parties, or by custom, if the custom be such as to bind both parties to the contract or the sale. ('17 c. 465 § 71)

PART VI—INTERPRETATION

Evidence held to show that failure to show on the stock transfer records of a corporation the fact that a transfer of stock was a pledge and not a sale resulted from the negligence of the transferee and not the negligence of the corporation, so that the transferee was liable to creditors (127-346, 149+462, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 565). Corporations, ~~§~~244(8), 361.

rate funds; he being presumed innocent until convicted, and the mere charge of crime not putting him in the attitude of coming into court with unclean hands (135-479, 160+486). Mandamus, ¶129.

6185. Amendment of certificate—The certificate of incorporation of any corporation now or hereafter organized and existing under the laws of this state may be amended so as to change its corporate name, or so as to increase its capital stock, or so as to change the number and par value of the shares of its capital stock, or in respect of any other matter which an original certificate of a corporation of the same kind might lawfully have contained, by the adoption of a resolution specifying the proposed amendment, at a regular meeting or at a special meeting called for that expressly stated purpose, in either of the following ways: (1) by majority vote of all its shares, if a stock corporation; or if not, (2) by majority vote of its members; or, in either case (3) by majority vote of its entire board of directors, trustees, or other managers within one year after having been thereto duly authorized by specific resolution duly adopted at such a meeting of stockholders or members, and by causing such resolution to be embraced in a certificate duly executed by its president and secretary, or other presiding and recording officers, under its corporate seal, and approved, filed, recorded, and published in the manner prescribed for the execution, approval, filing, recording, and publishing of a like original certificate.

As to a local building and loan association, the resolution to amend may be adopted as above provided or by a two-thirds vote of the stockholders of the association attending the meeting in person or by proxy. ('17 c. 404 § 1)

[6186—]1. Corporations other than for pecuniary profit—Increase or decrease of trustees—Number and quorum—That any corporation other than those for pecuniary profit heretofore or hereafter incorporated by virtue of any law of this state, may by resolution of its board of trustees, adopted at any regular or called meeting, by a majority vote thereof, increase or decrease the number of trustees of such corporation and provide for their election, and may also in such resolution provide for the number of trustees of said corporation which shall constitute a quorum; and a copy of such resolution subscribed and sworn to by the president and secretary of such corporation, shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the corporation is located and in the office of the secretary of state. ('17 c. 447 § 1)

[6200—]4. Same—Conveyances, etc., legalized—Any and all conveyances of property by any such corporations and any and all proceedings, and actions heretofore, commenced or had, including actions under chapter 65, General Statutes, 1913, including service of process against any such corporations after the expiration of the three year limit prescribed by General Statutes, 1913, section 6198, are hereby legalized and made of the same force and effect as though the same had been done within said three year limit. TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES6256. Telegraph companies common carriers—

This section and § 6259 are to be construed together (133-252, 158+247).

The rule of law sustaining contracts fixing the value of property transported by a common carrier cannot be applied to uphold a contract fixing the "value" of a telegraph message, since such a message has no ascertainable value, and such a contract is violative of this section and § 6259, post (133-252, 158+247). Telegraphs and Telephones, ¶54(6).

6259. Liability for damages—

This section is to be construed with § 6256 (133-252, 158+247).

Where plaintiff, in Minnesota, was requested to go to Spokane, Wash., and on arrival at Glendive, Mont., telegraphed to Spokane that he would arrive at Spokane at a stated time, failure to deliver such telegram was not governed by this section, but by the Montana law (126-122, 147+961, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1180). Telegraphs and Telephones, ¶27.

The rule of law sustaining contracts with common carriers fixing the value of goods transported cannot be applied to uphold a contract fixing the "value" of a telegraph message, since a telegram can have no ascertainable value, and such a contract, is violative of this section, construed with § 6256, ante (133-252, 158+247). Telegraphs and Telephones, ¶54(6).

At common law a failure to deliver a telegram will not warrant recovery of special damages, where there is nothing in the language of the message to indicate that damage will result from failure to deliver (126-122, 147+961, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1180). Telegraphs and Telephones, ¶67(2).

BOOM COMPANIES6263. Corporations for driving logs—Powers and duties—Tolls—Liens—

A corporation constructing a log dam has a right to the use of the waters for transportation purposes superior to that of the riparian owners for power purposes, the proper use being measured by what is reasonably required to transport with ordinary diligence by the customary methods (127-490, 150+218). Navigable Waters, ¶22(3).

The rights of mill and other riparian owners upon navigable waters are subordinate to the right of the state to improve a river for navigation, and the rights conferred upon logging corporations organized under this section with the limitation that the rights so conferred must be exercised in a reasonable manner and so as not to unnecessarily injure riparian rights (127-8, 148+517). Navigable Waters, ¶39(2).

CEMETERY ASSOCIATIONS6286. Exemption from taxation, etc.—

The provision of this section exempting cemetery associations from assessments for local improvements is not unconstitutional (134-441, 159+962). Municipal Corporations, ¶407(1, 2).

6288. Descent of lots—Upon the death of a lot owner, such lot, unless otherwise disposed of as provided in Section 6289, shall descend as follows:

1. To the surviving spouse of decedent.
2. If there be no living spouse, then to the eldest living son or [of] decedent.
3. If there be no living son, then to the eldest living daughter.
4. If there be no living daughter, then to the youngest brother of decedent.
5. If there be no living brother, then to the youngest sister of decedent.
6. If there be no surviving spouse, son, daughter, brother, or sister of decedent, then to the association in trust for the uses of a burial lot for the decedent and such of his relatives as the trustees shall deem proper. But such association, or, with its consent, any person to whom such lot shall so descend, may grant and convey the same to any one of decedent's sons, daughters, brothers, sisters, or grandchildren, and such grantee shall thereafter be deemed the owner thereof. (Amended '15 c. 233 § 1)

6289. Right of disposal—Any owner of a cemetery lot may dispose of the same by will to any one of his relatives who may survive him, or to such cemetery association, in trust, for the use and benefit of any person or persons designated in said will; but no such lot shall be affected by any testamentary devise unless the same be specifically mentioned in the will. Any owner of a cemetery lot may in his lifetime convey said lot to said association in trust for the use and benefit of any person or persons named in the trust conveyance. Such conveyance may contain such conditions, provisions and covenants as the parties may therein agree upon. No interment shall be made in any such lot, except by written consent of the association, of the body of any person who was not, at the time of death, the owner thereof, or a relative of the owner by blood or marriage. Every such association shall keep a record of all deeds, conveyances, judgments, decrees or other documents affecting the title to lots in such cemetery, copies of which, certified by the secretary, shall be received in evidence by the courts. (Amended '15 c. 233 § 2)

6357. Shall not lend on or purchase its own stock—

The time within which a bank is required to sell shares of its stock which have been taken as security under this section commences to run from the date the stock is so acquired, and not from the due date of the secured obligation (134-272, 159+567). Banks and Banking, §91.

The failure of a bank to sell and dispose of its own stock taken as security within the time fixed by this section renders the security invalid as to creditors or purchasers subsequently acquiring rights thereto from or through the owner of the stock. The state has no interest in the subject-matter, and the taking of security under this section is not an ultra vires act (134-272, 159+567). Banks and Banking, §101.

6361. Reserve—It shall always keep a reserve equal to fifteen per centum (15%) of its demandable liabilities and five per centum (5%) of its time deposits if located in a reserve city, if not located in a reserve city it shall always keep a reserve equal to twelve per centum (12%) of its demandable liabilities and five per centum (5%) of its time deposits; one quarter of which shall be cash, including specie, legal tender, national bank notes and federal reserve bank notes. The remainder may be in balance due from solvent banks. No bank shall act as reserve agent for another without the approval of superintendent of banks, if its capital and surplus is less than twenty-five thousand dollars. Whenever its reserve shall become impaired, it shall make no new loans or discounts except upon sight bills of exchange, nor declare any dividend until the same has been fully restored. The term "Reserve City" as used herein shall be taken to mean such cities as are designated as reserve cities by act of congress or other federal authority. (Amended '15 c. 362 § 1)

6365. Stock unpaid or impaired—

The directors of a state bank have no inherent authority to make an assessment upon the capital stock to cover a deficiency arising from the impairment of the capital; and such assessment can be made only under a direction of the bank examiner, as authorized by this section (125-263, 146+1093). Banks and Banking, ~~§~~43.

The action of the bank examiner held an informal, but sufficient, direction that the amount of a prior irregular assessment be collected and applied to restore depleted capital (125-263, 146+1093). Injunction, ~~§~~21.

6367. Assessment, how enforced—

Cited (125-263, 146+1093).

SAVINGS BANKS

6393. Authorized securities—The trustees of any savings bank shall invest the moneys deposited therein only as follows:

4. In notes or bonds secured by mortgages or trust deeds on unencumbered real estate in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana, worth when improved at least twice and when unimproved at least three times the amount loaned thereon. But not more than seventy per cent of the whole amount of the moneys of the bank shall be so loaned and such investment shall be made only on report of a committee directed to investigate the same and report its value, according to the judgment of its members, and its report shall be preserved among the bank's records.

5. In notes secured by such bonds or mortgages, as the bank under this section is authorized to invest in, but no such bond or mortgage shall be taken as collateral security for more than its par value, nor shall the aggregate amount of securities taken be less than the full amount loaned thereon, and no such loan shall be made for a longer time than one year, nor to a greater amount to any one person than three per cent of the total deposits of the bank. No such bank shall loan in the aggregate, on the security specified in this paragraph, more than one-fourth of its deposits.

But no such bank shall loan upon or invest in railroad bonds to an amount exceeding in the aggregate twenty per cent of its deposits, nor exceeding five per cent of its deposits in the bonds issued, guaranteed or assumed by any one railroad company.

8. In the debenture stock of any railroad company owning and operating a line of road in whole or in part within the state, provided that such stock shall bear interest at the rate of at least four per cent per annum, and shall be secured by trust deed as a first lien upon such line of railway, and that not more than five per cent of its deposits shall be invested in such stock.

9. In farm loan bonds issued by the federal land bank in the federal land bank district, of which the state of Minnesota is a part, in accordance with the provisions of an act of Congress of the United States of July 17, 1916, known and designated as "The Federal Farm Loan Act."

OTHER CORPORATIONS FOR PROFIT

MANUFACTURING CORPORATIONS

6450. Withdrawal of capital—Liability of stockholders—

Manager of corporation intrusted with the transaction of its business affairs is bound by the restrictions imposed on the corporation by its charter and by-laws, and, if he transgresses such restrictions, is liable to the corporation therefor (162+516). Corporations, ¶310(1).

Manager of a corporation who contracted debts in excess of limit prescribed by its charter, whereby it was necessary to dispose of its merchandise at an assignee's sale at a loss, was liable in damages. Where corporation manager contracted debts in excess of charter limitations necessitating sale of corporation's merchandise at a loss, the damage was the difference between market value of merchandise at forced sale and its value for sale in usual course of business (162+516). Corporations, ¶312(1).

Where restriction violated by corporation manager was imposed on corporation by its charter, ultra vires acts of manager could be ratified only by unanimous action of stockholders with full knowledge of facts; and where claims of corporation's creditors appeared to be enforceable, stockholders' recognition of liability did not waive right to hold corporation manager liable for damages from his ultra vires acts in contracting such claims (162+516). Corporations, ¶312(7).

Dividends paid out of capital at a time when the corporation had no profits, and when it owed debts, but was not insolvent, may, on the corporation becoming bankrupt, be recovered by the trustee in bankruptcy for the benefit of creditors whose claims arose after the payment of such dividends; it not appearing that such creditors did not deal with the corporation in reliance on its capital being unimpaired as represented (161+228, L. R. A. 1917C, 390). Bankruptcy, ¶145(1).

Intent of the parties is not an element of a creditor's cause of action under this section (122-441, 142+822). Corporations, ¶229.

6. That no capital stock shall ever be issued but that membership in said corporation shall depend upon ownership of land in said development project.

[6452—]3. Filing and record of certificate—The certificate of every such corporation shall be filed for record with the secretary of state who if he finds that it conforms to law shall record the same and certify that fact thereon. Section 7892, subds. 3 and 4, do not limit the authority of the court in the appointment of receivers for corporations to the instances provided for in this section, but recognize the general equity powers of the court to appoint receivers for corporations when proper grounds are made to appear (134-442, 159+948). Corporations, ¶553(1).

By admitting all the allegations of the complaint in its answer and expressly consenting to the appointment of a receiver, the corporation waives the prerequisites as to rendition of judgment and return of execution unsatisfied, and appellant having acquiesced for two years in the action of the corporation and its receiver, cannot question the jurisdiction of the court in making the appointment (134-442, 159+948). Corporations, ¶554, 555.

A complaint, though failing to allege that defendant corporation has property in the state, has ever issued stock, is insolvent, has refused to apply its property in satisfaction of plaintiff's judgment, or that plaintiff is a resident of the state and has secured in regular course a judgment against defendant, held sufficient to authorize the appointment of a receiver under this section (161+401). Corporations, ¶684.

Rights of stockholders as to dismissal of action in which corporation is interested. Rights of stockholder to maintain action on behalf of corporation (122-355, 142+818, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 830). Corporations, ¶204, 206(5), 212.

The court may, under this section, sequester the property within the state of a foreign corporation, and appoint a receiver thereof (161+401). Corporations, ¶688.

6637. Hearing—Notice—Record—Upon the presentation of such petition, the court shall fix a time and place for hearing thereon and order three weeks' published notice thereof to be given and such other notice to parties interested as it may deem proper. At the time and place so fixed the court shall hear the allegations and evidence of all parties interested and, if any of the grounds specified in the petition is sustained, shall adjudge the corporation dissolved and appoint a receiver to close its affairs.

A certified copy of the order or judgment of dissolution shall be filed for record with the secretary of state and thereafter with the register of deeds of the county of the principal place of business of said corporation and the dissolution of said corporation shall not be deemed complete until such copy is so filed for record. (Amended '17 c. 383 § 1)

6641. Forfeiture of charter—Receiver—Suit by creditor—

6645. Enforcement of stockholder's liability—

Cause of action to enforce double liability of stockholder accrues at date of declaration of insolvency and appointment of receiver, and not merely from date of assessment under this and the succeeding sections (161+498). Limitation of Actions, ¶58(4).

6646. Hearing upon petition—

Proceedings under this section are summary and informal, and the stockholders are not entitled to a jury trial of the questions involving the authority of the court to order an assessment (132-9, 155+754). Jury, ~~§~~14(1).

That the proceeding was pending in one county and the final hearing upon the petition for the assessment was had in an adjoining county was not error, where an adjournment to the latter county was by the consent of both parties (132-9, 155+754). Corporations, ~~§~~263(1).

The provision of this section as to reception of evidence does not deprive the stockholders of their property without due process of law. The court may, under this section, receive such evidence, by affidavit or otherwise, as will aid in the determination of the essential questions; and hence schedules in bankruptcy and affidavits containing matters of hearsay were properly received in evidence (132-9, 155+754). Corporations, ~~§~~269(2).

The assessment is preliminary to subsequent proceedings for the collection thereof, is conclusive only as to the insolvency of the corporation and the amount of the assessment, and does not preclude the stockholders from interposing in such subsequent proceeding any other matter which may be available in defense (132-9, 155+754). Corporations, ~~§~~274.

6651. Surplus to be divided among stockholders—

Cited (135-339, 160+1014).

PART II

PROPERTY RIGHTS AND DOMESTIC RELATIONS

CHAPTER 59

ESTATES IN REAL PROPERTY

6658. Division as to time—
130-320, 153+604.

6661. Remainders defined—
Life estates and estates in remainder may be created in personalty as well as in realty (126-247, 148+112). Life Estates, ¶21.

6663. Future estates vested or contingent—
A daughter held to take a vested estate in remainder upon the death of testator (126-247, 148+112). Wills, ¶634(8).

6664. Suspension of power of alienation—
161+392; note under § 6665, post.
A 50-year option for a 30-year mining lease, given for a valuable consideration, the optionee not expressly undertaking to explore within a particular time, and no such undertaking being properly implied, did not suspend the absolute power of alienation, and is not contrary to public policy, as an unreasonable restriction upon the use and enjoyment and alienation of property (134-412, 159+966). Perpetuities, ¶6(5).

6665. Limit of suspension—
A devise of a remainder in fee to the son of testatrix, "provided that he shall not sell the said described premises for five years after his father's death," does not violate this section or § 6665, as the restriction is imposed on the son only and would terminate at his death; but the restriction is void, as repugnant to the grant of a remainder in fee (161+392). Perpetuities, ¶6(5); Wills, ¶601(4).

6687. Accumulation of rents and profits—
A trust created under § 6710 subd. 6, in so far as the trust fund is to be derived from accumulations from realty rents and profits, offends against this section and § 6688 (135-413, 161+158). Perpetuities, ¶9(4).

Where a trust cannot be carried out during the minority of grandchildren named, because they are not the real beneficiaries of accumulations from the rents and profits or royalties from realty, the trust is not one to be sustained for a limited time under this section and § 6688 (135-413, 161+158). Perpetuities, ¶9(3).

6688. Directions for accumulation, when void—
135-413, 161+158; notes under § 6687, ante.

USES AND TRUSTS

6701. Uses and trusts abolished—Exception—
128-99, 150+233.

6703. Who deemed to have legal estate in lands—Limitations—
When beneficial interest in property under an express trust, including estate in reversion, had become vested in cestui que trust, and purpose of trust, as expressed in the instrument creating it, did not preclude right of termination, it might be terminated in a proper proceeding in court (162+450). Trusts, ¶61(1).

6705. Limitation of preceding sections—

Resulting trust between joint adventurers (121-192, 141+108, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 689). Joint Adventures, ¶4(1).

6710. Purposes of express trusts—Duration— * * *

7. Any city or village may receive, by grant, gift, devise, or bequest, and take charge of, invest, and administer, free from taxation, in accordance with the terms of the trust, real or personal property, or both, for the benefit of any public library or of any public cemetery located in, or within ten miles of, such city or village, or for the purpose of establishing or maintaining a kindergarten or other school or institution of learning therein.

Provided, however, that each city in the State of Minnesota which now has or hereafter may have 20,000 and not more than 50,000 inhabitants, in addition to the foregoing, may receive by grant, gift, devise, or bequest, and take charge of, convert, invest and administer, free from taxation, in accordance with the terms of the trust, real or personal property, or both, of any kind or nature whatsoever, and wherever located, for any public or charitable purpose, or to provide, enlarge, improve, lease and maintain for the use and benefit of the inhabitants of such city, animal, bird, fish, game and hunting preserves, public parks, public grounds, public waterways, public bath houses and grounds used in connection therewith and public play grounds within or without the limits of such city, whether within or without this state, or for the support, medical treatment and nursing of the worthy poor residing in such city. (Subd. 7, amended '15 c. 98 § 1)

Subd. 6—A trust created under subd. 6 of this section, in so far as the trust fund is derived from accumulations from realty rents and profits, offends against §§ 6687 and 6688 (135-413, 161+158). Perpetuities, ¶9(4).

[6710—]1. Last census to govern—For the purposes of this act the population of each city of this state shall be ascertained and determined according to the last census taken under and pursuant to the laws and authority of the State of Minnesota. ('15 c. 98 § 2)

See note under § 6710.

6719. Effect of omitting trust in conveyance—

As against an innocent purchaser for value, a deed absolute on its face cannot be shown by parol evidence to be a mortgage (123-367, 143+917). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶239(6).

6720. Same—Powers of district court—Sale, mortgage and lease—Payment to trustee—

6722. Termination of trust estate—

An express trust may be terminated by a decree in a proceeding brought therefor, when purpose has been fully accomplished, even before expiration of the term for which it was created (162+450). Trusts, ¶61(1).

CHAPTER 61

POWERS

6758. What power will pass by general assignment—

Nature of interest of creditor in assigned estate; garnishment thereof (see 130-392, 153+740). Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, ¶184; Garnishment, ¶31.

LANDLORDS AND TENANTS

6807. Action by landlord—Re-entry—Tenant, when restored—In case of a lease of real property, when the landlord has a subsisting right of re-entry for the failure of the tenant to pay rent, he may bring an action to recover possession of the property, and such action is equivalent to a demand for the rent and a re-entry upon the property; but if, at any time before possession has been delivered to the plaintiff on recovery in the action, the lessee or his successor in interest as to the whole or any part of the property, pays to the plaintiff or brings into court the amount of the rent then in arrears, with interest and costs of the action, and an attorney's fee not exceeding five dollars, and performs the other covenants on the part of the lessee, he may be restored to the possession, and hold the property according to the terms of the original lease.

Provided, however, that if the lease under which the right of re-entry is claimed is a lease for a term of more than twenty years, re-entry cannot be made into said land or such action commenced by the landlord unless, after default, he shall serve upon the tenant, a written notice that the lease will be cancelled and terminated unless the payment or payments in default shall be made and the covenant or covenants in default shall be performed within thirty days after the service of such notice, or within such greater period as the lessor shall specify in said notice, and if such default or defaults shall not be removed within the period specified within said notice, then said right of re-entry shall be complete at the expiration of said period and may be exercised as provided by law; provided further that if any such lease shall provide that the landlord, after default, shall give more than thirty days notice in writing to the tenant of his intention to terminate the tenancy by reason of default in terms thereof, then the length of the notice to terminate shall be the same as provided for and required by the lease.

And provided further, as to such leases for a term of more than twenty years, if at any time before the expiration of six months after possession obtained by the plaintiff on recovery in the action, the lessee or his successor in interest as to the whole or part of the property, pays to the plaintiff, or brings into court, the amount of rent then in arrears, with interest and the costs of the action, and performs the other covenants on the part of the lessee, he may be restored to the possession and hold the property according to the terms of the original lease; provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any action or proceeding now pending in any of the courts of this state. (Amended '17 c. 428 § 1)

An instrument held a lease and not a contract of sale, so that in case of default in payment of stipulated rent an action in forcible entry and detainer may be maintained (123-270, 143+785). Vendor and Purchaser, §3(2).

6808. Tenant may not deny title—Exception—

Under this section the taking of a written lease by one in possession under a claim of title adverse or hostile to that of the lessor does not estop the lessee from setting up title in himself (130-368, 153+754). Landlord and Tenant, §66(1).

6810. Building destroyed, etc.—Rent—

Evidence held insufficient to show that a tenant, by remaining in the leased premises pending an adjustment of a fire loss, waived his right to terminate the tenancy under this section (132-192, 156+119). Landlord and Tenant, §101.

Where part of leasehold property is taken in condemnation proceedings for street purposes, and the front wall of the building is removed, and the landlord is not required by the lease to rebuild the same, the premises are rendered untenable, and where the tenant vacates the building on account thereof he is not liable for rent after such vacation (135-389, 160+1021). Landlord and Tenant, §192(2).

Under a lease providing that, if the buildings shall be so injured by the elements or other cause as to be untenable, the liability of the lessee for rent and all right of possession shall cease, if the tenant would avoid rent he must vacate the premises, and the lessee is liable if occupancy is continued by his sublessee (129-486, 152+869). Landlord and Tenant, §187(1).

Where a lease was terminated by destruction of the leased premises, the lessor was entitled to recover a proportionate part of the yearly rent (125-1, 145+399, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 600). Landlord and Tenant, ¶211(1).

6811. Estate at will, how determined—Notice—

A tenant, who has given notice that he will terminate a tenancy from month to month, waives notice from the landlord to quit when he holds over after the time for termination as contemplated by his notice (126-452, 148+297, L. R. A. 1915A, 235). Landlord and Tenant, ¶115(3), 116(3).

6812. Urban real estate—Holding over—

Where a tenant gives notice of an intention to terminate a tenancy from month to month, but holds over, this section does not operate to make such tenancy one for a single month, so as to obviate the giving of a new notice (126-452, 148+297, L. R. A. 1915A, 235). Landlord and Tenant, ¶116(5).

[6812—]1. Notice to landlord of vacation in certain cases—Penalty—

Every person who shall, between the 15th day of November and the 15th day of April following, remove from, abandon or vacate any building or part thereof, occupied by him, or in his possession, as tenant, except upon the termination of his tenancy, and which contains any plumbing, water, steam or other pipe liable to injury from freezing, without first giving to the landlord, owner, or agent in charge, of such building three days notice of his intention so to remove, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. ('15 c. 213 § 1)

CONVEYANCES OF REAL ESTATE

6813. Terms defined—Mortgages, etc., included—

The interest acquired by a vendee in a contract of sale is one that may be conveyed by deed (123-483, 144+222). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶207.

An assignment of a certificate of sale of state land is a conveyance of real estate within this section, and a good-faith purchaser who places his assignment on record is protected by the recording acts against a prior unrecorded assignment (135-408, 161+156; 135-449, 161+155). Public Lands, ¶54(10), 138.

An assignment of a certificate of sale of state land, with the assignee's name left blank, is a nullity until the name of the assignee is inserted, and hence does not operate as a conveyance (135-449, 161+155). Public Lands, ¶135(5).

6814. Conveyances by husband and wife—Powers of attorney—

A wife, joining in the deed of a homestead owned by the husband as security for a loan for future advances to him, binds her homestead right (127-419, 142+721). Homestead, ¶118(1).

Since the enactment of this section, a husband, in an action involving land not a homestead, may testify to a conversation with a deceased person, his wife being a party to the action (132-242, 156+260). Witnesses, ¶159(1). See also (132-254, 156+263).

Though separate deeds by husband and wife to their homestead are void, where the wife has removed from the homestead, executed a separate quitclaim deed to a purchaser from the husband, and obtained a divorce, the husband cannot assert, as against a subsequent bona fide purchaser, that his own separate deed is void, since he is himself estopped to deny the validity of the conveyance, and the wife has abandoned her homestead right (133-261, 158+244). Homestead, ¶122.

Delivery of separate deed of wife of land previously conveyed by husband without joinder of wife (see 128-535, 150+1103).

[6823—]1. Conveyances by husband or wife to spouse—Curative—That all conveyances of real property within this state, made prior to the first day of January, 1915, in which a married man or married woman has conveyed real property directly to his or her spouse, shall be and the same are hereby declared to be legal and valid, and the records of such conveyances heretofore actually recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of the proper county shall be in all respects valid and legal; and such conveyances and the records thereof shall have the same force and effect in all respects as conveyances of title and for the purpose of notice, evidence or otherwise, as may be provided by law in regard to conveyances and their records in other cases. Provided, that the provisions of this act shall not apply to any action or proceeding now pending in any of the courts of this state. ('15 c. 218 § 1)

[6824—]1. Conveyances by husband under power of attorney from wife—Curative—No suit at law or proceeding in equity in any of the courts of the State of Minnesota, shall be brought to set aside any conveyance of land situated in the State of Minnesota, which said conveyance was made, executed and delivered prior to January 1, 1915, and was made by a husband for and on behalf of his wife acting under and by virtue of a power of attorney, made, executed and delivered by such wife to her husband unless such action at law or proceeding in equity is commenced on or before the first day of January, 1916, and all such conveyances in which such an action or proceeding is not commenced prior to January, 1916, are hereby legalized and declared to be legal conveyances of all of the right, title and interest of said wife and husband in and to such land to the purchaser thereof; provided, that the said power of attorney and conveyance have been duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county wherein the said land is situated, for more than ten years prior hereto, and provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to or in any manner affect the title to any land, the title to which is now in litigation. ('15 c. 314 § 1)

6825. Husband or wife of insane person—The husband or wife of any person who has been adjudged by a probate court of this state to be insane or incompetent to transact his or her business or manage his or her estate, and of whose person or estate, or both, a guardian has been appointed by such court, may, with such guardian's approval, by separate deed convey any real estate, the title to which is in such husband or wife, as fully as he or she could do if unmarried, provided that, in any such case, a duly certified copy of the letters of guardianship of such guardian shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such real estate is situated and the approval of such conveyance by such guardian shall be in writing, after being first authorized so to do by an order of such probate court, and shall be endorsed on the instrument of such conveyance. Without such approval of such guardian, a conveyance by such husband or wife shall not affect the rights of the insane or incompetent spouse.

Provided further, that in any case where no guardian has been appointed of the person or estate of such insane or incompetent spouse and such insanity or incompetency has existed for three years subsequent to the adjudication of the insanity or incompetency of such insane or incompetent spouse, then and in such event, the husband or wife of such insane or incompetent person may convey any real estate, the title to which is in such husband or wife, as fully as he or she could do if unmarried.

Provided further, that this section shall not authorize the conveyance of a homestead unless the guardian of the person or estate of such insane or incompetent person has been appointed by the probate court of the proper county and such guardian shall consent in writing to such conveyance, by endorsement thereon, after being first authorized so to do, by order of such probate court. (Amended '15 c. 131 § 1)

6827. Quitclaim—Words of inheritance unnecessary to pass fee—

A quitclaim deed conveys the equitable title of the holder of a certificate of sale of state land (135-408, 161+156). Public Lands, ¶135(5).

6829. No covenants implied—Adverse holding—

The existence of a rural highway across land conveyed by warranty deed in the usual form does not constitute a breach against incumbrances (122-368, 142+878, 48 L. R. A. [N. S.] 619, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1007). Covenants, ¶100(2).

6832. Liability of grantor who covenants against incumbrances—

A reassessment on account of undervaluation held not an incumbrance constituting a breach of warranty (129-87, 151+537).

6844. Recording act—Unrecorded conveyances void, when—

What is a conveyance—An assignment of a certificate of sale of state land is a conveyance within § 6813, and a purchaser in good faith of such certificate, who places his assignment on record, is protected by this section against a prior unrecorded assignment (135-408, 161+156). Public Lands, ¶54(10), 138.

Registration—Parties—A purchaser in good faith and without notice from a registered owner takes the title free from the claim of a person fraudulently omitted as a party in the registration proceedings, where such omission does not appear on the face of the judgment roll (123-182, 143+324, L. R. A. 1916D, 4). Records, ~~§~~9(13).

Rights of subsequent purchasers—That a contract of purchase is of record is not conclusive of the rights of a subsequent purchaser from the vendor, where the purchaser named in the recorded contract by his acts evinces that he has abandoned the same (161+587). Vendor and Purchaser, ~~§~~231(1).

Under this section a subsequent deed first recorded does not take precedence of a prior unrecorded deed, unless the grantee is a purchaser for a valuable consideration, and in this case the court did not err in refusing to find that plaintiff purchased for value (133-153, 157+1072). Vendor and Purchaser, ~~§~~236.

Evidence in a suit to set aside a deed of lots to defendant as void held to support finding that deed was duly executed, delivered, and recorded without fraud prior to deed of same property executed by same grantor to plaintiffs (162+527). Deeds, ~~§~~211(3).

Mortgage notice of what—The record in one county of a mortgage containing an after-acquired property provision is not constructive notice to a subsequent incumbrancer of property afterwards acquired by the mortgagor in another county (132-277, 156+255). Mortgages, ~~§~~171(5).

A mortgage given to the record owner by one who is a stranger to the title is not notice of an unrecorded deed from the record owner to the mortgagor (131-99, 154+743). Vendor and Purchaser, ~~§~~231(5).

[6848—]1. Recorded conveyances—Curative—That in all cases where deeds, mortgages or other instruments affecting real estate within this state, or letters of attorney authorizing the same, have heretofore been actually recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the real estate thereby affected was, at the time of making of such records, or is, situate, whether such deeds or other instruments were duly or properly admitted to record or otherwise, all such instruments and the record thereof are hereby legalized and confirmed; and all such records may nevertheless be read in evidence in any court within this state, and shall be received as prima facie evidence of the contents of the original instruments of which they purport to be records;

And all such records shall in all respects have the same force and effect as they would have if such original instruments at the time that they were so recorded had been legally entitled to record and were legally recorded. ('17 c. 200 § 1)

[6848—]2. Same—Copies as evidence—Pending actions—That duly authenticated copies of such record may be read in evidence in any court within this state, with the same effect as the records themselves aforesaid.

Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to apply to any action heretofore commenced or now pending in any of the courts of this state nor to any deed, mortgage or other instrument or the record thereof, on which any mortgage registry tax provided by law has not been paid. ('17 c. 200 § 2)

6849. Instruments relating to timber, minerals, etc.—

A written contract held to constitute a sale of timber, which was not reduced to a mere license to cut the timber by a restriction against alienation of less than the whole of the contract or the land, or without the vendor's approval (126-176, 148+43). Logs and Logging, ~~§~~3(7).

[6850—]1. Record of notice of condemnation in certain cases—Whenever any city, village, board of park commissioners or board of public works in this state shall hereafter take or acquire, by condemnation proceedings, any land or lands or any easement or interest therein for laying out, opening, widening, extending or establishing any public street, highway or alley, or for public parks, parkways or other public purposes, or shall vacate or abandon any public street, highway, alley, park or public grounds or any portion thereof, or any easement or interest therein, a notice in writing of the completion of every such condemnation proceeding and of every such vacation or abandonment of any public street, highway, alley, park or public grounds or any portion thereof, shall be forthwith filed for record with the register of deeds of the county within which the lands and premises vacated thereby are located. Such notice shall be prepared and filed by the clerk, recorder or other person charged with the duty of keeping the records of such city, village, board or park commissioners or board of public works so acquiring any such lands or vacating or abandoning any such street, highway, park or public grounds, and such notice shall contain a statement of the time of the completion of such condemnation proceedings or of such vacation or abandonment, as the case may be, and the name of the city, village or board by whom such proceedings are prosecuted or such vacation is made, and a description of the real estate and lands affected thereby. Any failure to file such notice shall not invalidate or make void any such condemnation proceeding for such vacation or abandonment of any public street, highway, park or public grounds or any portion thereof. ('17 c. 416 § 1)

6851. When deed not defeated by defeasance—

A purchaser of land from the grantee in an absolute deed, without notice that the deed was given as security for a debt, is protected, as against the grantor and the holder of a subsequent judgment against such grantor, where the latter is in possession of the land and informs the purchaser that he holds as tenant only (123-293, 143+720). Judgment, ~~6~~787.

PLATS

6856. Survey and plat—Monument—Rivers, lakes, etc.—

A plat held effective as the dedication of a street (126-456, 148+501). Dedication, ~~6~~19(1). The boundary line of a street held to be in accordance with the finding of the trial court (126-456, 148+501). Boundaries, ~~6~~37(3).

6857. Dedication—Certification—Approval—Verification—

No proof of acceptance of a statutory dedication is necessary (126-456, 148+501). Dedication, ~~6~~31.

Under village plat dedicating street, and providing that fee should not be included in any lot, fee remained in plat, and did not pass to subsequent purchasers of abutting property, but passed by plat's conveyance (162+453). Dedication, ~~6~~53.

The plat of Tuttle's addition to St. Anthony held to sufficiently describe the land platted. Failure of the owner to sign a plat, and the failure of the notary to attach his seal to the acknowledgment, held cured by Laws Ex. Sess. 1881 c. 57 § 1, validating plats (123-344, 144+150). Municipal Corporations, ~~6~~43.

6863. Vacation of plats—Upon the application of the owner or owners of land included in any plat, and upon proof that all taxes assessed against such land have been paid, and a notice hereinafter provided for given, the district court may vacate or alter all or any part of such plat, and adjudge the title to all streets, alleys and public grounds to be in the persons entitled thereto; but streets or alleys connecting separate plats or lying between blocks or lots, shall not be vacated between such lots, blocks or plats as are not also vacated, unless it appears that the street or alley or part thereof sought to be vacated is useless for the purpose for which it was laid out. The petitioner or petitioners shall cause two weeks' published and posted notice of such application to be given, the last publication to be at least ten days before the term at which it shall be heard; and said petitioner or petitioners shall also serve personally, or cause to be served personally, notice of such application, at least ten days before the term at which said application shall be heard, upon the mayor of the city, the president of the village, or the chairman of the town board of the town where such land is situated. The court shall hear all persons owning or occupying land that would be affected by the proposed vacation, and if, in the judgment of the court, the same would be damaged, the court may determine the amount of such damage and direct its payment by the applicant before the vacation or alteration shall take effect. A certified copy of the order of the court shall be filed with the county auditor, and recorded by the register of deeds; provided, however, that the district court shall not vacate or alter any street, alley or public ground dedicated to the public use in or by any such plat in any city, town or village organized under a charter or special law which provides a method of procedure for the vacation of streets and public grounds by the municipal authorities of such city, town or village. (Amended '17 c. 38 § 1)

A judgment vacating a portion of a plat, not including the plaintiff's property, did not bar a recovery of consequential damages by him. Evidence held to show consequential damages to one not in the vacated part of a plat, resulting from closing of streets, and the amount thereof (135-175, 160+771). Municipal Corporations, §671(3, 4).

This section, as amended, deprives the district court of the authority to vacate or alter the public streets or alleys of the city of St. Paul, since the charter of said city provides a method for vacation of streets dedicated to the public by the city authorities under the first proviso of said section as amended (129-305, 152+643). Municipal Corporations, §657(5).

The title of the act from which this section is derived does not so limit or restrict the act as to exclude the subject of vacation of plats or streets (129-305, 152+643). Statutes, §123(4).

This act is not invalid, in that it makes an arbitrary classification of municipalities, in that it excepts cities of the first class having a special charter from its operation, for, irrespective of the proviso, such cities would not have their special charters repealed or affected by implication (129-305, 152+643). Statutes, §93(4).

REGISTRATION OF TITLE

Application of rule as to abatement of action on the ground of another action pending (see 127-416, 149+735). Abatement and Revival, §7.

6871. Applicant's interest—No land, the title to which is derived from any tax or local assessment sale, shall be registered until such title has been adjudged to be valid by a court of competent jurisdiction, and a certified copy of the decree duly recorded with the register of deeds: Provided, however, that any person may make the application when for at least fifteen years the land has been in the adverse possession of the applicant or those through whom he claims title. No lesser estate than a fee simple, and no mortgage, lien or other charge upon land, shall be registered, unless the estate in fee simple therein is registered; but the fact that the estate or interest of the applicant is subject to any outstanding lesser estate or to a mortgage, or other charge or lien, shall not prevent its registration, and whenever a dock or harbor line has been established by Federal authority, the interest and estate of a riparian proprietor in the submerged lands lying between the original shore line and such established dock line may be registered under this act, subject, however, to the rights of the State of Minnesota in its sovereign capacity in the same and such registration shall not in any manner affect or change the rights of the state with respect to such lands. (Amended '15 c. 242 § 1)

Land, title to which is in the United States, cannot be registered (130-456, 153+871). Courts, §489(5); Records, §9(1, 4, 13).

6880. Reference to examiner—Reports—

The state cannot be made a party unless, in the opinion of the examiner, it has an interest in or lien upon the land (123-397, 143+981, L. R. A. 1916D, 1). Records, §9(6).

In spite of § 8450, the examiner is not justified in relying on a receipt or certificate to an entryman by a local land office as establishing that the United States has parted with its title. Omission of duty by examiner as affecting right to compensation out of assurance fund (see 130-456, 153+871). Records, §9(10). See, also, note under § 6943, ante.

6888. Dismissal—

Pendency of registration proceedings as ground for abatement of action to determine adverse claims (see 127-416, 149+735). Abatement and Revival, §7.

6889. Decree of registration—Effect—

Where judgment is procured by fraud on the part of an applicant for registration in failing to name as parties or to serve claimants known to him, it is not binding on such omitted claimants, and where such defect appears on the face of the judgment roll, it is open to collateral attack; but if such defect does not appear the judgment cannot be attacked collaterally (123-182, 143+324, L. R. A. 1916D, 4). Records, §9(13).

Where the existence of a claimant omitted from the registration proceedings by the fraud of the applicant does not appear from a judgment roll, one who purchases from the registered owner for a valuable consideration without notice takes the title free from all incumbrances and adverse claims (123-182, 143+324, L. R. A. 1916D, 4). Records, §9(13).

Where the holder of tax certificates and the county were parties, a judgment adjudging the tax sales and certificates void held conclusive as against the county, and not open to collateral attack (123-397, 143+981, L. R. A. 1916D, 1). Records, §9(13).

6892. Certificate of title—What survives—

The purpose of this section is to create an indefeasible title in the person adjudged to be the owner (123-182, 143+324, L. R. A. 1916D, 4). Records, ☞9(3).

6943. Damages through erroneous registration—Action—

Since land, title to which is in the United States, cannot be registered, the omission of the examiner to ascertain and report such fact is an "omission" which entitles a good-faith purchaser, relying on the certificate of title, to reimbursement out of the assurance fund, though the certificate does not purport to bar the rights of the United States. Purchasing registered land on the faith of the certificate of title, and without making an independent investigation of the title, is not negligence on the part of the purchaser (130-456, 153+871). Records, ☞9(10).

130-456, 153+871; note under § 6943.

HOMESTEAD EXEMPTION

6957. Dwelling place exempt—Exceptions—

206 Fed. 877, 124 C. C. A. 537.

Where a vendor conveys to a third person, who is actually residing on the land, and such third person conveys to the vendee, an existing judgment against such third person does not become a lien as against the vendee, as whatever interest vested in such third person forthwith became his homestead (123-293, 143+720). Homestead, ☞103.

The owner of a lot 50 feet wide, living in a store building located on one side, and renting a small dwelling on the other side to third parties, is entitled to retain the entire lot as his homestead (134-478, 159+788). Homestead, ☞63.

Declarations of homestead claimant, since deceased, as evidence of homestead character of occupancy (128-525, 151+416). Evidence, ☞236(1).

6958. Area, how limited—

The homestead may consist of a tract made up of lots owned separately by husband and wife, where the aggregate of the two parcels does not exceed the statutory limit as to quantity (161+515; note under § 6960, post). Homestead, ☞70.

6960. Title may be in husband or wife—Equitable title exempt—

The interest acquired by the vendee in a contract of sale, where such vendee takes possession and makes improvements, is one subject to homestead estate (123-483, 144+222). Homestead, ☞128.

Where land owned by a wife adjoins that owned by the husband, and the same is in a single inclosure and occupied as a homestead, the house being located over the boundary line, and the entire tract does not exceed the homestead limit as to quantity, the land as a whole may be claimed as a homestead exempt from execution (161+515). Homestead, ☞87.

6961. No alienation without consent of spouse—Exceptions—

In general—It was error to receive as evidence of marriage a judgment in a former action to which defendant was not a party (128-525, 151+416). Judgment, ☞707.

Where a father conveyed land to his son, and the latter took possession with his wife, and lived on the land as a homestead, a judgment in an action against the son alone, decreeing a half interest in the land to plaintiff based on a former contract with the father, was a nullity, and passed no title to plaintiff (133-218, 158+250). Husband and Wife, ☞238(3).

Separate deeds—Estoppel—Though separate conveyances by husband and wife to the homestead are void, they may be estopped to deny the validity thereof. Where a wife separates from her husband, executes a separate deed to a purchaser from the husband of the homestead, and thereafter procures a divorce, the husband, who has surrendered possession to the purchaser, cannot assert, as against a subsequent bona fide purchaser, that his own separate deed is void, especially where he does not offer to return the purchase money received, or to reimburse his grantees for improvements (133-281, 158+244). Homestead, ☞122.

Deed as mortgage—An absolute deed of homestead owned by the husband, in which deed the wife joins, binds her homestead right for future advances made to the husband to secure which the deed is made (122-419, 142+721). Homestead, ☞118(1).

Deed reserving life estate—A warranty deed reserving a life estate in the grantor was void as to the homestead included in such conveyance, where the same was not signed by the grantor's wife (124-335, 144+1094). Homestead, ☞118(5).

Giving right of way for a road—An agreement by a husband, in which his wife does not join and to which she does not assent, to give a town a right of way for a road across a tract which constitutes the homestead, is void. Evidence held insufficient to show assent by a wife to the grant by the husband of a right of way over the homestead (133-128, 157+1089). Homestead, ~~§~~118(5).

A deed granting a perpetual right of way over a homestead is an "alienation," and is invalid, unless signed by both husband and wife (129-288, 152+648, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1130). Homestead, ~~§~~118(3).

Reformation of deed conveying homestead—A conveyance of the homestead, or a portion thereof, executed by both husband and wife, as required by this section, may be reformed by correcting a misdescription of the property intended to be conveyed thereby (129-288, 152+648, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1130). Reformation of Instruments, ~~§~~13(3).

Evidence examined, and held sufficient to sustain a finding that both husband and wife agreed to grant a right of way through the homestead, and that it was omitted from the deed by mutual mistake, so that reformation would be decreed (129-288, 152+648, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 1130). Reformation of Instruments, ~~§~~45(4).

6963. Sale or removal permitted—Notice—

CHATTEL MORTGAGES AND CONDITIONAL SALES

CHATTEL MORTGAGES

6966. Mortgages, when void—

A chattel mortgage by a son to his father of 2,500 bushels of a growing crop of corn estimated to produce 3,000 bushels, accompanied by an understanding that the son might continue for a time to feed a small amount of stock, was not void as matter of law; it not appearing that the feeding of the stock would impair the security (130-141, 153+125). Chattel Mortgages, ~~§~~188(1).

A chattel mortgage held not fraudulent as to creditors, though it was agreed between the parties that a part of the property included in the mortgage might be used to feed animals, also included in the mortgage, and that the mortgagor might use sufficient of the property for his living, since the property so needed is exempt (133-375, 158+612). Chattel Mortgages, ~~§~~191.

6967. Where filed—

Applicable only in cities of first class and counties where the salary of the register of deeds is fixed by special law—See §§ [6993—]1 to [6993—]7.

Cited (130-256, 153+324; 130-256, 153+598).

[6967—]1. Defective chattel mortgages—Curative—That in all cases where chattel mortgages have heretofore been executed between the first day of January, 1911, and the first day of January, 1914, which were attested by only one subscribing witness, and have been actually filed with the register of deeds of the proper county, and in all cases where such chattel mortgages have heretofore been actually filed in the office of the clerk or recorder of the proper town or municipality, all such chattel mortgages and the filing thereof are hereby legalized and confirmed. All of such instruments so filed shall in all respects have the same force and effect as they would have if such original instrument at the time they were so filed had been duly attested by two subscribing witnesses, and duly certified copies thereof may be read in evidence in any court in this state with the same effect as the original.

Provided, that nothing in this act shall be held to apply to any action heretofore commenced or now pending in any court in this state; nor in any manner apply to any one in good faith acquiring any interest in any property included in any such mortgage subsequent to the delivery of such mortgage, and prior to the taking effect of this act. ('15 c. 308 § 1)

6973. Foreclosure, when and where made—

A junior mortgagee may bring an action in equity to foreclose, where the first mortgagee is in possession, but he must redeem or show that there will be a surplus after satisfying the first mortgage (122-283, 142+195). Chattel Mortgages, ~~§~~271.

No such instrument shall be removed from the office where filed until cancelled, released, or satisfied. The fees for filing such instruments shall be twenty-five cents for each instrument and twenty-five cents for a certified copy thereof, when copy is furnished, said amount to be paid to the register of deeds at the time of filing, and such fee shall be retained by the register of deeds, as additional salary and compensation for filing such instruments. ('15 c. 364 § 2)

[6993—]3. Same—Index book—Every register of deeds shall keep in his office an index book in which he shall enter the number given to every such instrument, the names in alphabetical order of the lien debtor and lien creditor and vendee and vendor, and the exact time of filing the instrument. 6995. Filing—Duration of lien—To preserve said lien, the person furnishing seed as aforesaid, within thirty days after the execution of such note or contract, shall file the same, or a copy thereof, with the register of deeds of the county in which the land upon which the crop is to be grown is situated. Thereupon the lien shall continue for the term of one year from the date of filing, upon the crop growing or grown from such seed, to the amount and according to the terms of the agreement, against the owner and all creditors and purchasers. It shall not be affected by any exemption law, and shall take precedence of all other liens and be notice of its existence to all persons. (Amended '15 c. 191 § 1)

FRAUDS

STATUTE OF FRAUDS

6998. No action on agreement, when—

In general—No distinction should be made in the interpretation of this section and § 6999, because one reads "no action shall be maintained," and the other "every contract * * * shall be void," unless evidenced by writing, etc. (162+1082). Frauds, Statute of, § 121.

The statute is not a mere rule of evidence, but precludes the substantive right of action upon the oral contract (128-468, 151+195). Frauds, Statute of, § 125(1).

Subd. 1—128-468, 151+195; note under § 7003.

An oral contract of partnership, actually performed within a year, is not within the statute (129-252, 152+538). Frauds, Statute of, § 139(1).

A contract attached to a certificate of stock, reciting the purchase of the stock and the payment of the price, and stipulating that the vendors agree to pay a percentage of the price annually for five years, sufficiently expresses the consideration on the face of the agreement, and is not invalid under the first subdivision of this section (135-235, 160+765). Frauds, Statute of, § 108(1).

Subd. 2—Where defendant in a personal injury case effected a settlement by agreeing to pay plaintiff a specified amount, and another amount to the physician who treated plaintiff, the promise to pay the physician was an original undertaking, and not within this section (126-251, 148+104). Frauds, Statute of, § 33(1).

An agreement by a purchaser to pay a debt of the seller as part of the price is not invalid under the statute because no consideration is expressed therein (128-490, 151+203). Frauds, Statute of, § 18(3).

A contract attached to and delivered with a certificate of stock, reciting the purchase of the stock and the payment of the price, and stipulating that the vendors agree to pay a percentage of the price annually for five years, sufficiently expresses the consideration on the face of the agreement, and is not invalid as violative of subdivision 2 of this section (135-235, 160+765). Frauds, Statute of, ¶108(1).

See note under § [6015-]14.

6999—An order for the manufacture of goods for delivery in the future is not within the statute, and void because not in writing (130-304, 153+613). Frauds, Statute of, ¶83.

A subsequent delivery and acceptance of part of the goods under a parol contract of sale satisfies the statute of frauds (130-151, 153+316). Frauds, Statute of, ¶90(4).

7002. Conveyance, etc., of land—

Cited (128-468, 151+195).

A deed in writing and under seal, made by one partner in behalf of the firm, may be ratified by the other partner by parol (129-481, 152+879). Partnership, ¶157(3).

An easement may be extinguished or modified by parol agreement fully executed (127-313, 149+652). Easements, ¶29.

7003. Leases—Contracts for sale of lands—

135-25, 159+1091.

Cited (162+1082).

In general—A parol agreement to execute a lease to real property to extend for a longer period than one year is unenforceable (128-468, 151+195). Frauds, Statute of, ¶128.

An oral agreement for the purchase of land is void, and where the purchaser does not take possession or make improvements, he obtains no rights in the land, though he pays the purchase price (135-449, 161+155). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(5).

Contracts creating partnership or joint adventures—A contract relating to land held to create a partnership or joint adventure, and not to involve a sale of an interest in land within the statute (127-15, 148+476). Frauds, Statute of, ¶76.

An agreement to procure an option on a mine, and to transfer the mine to a corporation to be formed by the parties to the agreement, the stock of which was to be distributed between them, was a partnership agreement or a joint adventure, and was not within the statute of frauds (130-450, 153+874). Frauds, Statute of, ¶56(8, 9), 129; Joint Adventures, ¶1; Partnership, ¶20.

Verbal extension of lease—A verbal agreement to extend the term of a lease for one year, to commence at a future date, is within the statute (134-68, 158+808). Frauds, Statute of, ¶53.

Part performance of lease—Part performance includes taking possession under the alleged lease, and payment in reliance on such contract. Evidence held not to show clearly the lease and part performance thereof (122-123, 142+18). Specific Performance, ¶110.

Estoppel—Estoppel to urge statute in avoidance of parol agreement to execute lease (128-468, 151+195). Frauds, Statute of, ¶144.

Agreement to deal on the basis of a rejected offer—An agreement to deal on the basis of a rejected offer to sell land must be in writing (123-409, 143+1127, L. R. A. 1915D, 150). Frauds, Statute of, ¶103(1), 118(1).

Memorandum—Under this section only the vendor need sign the contract, and he may enforce it against the vendee, if the latter accepts it (125-81, 145+791). Frauds, Statute of, ¶115(4).

The contract must describe the lands sold with reasonable certainty, but such description may be by reference to another writing (125-81, 145+791). Frauds, Statute of, ¶118(2, 5).

To establish a contract for the sale of real property by correspondence, there must be a definite offer in writing and an unqualified acceptance in writing (162+1072). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶28.

Authority of agent—An undisclosed principal may enforce specific performance of a contract to sell real estate made by an agent in his own name, though the agent was not authorized in writing to make the sale, and though the principal is unknown to the vendee; and if the contract calls for a warranty deed, he is entitled to the warranty of the party who executed the contract, and if this is offered him the real principal may demand that he pay the purchase price (135-127, 160+251). Specific Performance, ¶17.

7004. Specific performance—

In general—Evidence held insufficient to establish the existence of an alleged oral contract to convey land (125-49, 145+615). Specific Performance, ¶121(3, 4).

Contract held subject to specific performance (125-81, 145+791). Specific Performance, ¶32(3).

An answer in ejectment, alleging that defendant entered into an agreement with plaintiff's grantor, whereby the latter agreed to give and convey land to defendant, if the latter would support such grantor for the remainder of his life, and that in pursuance of such agreement defendant moved onto the land, made improvements thereon, paid the taxes, and offered to support grantor who removed from the land, and asking for specific performance or such other relief as might be just, did not state a cause of action for specific performance of an oral contract partly performed, or for alternative relief by adjudication of a lien (134-321, 159+752). Frauds, Statute of, ¶142, 149; Specific Performance, ¶28(2).

If a contract to bequeath is definite, and plaintiff has performed, and a peculiar and domes-tie relation has been assumed under which services, incapable of pecuniary valuation, has been rendered, specific performance will be decreed (124-114, 144+744). Specific Performance, ¶86.

The doctrine of specific performance rests upon the theory that one party has estopped himself from invoking the statute by permitting the other party to change his situation in reliance upon the contract to such an extent that the enforcement of the statute would operate as a fraud upon him, and where such change of position does not appear the statute operates (132-86, 155+1054). Specific Performance, ¶39, 41.

Verbal gifts of land—Evidence held to establish a parol gift of land, and acceptance by the donee, accompanied with the taking of possession and the construction of valuable improvements in reliance on the gift, so that the transfer was taken out of the statute of frauds (135-368, 160+1031). Frauds, Statute of, ¶158(4).

A verbal gift of land, to be valid, must be executed by delivery of possession, acceptance of the gift, and performance of such acts in reliance thereon as would work a substantial injustice to hold the gift void, such as the bestowal of personal services impossible of estimation in money, or against collection of which the statute of limitations has run, or the making of permanent improvements on the land (130-368, 153+754). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(11).

In ejectment, the defense of a parol gift of the land, which was accepted and executed, is proper, though such a defense is usually litigated in an action for specific performance. Adverse possession of land for the statutory time is not necessary to prove an executed parol gift, it being sufficient that the gift is accepted and that valuable improvements are made in reliance upon it, and whether the gift is executed is a question of fact for the jury (128-389, 148+125). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(1), 159; Gifts, ¶25.

Part performance—Evidence of performance (see 132-106, 155+1071). Frauds, Statute of, ¶158(4).

The doctrine of part performance rests on the ground that to deny the force and effect of the contract would work a virtual fraud (130-368, 153+754). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(1).

The oral contract, sought to be enforced on the ground of partial performance, must be clearly proved, and its terms must be so clear and distinct as to leave no reasonable doubt of its meaning (127-238, 149+287). Frauds, Statute of, ¶158(4).

An agreement to obtain an option on a mine, and to transfer same to a corporation, the stock in which was to be distributed among the parties to the agreement, which agreement was carried out, was taken out of the statute by performance (130-450, 153+874). Frauds, Statute of, ¶56(8).

Evidence of part performance by a lessee, consisting of plowing the land and spreading manure thereon in reliance on a verbal agreement of the lessor to extend the lease, held to justify a finding of part performance taking the agreement to extend out of the statute (134-68, 158+808). Frauds, Statute of, ¶158(4).

Evidence held insufficient to show clearly alleged oral lease or part performance (122-123, 142+18). Specific Performance, ¶119.

Evidence held to sustain the findings of the trial court that a written option to purchase had been modified by parol, and that the parol agreement had been acted upon, so that specific performance would be decreed (128-106, 150+387). Specific Performance, ¶121(3, 5).

Where a purchaser of land takes possession and makes valuable improvements, he is entitled to a conveyance, though the agreement of sale was in parol (128-135, 150+615). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(9).

An oral contract to convey land is taken out of the statute of frauds, where the purchaser goes into possession of the land and makes improvements (125-49, 145+615). Frauds, Statute of, ¶79.

In absence of possession and improvements, an oral contract to purchase land gives the purchaser no rights, though he has paid the purchase price (135-449, 161+155). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(5).

Contract to devise—To warrant specific performance of an oral contract to give property by will, the contract must be reasonable and satisfactorily established, and must have been performed to such extent and in such manner that the beneficiary cannot be properly compensated in damages (125-118, 145+812). Specific Performance, ¶51, 94, 121(2).

7005. Logs—Extension of time of payment for labor—

Where the pleadings do not show that the contract sued on is within the statute, the defense may be presented by motion to dismiss at the close of plaintiff's case (128-468, 151+195). Frauds, Statute of, ¶152(1).

CONVEYANCES FRAUDULENT AS TO CREDITORS

7011. Of chattels without delivery—Fraud presumed—

See note under § [6015]—]25 as to changes effected thereby and by § [6015]—]26.

7013. With intent to defraud creditors, void—

Conveyance by nonresident—Attachment—If the conveyance of real estate made by a nonresident debtor is fraudulent as to creditors, the land remains the property of the debtor, as against such creditors, and may be seized by them on a writ of attachment as the basis of an action against such nonresident. Where such attachment has been made the creditor has the right to proceed to judgment and to sell the real estate without first contesting the validity of the conveyance. The service of a summons upon a nonresident debtor in an action to recover the debt cannot be set aside upon affidavits that he has no interest in the property upon which attachment has been levied as the basis of the action, since the validity of the conveyance cannot be determined upon affidavits, nor in an action to which the claimant thereunder is not a party (123-364, 143+915). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶228.

Homestead—Where husband, to induce his wife to join in sale of homestead, agrees that she shall receive the proceeds, the transaction is not fraudulent as to creditors (123-459, 144+152). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶52(4).

A deed conveying both a homestead and unexempt land is valid as to the homestead, even if fraudulent as to the unexempt land (134-400, 159+958). Frauds, Statute of, ¶52(3).

Declaratory of common law—The transfer with intent to delay or defraud creditors contemplated by § 7846 subd. 4 is a transfer fraudulent as to creditors as at common law (124-112, 144+433). Attachment, ¶44.

Transfers between relatives—Conveyance of land to a child in payment for services rendered in pursuance of a prior agreement is supported by a sufficient consideration as against creditors of the grantor (134-400, 159+958). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶96(2).

A deed by defendant to his daughter held in fraud of judgment creditors (126-141, 147+958). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶295(1).

Evidence admissible—In an action against a sheriff to recover personal property seized under execution against plaintiff's husband, evidence as to transactions by which her husband's farm had been transferred to plaintiff was properly admitted upon the question whether there was a scheme to defraud and as to whether the produce belonged to plaintiff or her husband (135-105, 160+249). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶286(8).

Preferences—Default judgment based upon a valid indebtedness procured by judgment creditor with co-operation of defendant to give creditor a paramount lien on lands and to defeat defendant's creditors was a preference, and when without special benefit to debtor was voidable only in bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings. Default judgment based upon a valid indebtedness amounting to a preference as against defendants' creditors is not void at common law, though obtained through collusion, unless debtor, co-operating with preferred creditor, secured some special advantage to himself (162+474). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶124.

A mortgage giving an existing creditor a preference is not invalid as to other creditors, unless the mortgagee is chargeable with notice of intent by the mortgagor to defraud creditors (129-481, 152+879). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶115(1).

Intent—In absence of an actual intent to defraud creditors, a transfer by a debtor to a creditor of property to pay or secure the debt is not fraudulent, though it may be a preference, unless it is made invalid by law, and then only in aid of some insolvency or bankruptcy proceeding (127-256, 149+372). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶4(1).

Evidence held to sustain a finding that there was no intent to defraud creditors, invalidating an assignment by a debtor to his creditor of the proceeds of an insurance policy on property that had been destroyed by fire (127-256, 149+372). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶298(1).

Evidence held to sustain a finding that a voluntary conveyance of land was actually fraudulent, and that it was made with intent to defraud subsequent creditors (129-356, 152+727). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶298(4).

A mortgage, executed without consideration, to protect the mortgagors against their own improvidence, did not work an estoppel against a proceeding to cancel the same, on the ground that it was given with intent to defraud creditors, where there were in fact no creditors entitled to complain (124-176, 144+761). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶174(4).

Judgments—In action to have lien of judgment declared inferior to lien of plaintiff's subsequent judgment, evidence held to sustain finding that former judgment was procured to defraud creditors, especially plaintiff, and was not founded on a bona fide indebtedness of same defendant (162+474). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶299(7).

Consideration—A voluntary conveyance of real estate is void as to subsequent creditors of the grantor, if it was actually fraudulent, and was made with intent to defraud such creditors (129-356, 152+727). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶74(4).

Conveyance of unexempt property without consideration, without retention of sufficient property to pay the grantor's debts, is void as to prior creditors (134-400, 159+958). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶58.

7015. Question of fact—Voluntary conveyances—

Bill of sale of personal property, made without other consideration than a promise of the transferee to sell the property at auction and apply the proceeds to the payment of an indebtedness due from the transferor to transferee upon an executory contract for the sale of land, held fraudulent as to creditors (123-444, 143+1190). Fraudulent Conveyances, ¶78.

If a transfer of a farm to plaintiff was made with intent to defraud her husband's creditors, whether she can hold the produce of the farm as against such creditors depends upon whether she, acting in good faith, raised such produce for her own use and benefit, and this is ordinarily a question for the jury (135-105, 160+249). Husband and Wife, ¶133½.

7017. Assignment of debt—

Failure to file the assignment of a debt as provided by this section does not render such assignment absolutely void, but casts upon the assignee the burden of proving that it was made in good faith and for value (124-160, 144+763). Assignments, ¶46.

7019. "Conveyance" defined—

LIENS FOR LABOR AND MATERIAL

FOR IMPROVEMENT OF REAL ESTATE

7020. Mechanics, laborers and materialmen—Whoever contributes to the improvement of real estate by performing labor, or furnishing skill, material or machinery, for any of the purposes hereinafter stated, whether under a contract with the owner of such real estate or at the instance of any agent, trustee, contractor or subcontractor of such owner, shall have a lien upon said improvement, and upon the land on which it is situated or to which it may be removed, for the price or value of such contribution; that is to say, for the erection, alteration, repair, or removal of any building, fixtures, bridge, wharf, fence, or other structure thereon, or for grading, filling in or excavating the same, or for clearing or grubbing land, or for digging or repairing any ditch, drain, well, fountain, cistern, reservoir, or vault thereon, or for laying, altering or repairing any sidewalk, curb, gutter, paving, sewer, pipe, or conduit in or upon the same, or in or upon the adjoining half of any highway, street or alley upon which the same abuts. (Amended '17 c. 285 § 1)

Construction of statute—The statutes conferring mechanics' liens are highly remedial, and are to receive a liberal construction in order that the object in enacting them may not be defeated (125-45, 145+620). Mechanics' Liens, ¶5.

Insurance money—One furnishing material for the construction of a building on a homestead has no claim or lien on the proceeds of insurance accruing on the destruction of the building by fire (132-372, 157+504). Homestead, ¶79.

Performance—Findings and evidence as to performance by subcontractor (see 132-357, 157+500).

Materials "furnished"—Actual delivery upon the premises of material sold and furnished a contractor for use in the construction of a building is not necessary, as against the owner, in order to effect a lien. Delivery of the material to the contractor, in good faith, is all that is necessary; and the owner may protect himself from fraudulent conduct of the contractor by requiring a bond from him to pay for materials purchased (127-277, 149+300, L. R. A. 1915E, 302). Mechanics' Liens, ¶48.

Materials furnished in good faith for the improvement of realty may be lienable, though not actually used in the work (127-138, 149+6, L. R. A. 1915B, 708). Mechanics' Liens, ¶48.

Where a materialman delivered to one house material, a part of which was intended for a house being constructed by the same contractor on an adjoining lot, and, on being informed of the mistake, charged the same to such other house, but such material was never in fact removed to or used in the construction of such house, a lien nevertheless attached thereto, which was superior to a mortgage placed thereon during the construction of the buildings (131-31, 154+511). Mechanics' Liens, ¶48; Mortgages, ¶151(3).

Material lienable—A lien may be enforced for lumber furnished for forms in the construction of a concrete foundation, though it was not incorporated into the structure (161+259). Mechanics' Liens, ¶47.

Coal and gasoline for generation of power, dynamite for blasting, lubricant, lighting materials and supplies, and materials for the erection of a toolhouse, furnished excavating contractors, held lienable under this section, as contributions to the improvement of defendant's realty; but supplies for and repairs and parts of the excavating machinery are not lienable, as they merely contribute to the contractor's personal property (127-138, 149+6, L. R. A. 1915B, 708). Mechanics' Liens, ¶45.

Improvements—Under the rule stated in 61-132, 63+257, 52 Am. St. Rep. 582, lighting fixtures do not become a part of the realty, at least under ordinary circumstances, and the value of such fixtures was improperly included in the amount adjudged to be a lien on the property (128-288, 150+1083). Mechanics' Liens, ¶31.

A combination steam heating and power plant placed by a tenant in the leased building will support a mechanic's lien only in the event that the plant constitutes a fixture in the legal sense (125-107, 145+964). Mechanics' Liens, ¶31.

That a tenant gave a chattel mortgage on articles to be attached to the leased premises did not preclude the attaching of a mechanic's lien for labor in making the attachment, though the mortgage was given with the assent of the landlord (125-107, 145+964). Chattel Mortgages, ¶138(1).

Architect's lien—An architect furnishing plans and specifications for the construction of a building is entitled to a lien on the building and land, though he does not supervise the construction, and though the owner abandons the building project (128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204). Mechanics' Liens, ¶35, 86.

Lien for cost of bond—Where the building contract provided that if the owner wanted a surety bond he should pay therefor, the cost of such bond required by the owner and paid for by the contractor was not a lienable claim (130-214, 153+594). Mechanics' Liens, ¶51.

[7020—]1. Contractor diverting payments from mechanics, laborers and materialmen guilty of larceny—That any contractor or subcontractor on any improvement to real estate within the meaning of Section 7020, General Statutes 1913, who, with intent to defraud, shall use the proceeds of any payment made to him on account of such improvement by the owner of such real estate or person having any improvement made, for any other purpose than the payment for labor, skill, material and machinery contributed to such improvement, while any such labor performed, or skill, material or machinery furnished for such improvement at the time of such payment remains unpaid for, shall be guilty of larceny of the proceeds of such payment so used. ('15 c. 105 § 1)

This section is not invalid as class legislation, or as imposing imprisonment for debt (158+829). Constitutional Law, ¶83(2), 208(6); Larceny, ¶2.

128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204; note under § 7020.

The contract price as agreed upon between the lien claimant and the party ordering the work is prima facie evidence of its value as against the owner (125-107, 145+964). Mechanics' Liens, ¶281(1).

7022. Lines of railway, telegraph, telephone, etc.—

128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204; note under § 7020.

Plaintiff, performing services for Minnesota telephone company on its system and on unauthorized branch line into Wisconsin, was entitled to enforce a lien for the full amount against the main line system in Minnesota (162+884). Mechanics' Liens, ¶182.

Where plaintiff performed labor for a telephone company in constructing its system in Minnesota and a branch line in Wisconsin, the lien was valid against whatever interest company had in the system (162+884). Mechanics' Liens, ¶187.

7023. When lien attaches—Notice—

Evidence held to show that a principal contractor agreed that a contemplated mortgage should be prior to mechanics' liens and that such liens would be discharged by the contractor (130-214, 153+594). Mechanics' Liens, ¶281(3).

A mortgage to secure future advances, which the mortgagee obligates himself to make, has priority over mechanics' liens which attach after the mortgage is given, but before the money is paid out (134-156, 158+918). Mortgages, ¶151(3).

Under this section all liens attach at the time the first item of material or labor is furnished for the beginning of the improvement, though the architect prepared plans some time earlier (134-156, 158+918, distinguishing 128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204). Mechanics' Liens, ¶166.

Where material is furnished and delivered upon the premises for an improvement thereon in good faith, the lien attaches at the time of delivery, and will not be defeated by an abandonment of the improvement (161+259). Mechanics' Liens, ¶111(2).

A lien for materials delivered to one of two buildings in course of construction by the same contractor on adjoining lots attached to the other building and was superior to a mortgage placed on the buildings during their construction, where the materialman was informed of his mistake, and charged the items to such other building, though the material was never in fact moved thereto or used therein (131-31, 154+511). Mechanics' Liens, ¶48; Mortgages, ¶151(3).

7024. Vendors, consenting owners, etc.—

Under this section improvements upon real estate are presumed to be made upon authority of the legal owner (134-408, 158+787). Mechanics' Liens, ¶279.

A corporation held charged with the knowledge of its secretary that improvements to its realty were being made at the instance of its lessee (124-317, 145+37). Corporations, ¶428(7).

Leased realty is subject to a mechanic's lien for improvements made at the instance of a lessee, when the lessor knows that the improvements are being made and fails without excuse to give the notice required by this section (124-317, 145+37). Mechanics' Liens, ¶78.

Evidence held to authorize finding that the owner consented to the making of improvements by a tenant (125-107, 145+964). Mechanics' Liens, ¶281(3).

By the provision of this section that when improvements are made by one person all persons interested in the land, otherwise than as bona fide incumbrancers or lienors, shall be deemed to have authorized such improvements, a presumption of consent is raised against the owner; but if he does not consent he may protect his interests by serving or posting notices, and the burden of proving such notices is on the owner (161+259). Mechanics' Liens, ¶279.

The owner of a ground lease, who assigned the leasehold and afterwards purchased the fee, held not permitted to defeat mechanics' liens accruing after his assignment (125-207, 145+1072). Mechanics' Liens, ¶63.

The burden of proving the giving or posting of notice under this section is upon the defendant landowner. (124-317, 145+37). Mechanics' Liens, ¶272.

Painting and decorating a building and putting on a section of new roof to fit the premises for occupancy by a tenant, are not "repairs" (125-107, 145+964). Mechanics' Liens, ¶26.

7026. Lien statement—

Time of filing—It is error to instruct that if some minor finishing touches were made upon the building, subsequent to the filing of the lien statement, in completion of the original contract, the lien was invalidated (123-353, 143+975). Mechanics' Liens, ¶132(5).

Where an architect prepared plans and specifications under a contract for a percentage of the total cost, the architect to supervise the construction, a lien statement filed within 90 days from the time that the owner repudiated the contract with the architect was in time, though it was filed more than 90 days after the last work was performed on the plans and specifications, the building project having been abandoned (128-281, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204). Mechanics' Liens, ¶132(9).

Where work done under several contracts is practically continuous and constitutes one job, only one lien statement need be filed (125-107, 145+964). Mechanics' Liens, ¶129.

Evidence held to show that work done was under two separate and unrelated contracts, so that there was no lien for materials furnished under one of the contracts which was finished more than 90 days prior to the filing of the lien (161+257). Mechanics' Liens, ¶132(11).

Findings of court that last items were not furnished with wrongful purpose of extending time for perfecting lien held sustained by the evidence (124-132, 144+472). Appeal and Error, ¶1009(2).

Excess in lien account—A light excess in a lien account filed, due to a clerical error in adding the items, held harmless (124-317, 145+37). Mechanics' Liens, ¶157(3).

Description of premises—Where the owner has two lots in one inclosure, and constructs a building on one of them, the fact that a lien statement ascribes the lien to the other lot does not invalidate the lien (125-45, 145+620). Mechanics' Liens, ¶157(1).

Misnomer of owner—Designation of the owner as First Presbyterian Church, instead of Trustees of First Presbyterian Church, held an amendable defect, so that judgment based thereon was binding on surety on contractor's bond to discharge liens (133-429, 158+709).

7027. Two or more buildings—

7028. Liens foreclosed by action—

128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204; note under § 7020.

A receiver may be appointed in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on a showing that it is necessary to protect or preserve the property (161+407). Mechanics' Liens, ¶283.

128-261, 150+908, L. R. A. 1915D, 204; note under § 7020.

If plaintiff or any other claimant fails to establish his lien or presents a defective pleading, it does not affect the rights of other lienholders, nor preclude them from making proof of all facts essential to the enforcement of their respective liens. An assertion of title to the property involved in an answer is put in issue without further pleading (161+387). Mechanics' Liens, ¶252.

The personal representative of the contractor, who died before commencement of an action to foreclose a materialman's lien, is a proper party, and the determination of the incidental issue as to the amount due plaintiff is conclusive upon the estate of the deceased contractor (124-132, 144+472). Executors and Administrators, ¶438(9), 453(4).

7031. Bill of particulars—

An affidavit that the averments in the pleading are true of the pleader's own knowledge, and that the attached bill of items is true and correct, is a sufficient verification of such bill of items (128-288, 150+1083). Mechanics' Liens, ¶271(19).

7033. Judgment, sale, redemption, etc.—

There can be no personal judgment with execution until after the foreclosure sale. The judgment in this case construed to intend a personal judgment and execution only after foreclosure sale (130-214, 153+594). Mechanics' Liens, ¶303(2).

The personal representative of a deceased contractor is a proper party in an action by a materialman to foreclose his lien, and a determination in such action of the incidental issue as to the amount due plaintiff is conclusive upon the estate of the deceased contractor (124-132, 144+472). Executors and Administrators, ¶438(9), 453(4).

A defendant, holding a lien claim, after trial, but before findings and adjudication, released his lien and elected to take personal judgment against the principal contractor with immediate execution. Held, that no legal prejudice could result to the debtor from such judgment, and the same is sustained (130-214, 153+594). Mechanics' Liens, ¶305.

7034. Severance of building, resale, receiver, etc.—

A receiver may be appointed in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on a sufficient showing that it is necessary to protect or preserve the property (161+407). Mechanics' Liens, § 283.

PERSONALTY IN POSSESSION7036. For keeping, repairing, etc.—

In so far as this act gives one transporting and storing property a lien superior to a chattel mortgage, it is not violative of the constitutional inhibition against impairment of contract rights or the taking of property without due process of law (124-144, 144+750). Constitutional Law, § 161, 300.

It was intended by this section that one transporting and storing property at the request of a chattel mortgagor in legal possession should have a lien superior to the interest of the chattel mortgagee (124-144, 144+750). Chattel Mortgages, § 138(1).

MOTOR-VEHICLES7053. To whom given—Against whom—Amount—

"Owner" includes a conditional vendee and a mortgagor in possession. This act is not to be given a more liberal construction than the statute relating to mechanics' liens for improvements on land (135-17, 159+1080). Bailment, § 18(2).

7054. Statement and notice—When and where filed—To state what—

Where upon different dates and as separate transactions labor or material is furnished for the repair of a motor vehicle, a single lien statement may be filed if the first item occurred within 60 days from the date of filing (135-17, 159+1080). Bailment, § 18(2).

7055. Action to enforce—Notice—Judgment—Sale—

A single action may be maintained to foreclose a lien embraced in a single statement, though consisting of items of labor or material furnished on different dates and as separate transactions within a period of 60 days prior to date of filing of statement (135-17, 159+1080). Bailment, § 18(2).

ON LOGS AND TIMBER7058. To whom given—Against whom—

A claim for furnishing teams and equipment for such teams is not within this section (128-5, 150+216). Logs and Logging, § 26(7).

7059. Lien statement—Filing—Assignment of lien—

A lien statement, showing neither demand for payment before the filing nor that the labor was terminated by the employer's act or by completion of the work, is insufficient (128-5, 150+216). Logs and Logging, § 33(2).

7060. Termination of lien—

Where work was commenced October 1st, and completed thereafter in the course of continuous employment, only that portion done between the date mentioned and April 1st following is within the provisions of this section (128-5, 150+216). Logs and Logging, § 28.

IN OTHER CASES7082. For threshing grain—

Cited (124-144, 144+750).

GENERAL PROVISIONS7085. Inaccuracies in lien statement—

A lien statement, otherwise in accordance with the statute, was not invalidated by the fact that it recited that the materials were furnished "for the following described improvements," without stating for what particular improvement. Where the owner had two lots in a single inclosure, the fact that a mechanic's lien statement for materials furnished for a house on one of the lots ascribed the lien to the other lot did not invalidate the lien (125-45, 145+620). Mechanics' Liens, § 157(1).

Where a lien claimant, who had performed his contract only in part, filed a lien for the amount which would have been due if he had performed in full, he thereby knowingly claimed more than was due, and lost his right to a lien (128-288, 150+1083). Mechanics' Liens, § 157(3).

[PLEDGES]

[7087—]1. Pledgee permitted to buy at public sale—Whenever a pledgee of personal property has a remedy to enforce his lien upon such property by sale thereof in case of default, by virtue of the contract creating such lien, any such pledgee, his legal representatives or assigns, may, fairly and in good faith, purchase such property or any part thereof, at any sale so made; provided, that such sale, if such pledgee shall wish to bid thereat, shall be at public auction and upon like notice as is required in case of execution sales of personal property in this state, and shall be conducted by the sheriff or his deputy of the county, or by a constable of the town in which such pledged property or some part thereof is situated at the time of giving such notice. ('17 c. 305 § 1)

7090. Marriages prohibited—

Evidence held to warrant directing a verdict for plaintiff in an action for breach of promise to marry, the defense in which was that defendant was subject to epileptic fits and was incompetent to marry under this section (123-498, 144+213, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 757, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 295). Breach of Marriage Promise, ~~§~~34.

7111. Grounds for divorce—

Subd. 3. Cruel and inhuman treatment—Evidence held to support finding of cruel and inhuman treatment (127-96, 148+1074). Divorce, ~~§~~130.

Evidence held sufficient to establish cruel and inhuman treatment (126-65, 147+825). Divorce, ~~§~~27(8), 130.

The evidence held not to justify the court on appeal in holding that a finding of cruelty was not supported (135-179, 160+494). Divorce, ~~§~~130, 150(2).

The jurisdiction of the Minnesota courts to grant a divorce for cruel and inhuman treatment is not affected by the fact that the acts and conduct alleged to constitute the cruel and inhuman treatment occurred outside the state, or by the fact that defendant has never resided in the state, or that the parties were not living together as husband and wife at the time that the acts occurred (132-340, 156+664). Divorce, ~~§~~59, 61.

Evidence held to support a finding that a wife was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of her husband (132-340, 156+664). Divorce, ~~§~~130.

Subd. 4. Sentence to imprisonment—This section applies to sentences passed before its enactment (135-179, 160+494). Venue, ~~§~~52(1).

Subd. 4 of this section does not limit the cause for divorce to future sentences of imprisonment, but a conviction and imprisonment initiated prior to the enactment of the statute, but after marriage, is ground for divorce (135-259, 160+687, L. R. A. 1917C, 159). Divorce, ¶13. Finding as to existence and continuance of imprisonment in a state prison held sufficient (135-259, 160+687). Divorce, ¶150(2).

Subd. 5. Desertion—Evidence held to support a finding of willful desertion of her husband by the wife (130-342, 153+745). Divorce, ¶37(15).

Evidence held to establish willful desertion (132-321, 156+348). Divorce, ¶133.

Where the wife brought an action for limited divorce, which remained undetermined for two years, defendant was entitled to amend his answer and demand a divorce on the ground of willful desertion by the wife, and in computing the period of such desertion time elapsing during the pendency of the action may be considered (130-342, 153+745). Divorce, ¶104.

7115. Requisites of complaint—

Necessity of demand for alimony (see 130-472, 153+864). Divorce, ¶203. See, also, note under § 7128, post.

7121. Custody of children, etc.—

Held that plaintiff, the mother, was, and that defendant was not, a fit person to have the custody of a seven year old son (132-321, 156+348). Divorce, ¶298(4).

Discretion of the trial court in refusing to disturb the custody of minor children placed by plaintiff with her mother while plaintiff was receiving treatment at a hospital for a nervous breakdown alleged to have resulted from defendant's cruel and inhuman treatment held not abused (135-307, 160+778). Divorce, ¶298(1).

Decree awarding alimony does not relieve the husband of his duty to support the children of the marriage, unless the decree makes express provision for such support (161+525). Divorce, ¶306, 324.

Award of custody of children to wife, suing for divorce, where she fails to establish grounds for divorce or for separation (see 161+525). Divorce, ¶294. See, also, note under § 7140.

161+525: notes under §§ 7121, 7140.

As to the custody of a child five years old, whose parents are divorced, the welfare of the child is the primary consideration, and requires that the custody be given to the mother, unless she is an unfit person to be charged with its bringing up (132-467, 156+1). Habeas Corpus, ¶99(3).

7123. Order may be revised—

The test of the validity of an order modifying a decree as to custody, so as to permit the father to visit the children at reasonable times, is whether there was an abuse of discretion. The welfare of the child being the prime consideration, where it appeared that a child was sensitive and of a nervous disposition, so that undue excitement was detrimental to his health, the denial of a father's application to modify the decree as to custody, so as to permit him to visit the child, was not an abuse of discretion (135-473, 159+1068). Divorce, ¶303(2, 3).

7128. Property of husband—Permanent alimony—

An award of alimony held reasonable and fair, but subject to modification to secure life support of wife (127-96, 148+1074). Divorce, ¶240(1).

In a suit for divorce, where personal service is made on defendant, the court has power to allow alimony, though the complaint contains no specific demand therefor and the defendant does not answer (130-472, 153+864). Divorce, ¶203.

Under this section and § 7129, the court has power to alter and modify its decree for alimony, so as to make it a specific lien on land acquired by the husband after the alimony decree was rendered (135-397, 161+148, L. R. A. 1917C, 1140). Divorce, ¶245(1).

Provision for alimony does not relieve the husband of his duty to support the children, unless the decree makes express provision for such support (161+525). Divorce, ¶306.

7129. Order for alimony, etc., revised—

129-538, 152+1101; 135-397, 161+148, L. R. A. 1917C, 1140; note under § 7128, ante.

7133. Effect of divorce—Name of wife—

A judgment for divorce does not abrogate a separation agreement by which the husband agrees to pay a specified monthly sum for the maintenance and support of the wife "for and during the term of her natural life, or while this separation continues," the judgment not making other provision for the support of the wife (161+402). Husband and Wife, ¶280.

LIMITED DIVORCES

7134. Separation—

Construction of this act as affected by construction placed upon it by the court of the state from which the statute was adopted (see 161+525). Statutes, ¶226.

7137. Defenses—

Award of custody of children to wife suing for divorce, though she fails to establish ground for divorce or for separation (see 161+525). Divorce, ¶294. See, also, note under § 7140.

7139. As to alimony and wife's property—

Award of custody of children to wife in her suit for divorce in which she fails to establish grounds for divorce or separation (see 161+525). Divorce, *§*294. See, also, note under § 7140.

7140. When separation not granted—

In an action by a wife for a divorce in which she fails to establish facts authorizing a divorce or decree of separation, but in which it appears that the parties are living apart, the court may award the custody of the children to her and require the husband to contribute toward their support (161+525). Divorce, *§*294.

MARRIED WOMEN

7143. Property rights—

Under this section a married woman may carry on business on her own account, and the avails of her contracts are not liable for her husband's debts (135-106, 160+249). Husband and Wife, *§*149(1).

In suit by wife for conversion, it is no defense that the property was delivered to the husband on his rebonding it in replevin (127-177, 149+2). Trover and Conversion, *§*22.

Chattel mortgage executed by husband on his wife's separate property is not binding on her, where she did not authorize its execution, either actually or by way of estoppel (127-177, 149+2). Husband and Wife, *§*137(7).

Where a deed to the wife was adjudged to be a mortgage, money deposited in court to redeem therefrom could not be subjected to the payment of a judgment against the husband (128-126, 150+396). Mortgages, *§*608½.

7146. Liability of husband and wife—

This section does not change the rule that as between husband and wife the duty to provide necessaries rests upon the husband (162+1060). Husband and Wife, *§*19(1).

Where the wife pays for such necessities out of her own funds as a contribution toward the family expenses and without expecting reimbursement therefor, she is not entitled to recover the amount so paid from the estate of her husband; but where she makes such payments without an understanding that they are a contribution by her toward such expenses for which no reimbursement is expected, she may recover the amount thereof from his estate (162+1060). Husband and Wife, *§*40.

7147. Contracts between husband and wife—

By virtue of this section a husband could not make a valid contract for the sale of his wife's land, either as her agent or otherwise, and such a contract is not binding on her unless she subsequently adopts and confirms it (131-299, 154+1086). Husband and Wife, *§*138(3).

ADOPTION AND CHANGE OF NAME

1917 c. 222 § 1 amends G. S. 1913 c. 73, so as to read as set forth in sections therein and herein numbered 7151-7161. Section 2 repeals G. S. 1913 §§ 7152, 7157, 7158, and all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith. By § 3 the act takes effect January 1, 1918.

7152. Investigation by board of control—Report, etc.—Upon the filing of a petition for the adoption of a minor child the court shall notify the state board of control. It shall then be the duty of the board to verify the allegations of the petition; to investigate the condition and antecedents of the child for the purpose of ascertaining whether he is a proper subject for adoption; and to make appropriate inquiry to determine whether the proposed foster home is a suitable home for the child. The board shall as soon as practicable submit to the court a full report in writing, with a recommendation as to the granting of the petition and any other information regarding the child or the proposed home which the court shall require. No petition shall be granted until the child shall have lived for six months in the proposed home. Provided, however, that such investigation and period of residence may be waived by the court upon good cause shown, when satisfied that the proposed home and the child are suited to each other. ('17 c. 222 § 1; old § 7152 repealed, '17 c. 222 § 2)

7153. Consent, when necessary—Except as herein provided no adoption of a minor shall be permitted without the consent of his parents, but the consent of a parent who has abandoned the child, or who cannot be found, or who is insane or otherwise incapacitated from giving such consent, or who has lost custody of the child through divorce proceedings or the order of a juvenile court, may be dispensed with, and consent may be given by the guardian, if there be one or if there be no guardian, by the state board of control. In case of illegitimacy the consent of the mother alone shall suffice. In all cases where the child is over fourteen years old his own consent must be had also. (Amended '17 c. 222 § 1)

7155. Notice of hearing—When the parents of any minor child are dead or have abandoned him, and he has no guardian in the state, the court shall order three weeks' published notice of the hearing on such petition to be given; the last publication to be at least ten days before the time set therefor. In every such case the court shall cause such further notice to be given to the known kindred of the child as shall appear to be just and practicable; provided that if there be no duly appointed guardian, a parent who has lost custody of a child through divorce proceedings, and the father of an illegitimate child who has acknowledged his paternity in writing or against whom paternity has been duly adjudged shall be served with notice in such manner as the court shall direct in all cases where the residence is known or can be ascertained. (Amended '17 c. 222 § 1)

Requisites, effect, and proof of common-law adoption (see 124-85, 144+455). Adoption, 6, 17, 21, 23.

A child adopted by a widow after her husband's death is not entitled to the benefits of subd. 9 of § 8208 of the Workmen's Compensation Act (133-265, 158+250). Master and Servant, 388.

7158. Annulment of adoption—If within five years after his adoption a child develops feeble-mindedness, epilepsy, insanity or venereal infection as a result of conditions existing prior to the adoption, and of which the adopting parents had no knowledge or notice, a petition setting forth such facts may be filed with the court which entered the decree of adoption, and if such facts are proved the court may annul the adoption and commit the child to the guardianship of the state board of control. In every such proceeding it shall be the duty of the county attorney to represent the interests of the child. ('17 c. 222 § 1; old § 7158, repealed '17 c. 222 § 2)

7160. Change of name—Procedure—Penalty—A person who shall have resided in any county for one year may apply to the district court thereof to have his name changed in the manner herein specified. He shall describe in his application all lands in the state in or upon which he claims any interest or lien, and shall appear personally before the court and prove his identity by at least two witnesses. If he be a minor, his guardian or next of kin shall also appear. Every person who, with intent to defraud, shall make a false statement in any such application, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Amended '17 c. 222 § 1)

7161. Order—Filing copies—If it shall appear to the court to be proper, it shall grant the application, and set forth in the order a description of the lands, if any, in which the applicant claims to have an interest. The clerk shall file such order, and record the same in the judgment book. If lands be described therein, a certified copy of the order shall be filed for record, by the clerk, with the register of deeds of each county wherein any of the same are situated. Any such order shall not be filed, nor any certified copy thereof be issued, until the applicant shall have paid to the clerk the cost of such record. The fee of the clerk shall be two dollars, and for each certified copy of the order, fifty cents. (Amended '17 c. 222 § 1)

DEPENDENT, NEGLECTED AND DELINQUENT CHILDREN

7162—Cited (123-382, 143+984, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 597).

The juvenile court act does not abrogate the function of the writ of habeas corpus to determine the question of custody of dependent children (123-508, 144+157). Habeas Corpus, 46, 99(1).

7168—Where a child, committed to the care of an association, leaves the home of persons to whom its custody is given by the association for sufficient cause, and finds a home with other persons, the prime consideration, on habeas corpus by the association, is the child's welfare, and not the legal right to custody. The determination in such case does not necessarily interfere with the plan of administration under this section and § 7174, especially in absence of radical differences in religious faiths of the contending custodians. However, the question of religious faith is an important element in the final determination. Welfare of child held to require her to be left in respondent's care, subject to visitation of relator, an eleemosynary association, to which her custody had been awarded by the juvenile court (123-508, 144+157). Habeas Corpus, ~~69~~99(3).

[7196—]1. Terms defined—This act shall apply only to children under the age of eighteen years. For the purposes of this act the term "dependent child" shall mean a child who is illegitimate; or whose parents, for good cause, desire to be relieved of his care and custody; or who is without a parent or lawful guardian able to adequately provide for his support, training and education, and is unable to maintain himself by lawful employment, except such children as are herein defined as "neglected" or "delinquent." The term "neglected child" shall mean a child who is abandoned by both parents, or, if one parent is dead, by the survivor, or by his guardian; or who is found living with vicious or disreputable persons, or whose home, by reason of improvidence, neglect, cruelty, or depravity on the part of the parents, guardian or other person in whose care he may be, is an unfit place for such child; or whose parents or guardian neglect and refuse, when able to do so, to provide medical, surgical or other remedial care necessary for his health or well being; or, when such child is so defective in mind as to require the custodial care and training of the state school for the feeble-minded, neglect and refuse to make application for his admission to said institution; or who, being under the age of twelve years, is found begging, peddling or selling any articles or singing or playing any musical instrument upon the street, or giving any public entertainment, or who accompanies or is used in aid of any person so doing. The term "delinquent child" shall mean a child who violates any law of this state or any city or village ordinance; or who is habitually truant or incorrigible; or who knowingly associates with vicious or immoral persons; or who without just cause and without the consent of his parents, guardian or other custodian absents himself from his home or place of abode, or who knowingly visits any place which exists, or where his presence is permitted, in violation of law; or who habitually uses obscene, profane or indecent language; or who is guilty of lewd or immoral conduct involving another person. The word "association" shall mean any corporation which includes in its purpose the care or disposition of children coming within the meaning of this act. ('17 c. 397 § 1)

By § 36 the act takes effect January 1, 1918.

[7196—]2. Same—Jurisdiction of district court—Jury trial—Jurisdiction of probate court—The district court in counties now or hereafter having a population of more than 33,000 inhabitants shall have original and exclusive jurisdiction in all cases coming within the terms of this act. In all trials in the district court under this act, except as hereinafter provided, any person interested therein may demand a jury; or a judge of his own motion may order a jury to try the case. In counties now or hereafter having a population of not more than 33,000 inhabitants the probate court shall have jurisdiction over the appointment of guardians of dependent, neglected or delinquent children for the purposes of this act. The jurisdiction of both the district and probate courts over cases of dependency, neglect and delinquency arising under this act shall extend to all persons resident or found within the territorial limits of the court, although the evidentiary facts showing such dependency, neglect or delinquency may have occurred outside such territorial limits. ('17 c. 397 § 2)

[7196—]3. Same—Designation of judge of district court—Juvenile court—Title of proceedings—In counties having more than 33,000 population the judges of the district court shall at such times as they shall determine designate one of their number whose duty it shall be to hear all cases arising under this act, unless absent or disabled, in which case another judge shall be temporarily assigned for said purposes; and such designation shall be for the period of one year unless otherwise ordered. The judge of the juvenile court so designated shall devote his first service and all necessary time to the business of the juvenile court, and this work shall have precedence over all his other court work. When deemed advisable the district judges may designate two judges for the purposes and subject to the provisions specified in this section. A special court room, to be designated as the juvenile court room, shall be provided for the hearing of such cases, and the findings of the court shall be entered in a book or books to be kept for that purpose, and known as the "juvenile record," and the court may for convenience be called the juvenile court of the appropriate county. The title of proceedings in the juvenile court, excepting prosecutions under sections 27 and 28 of this act [7196—27, 7196—28], shall be substantially as follows:

Juvenile Court, County of.....,
In the matter of.....as a dependent (or neglected or delinquent, as the case may be) child. ('17 c. 397 § 3)

[7196—]4. Same—Clerk to assign deputy—Salary—Duties—The clerk of the district court shall assign a deputy, subject to the approval of the judge of the juvenile court, who shall have special charge of the duties to be performed by the clerk in connection with the juvenile court, and whose duty it shall be to keep all books and records thereof, to issue summons and process, to attend to correspondence in connection with the court, and in general to perform such duties in the administration of the business of the court, whether or not herein specifically enumerated, as the judge may direct. Such deputy may be specially appointed for the purposes specified herein, in addition to other deputies provided for by law. In counties where more than one judge of the juvenile court has been designated a deputy clerk may be assigned for each. In counties having not less than 150,000 population the salary of the deputy clerk assigned pursuant to this section shall be $1,800 per annum. When not engaged in the duties pertaining to the juvenile court the deputy shall do such work in the clerk's office as the clerk may direct. When such deputy is absent the clerk, or another deputy, may perform the duties herein specified. The clerk may from time to time change the assignment of such deputy with the approval of the judge. When no assignment of a deputy has been made pursuant to this section the clerk of the district court shall perform the duties herein specified. ('17 c. 397 § 4)

[7196—]5. Same—Bailiff in counties having not less than 150,000 inhabitants—Duties—Salary—In counties having not less than 150,000 population a bailiff of the juvenile court may be appointed by the judge of the court. He shall serve four years, unless removed by the judge for cause, and shall be in attendance at all sessions of the court, make service of summons, writs, warrants and process issued out of the court, and perform such other duties as may be directed by the judge. He shall have all the authority of a deputy sheriff, and when his services are not required by the juvenile court he may, with the consent of the judge, be called upon by the sheriff to serve as such deputy. In case of his absence the sheriff shall, upon request of the judge, assign a deputy to perform his duties. The bailiff shall receive a salary of $1,500 per annum, which sum shall include all expense incurred by him in the performance of his duties within the county. ('17 c. 397 § 5)

[7196—]6. Same—Probate court as juvenile court—Records—Appeal—In counties of not more than 33,000 population the judge of probate shall provide himself with a suitable book in which to record all proceedings for the appointment of guardians under the provisions of this act, at the expense of the county, and shall record in said book all proceedings taken in each case coming before him under this act, but need not record any evidence taken except as it shall seem to him proper and necessary. The reasons for appointing a guardian shall be entered therein and any parent or the attorney for any child may appeal from the final disposition of the guardianship matter by complying with the law regulating appeals from probate courts. When acting under the provisions of this act the probate court may for convenience be called the juvenile court of the appropriate county. ('17 c. 397 § 6)

[7196—]7. Same—Petition—Any reputable person resident in the county, having knowledge of a child in the county who appears to be either dependent, neglected or delinquent; and any agent of the state board of control or the state department of labor and industries may file with the judge or clerk of the court having jurisdiction in the matter a petition in writing, setting forth the facts and verified by affidavit. The petition shall set forth the name and residence of each parent, if known, and if both are dead or the residence unknown, then the name and residence of the legal guardian, or if there be none, or if his residence is unknown, then the name and residence of some near relative, if there be one and his residence is known. It shall be sufficient that the affidavit is upon information and belief. ('17 c. 397 § 7)

[7196—]8. Same — Summons — Notice — Warrant — Hearing — Temporary care of child—Upon the filing of the petition a summons shall be issued by the judge or clerk of the court requiring the person having custody or control of the child, or with whom the child may be, to appear with the child at a place and time stated in the summons, which time shall not be less than twenty-four hours after service. Such place may be in the county seat of the county, or in any other city or village in the county, at the discretion of the court. It shall be sufficient to confer jurisdiction if service is made at any time before the day fixed in the summons for the return thereof; but in such case the court if so requested shall not proceed with the hearing earlier than the second day after the services. The summons shall be served as provided by law for the service of summons in civil actions, and may be served by a probation officer. The parents of the child, if living, and their residence is known, or its legal guardian, if one there be, or if there is neither parent or guardian, or if his residence is not known, then some relative, if there be one and his residence is known, shall be notified of the proceedings, and in any case the judge may appoint some suitable person to act in behalf of the child. Where the person to be notified resides within the county, service of notice shall be the same as service of the summons, but in any other case service of notice shall be made in such manner as the court may direct. If the person summoned as herein provided shall fail without reasonable cause to appear and abide the order of the court, or bring the child, he may be proceeded against as in case of contempt of court. In case the summons cannot be served or the party served fails to obey the same, and in any case when it shall be made to appear to the court that such summons will be ineffectual, or that the welfare of the child requires that he shall be brought forth-into the custody of the court, a warrant may issue on the order of the court, either against the parent or guardian or the person having custody of the child or with whom the child may be, or against the child himself. On the return of the summons or other process, or on the appearance of the child with or without summons or other process in person before the court, and on the return of the service of notice, if there be any person to be notified, or a personal appearance or written consent to the proceedings of the person or persons, if any to be notified, or as soon thereafter as may be, the court shall proceed to hear and dispose of the case in a summary manner. Pending the final disposition of any case, the child may be retained in the custody of the person having charge of the same, or may be kept in some suitable place provided by the village, city or county authorities, or in some suitable place designated by the court, at the expense of the county. ('17 c. 397 § 8)

mitted to their care, and in the performance of their duties shall have the general powers of a peace officer; and it shall be their duty to make such investigations with regard to any child as may be required by the court before, during or after the trial or hearing, and to furnish to the court such information and assistance as may be required; to take charge of any child before or after trial or hearing whenever so directed by the court, and to keep such records and to make such reports to the court as the court may order. Probation officers heretofore or hereafter appointed under the provisions of chapter 154, General Laws of Minnesota, 1899, and all laws amendatory thereof, being sections 9385, 9386, 9387, 9388, 9389, 9390 and 9391, General Statutes 1913, shall be subject to the orders of the court in reference to all matters covered by the provisions of this act. Probation officers appointed under authority of this act shall serve without compensation from the county; provided that in counties of more than 33,000 population a majority of the judges of the district court may direct the payment of such salary to probation officers as may be approved by the county board; and provided further that in other counties probation officers shall receive the same fees as constables for similar services, including all travel, and in addition thereto such salary as may be fixed by the judge and approved by the county board. ('17 c. 397 § 9)

[7196—]10. Same—Expert assistance in certain cases—In any county of more than 150,000 population the court may establish a department of the juvenile probation system of such county for the physical and mental diagnosis of cases of children who are believed to be physically or mentally diseased or defective, and may appoint as special probation officers a competent nurse and a duly qualified physician, whose salaries shall be fixed by the judge with the approval of the county board. ('17 c. 397 § 10)

[7196—]11. Same—Dependent or neglected children—Disposition—When any child shall be found to be dependent or neglected, within the meaning of this act, the court may make an order committing the child to the care of the state board of control, or of the state public school or some other suitable state institution, or to the care of some reputable citizen of good moral character, or to the care of some association willing to receive it, embracing in its objects the purpose of caring for or obtaining homes for dependent or neglected children, which association shall have been accredited as provided by law. In appropriate cases the child may be left with the parents subject to such remedial supervision as the court may direct. The court may, when the health or condition of the child shall require it, cause the child to be placed in a public hospital or institution for treatment or special care; or in a private hospital or institution which will receive it for like purpose without charge. Provided, however, that in no case shall a dependent child be taken from his parents without their consent unless, after diligent effort has been made to avoid such separation, the same shall be found needful in order to prevent serious detriment to the welfare of such child. ('17 c. 397 § 11)

[7196—]12. Same—Guardianship—Adoption—In any case where the court shall award a dependent or neglected child to the care of the state board of control, or of any association or individual in accordance with the provisions of this act, the child shall, unless otherwise ordered, become a ward, and be subject to the guardianship of the state board of control or of the association or individual to whose care it is committed; but such guardianship shall not include the guardianship of any estate of the child, except as provided in section 17 of this act [7196—17]. Such board, association or individual shall have authority to place such child in a family home, with or without indenture, and may be made party to any proceeding for the legal adoption of the child, and may by its or his attorney or agent appear in any court where such proceedings are pending and consent to such adoption. Provided, however, that when adoption proceedings for any such child are commenced in any other court than the court which originally committed such child, then notice of the filing of the petition in such adoption proceedings shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the court which originally committed such child, at least thirty days before any final decree of adoption shall be entered. ('17 c. 397 § 12)

[7196—]13. Same—Hearing when continued—Commitment by district court—Discharge—In the case of a delinquent child the court may continue the hearing from time to time and may place the child in the care or custody of a probation officer, and may allow the child to remain in his own home, subject to the visitation of the probation officer, such child to report to the probation officer as often as may be required, and subject to be returned to the court for further or other proceedings whenever such action may appear to be necessary; or the court may cause the child to be placed in a suitable family home, subject to the friendly supervision of a probation officer and the further order of the court; or it may authorize the child to be boarded out in some suitable family home, in case provision is made by voluntary contribution or otherwise for the payment of the board of such child, until suitable provision may be made for the child in a home without such payment. A child found delinquent in the district court may be committed by the court to the state training school for boys or the Minnesota home school for girls, or to any institution established by law or incorporated under the laws of this state that may care for delinquent children, or to any place provided by the town or county suitable to the care of such children. In appropriate cases the court may commit the child to the care and custody of some association that will receive it, embracing in its objects the care of neglected or dependent children. In no case shall a child be held under any such commitment beyond the age of twenty-one years. A child committed to such an institution or association shall be subject to the control of the board of managers thereof, and the said board shall have power to parole the child on such conditions as it may prescribe, and the court shall have power to discharge the child from custody whenever in its judgment such action will be for the best interests of the child. Every child committed to the state training school for boys or the Minnesota home school for girls shall be subject to the guardianship of the state board of control, and to all the laws and regulations relating to discipline in and parole and discharge from said schools. No child shall be discharged from either of said schools within one year after commitment without the approval of the committing court; thereafter such approval shall not be required. ('17 c. 397 § 13)

[7196—]14. Same—County home schools—In counties of over 33,000 population the county board shall have authority to purchase, lease, erect, equip and maintain a county home school for boys and girls, or a separate home school for boys and a separate home school for girls, and the same may, with the approval of the district court judges, be a separate institution, or it may be established and operated in connection with any other organized charitable or educational institution; but the plans, location, equipment and operation of said county home school shall in all cases have the approval of the judges of the district court. There shall be a superintendent or matron, or both, appointed for such home, who shall be probation officers of the juvenile court, and shall be appointed and removed by the district judges. The salaries of the superintendent, matron and other employes shall be fixed by the judges of the district court, subject to the approval of the county board. The juvenile court may place in said home school, for a period of not more than six months under any order, any child coming before said court, and any child who is placed in such home school may be released therefrom by order of said court at any time. Provided, that a delinquent child may be committed during the pleasure of the court to any county home school, or any orphans' home conducted by a charitable institution, where the inmates are taught the branches of study usually pursued in the public schools, and where agriculture, horticulture, gardening or domestic science is studied and carried on by the inmates thereof; but in no case shall such child be detained beyond his majority. The county board of all counties to which this section applies is hereby authorized, empowered and required to provide the necessary funds to make all needful appropriations to carry out the provisions of this section. The board of education, commissioner of education or other persons having charge of the public schools in any city of the first or second class, in a county where a county home school is maintained pursuant to the provisions of this section, shall have authority to furnish all necessary instructors, school books and school supplies for the boys and girls placed in any such home school. ('17 c. 397 § 14)

[7196—]15. Same—Existing home schools continued—All juvenile detention homes, farms and industrial schools heretofore established under section 5, chapter 285, Laws 1905, as amended by chapter 172, Laws 1907, and chapter 353, Laws 1911, (being section 7166, General Statutes, 1913), or chapter 83, Laws 1913, (being sections 7194, 7195 and 7196, General Statutes, 1913) or chapter 228, Laws 1915, are hereby declared to be county home schools within the meaning of this act; and all the provisions hereof relating to county home schools shall apply thereto. ('17 c. 397 § 15)

[7196—]16. Same—Guardians for delinquents in probate court—When any child is found delinquent in a probate court the court may appoint the state board of control to be the guardian of such child, or any institution or association incorporated under the laws of this state that may care for delinquent children and become their guardian, or any suitable city, county or state institution. The provisions of section 13 [7196—13] relative to the control, parole and discharge of delinquent children committed by district courts shall apply to delinquent children placed under guardianship by probate courts. In all cases girls committed to the state home school for girls shall be accompanied to said school by a woman. ('17 c. 397 § 16)

[7196—]17. Same—Property of child—If any child placed under guardianship by a probate court pursuant to the provisions of this act has any property, the income thereof shall, unless more than is necessary, be applied to the education of such child; and upon cause shown to the court the principal or any part thereof may be used for the same purpose. ('17 c. 397 § 17)

[7196—]20. Same—Religious belief of parents—The court in committing any child, or appointing a guardian for him under the provisions of this act, shall place him so far as it deems practicable in the care and custody of some individual holding the same religious belief as the parents of the child, or with some association which is controlled by persons of like religious faith with the parents. ('17 c. 397 § 20)

[7196—]21. Same—Criminal proceedings—The adjudication of a juvenile court that a child is delinquent shall in no case be deemed a conviction of crime; but the court may, in its discretion, cause any alleged delinquent child of the age of twelve years or over to be proceeded against in accordance with the laws that may be in force governing the commission of and punishment for crimes and misdemeanors, or for the violation of municipal ordinances, by an order directing the county attorney to institute such prosecution as may be appropriate. ('17 c. 397 § 21)

[7196—]22. Same—Transfer of cases from municipal courts, etc.—Whenever any minor is arraigned upon a criminal charge before a judge of a municipal court or justice of the peace, otherwise than upon an order transferring the case from a juvenile court, the judge or justice shall inquire concerning the age of such minor, and if it satisfactorily appears that he is under the age of eighteen years the case shall forthwith be transferred to the juvenile court of the county. Such transfer shall be effected by filing with the judge or clerk of the juvenile court a certificate showing the name, age and residence of the child, the names and addresses of his parents or guardian, if known, the specific charge upon which he has been arraigned, and the name and residence of the complainant. The certificate shall have the effect of a petition filed in the juvenile court; but the judge of said court may in his discretion direct the filing of a new petition, which shall supersede such certificate. The judge of the municipal court or the justice shall have power to commit such child to appropriate custody, when deemed advisable, for a period of not more than one week and to fix reasonable bail, upon furnishing which said child shall be returned to the custody of his parents or guardian to respond to such proceedings as shall be had in the juvenile court. ('17 c. 397 § 22)

[7196—]23. Same—Arrest—Warrants—Nothing in this act shall be construed to forbid the arrest of any person, with or without warrant, as is now or hereafter may be provided by law; or to forbid the issue of warrants by magistrates as so provided. ('17 c. 397 § 23)

[7196—]24. Same—Privacy of hearings and records—Upon the trial or hearing of cases arising under this act the court shall exclude the general public from the room wherein such trial or hearing is had, admitting only such persons as may have a direct interest in the case, witnesses, officers of the court and accredited persons interested in the study of social conditions. The records of all cases may be withheld from indiscriminate public inspection at the discretion of the court; but such records shall at all times be open to the inspection of any child to whom the same relates, and to his parents and guardian. For the purposes of this section the records of juvenile probation officers and county home schools shall be deemed records of the court. This section shall not be deemed to apply to prosecutions under Sections 27 and 28 [7196—27, 7196—28]. ('17 c. 397 § 24)

[7196—]25. Same—Support by parents—In any case in which the juvenile court of a county having a population of over 33,000 shall find a child dependent, neglected or delinquent, it may, in the same or a subsequent proceeding, upon the parents of said child, or either of them, being duly summoned or voluntarily appearing proceed to inquire into the ability of such parent or parents to support the child or contribute to his support, and if the court shall find such parent or parents able to support the child or contribute thereto, the court may enter such order or decree as shall be according to equity in the premises, and may enforce the same by execution, or in any way in which a court of equity may enforce its orders or decrees. ('17 c. 397 § 25)

[7196—]26. Same—Unlawful removal of child—Any unlawful removal, attempt to remove or interference with a child committed by a juvenile court to the custody or guardianship of any institution, association or individual is hereby declared to be contempt of court and punishable accordingly. ('17 c. 397 § 26)

[7196—]28. Same—Jurisdiction—In counties having a population of over 33,000 the juvenile court shall have jurisdiction of the offenses described in Section 27 [7196—27]. Prosecutions hereunder shall be begun by complaint duly verified and filed in the juvenile court of the county. If the defendant is found guilty the court may impose conditions upon him; and so long as he shall comply therewith to the satisfaction of the court the sentence imposed may be suspended. ('17 c. 397 § 28)

[7196—]32. Same—Act to be liberally construed—This act shall be liberally construed to the end that its purpose may be carried out, to-wit: That in all proceedings arising under its provisions the court shall act upon the principle that to the child concerned there is due from the state the protection and correction which he needs under the circumstances disclosed in the case; and that whenever it is necessary to provide for him elsewhere than with his parents his care, custody and discipline shall approximate as nearly as may be that which ought to be given by his parents; and that in all cases where it can properly be done he shall be placed in an approved family home and become a member of the family by legal adoption or otherwise. ('17 c. 397 § 32)

7197—The general statutory system of providing for the poor (§ 3067) did not curtail the power of the legislature to pass this act (123-382, 143+084, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 597). Infants, 6-12.

The relief provided by this section is not a matter of purely local concern, and its provisions are operative in a county wherein the town system of caring for the poor prevails, as well as elsewhere, and also in a city in such county, though it maintains its own pauper system. A child dependent upon the public for support is within § 7178, and hence within this section, though the sole reason of such delinquency is the financial inability of its parent to support it, and though there is neither delinquency on the part of the child nor other unfitness on the part of the parent. There was no error or impropriety in entertaining a joint application for relief in behalf of several children of the same parents residing with the mother. In such case the court was not required to make the same order with reference to all the children. The probate court held, on the facts, properly to have exercised its power to grant relief under this section (123-382, 143+984, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 597). Infants, $\text{C}\text{--}12\frac{1}{2}$.

[7199—]1. Allowances to mothers—When made—Amount—Whenever any child under the age of sixteen years who is not lawfully entitled to apply for and receive an employment certificate is found by juvenile court to be dependent the court shall, when requested so do to [to do], and in the same proceeding, make its findings upon the following points:

- (a) Whether the mother of the child is a widow;
- (b) If her husband is living, whether he is an inmate of a penal institution under a sentence which will not terminate within three months after the date of such finding; or is an inmate of a state insane asylum or hospital, or of a state hospital for inebriates; or is unable to labor for the support of his family by reason of physical disabilities; or is and for one year has been under indictment for the crime of abandoning such child;
- (c) Whether the dependency of the child is due to the poverty of the mother without neglect, improvidence or other fault on her part;
- (d) Whether the mother is otherwise a proper person to have the custody of the child;
- (e) Whether the welfare of the child will be subserved by permitting him to remain in the custody of the mother, if adequate means of support shall be provided;
- (f) Whether the mother is a citizen of the United States or whether she or her husband has made declaration of intention to become a citizen and has resided two years in the state and one year in the county.

Upon the making and filing of findings that the mother is a widow or that support is not obtainable from her husband by reason of one of the alternatives specified in subdivision (b), together with findings in the affirmative upon the points specified in subdivisions (c), (d), (e), (f), the courts shall further find, and order the payment of the sum of money which it deems necessary for the county to allow the mother in order to enable her to bring up the child properly in her own home, not exceeding fifteen dollars per month for one child and not exceeding ten dollars per month for each additional child; provided, however, that no allowance shall be made when the husband is under indictment for abandonment unless the court is satisfied that he is a fugitive from justice and that the mother has in good faith assisted and will continue to assist in all reasonable efforts to apprehend him. ('17 c. 223 § 1)

[7199—]2. Same—Manner of payment—Subsequent order—A certified copy of such order shall be filed with the county auditor and thereafter, so long as such order remains in force and unmodified, it shall be the duty of the county auditor each month to draw his warrant on the general revenue fund of the county in favor of the mother for the amount specified in such order. The warrant shall be delivered to the clerk of the court making the order and shall by the latter be delivered to the mother upon her executing a receipt therefor, to be retained by the clerk with the other records in the proceedings relating to the child. It shall be the duty of the county treasurer to pay the warrant out of the general revenue fund of the county when properly presented. No such allowance shall be paid toward the support of any child who has become lawfully entitled to apply for and receive an employment certificate or who has ceased to be under the immediate care of the mother. The court may for cause duly shown revoke or modify any order previously made. A certified copy of any such subsequent order shall forthwith be filed with the county auditor and thereafter warrants shall be drawn and payments made only in accordance with such subsequent order. ('17 c. 223 § 2)

[7199—]3. Same—Court may impose conditions—The court may require any mother to whom an allowance is made under this act to make a reasonable effort to learn the English language and customarily use the same in her family. The court may also require the mother to do such remunerative work outside her own home as she can do without detriment to her health or neglect of her family and may limit the number of days per week when she may be so employed. ('17 c. 223 § 3)

[7199—]4. Same—County child welfare board—Duty to assist court—In counties where there is a county child welfare board as provided by law such board, when so requested by the court, shall consider applications for allowance under this act and shall advise the court concerning their merit, the sum, if any, which ought to be allowed and the special conditions, if any, upon which the same ought to be granted. ('17 c. 223 § 4)

[7199—]5. Same—Investigation and supervision—Official reports as basis for findings—Before making any order or allowance under this act it shall be the duty of the court, either through the judge in person or through the county child welfare board and its agents or a probation officer designated for that purpose or an official investigator appointed as provided in section 6 of this act, to make inquiry as to all the points necessary to establish the right to such allowance; and particularly to inquire whether the surroundings of the household, including its other members, are such as to make for the good character of children growing up therein; to ascertain all the financial resources of the family, including the ability of its members of working age to contribute to its support and if need be to urge upon such members their proper contribution to take all lawful means to secure support for the family from relatives under legal obligation to render such support; to ascertain the ability of other relatives to assist the family and to interview individuals, societies and other agencies which may be deemed appropriate sources of such assistance. Every family to which an allowance has been made shall be visited at its home by a representative of the court at least once in three months; and after each visit the person making the same shall make and keep on file as a part of the official record of the case a detailed statement of the condition of the home and family, and all other data which may assist in determining the wisdom of the allowance granted and the advisability of its continuance; and the court shall at least once in each year reconsider every case in which an allowance has been made, and take such action as the facts then existing shall warrant. All findings and orders provided for herein may be made upon the written reports of official investigators with like effect as if based upon competent testimony given in open court. ('17 c. 223 § 5)

[7199—]7. Same—Reconsideration upon complaint—Appeal—Upon complaint being made to the county attorney by a taxpayer of the county that any person is unlawfully receiving an allowance out of the county funds on account of an alleged dependent child it shall be the duty of the county attorney to investigate such complaint and if he finds it to have probable cause to bring it to the attention of the court by appropriate proceedings. The court shall hear such evidence and argument as shall be offered and shall thereupon make its order confirming, modifying or setting aside the order complained of, from which decision an appeal may be taken as in a civil action. ('17 c. 223 § 7)

[7199—]9. Same—Terms defined—The word "husband" in this act may denote either the father of a dependent child or a stepfather of whose family the child is or has been a member. The word "mother" may denote either the mother or a step-mother of whose family the child is a member. ('17 c. 223 § 9)

[7199—]10. Same—Allowance to grandmother—Whenever the court shall be of the opinion that the welfare of a dependent child will be best served by permitting him to live in the family of his grandmother, all the provisions of this act shall be so construed as to apply to such grandmother and her husband in like manner as to the mother and her husband. ('17 c. 223 § 10)

[7199—]12. Same—Duties of board of control—It shall be the duty of the state board of control to promote efficiency and uniformity in the administration of this act. To that end it shall advise and co-operate with courts and shall supervise and direct county child welfare boards with respect to methods of investigation, oversight and record-keeping; shall devise, recommend and distribute blank forms; shall by its agents visit and inspect families to which allowances have been made; shall have access to all records and other data kept by courts and other agencies concerning such allowances; and may require such reports from clerks of the courts, child welfare boards, probation officers and other official investigators as it shall deem necessary. ('17 c. 223 § 12)

[7199—]13. Same—Payments to be reported to state officers—State to allow one-third—During the month of January in each year the county auditor shall certify under oath, in duplicate, to the state auditor and the state board of control the amount paid out by the county during the preceding calendar year for allowances under this act; and if the board of control shall approve the same it shall cause its approval to be indorsed by its chairman on the certificate received by the state auditor; whereupon the state auditor shall draw his warrant to the county treasurer for one-third of the amount so certified to have been paid out by the county and the state treasurer shall pay the same and the county treasurer shall credit the sum so paid to the general revenue fund of the county. ('17 c. 223 § 13)

If such designation is not made, a judge of probate may order the notice to be published in any legal newspaper within the county. ('17 c. 151 § 1)

7233. Notice of filing orders—

The notice required by this section does not limit the time for appeal from the judgment rendered (133-20, 157+709). Courts, ¶202(5).

DESCENT OF PROPERTY

7236. Real estate in general—Posthumous children—

A parent may, by will, entirely disinherit a child (131-56, 154+741, L. R. A. 1916D, 421). Descent and Distribution, ¶47(1); Wills, ¶1.

Homestead entryman on public lands, who is entitled to a patent by having commuted and made final proof and payment is the equitable owner of the land, and same descends according to state law (122-1, 141+851). Descent and Distribution, ¶8; Public Lands, ¶35(4, 5).

7237. Homestead—

Acceptance of testamentary provisions as precluding claim to proceeds of homestead (122-113, 142+16). Homestead, ¶136.

The surviving spouse, who has consented to her husband's will, cannot withdraw her consent after his death, and elect to take under the statute, unless the consent was procured by the husband by concealment from the wife of his true financial condition (129-442, 152+845, L. R. A. 1915E, 815). Wills, ¶796.

The right of the surviving spouse vests at the death of the decedent, and is not dependent on a setting apart of the homestead under §§ 7307 and 7308, and, in the absence of a setting apart, the surviving spouse, and not the administrator, is entitled to possession (130-462, 153+876). Homestead, ¶140.

The fee vests in the children, subject to the life estate of the surviving husband, and the husband cannot waive, burden, or impair their remainder interest, by any acts as life tenant or as administrator (130-462, 153+876). Homestead, ¶142(2).

Where the surviving husband is tenant for life of the homestead of the deceased spouse, and also administrator of her estate, he cannot charge the estate with taxes paid or improvements made (130-462, 153+876). Executors and Administrators, ¶110.

7238. Lands other than homestead—The surviving spouse shall also inherit an undivided one-third of all other lands of which decedent at any time during coverture was seized or possessed, to the disposition whereof, by will or otherwise, such survivor shall not have consented in writing, except such as have been transferred or sold by judicial partition proceeding or appropriated to the payment of decedent's debts by either execution or judicial sale, by general assignment for the benefit of creditors, or by insolvency or bankruptcy proceedings, and subject to all judgment liens. But the land so inherited shall be subject in their just proportion to such debts of the decedent as are not paid out of his personal estate. The residue of such other lands, or, if there be no surviving spouse, then the whole thereof, shall descend, subject to the debts of the intestate, in the manner following:

First—in equal shares to his surviving children, and to the lawful issue of his deceased children, by right of representation.

Second—if there is no surviving child and no lawful issue of any deceased child, and the intestate leaves a surviving spouse, then the whole estate shall descend to such spouse.

Third—if the intestate leaves no issue nor spouse, his estate shall descend to his father and mother in equal shares, or, if but one survives, then to such survivor.

Fourth—if there be no surviving issue nor spouse, nor father nor mother, his estate shall descend in equal shares to his brothers and sisters, and to the lawful issue of any deceased brother or sister, by right or [of] representation.

Fifth—if the intestate leaves neither issue, spouse, father, mother, brother nor sister his estate shall descend to his next kin in equal degree, except that when there are two or more collateral kindred in equal degree, but claiming through different ancestors, those who claim through the nearest ancestor shall be preferred to those claiming through an ancestor more remote.

Sixth—if any person dies leaving several children, or leaving one child and the issue of one or more other children, any such surviving child dies under age and not having been married, all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent shall descend in equal share to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other children who have died, by right of representation.

Seventh—if, at the death of such child, who dies under age and not having been married, all the other children of his said parent being also dead, and any of them having left issue, the estate that came to such child by inheritance from his said parent shall descend to all the issue of the other children of the same parent, according to the right of representation.

Eighth—if the intestate leaves no spouse nor kindred, his estate shall escheat to the state. (Amended '17 c. 272 § 1)

In general—The surviving spouse and next of kin, as designated in § 8175, come within the designation of heirs at law as used in this section (125-357, 147+278). Death, ¶32.

Administrator taking possession of land of the estate is chargeable with the rents and profits received therefrom, and if the amount thereof cannot be determined he is chargeable with the rental value thereof (130-462, 153+876). Executors and Administrators, ¶477.

The right of a surviving spouse under this section is not affected by § 7242 (122-190, 142+129). Descent and Distribution, ¶53.

Where a decedent leaves neither issue, spouse, father, mother, brother, or sister, but leaves issue of deceased brothers and sisters, his property descends to them per stirpes, and not per capita, under this section as it now stands, giving effect to the change in the law made by R. L. 1905 (135-145, 160+253). Descent and Distribution, ¶43.

Wife's interest in husband's realty—A vendee in a contract of sale of lands, who pays part of the price together with taxes and assessments, and enters into possession and makes improvements, has an equitable title to which his wife's statutory marital right attaches, though the contract provides that the vendor may convey to the vendee's assignees. In such case the wife, in order to maintain an action at law against the vendor to recover damages on the ground that he had conspired with the husband to cancel the contract, must show that the land has passed into the hands of an innocent purchaser (123-483, 144+222). Husband and Wife, ¶6(2, 3).

Where husband, without joinder of wife, entered into agreement for purchase of land, the wife could not resist a reformation of the contract on the ground that such reformation would affect her inchoate interest in the property (129-217, 152+268). Husband and Wife, ¶212.

Husband's interest in wife's realty—Upon the death of a wife possessing a vested estate in remainder, which accrued upon the death of the testator, her estate passes to her husband (126-247, 148+112). Descent and Distribution, ¶17.

Election—The surviving spouse of a nonresident testator may renounce, though she also is a nonresident. (122-190, 142+129). Wills, ¶779.

Withdrawal of consent to will—Consent given by the surviving spouse cannot be withdrawn, and an election made to take under the statute, unless for legal grounds, such as a failure of decedent to make a fair disclosure of his property is invalid. (129-442, 152+845, L. R. A. 1915E, 815). Wills, ¶796.

[7238—]1. Dower and curtesy, etc., in lands conveyed by spouse, etc., prior to January 1, 1902, abolished—All inchoate estates in dower and curtesy, and all inchoate estates or statutory interests in lieu of dower and curtesy, are hereby abolished in all lands in this state which have been conveyed prior to January 1, 1902, by the husband or wife of the one entitled to such inchoate dower or curtesy, or statutory interest, by a conveyance in writing. ('17 c. 450 § 1)

[7238—]2. Same—Limitation of actions—No action for the recovery of real property, or of any right therein, or the possession thereof, shall be maintained by any person having any estate in dower or by the curtesy or any estate or statutory interest in lieu of dower or by the curtesy therein, or by anyone claiming, by, through or under any such person, where it appears that the husband and wife of such person conveyed such real property, or any interest therein, by a conveyance in writing, prior to the first day of January, 1902; and no action shall be maintained for the recovery of real property, or of any right therein, or the possession thereof, by any person claiming as heir of any person who has conveyed land claimed as a homestead at the time of the conveyance and where such conveyance was made prior to January 1st, 1902, unless such action shall be commenced on or prior to the first day of December, 1917, and notice thereof filed for record at the time of the commencement of said action in the office of the register of deeds in the county where said real property is situate. ('17 c. 450 § 2)

7239. Election—Interpretation—Devise not additional—

In general—This section applies by its terms only to cases where the will of a deceased parent makes provision for a surviving spouse in lieu of the rights in his or her estate secured by statute, and not to a case where testator has no lineal descendants (135-357, 160+1016, L. R. A. 1917C, 504). Wills, ¶800.

A contract by a widow, by which she waived her statutory rights in testator's estate, held fair and binding (161+395). Wills, ¶740(2, 3, 4).

Withdrawal of consent to will—A surviving spouse cannot withdraw consent to decedent's will and elect to take under the statute, in absence of legal grounds for such withdrawal, such as a failure of decedent to make a fair disclosure of his property at the time the consent was given. A husband held to have failed to make a fair disclosure to his wife as to his property at the time she consented to his will, so that she was entitled to withdraw such consent and elect to take under the statute (129-442, 152+845, L. R. A. 1915E, 815). Wills, ¶796.

Nonresident spouse—The nonresident surviving spouse of a nonresident testator may renounce under this statute (122-190, 142+129). Wills, ¶779.

Renunciation by nonresident surviving spouse of nonresident testator is binding in this state and elsewhere (122-190, 142+129). Wills, ¶801.

The renunciation by a nonresident spouse of a nonresident testator must be made in this state, irrespective of the law of the domicile of the parties (122-190, 142+129). Descent and Distribution, ¶4.

Though a widow named in a will affecting land in this state is not required to elect under this section, because testator left no lineal descendants, she may be prevented by common-law estoppel, from taking under the will, where she has made an election to take under the will in Iowa, under the laws of that state (135-357, 160+1016, L. R. A. 1917C, 504). Wills, ¶800.

7240. Illegitimate child—

The declaration of paternity must be made by the real father of the child. A "competent attesting witness" under this section is a competent witness, who, at the request of the person making the writing containing the declaration of legitimacy, subscribes the same as such witness (130-256, 153+324; 130-256, 153+593). Bastards, ¶13.

7242. Degrees, how computed—

This section does not affect the rights of the surviving spouse under § 7238 (122-190, 142+129). Descent and Distribution, ¶53.

A husband may transfer his personal property as a gift under such circumstances as to constitute a fraud upon the marital rights of his wife. Findings that gifts by a husband, directly and through a trustee, to children by former marriages, were not fraudulently made, held supported by the evidence (125-190, 145+1067). Husband and Wife, ¶6(3).

7243. Personal Estate—Distribution—When any person dies owning personal property, or any interest therein, the same shall be disposed of and distributed as follows:

1. The widow shall be allowed the wearing apparel of her deceased husband, his household furniture not exceeding five hundred dollars in value, and other personal property not exceeding the same amount, both to be selected by her; and she shall receive such allowances when she takes the provisions made for her by her husband's will as well as when he dies intestate.

2. In case there is no surviving spouse, then the minor children, if any, shall receive the same allowances, to be selected by their guardian.

3. The widow or children, or both, constituting the family of the decedent, shall have such reasonable allowance out of his personal estate as the probate court deems necessary for their maintenance during the settlement of the estate, according to their circumstances, which in case of an insolvent estate shall not be longer than one year after administration is granted, nor, in any case, after the distributive share of the widow in the residue of the personal estate has been assigned to her.

4. If from the inventory of an intestate estate it appears that the value of the whole estate does not exceed the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars in addition to the allowances made for the widow and children, the court, after the payment of the funeral charges and expenses of administration, shall assign for the use and support of the widow or the children, or both, constituting the family of the decedent, the whole of said estate.

5. If the personal estate amounts to more than the allowances mentioned in this section, the excess thereof, after the payment of the funeral charges and expenses of administration, shall be applied to the payment of the decedent's debts.

6. The residue, if any, of the personal estate shall be distributed as follows: one-third thereof to the surviving spouse if any free from any testamentary disposition thereof to which survivor shall not have consented in writing; the remainder of such residue, or, if there be no surviving spouse, then the whole thereof, except as otherwise disposed of by will, shall be distributed in the same proportions to the same persons and for the same purposes as prescribed for descent of real estate by Section 7238 subds. 1-6.

7. All the provisions of this Section shall apply as well to a surviving husband as to a surviving wife. (Amended '15 c. 350 § 1)

"An act to amend section 7243, General Statutes Minnesota for 1913, relating to descent of personal estate and distribution," approved April 24, 1915. This amended section appears to supersede the amendment made by 1915 c. 331, "An act to amend subdivision 3 of section 7243," etc., approved April 24, 1915.

In general—The surviving spouse and next of kin, as designated in § 8175, come within the designation of heirs at law, as used in this section (125-317, 147+278). Death, ¶32.

A surviving spouse cannot withdraw consent to the will of decedent, and elect to take under the statute, unless there exist legal grounds for such withdrawal, such as a failure by decedent to make a fair disclosure of his property at the time the consent was given (129-442, 152+845, L. R. A. 1915E, 815). Wills, ¶796.

Subd. 1—The widow is entitled to the $500, though she assented to her husband's will at the time of its execution, though such will provided that the provision for the wife was "in lieu of any provisions made for her by the laws or statutes of the state" (127-223, 149+303). Wills, ¶800.

The right of the surviving spouse to select personal property, if not exercised in his lifetime, may be exercised by his administrator (130-462, 153+876). Executors and Administrators, ¶191.

When a widow dies prior to an allowance under this section, the right of selection survives to her personal representative (132-409, 157+648). Executors and Administrators, ¶191.

See §§ [7244—]1, [7244—]2.

[7244—]1. Property escheated—Determination of heirship—When any person who has died within the last past fifteen years in the State of Minnesota, or shall hereafter die being a resident of the State of Minnesota at the time of his death or owning property in said state, and his estate having been duly administered upon in the probate court of the county having jurisdiction thereof, and leaving no known spouse or kindred, and said estate having been fully administered upon, and the balance in the hands of the representative of said estate having by order of said court escheated to, and been paid to the State of Minnesota, and if it shall be made to appear that said deceased person, in fact, left heir or heirs to his estate, then, upon the proper presentation of proofs of such heirship and amount so escheated to the district court of the county wherein such probate proceedings were had, either in term time or vacation, upon notice of at least twenty days to the attorney general in said state of the time and place of hearing such proofs, and if upon such hearing the said district court shall find that such deceased person left heir or heirs, said court shall determine who such heir or heirs are and the amount so escheated, and file its decision to that effect and a certified copy of said decision shall be forthwith filed with the state auditor. ('17 c. 72 § 1)

[7244—]2. Same—Refundment and transfer to heirs, etc.—When the said court has filed its decision in an escheated estate as aforesaid, and it was determined in said decision that certain heir or heirs are entitled to money or property heretofore escheated to the State of Minnesota, it shall be the duty of the state auditor of the state to recommend an appropriation, in writing, by the state legislature, if in session, or, if not in session, then to the next legislature for the repayment or the reimbursement of said money, or the transfer of said property to such heir or heirs, or to his or their attorney in fact, upon the recording of his power of attorney in the office of the state auditor, and the state auditor shall draw his warrant on the state treasurer of said state for the payment of the amount so escheated, if in money; and if in property the state auditor under his seal shall duly execute a proper transfer thereof. ('17 c. 72 § 2)

7249. Government homestead patented to "heirs"—

After final proof and payment on commutation under homestead laws, but before patent issues, the land descends according to the state laws (122-1, 141+851). Descent and Distribution, §8; Executors and Administrators, §39; Public Lands, §35(4, 5).

[7249—]1. Persons guilty of felonious homicide not to inherit, etc.—Insurance companies—Procedure of insurance companies—No person who feloniously takes or causes or procures another so to take the life of another shall inherit from such person or receive any interest in the estate of the decedent as surviving spouse, or take by devise or legacy from him and [any] portion of his estate, and no beneficiary of any policy of insurance, or certificate of membership issued by any benevolent association or organization, payable upon the death or disability of any person, who in like manner takes or causes or procures to be taken the life upon which such policy or certificate is issued, or who causes or procures a disability of such person, shall take the proceeds of such policy or certificate; but in every instance mentioned in this act, all benefits that would accrue to any such person upon the death or disability of the person whose life is thus taken or who is thus disabled, shall become subject to distribution among the other heirs of such deceased person according to the law of descent and distribution in this state, in case of death, and in case of disability the benefits thereunder shall be paid to the disabled person.

Provided, however, that an insurance company shall be discharged of all liability under a policy issued by it upon payment of the proceeds in accordance with the terms thereof, unless before such payment the company shall have knowledge that such beneficiary has taken or procured to be taken the life upon which such policy or certificate is issued, or that such beneficiary has caused or procured a disability of the person upon whose life such policy or certificate is issued. ('17 c. 353 § 1)

WILLS—EXECUTION, EFFECT, ETC.

7250. Who may make a will—How executed—

Cited (122-190, 142+129).

Undue influence (see 130-92, 153+131).

Will as distinguished from a deed—Deed or will (see 130-320, 153+604). Wills, § 88(1), 90.

A trust deed held not testamentary in character (125-190, 145+1067). Wills, § 88(1).

A deed delivered by the grantor to a third person, with instructions to deliver same to the grantee on the death of the grantor held not testamentary in character (124-346, 145+112). Wills, § 88(1).

In a suit to set aside a deed of two lots to defendant as void, evidence held not to show any basis for contention that the deed was an attempted testamentary disposition of the property (162+527). Wills, § 93.

Testamentary capacity—An adjudication of insanity creates a presumption of testamentary incapacity, but such presumption is not conclusive, and may be rebutted by showing that the derangement is not general, and has no reference to the subject-matter of the will (130-92, 153+131). Wills, § 52(4).

Evidence held to show mental capacity, and insufficient to show undue influence (132-379, 157+505). Wills, § 52(1), 166(1).

Evidence held to support a finding of testamentary capacity and that the will was not the result of undue influence (131-439, 155+392). Wills, § 55(7), 166(1).

Evidence held to show want of testamentary capacity (128-259, 143+726). Wills, § 55(5).

Evidence held to support a verdict finding that testatrix was mentally competent to make a will, and that the will was not procured by undue influence (128-277, 150+914). Wills, § 55(5), 166(1, 8).

A testator must understand the nature and situation of his property, and the claims of others on his bounty or his remembrance, and he must be able to hold these things in his mind long enough to form a rational judgment concerning them. A person who is unable to understand, without being prompted, the nature and importance of the business he is transacting, has not capacity to make a will (129-248, 152+541). Wills, § 50, 55(9).

An instruction in a will contest held not erroneous because it failed to draw a distinction between mental capacity and positive insanity (126-275, 148+117). Wills, § 329(1, 2).

Evidence as to mental capacity of a testator held to support a verdict in favor of proponent, so that a motion for new trial was properly denied (126-275, 148+117). Wills, § 400.

Where the judgment in proceedings for the appointment of a guardian of an incompetent, instituted after the will is executed, does not find the testator incompetent at a time prior to the rendition of such judgment, it is competent evidence in proceedings for the probate of the will, and its probative value is largely for the determination of the trial court. The fact that the application was not for the purpose of declaring testatrix insane, but merely for the purpose of determining her inability to manage her affairs, did not render the adjudication inadmissible. The petition on such application is not admissible as an admission against interest by the petitioner, who was named as a devisee in the will (124-27, 144+412, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1006). Wills, § 53(3).

Witnesses—Evidence held to sustain a special verdict to the effect that a will was signed by testator in the presence of two persons, who duly attested the same and subscribed their names as witnesses (161+261). Wills, § 302(1).

7253. Wills made out of the state—

7256. Written wills, how revoked or canceled—

Where testator devised a farm to a son, and made him a residuary legatee, and bequeathed certain sums of money to two daughters, "said sums of money to be paid by my son," a subsequent conveyance of the farm by the testator to the son, and other conveyances to the daughters of land specifically devised to them, did not revoke the specific legacies of money to the daughters, and such legacies were properly deducted from the son's share of the residue (135-377, 160+1025). Wills, § 194, 822.

7258. Duty of custodian of will—

The person named in a will as executor is under no obligation to secure the probate of the will, and where he secures allowance of the will in the probate court, but is ultimately unsuccessful on a contest for want of testamentary capacity, he is not entitled to payment out of the fund for his services and expenses in resisting the contest (133-278, 158+395). Executors and Administrators, § 488.

7259. After-born child—If any child of a testator, born after the death of such testator, has no provision made for him by his father in his will or otherwise, he shall take the same share of his father's estate that he would have taken if the father had died intestate unless it appears that such omission was intentional. (Amended '15 c. 343 § 1)

125-40, 145+623, 51 L. R. A. (N. S.) 645; notes under § 7260.

7260. Child not provided for in will—

Under this section parol testimony is admissible to show that the omission of the child was intentional. The burden is upon those claiming that the omission was intentional to prove such fact (125-40, 145+623, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 645). Descent and Distribution, ¶47(2).

The rights given by this section to a pretermitted child must be enforced in the probate court, and if not so enforced are barred by the final decree of that court (131-56, 154+741, L. R. A. 1916D, 421). Descent and Distribution, ¶89.

PROBATE OF WILLS

7266. Who may petition for—

The law does not require the person named in a will as executor to secure the probate of the will, and he is not entitled to payment out of the fund for his services and expenses in unsuccessfully resisting a contest of the will on the ground of testamentary incapacity (133-278, 158+395). Executors and Administrators, ¶488.

7268. Filing petition—Notice—Proof and allowance of will—

Cited and applied (132-379, 157+505).

7271. Proof required in case of contest—

129-460, 152+872.

Cited (123-259, 143+726).

Where the will is contested, neither party is limited to the testimony of the subscribing witnesses, and either party may present other evidence. Evidence, on a will contest, held to support an order admitting the will to probate (128-17, 150+213, L. R. A. 1916C, 1214, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 1101). Wills, ¶303(6).

Where proponent called and examined a subscribing witness, failure to ask him in regard to the sanity of testator did not defeat the will, it being contestant's duty, if he desired his testimony as to matters omitted, to examine him in respect thereto (128-17, 150+213, L. R. A. 1916C, 1214, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 1101). Wills, ¶303(4).

When contestant makes out a prima facie case of undue influence, the burden is then cast on the proponent to show that the instrument is the will of testator. The prima facie case of contestant may consist of evidence of inequality, accompanied by evidence of motive and opportunity on the part of the person preferred, and some evidence that he did in fact exert influence (122-463, 142+729). Wills, ¶163(1).

7273. When subsequent will is presented—

FOREIGN WILLS

7274. Wills proved elsewhere—

Election by surviving spouse, see notes under §§ 7238, 7239.

7275. Filing—Petition—Notice—

Election by surviving spouse, see notes under §§ 7238, 7239.

7276. Hearing proofs of probate of foreign will—

Election by surviving spouse, see notes under §§ 7238, 7239.

7277. Letters testamentary, etc., to be granted—

Election by surviving spouse, see notes under §§ 7238, 7239.

7278. Ancillary administration—

This section is not a statute of devolution, but, construed with the general statutes of descent and distribution, merely places foreign wills on the same plane with domestic wills (122-190, 142+129). Wills, ¶436.

LOST OR DESTROYED WILLS

7280. Will must have been in existence—No such will shall be established unless the same is proved to have been in existence at the time of the testator's death, or to have been fraudulently destroyed in his lifetime, nor unless its provisions are clearly and distinctly proved by clear and satisfactory evidence. (Amended '17 c. 334 § 1)

GRANTING LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

7287. Who entitled to administration—Administration of the estate of a person dying intestate shall be granted to one or more of the persons hereinafter mentioned, and in the following order:

1. The surviving spouse or next of kin or both, as the court may determine, or some person selected by them or either of them, provided that in any case the person appointed shall be suitable and competent to discharge the trust.

2. If all such persons are incompetent or unsuitable, or refuse to accept, or if the surviving spouse or next of kin, for thirty days after the death of the intestate, neglect to apply for administration, the same may be granted to one or more of the principal creditors, if any such are competent and willing to take it, or to some other person who may be interested in the administration of the estate. If the decedent was a native of any foreign country and the surviving spouse and next of kin neglect for thirty days after his death to apply for administration, the same may be granted to the consul or other representative of the country of which the decedent was a native, residing in this state, who has filed a copy of his appointment with the secretary of state, or to such person as he may select, if suitable and competent to discharge the trust. But the court in any case arising under this subdivision shall have the discretion to appoint one or more creditors, or other person interested, or to appoint any suitable or competent person interested in the estate by purchase or otherwise.

3. If the person so appointed neglects for thirty days, after written notice of such appointment, under the seal of the probate court, served personally or by mail, to file the oath and bond required by law and the court, such neglect shall be deemed a refusal to serve, and the court may appoint such other person or persons as are next entitled to administer such estate. Such person may be appointed without notice. (Amended '17 c. 513 § 1)

Letters of administration issued to a person not entitled thereto are voidable and may be revoked, but are not void ab initio, and are effective to the extent necessary to protect those in good faith acting in reliance upon them (162+454). Executors and Administrators, ¶29(1).

7288. Petition, what it must show—

A defective petition may render the proceedings voidable, but not void, and jurisdiction may attach notwithstanding a defective petition. So held in the case of one appointed administrator of the estate of his deceased wife, to whom he was married while he had another wife living from whom he had not been lawfully divorced; such facts not appearing by the record in the probate proceedings (162+454). Executors and Administrators, ¶29(1).

7289. Hearing—Contest—Granting letters—

Letters of administration not subject to collateral attack for mere irregularities (122-1, 141+851). Executors and Administrators, ¶29(2).

7292. Administrator de bonis non—

An administrator de bonis non has power to maintain an action on the bond of his predecessor to recover a fund recovered in an action maintained by the predecessor for the wrongful death of the intestate (123-165, 143+255). Executors and Administrators, ¶537(6).

7293. Special administrator—

An order appointing a special administrator is not appealable (129-279, 152+413).

In view of § 7227, the appointment of a special administrator without a petition therefor is a nullity (128-112, 150+385). Executors and Administrators, ¶22, 29.

[7295—]1. Special administrator in certain small estates—Whenever it shall be made to appear satisfactorily to the judge of any probate court that the personal property of an intestate deceased person over the administration of whose estate said judge of probate would be entitled to jurisdiction under existing laws, consists only of such property as by existing law would be exempt from application towards the payment of debts and does not exceed in value six hundred and fifty dollars ($650.00) such judge may appoint a special administrator, with or without notice, who shall proceed to speedily administer said estate according to the provisions of this chapter. Before entering upon his duties such special administrator shall file in the court appointing him his bond with sufficient sureties in such sum as the court may order and his oath to faithfully and lawfully administer said estate according to law. ('17 c. 251 § 1)

[7295—]2. Same—Inventory, account, etc.—Within fourteen days following the issuance of letters to such special administrator he shall file in the probate court a duly verified inventory of the property belonging to the estate of the decedent and a statement of the liabilities of said estate so far as known, together with an appraisal by two disinterested parties, who shall be appointed by the court, of the property belonging to said estate. If from such inventory and appraisal and any further evidence before court it appears that the estate of the deceased does not exceed in valuation the amount of claims for funeral bills and last sickness, taxes, expenses of administration and statutory allowance to surviving spouse and family of deceased and any other property exempt by law from application towards the payment of debts said special administrator shall immediately file his final account of the administration of said estate. ('17 c. 251 § 2)

[7295—]3. Same—Notice of hearing—Upon the filing of such account the court may require personal service of notice of hearing of said account on all heirs at law and persons interested in said estate. ('17 c. 251 § 3)

[7295—]4. Same—Order allowing account—Upon the hearing of said account if it shall satisfactorily appear to the court that the estate of the deceased does not exceed in valuation the amount of claims for last sickness and funeral bills, taxes, expenses of administration, allowance to surviving spouse and family of deceased and any other property exempted by law from application towards the payment of debts of deceased the court shall enter its order adjusting and allowing said account as adjusted. ('17 c. 251 § 4)

[7295—]5. Same—Administrator when to be discharged—Upon the filing in such court of vouchers for all disbursements subject to payment paid by said special administrator, the court shall enter its order discharging such special administrator and the sureties on his bond from further liability. Provided, however, that where there is a claim for the alleged wrongful death of the decedent no such special administrator or the sureties on his bond shall be discharged until he shall have filed in the probate court a certified copy of the order of the district court approving such settlement as may be made of such wrongful death claim, and also a certified copy of the order of the district court distributing the moneys received for wrongful death to the persons thereunto entitled. ('17 c. 251 § 5)

REPRESENTATIVES—GENERAL PROVISIONS

7296. General powers and duties—

Executor may sue to recover proceeds of land condemned (121-233, 141+170). Eminent Domain, ¶156; Executors and Administrators, ¶130(1).

Under this section the personal representative of a decedent can maintain an action to set aside decedent's contract for the sale of real property upon the ground of mental incompetency (162+1070). Executors and Administrators, ¶129(1).

An administrator held entitled to sue for the purchase price of land, though the sole heir of decedent conveyed the premises to defendant and received the consideration (126-303, 144+223; 126-303, 148+288). Executors and Administrators, ¶40.

7297. Liability—Collection of debts, etc.—

Evidence held insufficient to justify the conclusion that an administrator was at fault in the loss of property of the estate, and that an order charging his account with the value thereof was error (133-421, 158+703). Executors and Administrators, ¶506(3).

7298. Allowances to executors, etc.—

The probate court may determine the amount that each of two or more executors shall receive, and when that court allows a lump sum the district court may apportion the same among the executors according to their respective services to the estate (161+497). Executors and Administrators, ¶498.

SETTING ASIDE HOMESTEAD, ETC.

7307. Petition—

Heirs may waive homestead right under the federal public land laws, and permit sale to pay debts (122-1, 141+851). Public Lands, §35\(4, 5\).

As the right of the surviving spouse in the homestead vests at the death of the departed spouse, the statutory provisions for setting it apart merely prescribe a remedy, and the administrator is not entitled to the possession of the homestead because it has not been set apart under the statute (130-462, 153+876). Homestead, §140.

COLLECTION OF ASSETS

7312. Disposition of real estate so purchased—Title of foreign representative to all real estate—Any real estate purchased by an executor or administrator as such at a foreclosure sale, or sale on execution for the recovery of a debt due the estate, shall be held, reported, and may be sold and conveyed as the personal estate of the decedent; and if not so sold it shall be assigned and distributed to the same persons and in the same proportions as if it had been part of the personal estate of the decedent, but the legal title of all real estate so acquired, or in any other manner whatever acquired, by a foreign executor, administrator or guardian, shall vest in such executor, administrator or guardian, who shall represent the interest of all parties concerned, and shall have full power of disposition over such real estate. (Amended '15 c. 40 § 1)

CLAIMS AGAINST ESTATES

7320. Order limiting time to present claims—

Liability of heirs inheriting homestead, constituting only property of the estate, under § 8182 et seq., without presentation of claim to probate court, and without order limiting time for presentation of claims (see 161+413). Descent and Distribution, §140. See, also, note under § 8182, post.

7322. Extension of time for cause—

Where a claim of apparent merit is filed out of time, the supreme court will not interfere with the discretion of the probate court in permitting it to be filed, unless such discretion is clearly abused (123-57, 142+945). Executors and Administrators, §225\(2\), 233.

Applications to file claims after the time limited is addressed to the sound discretion of the probate court. The claimant must show good cause why he did not file his claim in time, and he must proceed with diligence after discovery of default. A delay of eight months after instructions to an attorney to present the claim, seven months after the attorney was advised of the default, six months after the time did expire, four months after the attorney was reminded of the default, and until hearing on the final accounting, is such laches that there was no abuse of discretion in denying an application to receive the claim (183-172, 157+1075). Executors and Administrators, §225\(8\), 233.

7323. Claims, how presented or barred—

Evidence on wife's claim against husband's estate for balance due on household necessities paid for by her held to sustain a conclusion that she was entitled to recover (162+1060). Executors and Administrators, §221\(6\).

Under 1899, c. 265, claims theretofore paid by the administrator without having been allowed by the probate court may be credited to him in his final account upon proof that such claims were just and existing demands (130-462, 153+876). Executors and Administrators, §481.

7327. Order adjudicating claim—Effect—Interest—

A decree of the United States circuit court, allowing a claim against the estate of a decedent, and ordering its payment was conclusive as against the executors, and an order of the probate court was not necessary to warrant its payment (125-368, 147+246). Judgment, §820\(3\).

PAYMENT OF DEBTS AND LEGACIES

Heirs of deceased homesteader on government land may waive exemption rights, and permit sale to pay debts (122-1, 141+851). Public Lands, §35\(4, 5\).

A government homestead after final proof and payment, but before issuance of patent, may be sold by order of the probate court, and such sale is not open to collateral attack on the ground that the order was improperly granted (122-1, 141+851). Executors and Administrators, §383; Public Lands, §140.

[7343—]1. Claim of state against estates of certain insane persons— Whenever any patient in a state institution for the insane dies and does not leave surviving him spouse, children, grandchildren or parents, then and in such case the state shall have a claim for maintenance, treatment and support against the estate of such deceased person, which claim shall be computed at the rate of one hundred twenty dollars per year for the time such person was in such institution and be verified by the superintendent of the institution wherein such deceased person was confined. Provided, however, that the estate of such deceased insane person shall be entitled to a credit upon such claim of any sum or sums of money that may have been paid to the state for his or her maintenance, treatment or support in such institution. ('17 c. 409 § 1)

DISPOSAL OF REALTY BY REPRESENTATIVES

Propriety of sale not open to question in collateral proceeding (122-1, 141+851). Executors and Administrators, §=383.

7354. Bond and oath before sale—

The special or sale bond required by this section is additional or cumulative security, and not a substitute for the general bond provided for by § 7416 (135-346, 160+859). Guardian and Ward, §=92.

7358. Husband or wife must join, when—Guardian of insane spouse—The homestead of a ward having a spouse shall not be sold or mortgaged by his guardian unless such spouse shall join in the deed or mortgage, nor shall the sale or mortgage of any land of a ward by his guardian in any manner affect the interests or estate of such spouse therein, unless he or she shall join in the conveyance; provided, that if the spouse of such ward has been adjudged insane or incompetent to transact his or her business, or manage his or her estate, it shall not be necessary for such insane or incompetent spouse to join in such conveyance, but a guardian of such insane or incompetent spouse shall first be appointed by the probate court of the proper county, and such guardian shall join in such conveyance after first being authorized so to do by order of such probate court. (Amended '15 c. 258 § 1)

7369. Sale not to be avoided, when—

Propriety of order of sale cannot be questioned by heirs in collateral proceeding (122-1, 141+851). Executors and Administrators, §=383.

[7375—]1. Certain executor's deeds legalized—All deeds of land in this state heretofore and between the 20th day of August, 1910, and the 30th day of September, 1910, made, executed, acknowledged and delivered by an executor or executors under a power of sale in a will, which were signed and acknowledged by such executor or executors personally and not as such executor or executors, but which deeds contained in the body thereof recitals that the same were made by such vendor or vendors as executor or executors of an estate therein-named, and such deeds were in all other respects duly and properly drawn, executed and acknowledged, and afterwards duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county, are with the records thereof in all things hereby legalized, and shall have the same effect as if they were in all things drawn, executed, acknowledged, delivered and recorded according to law, provided that this act shall not extend to nor apply to any action or proceeding now pending. ('17 c. 423 § 1)

[7375—]2. Certain decrees for conveyance of land under contract legalized—That any decree for conveyance of real estate under contract, by an administrator or executor, made by any probate court of this state, in the matter of the estate of a decedent, when the order for hearing the petition for such decree was published the requisite number of times in a legal and proper newspaper, but the date of such hearing was fixed in said order and the hearing held on a date less than three weeks from the first publication of such order, and such decree issued; and which decree or a certified copy thereof, has been of record in the office of the register of deeds of the county where the real estate thereby affected was at the time of making such record, or is situate, for a period of not less than ten years prior to the passage of this act, be and the same hereby is legalized and made valid, and given the same force and effect as if proper notice had been given and such hearing had been held at the proper time. ('17 c. 457 § 1)

[7375—]3. Same—Pending actions—That nothing herein contained shall be construed to apply to any action or proceeding in which the validity of such decree is involved. ('17 c. 457 § 2)

[7376—]1. Court may decree conveyance, when—When any person under contract, in writing, to convey any real estate, dies or becomes insane, or incompetent before making the conveyance, the probate court may direct the representative or guardian, or the guardian of any minor who may take the vendor's interest in such real estate or any part thereof by descent or devise from such decedent, to convey such real estate to the person entitled thereto in all cases where such decedent, if living, or such ward, if sane or competent, might be compelled to convey. (Amended '15 c. 223 § 1)

ACCOUNTING—DISTRIBUTION—FINAL SETTLEMENT

7383. Account to be rendered, when—

An administrator, receiving money belonging to an estate, must account therefor, though he could not have collected it in a suit at law, there being no asserted adverse claim thereto (126-321, 148+282). Executors and Administrators, ¶465.

7390. Proceedings on hearing—

The probate court has no jurisdiction to determine a controversy between a devisee and one who claims to have succeeded to his rights in the estate, and the district court on appeal has no greater jurisdiction (161+392). Courts, ¶202(5).

A surety on an administrator's bond may be heard in the probate court on an application to correct or set aside the final settlement, and hence the settlement cannot be attacked by the surety in an action on the bond on the ground that the probate court was mistaken in the facts on which its order was based or on the ground that the order was erroneous as a matter of law (126-445, 148+302). Executors and Administrators, ¶509(3).

7391. Assignment of residue and record thereof—

A decree of distribution of a testate estate necessarily construes the will, and unless made subject to the will, or unless ambiguous or uncertain on its face, the will may not be resorted to for the purpose of modifying or affecting the decree; but where the decree unequivocally assigns the whole estate to one person, it is not rendered uncertain by a recital that the distribution is in accordance with the terms of the will (132-316, 156+349). Executors and Administrators, ¶315(5, 6).

7393. Opening decree of distribution made without notice—

A decree of distribution, though erroneous, is binding and conclusive, and can be set aside by a court of equity only for fraud or mistake of fact (132-176, 156+285). Executors and Administrators, ¶315(4, 6); Judgment, ¶435.

The probate court has no power to amend its decree after the time for appeal has expired, unless in case of fraud, mistake, or surprise (132-176, 156+285). Executors and Administrators, ¶315(3).

7400. Discharge of representative—

An administrator cannot obtain an order in the probate court discharging him and his sureties until it appears that he has faithfully and fully administered his trust (123-165, 143+255). Executors and Administrators, ¶537(6).

A complaint by heirs against an administrator to recover the value of land lost by defendant's failure to pay taxes thereon held demurrable, where it showed an unassailable discharge of the administrator by the probate court (128-3, 150+171). Executors and Administrators, ¶443(1).

[7403—]1. Distribution of certain small estates—Whenever any person dies leaving real or personal property within this state and all of the property and assets of said deceased are exempt from the payment of debts, and do not exceed in value six hundred and fifty dollars, any person entitled to apply for letters of administration or for the allowance of a will to probate may petition the probate court of the proper county that the will, if the deceased died testate, be admitted to probate, or if intestate for letters of administration, and in any event that the whole estate be closed forthwith and distribution thereof made. ('17 c. 289 § 1)

[7403—]2. Same—Petition—Such petition shall in addition to the jurisdictional facts contain a description of all the property of said deceased, both real and personal, itemizing the same together with the facts by reason of which the same is claimed to be exempt, and the names and addresses so far as known, of the creditors, and shall pray the judgment of the probate court for a distribution of said property forthwith. ('17 c. 289 § 2)

[7403—]3. Same—Citation—The court shall thereupon issue its citation for a hearing thereon and cause the same to be published in the manner prescribed by law. Said citation shall contain a general description of all the property of said deceased and a true copy of said citation shall be mailed to each of the heirs and to each of the creditors of said deceased so far as the same can be ascertained, at least fourteen days prior to the date of hearing. ('17 c. 289 § 3)

[7403—]4. Same—Decree of distribution—If upon the date set for the hearing it shall appear to the probate court that all of the property left by said deceased is exempt, the probate court may in case there be a will admit the same to probate, and may order an order and decree distributing said property to the heirs or legatees and devisees of said deceased, and such further order providing for the payment of the expenses of administration as may be necessary in the premises. ('17 c. 289 § 4)

ADVANCEMENTS

7404. What are, how treated—

The doctrine of advancements, as regulated by this section, applies to intestate estates only (125-115, 145+785). Wills, ¶758.

PARTITION

7412. Guardians and agents—Notice—

After an action on an executor's bond is commenced, an order of the probate court, vacating its order granting leave to bring such action, is not effective (125-368, 147+246). Executors and Administrators, ¶537(2).

PROBATE BONDS

7416. Bonds, when required, conditions—

The special or sale bond required by § 7354 is additional or cumulative security, and not a substitute for the general bond provided for by this section (135-346, 160+859). Guardian and Ward, ¶92.

The sureties on an administrator's bond executed under this section are liable for an act of the principal in converting the proceeds of the settlement of an action for wrongful death of the intestate given by § 8175 (123-165, 143+255). Executors and Administrators, ¶528(1).

A surety on an administrator's bond is concluded by a judgment settling the accounts of an administrator, in the absence of fraud or collusion, and such settlement is not open to collateral attack in an action on the bond (126-445, 148+302). Executors and Administrators, ¶535.

Failure of an administratrix to pay over to her successor an amount found due from her by an order of the probate court settling her account was a breach of her bond, unless the settlement may be impeached in an action on the bond (126-445, 148+302). Executors and Administrators, ¶532.

Failure to pay an established claim constituted a breach of the executor's bond, and the decree allowing the claim was conclusive as against the surety, and the fact that the claimant applied for an order of the probate court regarding payment of the claim does not affect his right to recover on the bond (125-368, 147+246). Executors and Administrators, ¶531, 532, 537(1).

7420. Guardians and sureties discharged, when—

GUARDIANS AND WARDS

7425. Appointment of guardians—Whenever it appears necessary or convenient, the probate court may appoint a guardian for either the person or estate, or both, of any minor who has no guardian appointed by will, and who is a resident of the county, or who resides without the state and has property within the county; provided, however, that notice shall first be given in such manner as the court may direct to the parents of such minor, if living, and if no parent is living, or if the whereabouts of both parents is unknown, then to the next of kin or custodian of the person of such minor; and provided further that no appointment by the probate court of a guardian of the person of a child under the age of eighteen shall be effective, if, at the time of making the same, proceedings involving the care and custody of such child are pending in a district court in this state, acting as a juvenile court. (Amended '17 c. 236 § 1)

7431. When marriage of female ward terminates guardianship—The marriage of a female ward under guardianship as a minor shall terminate such guardianship; provided that this section shall not apply to any person under guardianship on account of delinquency by order of a juvenile court. (Amended '17 c. 235 § 1)

7433. Guardian for insane or incompetent persons—

The son of an incompetent held, under the circumstances, the proper person to receive the appointment as guardian (128-324, 151+130). Insane Persons, ¶34.

A finding that the person for whom a guardian was asked was incompetent held sustained by the evidence (124-492, 145+378). Insane Persons, ¶2.

There was no abuse of discretion in selecting as guardians persons other than those suggested by the incompetent (124-492, 145+378). Insane Persons, ¶34.

It is not necessary, in order to confer jurisdiction, that the petition state that it is made by the county board or by relatives or friends of the incompetent. If the requisite facts exist, any defect in the petition is waived, if not taken advantage of on the trial (124-492, 145+378). Insane Persons, ¶33(1).

7435. Hearing—Appointment—

The statute relating to the cross-examination of the adverse party (§ 8377) has no reference to this proceeding. The proceeding is not adversary, and the method of determining the facts rests in the sound discretion of the court, controlled in a general way by the rules of ordinary judicial procedure. Evidence held to support findings of trial court (128-324, 151+130). Insane Persons, ¶2, 33(1).

A judgment in proceedings for the appointment of a guardian of an incompetent is admissible in evidence, but is not conclusive in a collateral litigation to prove the mental condition of the person at the time the judgment is rendered, or at any past time during which the judgment finds the person incompetent (124-27, 144+412, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 1006). Wills, ¶53(3).

Laches in bringing action on bond (123-13, 142+882, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 451). Guardian and Ward, ¶182(3).

7442. Guardians of minors—General powers—

135-346, 160+859; note under § 7354.

Cited on question of right of custody of children as between father and mother (see 161+525).

Father, supporting family, may sue alone for loss of services of child (129-190, 151+976, L. R. A. 1915D, 1111, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 897). Parent and Child, ¶7(6).

The welfare of a child five years old held to be best subserved by consigning it to the custody of its grandparents, rather than to that of its father, the mother being dead (127-387, 149+604). Habeas Corpus, ¶85(1).

7446. Guardian to collect debts, etc., and appear in actions—Every guardian shall settle all accounts of his ward, demand, sue for, and receive all debts, claims and causes of action due to or in favor of said ward, or, with the approval of the court, he may compound or compromise for the same and execute proper discharge and satisfaction thereof. He shall appear for and represent his ward in all legal proceedings, unless another person is appointed for that purpose. (Amended '17 c. 425 § 1)

This section was also amended by 1915 c. 110.

The proper mode of entitling an action by a guardian is "B., an Incompetent Person, by R., Her Guardian," and not "R., as Guardian, etc., Plaintiff" (123-360, 143+973). Guardian and Ward, ¶130.

An improvident and fraudulent settlement of a guardian of his ward's cause of action, though approved by the court, may be set aside, though the defendant was not shown to have participated in the fraud (126-194, 148+45). Guardian and Ward, ¶63.

7447. Management of estate of ward—

Laches in suing guardian for accounting (123-13, 142+882, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 451). Guardian and Ward, ¶182(3).

A guardian of an insane person is authorized, without first obtaining the approval of the probate court, to employ an attendant to care for the invalid wife of the ward, and where such employment is necessary, and is made in good faith, without unnecessarily burdening the ward's estate, the reasonable value of the services rendered is a valid claim against the estate of the ward after his decease (135-94, 160+187, L. R. A. 1917B, 676). Insane Persons, ¶65.

7451. Same—Hearing—Order—At the time and place fixed for the hearing, witnesses shall be sworn before testifying and the certificate of such superintendent shall be admissible in evidence on his signature alone; and if, after full investigation and hearing, the judge of probate shall find that such child is entitled to the aid herein provided, and that the allegations of the petition are true, he may make an order directing such guardian to furnish aid to such child for such time, and in such an amount, as the judge of probate shall deem necessary.

The aid so furnished shall be allowed in the guardian's annual or final accounts as a part of his lawful disbursements. (Amended '15 c. 245 § 1)

7452. Debts of ward, how paid—

Where an insane person dies before a claim for services rendered to decedent's invalid wife under employment by the guardian has been paid, and an administrator of decedent's estate is appointed by the same court in which the estate of the insane person is being administered, the claim may be presented to the administrator, without being first presented in the guardianship proceedings (135-94, 160+187, L. R. A. 1917B, 676). Insane Persons, ¶62.

See § [7453—]1.

[7453—]1. Laws repealed—That Chapter 470, General Laws, Minnesota, for 1913, same being Sections 7453 and 7454, General Statutes Minnesota 1913 be and the same hereby is repealed. ('15 c. 342 § 1)

See § [7489—]20.

7465—The probate court has no jurisdiction to inquire into the mental condition of a person not actually within the territorial limits of the county, whether a legal resident of the county or not (135-99, 160+198). Insane Persons, ¶8.

7472—The probate court has no jurisdiction to inquire into the mental condition of a person not actually within the territorial limits of the county, whether a legal resident of the county or not (135-99, 160+198). Insane Persons, ¶8.

7477—Testamentary capacity as affected by adjudication of insanity (see 130-92, 153+131). Wills, ¶52(4).

7481—The probate court has no jurisdiction to inquire into the mental condition of a person not actually within the territorial limits of the county, whether a resident of the county or not (135-99, 160+198). Insane Persons, ¶8.

[COMMITMENT OF FEEBLE MINDED, INEBRIATE AND INSANE PERSONS]

[7489—]1. Terms defined—The word "defective" as used in this act shall include the feeble-minded, the inebriate and the insane. The term "feeble-minded persons" in this act means any person, minor or adult, other than an insane person, who is so mentally defective as to be incapable of managing himself and his affairs, and to require supervision, control and care for his own or the public welfare. The term "inebriate" as used in this act means any person incapable of managing himself or his affairs by reason of the habitual and excessive use of intoxicating liquors, drugs or other narcotics. The term "insane" as used in this act means any person of unsound mind other than one who may be properly described as only an inebriate or feeble-minded person. ('17 c. 344 § 1).

By § 21 the act takes effect July 1, 1917.

[7489—]2. Same—Voluntary admission of defective to state institution—Power of board of control—Any person who is defective and who desires to receive treatment at a state institution may voluntarily make application to the state board of control for admission thereto, in such form and manner as may be prescribed by the board, and the board may thereupon grant to such applicant admission to the appropriate state institution. ('17 c. 344 § 2)

[7489—]5. Same—County attorney to appear—Whenever a judge of probate orders an examination he shall notify the county attorney of the time and place of said examination, who shall appear on behalf of the person to be examined and take such action as may be necessary to protect his rights. The court may, and on request of the county attorney, shall issue subpoenas for witnesses. ('17 c. 344 § 5)

[7489—]6. Same—Board of examiners, how appointed—Feeble-minded person—Notice to board of control—When such person is produced in court the probate judge shall designate two licensed physicians resident in the state who, with the probate judge, shall constitute a board to examine such person and determine as to his defectiveness. Where the proceeding is for the adjudication of feeble-mindedness the probate judge shall notify the state board of control of the filing of the petition and that a hearing will be had thereon not less than ten days thereafter, whereupon the board may, at its discretion, designate some person skilled in mental diagnosis to attend the hearing, examine the alleged defective and advise the board of examiners. Provided that if the alleged defective person is obviously feeble-minded or an inebriate the probate judge may dispense with the appointment of any board of examiners, with the consent of the county attorney; and may himself hear and determine the matter. ('17 c. 344 § 6)

[7489—]7. Same—Examination and report—The board of examiners shall hear all proper testimony offered by any person interested and the court may cause witnesses to be subpoenaed. When the examination is completed, the board shall determine whether or not the person examined is a feeble-minded person, an inebriate or an insane person and shall file in the court a report of their proceedings, including the findings, upon such forms as the state board of control may authorize and adopt. ('17 c. 344 § 7)

[7489—]8. Same—Commitment of feeble-minded person—Discharge—If the person examined is found to be feeble-minded, the court shall order him committed to the care and custody of the state board of control, as guardian of his person. Thereafter the board shall have power whenever advisable to place him in an appropriate institution. If, at any time, after study and observation in such institution, the superintendent is of the opinion that a person so committed is not defective, or that his further residence therein is not required for his own or the public welfare, he shall so report to the state board of control and the board may thereupon discharge such person from its further care and custody.

Provided, that any parent, guardian, relative or friend of a person committed as aforesaid may at any time file a petition for a hearing in the probate court which committed such person, to establish that the further guardianship of the board of control is not required for his own or the public welfare. If such contention is sustained, the probate judge shall order the discharge of such person from guardianship. ('17 c. 344 § 8)

[7489—]9. Same—Commitment of inebriate or insane person—If the person examined is found to be an inebriate or insane the judge shall issue duplicate warrants committing him to the custody of the superintendent of the proper state hospital or to the superintendent or keeper of any private licensed institution for the care of inebriates or insane persons. [7489—]11. Same—Temporary detention—The probate judge, with the approval of the county board, may provide a place of temporary detention for defectives and make the necessary contracts therefor. Provided that this shall not authorize the construction of a hospital for that purpose. All expense necessarily incurred for such temporary detention of defectives shall be paid by the county. ('17 c. 344 § 11)

[7489—]12. Same—Parole—Bond—Upon request of the relatives or friends of any person alleged or found to be insane, or inebriate, they may be permitted to take charge of such person; but in such case the probate judge, or, if such person has been committed to the hospital, the superintendent thereof, may require a bond from such relatives or friends, running to the state, to be approved by the judge or superintendent, as the case may be, conditioned upon the care and safe keeping of such person; provided that no person charged with or convicted of a crime shall be so discharged. ('17 c. 344 § 12)

[7489—]13. Same—Certificate of discharge or transfer—Whenever any defective committed to a hospital under this act shall be discharged, or transferred to another institution, the superintendent, upon the day of such discharge or transfer, shall mail to the probate judge of the county from which such person was committed, a certificate stating the fact of such discharge or transfer and the date thereof and the date of commitment, which certificate shall be filed in said court. ('17 c. 344 § 13)

ment thereof said judgment shall be satisfied of record by the judge of probate. The examiner designated by the board of control shall be paid by the state. ('17 c. 344 § 14)

[7489—]15. Same—Examination and commitment, when resident of another county—Whenever the alleged defective is found to have his legal residence in some other county he may nevertheless be examined and if found to be defective committed in like manner as persons residing in the county. The necessary costs and expenses of such examination and commitment shall be certified by such court to the auditor of the county in which the examination is held, who shall certify the same to the county auditor where the said alleged defective is found to be a legal resident and shall be paid as other claims against such county. ('17 c. 344 § 15)

[7489—]16. Same—Proceedings when residence is questioned—Whenever the auditor of the county to which costs and expenses have been certified denies that such person has a legal residence in his county, he shall send such certificate with a statement of his claim in reference thereto to the state board of control who shall immediately investigate and determine the question of residence and certify its findings to the auditor of each of said counties. Such decision shall be final unless an appeal is taken therefrom within thirty days after its filing. Such appeal may be to the district court of the county from which such person was committed. ('17 c. 344 § 16)

[7489—]17. Same—Court commissioner to act, when—Whenever the judge of probate is unable to act upon any petition concerning an alleged defective the court commissioner shall perform all his duties in such case and the authority herein granted to the judge of probate shall be exercised by said court commissioner. ('17 c. 344 § 17)

Subdivision (2). Whenever after August 1st, 1917, any person shall be received into any state detention hospital on his own application or pursuant to a determination that such person is mentally disturbed, and in need of treatment therein, under the provisions of chapter 224, Laws 1909 [4083–4090], the superintendent so receiving him shall forthwith mail to the state board of control a written statement setting forth the names of the person so received, the nature, amount and location of any money or other property owned by such person, the time when received, the name and address, if known, of the relative or guardian, if any, on whose application the determination was made, together with such other information as is provided for in this act.

Subdivision (3). On or before the 3rd day of August, 1917, the superintendent of each asylum, detention hospital or hospital for the insane shall file with the state board of control, a statement in writing of the names of the inmates of their respective institutions committed thereto, also the names of all persons who have been received into any detention hospital without a warrant of commitment and who were inmates thereof on August 1st, 1917. Such statement shall also contain the date of commitment or reception of the inmate, his residence, any information which the superintendent may have as to any money or property which may be owned by such inmate, and the nature, amount and location thereof; the name and address of the guardian of such inmate, if known, also the names and addresses, so far as known, of the relatives of such inmate who are or may be, under the provisions of this act, liable to contribute to the support of such inmate. ('17 c. 294 § 1)

By § 11 the act takes effect August 1, 1917.

[7489—]22. Same—Duties of superintendent on death, parole, discharge, etc., of patient—Whenever any person who has been committed to or received into any asylum, detention hospital or hospital for the insane, dies, or is required to leave, or is paroled, or discharged therefrom, it shall be the duty of the superintendent of the institution to at once report in writing such fact and the time of the occurrence thereof to the state board of control.

It shall also be the duty of the superintendent to forthwith report to the state board of control the time when any paroled inmate was returned to his actual custody, either because of the revocation of his parole or the expiration of the period for which he was paroled. ('17 c. 294 § 2)

[7489—]23. Same—Judge of probate and county attorney to inquire into property of person committed, and of relatives—It shall be the duty of the judge of probate and county attorney, of the respective counties in this state, upon and in connection with the proceeding and examination of any person petitioned to be committed to a state hospital to fully inquire into the property and estate of such person and the property and estate of the persons upon whom liability is imposed for his care under the provisions of this act, and, in case of commitment of such person, to report such information forthwith to the state board of control upon such blanks or forms of report as it may provide therefor. Such reports shall be accompanied by the recommendation of such officers to the board of control as to what extent the estates or relatives of the persons so committed should be charged with liability under the provisions of this act. ('17 c. 294 § 3)

or in case of the death of such persons, or either of them, the board of control is hereby authorized to modify or cancel its previous order made in relation thereto, and from time to time make such other and further order with reference thereto as it may seem just and proper.

In all cases under the provision of this act, the property which under the laws of this state, is exempt from attachment, or sale on any final process, issued from any court, shall be exempt also as to the estates and persons charged with or upon whom any liability is imposed under the provisions of this act. ('17 c. 294 § 4)

[7489—]25. Same—Determination of board of control conclusive—In any action brought as hereinafter provided to enforce any liability created by this act or to collect from the property or estate of any inmate or relative as herein provided, the determination of the state board of control as to the sufficiency of the property or estate of the inmate to properly care for and maintain the wife and children, if any, or either or any of such classes of persons upon whom liability is imposed under the provisions of this act, shall be conclusive unless appealed from as herein provided. ('17 c. 294 § 5)

[7489—]26. Same—Failure of insane person to pay—Action against relatives—When the state board of control shall have determined the liability of the estate or persons herein named to defray the cost of maintenance of an insane person and no appeal taken therefrom as herein provided and shall direct the persons herein charged with the expense and cost of maintenance of insane persons cared for in state institutions as herein provided to pay and demand payment for such maintenance and such persons shall refuse or neglect to make such payment for thirty days after receiving such demand or notice, the state board of control in the name of the state of Minnesota may bring an action against any and all of said relatives and persons and the representative of such inmate and recover against them therefor, and the further sum of $10.00 as costs of such action in addition to the disbursements in such action. ('17 c. 294 § 6)

[7489—]28. Same—Investigation and determination by board of control as to payments by relatives—Collection, how made and disposed of—Assistants—The state board of control shall have the power to make investigation as to the property and estate of persons therein charged with liability for the cost and expense of maintenance of insane persons in state institutions and shall have the power to subpoena witnesses, take testimony under oath and examine any public records relating to the estate of an inmate or relative liable for his or her support. The state board of control shall determine whether such relative shall be required to pay for the support of such inmates or whether such charges shall be made against the estate of such an inmate. An order shall be issued to the persons who are determined liable for such payments requiring them to pay monthly, quarterly or otherwise as may be determined by said board. The board shall make all reasonable and proper efforts to collect such amounts, and in case of inability to collect, the attorney general, upon the recommendation of such board, shall direct the prosecuting attorney of the proper county to collect or institute civil action in the name of the state of Minnesota to recover the amount due with interest. All money received, as herein provided or by suit instituted, shall be paid to the state treasurer and placed in the general revenue fund and a separate account kept thereof. The board may, if it shall find it necessary, appoint one or more competent persons to act under its direction to assist in the carrying into effect the provisions of this act and the salaried and necessary expenses of such agents and other necessary expenses incident to carrying into effect the provisions of this act, shall be paid upon the order of the state board of control out of the moneys received or collected under the provisions of this act. ('17 c. 294 § 8)

[7489—]29. Same—Appeal to district court—Any person or party feeling himself aggrieved by any order or determination of the state board of control under the provisions of this act may appeal therefrom to the district court of the county in which the person or party resides, but upon any such appeal where any order or determination of the board of control made under the provisions of this act be brought in question such order shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated. Such appeal shall be taken within thirty days after service of notice of the filing of the order or determination of the board of control appealed from. Such appeal may be taken by serving a notice thereof upon the chairman of the said board of control or the secretary thereof and upon filing such notice, with proof of service thereof in the office of the clerk of the district court of the proper county within ten days after service thereof, the said court shall be deemed to have jurisdiction of said appeal and thereafter such proceedings shall be had as in other civil actions triable in said court. On such appeal the court shall have the power to order pleadings to be filed and make any other order necessary to the proper procedure and determination of said appeal. ('17 c. 294 § 9)

[7489—]30. Same—Voluntary payments—That whenever after August 1, 1917, any person who has committed himself or herself for treatment at any state detention hospital, or the relatives, friends, or legal representatives of any person who has been committed to a state asylum, detention hospital or hospital for the insane, desires to pay the whole or any portion of the cost of the maintenance of such person in any of said institutions, in addition to the requirements of this act, the same shall be received and disbursed as other money paid pursuant to the provisions of this act, and said board is hereby directed to establish a schedule of the cost to the state of the care and maintenance of the patients in such institutions. ('17 c. 294 § 10)

7490. In what cases allowed—

Executors may appeal as parties "aggrieved" from an order of the district court quashing a writ of certiorari directed to the probate court to review its order directing that plaintiffs, as executors, pay respondents a certain sum out of the funds of the estate (133-124, 155+906). Appeal and Error, ¶151(3).

The right of creditors, devisees, legatees, or heirs to appeal, under subd. 4 of this section from allowance or disallowance of a claim, is, by § 7491, subordinated to the general right of appeal given the representative of the estate, and it is only when he declines to appeal that the right extends to creditors, etc. (162+356). Executors and Administrators, ¶256(3).

The notice from the probate judge provided for by § 7490 does not limit the right of appeal under this section; that limitation being effected by the notice mentioned in § 7492 (133-20, 157+709). Courts, ¶202(5).

A party entitled to appear in the probate court and object to the probate of a will, but who does not so appear, may appeal to the district court from an order admitting the will to probate (129-248, 152+541). Wills, ¶359.

This section gives an appeal from the allowance or disallowance of a claim against decedent's estate, first, to representative or the interested creditor, and, if representative on request declines to appeal, extends right to creditors, heirs, etc., in general. That objectors to the allowance of a claim against a decedent's estate appeared in the probate court does not entitle them to appeal, where the representative has not declined to appeal (162+356). Executors and Administrators, ¶256(3).

7492. Appeal, how and when taken—

A party aggrieved has six months from the date of the filing of a judgment within which to appeal, unless the adverse party has served him with a written notice of the decision, in which case the right of appeal expires thirty days after the service of such notice. The notice mentioned in this section, and not the one provided for by § 7233 or by § 7490, is the one limiting the time for appeal (133-20, 157+709). Courts, ¶202(5).

The probate court cannot amend its decree after the time for appeal has expired, except in case of fraud, mistake, or surprise (132-176, 156+285). Executors and Administrators, ¶315(3).

7496. Proceedings in certain cases—Trial—

On appeal to the district court from an order of the probate court allowing a will, there is no constitutional or statutory right to a trial by jury of the issues of testamentary capacity and undue influence (131-439, 155+392). Jury, ~~6~~17(3).

Whether there shall be a jury trial of the issues of testamentary capacity and undue influence on appeal from an order of the probate court probating a will rests in the discretion of the district court. On appeal from an order of the probate court admitting a will to probate, the issues of testamentary capacity and undue influence, having been submitted to a jury, may be withdrawn before decision by the jury and decided by the court, though the evidence is such that the court would not have been justified in directing a verdict (131-439, 155+392). Wills, ~~6~~379, 380.

Where the issues of mental capacity and undue influence were submitted to the jury, and the jury found for proponent on the issue as to mental capacity, and for contestant on the other issue, and proponent filed a motion for new trial, which was the only motion filed, the court properly granted a new trial on the issue of undue influence alone (122-463, 142+729). Wills, ~~6~~337.

7497. When judgment affirmed—When reversed—

On appeal under this section the jurisdiction of the appellate court is limited to those matters of which the probate court had jurisdiction (161+392). Courts, ~~6~~202(5).

CHAPTER 75

COURTS OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE

COMMENCEMENT OF ACTIONS

7521. Failure to appear—Offer of judgment—If either party fails to appear within one hour after the time specified for the return of the process, or to which the cause is adjourned, the justice shall dismiss the action, or proceed to hear the evidence of the party present, and render judgment thereon: provided that in an action upon contract for the payment of money only if the plaintiff shall, at the time of the issuance of the process, file with the justice a verified complaint and shall attach a copy thereof to the process and shall cause a copy of such complaint to be served upon the defendant in the manner prescribed by law for the service of the process in such action, if the defendant fails to appear within one hour after the time specified for the return of the process, or to which the cause is adjourned, the justice shall enter judgment against the defendant on such complaint without requiring proof of the cause of action therein pleaded: provided, further, that a defendant who has appeared may, before answering the complaint, offer to allow judgment to be taken against him for the sum or property in said offer specified, with costs. If the offer is accepted, the justice shall thereupon enter judgment accordingly. If refused, the same is to be deemed withdrawn, and cannot be given in evidence; and, if the plaintiff fails to obtain a more favorable judgment, he cannot recover costs made subsequent to such offer, but must pay the defendant's costs and disbursements made and expended subsequently thereto. (Amended '17 c. 309 § 1)

PLEADINGS AND TRIAL

7522. Time to plead—Adjournment on return day—

Where parties appear on the return day, and on plaintiff's application hearing is adjourned for one week, answer may be filed on the day to which hearing is adjourned. An answer cannot be filed more than one week after return day without consent (124-147, 144+449). Justices of the Peace, ~~6~~92.

Where defendant filed an answer after discontinuance caused by adjournment for more than one week, he waived objection to jurisdiction, though the answer was a nullity because not filed within the time allowed by law (124-147, 144+449). Justices of the Peace, ~~6~~80.

7530. Pleadings verified—

An unverified answer in justice court is a nullity, so far as regards admission of proof thereunder against proper objection; but such an answer is an appearance (124-147, 144+449). Justices of the Peace, ~~6~~84(1), 97.

JUDGMENTS

7554. For costs on dismissal—

Liability of intervener for statutory costs on dismissal of his complaint in intervention (see 131-193, 154+953). Costs, ~~§~~98.

7601. May be taken, when—

Where, in an action on a note, in which a bank intervened, claiming to be a pledgee of the note, whereupon plaintiff withdrew from the action, and later the intervener withdrew, and defendant's motion to dismiss was granted, but his motion for statutory costs against both plaintiff and the intervener was denied as to the latter, defendant was entitled to appeal from the latter order, without appealing from the preliminary order (131-193, 154+953). Appeal and Error, ~~§~~119, 151(5).

7602. Requisites—No appeal shall be allowed unless the following requisites are complied with within ten (10) days after judgment is rendered:

1. An affidavit shall be filed with the clerk of the district court of the county wherein the cause was tried, stating that the appeal is made in good faith and not for the purpose of delay.

2. A bond shall be executed by the party appealing, his agent or attorney, to the adverse party in a sum sufficient to secure such judgment and costs of appeal, with sufficient surety to be approved by the clerk of the district court, conditioned that the appellant shall prosecute his appeal with effect and abide by the order of the court therein.

3. The party appealing shall serve a notice upon the opposite party, his agent or attorney who appeared for him on the trial, specifying the ground of appeal generally as follows: That the appeal is taken upon questions of law alone or upon questions of both law and fact. Such notice shall be served by delivering a copy thereof to the person upon whom service is made, or by leaving a copy at his residence; provided that if any party has appeared by attorney, service upon such attorney may be made in the manner provided in section 7744, subdivision 1, General Statutes of Minnesota for 1913, and the original notice, with proof of service thereof, shall be filed with the clerk of the district court to which the appeal is taken, within ten (10) days after such service is made, and thereupon such clerk shall immediately give notice in writing by registered mail to the justice of the peace before whom the cause was tried.

4. The party appealing shall pay to the clerk of the district court, for the use of the justice before whom the cause was tried, the sum of two dollars, ($2.00) which is hereby fixed as his fee for making the return, which sum shall be paid to the justice by said clerk upon filing the return of the justice in the office of the clerk, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the clerk to cause an entry of such appeal to be made upon the calendar of the next general term of the district court occurring more than twenty (20) days after the filing of such notice of appeal. (Amended '17 c. 283 § 1)

Where the cause is one of which the district court might take original jurisdiction, defects in the proceedings for appeal may be waived by general appearance (122-352, 142+709). Justices of the Peace, ~~§~~160(7).

Under this section and the two following sections, where no bond was executed on appeal from a municipal court until long after ten days from the rendition of the judgment, and the judge did not allow the appeal, and no return was made, or could legally be made, within 20 days, a motion to docket the case in the district court was properly denied (134-475, 159+751). Courts, ~~§~~190(4).

A proper notice of appeal is essential to confer jurisdiction on the district court (122-352, 142+709). Justices of the Peace, ~~§~~160(1).

Leaving a copy of the notice of appeal at the office of the appellee is not sufficient service under this section (122-352, 142+709). Justices of the Peace, ~~§~~160(4).

In an action on a note, in which a bank intervened, claiming the proceeds of the note as pledgee thereof, whereupon plaintiff withdrew from the case, and defendant thereafter appealed from an adverse judgment with respect to costs, notice of appeal need not be served on plaintiff (131-193, 154+953). Courts, ~~§~~190(4).

7603. Allowance—Effect—

7604. Return—Evidence, when included—

7605. Appeals, how tried—Judgment—

On appeal to the district court on questions of law alone, the cause is tried on the evidence returned; and where such evidence does not support a verdict for plaintiff, but discloses a want of meritorious cause of action, it is proper to order judgment for defendant (125-300, 146+1100). Justices of the Peace, *§*189(4).

7609. Defective bond—

This section does not apply, so as to require the granting of a motion to docket an appeal in the district court, where no bond was filed within the time required by § 7602, there being no motion to dismiss and no application to the district court to approve a bond (134-475, 159+751). Justices of the Peace, *§*159(1).

CONTEMPTS7615. Proceedings—Punishment—

The maximum sentence that can be imposed by the Minneapolis municipal court for a direct contempt is a fine of $20 or two days' imprisonment in the county jail (125-304, 146+1102). Contempt, *§*72.

CHAPTER 76FORCIBLE ENTRY AND UNLAWFUL DETAINER

7657. Forcible entry or detainer—Restitution—When any person has made unlawful or forcible entry into lands or tenements, and detains the same, or, having peaceably entered, unlawfully detains the same, he shall be fined, and the person entitled to the premises may recover possession thereof in the manner hereinafter provided. (Amended '17 c. 227 § 1)

Unlawful detention, unaccompanied with force, where the original possession was taken peaceably and under claim of right, is not sufficient to authorize proceedings under this section; ejectment being the proper remedy (127-93, 148+893, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 493). Forcible Entry and Detainer, *§*5.

7658. Tenant, etc., holding over—Removal—When any person holds over lands or tenements after a sale thereof on an execution or judgment, or on foreclosure of a mortgage and expiration of the time for redemption, or after termination of contract to convey the same, or after termination of the time for which they are demised or let to him or to the persons under whom he holds possession, or contrary to the conditions or covenants of the lease or agreement under which he holds, or after any rent becomes due according to the terms of such lease or agreement, or when any tenant at will holds over after the determination of any such estate by notice to quit, in all such cases the person entitled to the premises may recover possession thereof in the manner hereinafter provided. (Amended '17 c. 227 § 2)

A lease of a farm held not one for two seasons (123-377, 143+978). Landlord and Tenant, *§*95.

Proceedings under this section cannot be maintained against a person who peaceably and under claim of right entered into possession and does not forcibly detain the same (127-93, 148+893, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 493, following and applying 19-174 [Gil. 137]). Forcible Entry and Detainer, *§*4.

7666. Writ of restitution—Effect of appeal—

7667. Appeal—Stay—

Where defendants, in their answer, alleged that a writ of restitution was refused on the sole ground that this section did not apply, they cannot be heard to contend on appeal that the bond given by plaintiff was insufficient (123-377, 143+978). Mandamus, *§*167, 187(4).

CHAPTER 77

CIVIL ACTIONS

7673. One form of action—Parties how styled—

Contract or tort (121-296, 141+181, 45 L. R. A. [N. S.] 205, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 720). Action, ¶27(1).

Actions for damages, whether based upon our own statutes or upon those of other states, are governed by our own Code (124-195, 144+942). Action, ¶17.

As to effect of demurrer in legal and equitable actions, in view of the abolition of the distinction between the two kinds of actions, stated (see 129-342, 152+734).

A complaint against a physician, alleging that defendant undertook to set plaintiff's dislocated hip joint, and so negligently and unskillfully conducted the operation as to injure plaintiff, etc., states a cause of action, and is on contract, and not in tort (122-152, 142+143). Action, ¶27(1); Physicians and Surgeons, ¶18(4).

PARTIES

7674. Real party in interest to sue—When one may sue or defend for all—

Interest in general—An abutting owner, whose access to an alley is obstructed, has a special interest different from that of the public at large, and he may sue to protect his rights (127-440, 149+669). Municipal Corporations, ¶671(5).

Where a husband and wife executed a second mortgage without consideration, and after death of the husband the second mortgagee wrongfully refused to execute a release, and the first mortgage was foreclosed at the request of the widow, the widow and the purchaser at the foreclosure sale were entitled to maintain an action to restrain the second mortgagee from redeeming from the foreclosure sale (124-176, 144+761). Mortgages, ¶594(4, 6).

To restrain trespass on Indian lands, the title to which is in the United States, an action will not lie at the suit of the Indians alone, but the United States must be made a party plaintiff (130-510, 153+1088). Injunction, ¶114(1).

The right to sue for breach of covenant which runs with the land rests exclusively in the last covenantee, and an intermediate covenantor has no right of action thereon when he has indemnified such subsequent covenantee (126-14, 147+670). Covenants, ¶80.

A creamery company held not to have sufficient interest to maintain action to restrain enforcement of a police regulation, on the ground that it was unconstitutional, and compliance with it would interfere with plaintiff's business (124-239, 144+764, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 951). Injunction, ¶105(2).

Assignments—An agreement to repurchase stock held assignable (128-341, 150+1084). Assignments, ¶18.

An assignee of an agreement by defendant to repurchase stock held entitled to maintain an action to enforce the agreement, though the debt due from the assignor to the assignee, to secure which the assignment was made, was paid after the commencement of the action (128-341, 150+1084). Corporations, ¶121(1).

One to whom an order on a fund is given, for the purpose of paying out of the proceeds the claims of third persons, is the real party in interest, and may maintain an action on the order (127-340, 149+545). Bills and Notes, ¶443(3).

One suing for many—For practical reasons courts ought not to entertain suits at the instance of individual consumers to enjoin a public service corporation from placing in effect a schedule of rates which does not exceed the maximum fixed by the proper legislative body (130-71, 153+262, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 286). Injunction, ¶114(2).

7676. Executor, trustee, etc., may sue alone—

A party to a contract, by which defendant sold his transfer business and agreed not to engage in business in a certain city, may maintain injunction to restrain a violation of the covenant, though he made the purchase for an undisclosed principal and had no interest in the transaction, except under a contract with the principal to employ him if he made the purchase (124-40, 144+415). Principal and Agent, ¶144.

7677. Married women may sue or be sued alone—

In forcible entry and detainer, brought by a married woman to recover possession of her own property, the husband is not a necessary party (123-270, 143+785). Husband and Wife, ¶210(3).

7681. Parent or guardian may sue for injury to child or ward—Bond—Settlement—

Under this section, prior to its amendment in 1907, a father could settle for an injury to his child without suit brought (130-3, 153+250). Parent and Child, ¶8.

7683. Joinder of parties to instrument—

This section does not apply to actions for tort (134-461, 159+1081). Action, ¶45(3).

7685. Action not to abate by death, etc.—Torts—

Effect of death on jurisdiction—A judgment for or against a decedent is not void when jurisdiction was acquired prior to the death; but it is otherwise where the party was dead at the commencement of the action (132-409, 157+648). Judgment, ¶12.

Motion for substitution—An order made under this section, on motion of plaintiff, substituting appellants as parties defendant in place of the original defendant, who had died, is appealable (131-365, 155+396). Appeal and Error, ¶95, 128.

Where an ex parte order, made under § 7690, joining appellants as additional defendants, was vacated, the only question properly before the court was whether appellants were necessary parties to a full determination of the controversy between the original parties, and the order of vacation was not necessarily a bar to an application subsequently made under this section to substitute appellants for the original defendant, who had died (131-365, 155+396). Judgment, ¶569.

Substitution granted—An action to restrain obstruction of a roadway, the issue being whether, by virtue of an agreement relative to the opening of the way and the acts done under such agreement, the roadway became a town road, affects interests in land, and does not abate upon the death of a party (133-128, 156+7). Abatement and Revival, ¶58(2).

A suit to cancel a beneficiary certificate does not abate by the death of insured before judgment, or by the commencement of an action by the beneficiaries to recover on the certificate before they are made parties in the equity suit (132-422, 157+646). Abatement and Revival, ¶63.

Under this section a suit in equity, brought during the lifetime of insured, to cancel a certificate of membership in respondent association, does not abate by the death of insured, and the beneficiaries in the certificate may be substituted as defendants, whether they be regarded as "representatives" or "successors in interest"; and the suit does not abate because plaintiff has, since the death, an adequate remedy at law. It is immaterial under this section that the complaint, as originally filed, and existing at the time of the motion for substitution, does not state a cause of action against the defendants sought to be brought in as parties (131-365, 155+396). Abatement and Revival, ¶63.

Practice in supreme court—Practice in supreme court, on suggestion of death of party before commencement of action, stated (132-409, 157+648).

7690. Bringing in additional parties—

Where a special administrator was not entitled, under § 3514, to collect the proceeds of a beneficiary certificate, the beneficial association, in an action on the certificate, could not bring in such special administrator as a party defendant under this section (122-221, 142+316). Executors and Administrators, ¶438(1).

Where an ex parte order, made under this section, joining appellants as additional defendants, was vacated, the only question properly before the court was whether appellants were necessary parties to a full determination of the controversy between the original parties, and the order of vacation was not necessarily a bar to an application subsequently made under § 7685 to substitute appellants for the original defendant, who had died (131-365, 155+396). Judgment, ¶569.

LIMITATION OF ACTIONS7694. General rule—Exceptions—

A statute of limitations operates prospectively, unless a legislative intent to give it a retrospective operation is clear. The postponement of the time when a limitation statute becomes effective evidences an intent to make it of retrospective operation (134-21, 158+715). Limitation of Actions, ¶6(1).

Contract stipulations, limiting time within which action may be brought and not unreasonable, are valid (125-512, 147+651). Limitation of Actions, ¶14.

In determining whether a cause of action is barred, the day upon which it accrued is excluded, and the statute ceases to run when the complaint is drawn and the summons served, though the complaint be demurrable, since it is amendable (134-78, 158+908). Limitation of Actions, ¶123; Time, ¶9(2).

Where an insurance contract suspends the right of action thereon until the doing of certain acts by the insurance company, the limitation period commences to run from the time such suspension has terminated (125-512, 147+651). Insurance, ¶622(3).

Where a second mortgage was executed without consideration, a cause of action to restrain the mortgagee from redeeming from a foreclosure sale under the first mortgage did not accrue until the second mortgagee refused to release his mortgage or otherwise asserted its validity (124-176, 144+761). Limitation of Actions, ¶60(1).

7695. Bar applies to state, etc.—Exception—

A strip of land held to have become a street by virtue of a plat, and of long-continued user by the public (123-344, 144+150). Dedication, ¶44.

Title to a strip of land claimed by a city as a part of the street held acquired by the abutting owner by adverse possession, within the rule laid down in 101-378, 112+385 (129-59, 151+532). Adverse Possession, ¶114(2).

A person may be in the adverse possession of land, though it is traversed by public streets, and, while he cannot acquire the public easement, he may acquire title to the portions not dedicated to the public use, and he may also acquire title to the fee of the streets (132-311, 156+350). Adverse Possession, ¶8(2).

7696. Recovery of real estate, fifteen years—

In general—The optionee under a 50-year option for a 30-year mining lease is not barred by this section from asserting a right under the option because he has not been in possession within 15 years, where neither party has been in actual possession during that time (134-412, 159+966). Limitation of Actions, ¶19(1).

Adverse possession for the statutory period held not necessary in order to take an executed parol gift of land out of the statute of frauds (126-389, 148+125). Frauds, Statute of, ¶129(7).

A perfect legal title to land is never lost by abandonment (124-393, 145+30). Abandonment, ¶7.

Boundary lines—Evidence on the issue of determination of a boundary line by adverse possession for 15 years held insufficient to support a verdict for plaintiff (124-233, 144+758). Adverse Possession, ¶114(2); Boundaries, ¶37(1).

One is not to be deprived of his land because, through mistake or ignorance, he placed a fence on what he thought was the division line, when it was not such in fact, unless the evidence of practical location is clear, positive, and unequivocal (124-233, 144-758). Boundaries, ¶48(7).

Inclosure by fence constructed by adverse party. Sufficiency of adverse user to overcome true line (121-468, 141+788). Boundaries, ¶37(1).

Color of title—Possession may be adverse and hostile without color or claim of title, and it may originate in trespass (134-430, 159+830). Adverse Possession, ¶68.

The possession must be on an assertion of a claim of right, and must not possess the appearance of a mere trespass. The action of a city in taking possession of land donated to it for a site for a fire house held not a mere trespass, but an assertion of title supporting a claim of adverse possession (125-484, 147+655). Adverse Possession, ¶24, 64.

Degree of proof required—The evidence must be clear and convincing to justify a finding of title acquired by adverse possession (134-430, 159+830). Adverse Possession, ¶85(3).

Evidence held to sustain a finding against a claim of title by adverse possession (125-484, 147+655). Adverse Possession, ¶24, 64.

Evidence held to establish title to real estate by adverse possession (127-397, 149+647). Adverse Possession, ¶85(3).

Possession must be visible—Possession must be shown for the full period of fifteen years. The possessory acts must appear upon the land itself, and be such as to indicate an intention to appropriate it permanently. Giving permission to a third person to cut hoop poles and receiving pay for such poles is not sufficient (124-393, 145+30). Adverse Possession, ¶16(1), 40.

Possession must be hostile and under claim of right—The possession must be maintained under a claim of ownership, and if the person in possession recognizes title in another his holding is not adverse (125-24, 145+404). Adverse Possession, ¶60(3).

The terms "claim of title," "claim of right," and "claim of ownership" defined (see 132-311, 156+350). Adverse Possession, ¶12.

"Hostile" possession defined (see 132-311, 156+350). Adverse Possession, ¶58.

Continuous possession—There is no forfeiture to the state of land not redeemed within three years after a tax sale to the state, and hence failure to redeem does not interrupt the continuity of the possession of one holding adversely (132-311, 156+350). Adverse Possession, ¶46.

Acquisition of a tax certificate by one in adverse possession held not to break the continuity of his possession, though he made an assignment of the certificate (132-311, 156+350). Adverse Possession, ¶52.

Payment of taxes—Rule as to payment of taxes held to apply with less force in a case where the occupant is under a legal duty to pay the taxes as assessed (123-344, 144+150). Adverse Possession, ¶95.

Payment of taxes, though evidence of a claim of title, is not evidence of adverse possession (124-393, 145+30). Adverse Possession, ¶88.

Questions for jury—121-468, 141+788.

7701. Various cases, six years—

Subd. 1—An action for breach of contract to convey land, commenced in 1912, the breach occurring in 1901, is barred by the six-year statute (125-88, 145+799). Limitation of Actions, ¶46(9).

Repairs made during three successive years on separate orders for each year's work, the price of each year's work becoming due at its completion, did not constitute a running account, and the statute began to run on the work of a year as soon as it was completed (161+593). Limitation of Actions, ¶51(1).

This subdivision, and not § 7703 subd. 1, governs an action on the bond of a saloon keeper for acts constituting an assault (131-136, 154+795, L. R. A. 1916E, 269). Limitation of Actions, ¶21.

Cause of action on an insurance policy to recover one-half the amount of the policy for permanent disability held not barred until the lapse of six years after the exercise of his option to take under the clause of the policy giving the right to recover one-half of the face amount of the policy; the statute of limitations not having been put in operation by the mere occurrence of the disability (133-409, 158+625). Limitation of Actions, ¶66(6).

Subd. 2—Cause of action to enforce double liability of a stockholder accrues when insolvency of the corporation is declared and a receiver is appointed, and not at the time that an assessment is declared (161+498). Limitation of Actions, §58(4).

Subd. 3—Continuing injury to land; plaintiff may recover for damage suffered during six years prior to commencement of suit, though the wrongs complained of began prior to that time (129-113, 151+968). Limitation of Actions, §55(6, 7), 174(1).

Subd. 5—An action for malicious prosecution of a civil suit is governed by this section and subdivision, and not by § 7703 subd. 1 (123-17, 142+930, L. R. A. 1915B, 1179, 1195). Limitation of Actions, §55(4).

Subd. 6—The provision as to discovery of fraud applies to copartnership settlements. The burden is upon a plaintiff seeking a recovery for fraud, when his cause of action is apparently barred, to allege and prove that he did not discover it until within six years. Evidence held to show that an action to set aside a partnership settlement was brought within six years after discovery of the fraud relied on to avoid the settlement (134-279, 158+426). Limitation of Actions, §197(2).

A party in legal contemplation knows the facts constituting the fraud, when in the exercise of reasonable diligence he should have known them by proper inquiry (134-279, 158+426). Limitation of Actions, §100(13).

7703. Various actions, two years—

An action for malicious prosecution of a civil suit is governed by § 7701 subd. 5, and not by this section (123-17, 142+930, L. R. A. 1915B, 1179, 1195). Limitation of Actions, §55(4).

A complaint against a physician, alleging that defendant undertook to set plaintiff's dislocated hip joint, and so negligently and unskillfully performed the operation that plaintiff became a cripple for life, states a cause of action on contract, and hence not within this section (122-152, 142+143). Limitation of Actions, §55(3); Physicians and Surgeons, §18(4).

Action on saloon keeper's bond for acts constituting a tort ordinarily within this subdivision is not barred until six years after the cause of action accrues (131-136, 154+795, L. R. A. 1916E, 269). Limitation of Actions, §21.

[7704]—1. Judgment note, etc., authorizing confession of judgment—One year—No action shall be maintained upon any judgment note or other instrument, heretofore or hereafter executed, containing any provision authorizing a confession of judgment thereon, unless begun within one year after the cause of action shall have accrued. ('15 c. 222 § 1)

By § 4 the act takes effect November 1, 1915.

[7704]—2. Judgment or decree, etc., by confession, etc.—One year—No action shall be maintained upon any judgment or decree of any court of the United States, or of any state or territory thereof, heretofore or hereafter entered upon a plea of confession under any warrant of attorney or other instrument signed by the debtor authorizing such confession, unless the action upon such judgment be begun within one year after the rendition or entry thereof. ('15 c. 222 § 2)

7707. When action deemed begun—Pendency—

As to when action is deemed commenced (see 124-195, 144+942). Action, §64.

Evidence held to show that a proceeding to register a land title was pending, so as to abate an action to determine adverse claims subsequently brought (127-416, 149+735). Abatement and Revival, §7.

7708. Effect of absence from state—

7710. Periods of disability not counted—

Possibility of exceptions operating in favor of plaintiff whose complaint shows on its face that the cause of action set up was barred by limitations as precluding demurrer (see 129-342, 152+734). Limitation of Actions, §177.

Under the fifth subdivision of this section the period of limitation is not extended for more than five years by an injunction staying an action, nor in any case for more than one year after disability ceases; and a cause of action to recover payments for transportation of freight in excess of the rates fixed by §§ 4298-4304, accrued when payments were made, and not upon the dissolution of an injunction then in force restraining the putting into effect of the statutory rates (135-45, 159+1082). Limitation of Actions, §111.

7712. New promise must be in writing—

Notwithstanding § 8449, post, where a note shows on its face that it is more than six years past due, if the holder relies on part payment to avoid the bar of the statute, the burden is upon him to prove it, and it is error to charge the jury that the burden is on defendant to prove that the payment was not made at the date of the indorsement (133-289, 158+391). Limitation of Actions, §195(6), 200(2).

VENUE

7714. General rule—Exception—

That a proceeding for the collection of an assessment against stockholders of an insolvent corporation, under § 6646, was pending in one county, while the final hearing upon the petition for the assessment was had in an adjoining county was not error, where the adjournment to the latter county was by consent of both parties (132-9, 155+754). Corporations, ¶263(1).

7715. Actions relating to land, situs to govern—

An action for damages for fraudulent representations as to certain land sold by defendants to plaintiff is transitory (134-332, 159+788). Courts, ¶7.

St. Cloud City Charter § 275, as to venue of actions by or against city, held not applicable to actions for recovery of real estate, such actions being governed by this section (129-240, 152+408). Venue, ¶5(3).

An action for either a decree ordering a cancellation of plaintiff's deed to Nebraska land, or a judgment for damages for the alleged fraud of the defendants, is a transitory action, triable where defendants reside (162+351). Venue, ¶5(4).

An action to recover damages for breach of a contract to establish a railway station upon plaintiff's land is not within this section, and the action need not be brought in the county in which the land is located (133-442, 158+719, L. R. A. 1916F, 687). Venue, ¶5(5).

7718. Replevin—

Before it can be held that the action was brought in replevin solely to avoid a change of venue, it must appear conclusively that damages for conversion of the property is the only remedy available (130-103, 153+266). Venue, ¶16.

On application to change the venue on the ground that the cause of action was in fact for conversion, and that plaintiff had put it in the form of one for replevin to avoid a change of venue, the clerk cannot look beyond the complaint and transfer the cause, but the court may do so (130-103, 153+266). Venue, ¶72.

7721. Other cases—Residence of defendant—Residence of corporations—

Actions in municipal courts are within the provision of this section that the residence of railroad companies for the purpose of actions against them shall be any county into which their lines extend; and where the venue in such an action is properly laid, defendant has no right under § 272 to change the venue to another municipal court in the same county, though the latter is nearer its principal general office in the state, and its principal place of business in the county (128-225, 150+924). Courts, ¶180(2, 3).

Personal service of summons on defendant at his residence in one county will not support a default judgment in the district court of another county (161+1054). Judgment, ¶16.

7722. As of right—Demand—

Change of venue in election contest—Changes of venue in election contests are controlled by § 529 (126-404, 150+625). Elections, ¶277.

As a matter of right—The clerk cannot look beyond the complaint to ascertain whether an action in replevin was brought in that form to avoid a change of venue; the court alone possessing that power (130-103, 153+266). Venue, ¶72.

When demand must be made—Whether the demand provided for by this section was made seasonably must be determined from the whole record, and if defendant's affidavit shows his nonresidence, that fact must be contested in the court to which the change is made; but the court in which the action is brought is not bound to surrender jurisdiction unless the record shows a right to the change (127-324, 149+536). Venue, ¶40, 70, 72.

Demand for change of venue, made after the 20 days, is too late, though the time for answering has been extended and has not yet expired; and a stipulation extending the time for answering does not extend the time for making application for change of venue (127-324, 149+536). Venue, ¶61.

Several defendants—An individual defendant is not entitled to a change of venue to the county of his residence, where a municipal corporation is a codefendant, which does not join in the application for the change, such municipal corporation not having been made a defendant for the purpose of preventing a change of venue. Such change of venue could not be granted because the complaint was demurrable as to the municipal corporation for failure to allege the statutory notice before the commencement of the suit; the city not raising such defense (132-219, 150+284). Venue, ¶41.

The words "if the numbers be equal, in that whose county seat is nearest," have no application where less than a majority demand a change of venue. Where two defendants are served in the county in which one of them resides, the nonresident defendant cannot, on his sole motion and affidavit, secure a change of venue to the county of his residence (122-377, 142+817). Venue, ¶22(1).

7723. By order of court—Grounds—

Where there was nothing in the record to show that one defendant was not made a party to prevent a change of venue under this section, the supreme court could not disturb the judgment for plaintiff because of the trial court's refusal to grant a change of venue (131-489, 154-789). Appeal and Error, §966.

7727. Prejudice or bias of judge—Affidavit—

This section does not permit the defendant in a divorce suit to have the application of the plaintiff for temporary alimony and custody of the minor children pending suit transferred to another judge, by filing an affidavit of prejudice against the judge before whom the application is made (135-307, 160-778). Judges, §49\(1\).

[7727—]1. Expenses of trial when to be paid by county in which action was commenced—Whenever the venue hereafter shall be changed in a civil action upon the consent of parties, with or without an order of court, to a county other than the one where the same is properly triable or by an order of court under either subdivision three (3) or four (4), of section 7723, General Statutes 1913, the expenses of the trial of such action, including officers and jurors fees, and all expenses caused by the trial of such action which would not otherwise have been incurred by the county where the same is tried shall be paid by the county in which such action was commenced. ('17 c. 421 § 1)

[7727—]2. Same—To be first paid by county in which action is tried—Statement to county in which action originated—Such expenses shall be paid in the first instance by the county in which the action is tried, and thereupon the clerk of court of said county shall prepare, under his hand and seal, an itemized statement of such expenses, and upon approval thereof by the judge of the court in which said trial was had, and the filing of such itemized statement and approval in the office of the county auditor in which such action was commenced, such auditor shall issue his warrant for the amount of such approved statement in favor of the county in which the trial was had. ('17 c. 421 § 2)

SUMMONS—APPEARANCE—NOTICES, ETC.

7728. Actions, how begun—

An action is deemed as commenced when the summons is delivered to the proper officer for service, if such service be completed within the prescribed time. There is no other way of commencing a civil action in this state than that prescribed by this section, and the form of the summons and the manner of its service is governed by this Code (124-195, 144-942). Action, §64.

The Code provisions as to commencement of actions must be construed as a whole, so as to give effect to the intention to provide a single uniform course of procedure which shall apply alike to all civil actions (124-195, 144-942). Limitation of Actions, §5\(2\), 118(1).

7729. Requisites of summons—Notice—

A summons is not a process, within §§ 7783, 7786, relating to amendments, but is a document in the action, which may be amended by leave of court (131-173, 154-952). Process, §163.

A default judgment entered in the district court is not supported by service of a summons purporting to have been issued out of the municipal court (161-1054). Judgment, §17\(2\).

7732. Service of summons—On natural persons—

Exemption of nonresident attorney in state for taking of depositions (see 135-317, 160-795, L. R. A. 1917C, 431).

7735. Same—On private corporations—

Cited (132-389, 157-642).

Subd. 3—130-35, 152-1102.

Section 3555, and not this section, has reference to foreign beneficiary associations transacting business in this state (131-131, 154-748). Insurance, §16, 814.

Under subd. 3 of this section the salesman of a foreign corporation soliciting orders for work to be done outside the state and fully authorized to act as to a contract for work made in the state, was an agent of the corporation on whom service might be made (162-1068). Corporations, §668\(10\).

Under the provision of subd. 3 of this section, that service may be made on any agent for the solicitation of freight or passenger traffic, jurisdiction may be acquired over a foreign corporation doing business in the state by service on such an agent in a transitory action, though the cause of action did not arise in the state (134-261, 159-272, 134-479, 159-947). Railroads, §33\(2\).

Summons in an action against a foreign corporation held properly served on its president, who resided in this state, and who occasionally performed corporate duties therein; the action having grown out of a sale of stock made by a traveling agent in this state (129-282, 152-410, L. R. A. 1916E, 241). Corporations, §642\(2\).

An agent maintained by several foreign railroad companies operating connecting lines for the solicitation of business in this state is the agent of each of such companies and may be served with process. The designation of the agent to be served by the statute is valid, and, being assented to by the corporation by its act in sending the agent into this state, the service is binding on it. The designation of such an agent is due process of law, and will support the service of process in a suit growing out of the business so solicited and obtained (129-204, 151+917, L. R. A. 1916E, 232, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 335). Constitutional Law, §309(3); Corporations, §662, 665(2), 668(4).

Where a foreign corporation, engaged in manufacturing and selling shoes, makes contracts with local retailers by which the latter agree to adopt a particular name for their stores, to sell the corporation's shoes exclusively, and keep the stock insured for the benefit of the corporation, and by which the corporation agrees to extend credit for shoes furnished and to pay the expense of advertising for the first year, service of process on a state representative of the corporation, who has charge of its business in the state, establishes stores, and sells shoes to the stores personally and through salesmen, is good as against the corporation, since the activities of the corporation constitute the doing of business within the state (134-245, 158+975). Corporations, §668(1).

A foreign corporation having an agent in this state, who appointed salesmen, to whom goods were furnished from a stock of goods kept at the office of such agent within the state, was doing business within this state, and summons served on such agent conferred jurisdiction (131-335, 155+103). Corporations, §642(1).

A foreign corporation, on whose agent within the state summons was served, held to be doing business in the state of a character and extent necessary to warrant the inference that it had subjected itself to the jurisdiction and laws of this state. The president of a foreign corporation residing within the state is an agent "of sufficient rank and character as to make it reasonably certain that the corporation will be notified of the service," within the decisions (131-162, 154+950). Corporations, §668(15).

7737. Service by publication—Personal service out of state—

This and the following section are applicable to proceedings under §§ 8717-8726 (126-95, 147+953).

Personal service on defendants outside the state has the same effect as service by publication (123-431, 144+138, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1061). Judgment, §17(3).

While ordinary service by publication in a divorce suit will not support a personal judgment for alimony, whether the defendant is a resident or nonresident of the state, such a judgment may be based on service by publication had on an affidavit that defendant is a resident of the state, is living therein, but cannot be found, because he secretes himself so that personal service cannot well be made on him (135-397, 161+148, L. R. A. 1917C, 1140). Divorce, §202.

7738. Same—In what cases—

Subd. 3—If the conveyance of real estate made by a nonresident debtor is fraudulent as to creditors, the land remains the property of the debtor as against such creditors, and may be seized by them on a writ of attachment as the basis of an action against such nonresident. The service of a summons upon a nonresident debtor in an action to recover the debt cannot be set aside, upon affidavits that he has no interest in the property upon which attachment has been levied as the basis of the action, since the validity of the conveyance cannot be determined upon affidavits, nor in an action to which the claimant thereunder is not a party (123-364, 143+915). Fraudulent Conveyances, §228.

In an action against a nonresident to recover a debt, the jurisdiction of the court is limited to the property of the debtor seized under proper process. The court may make any form of decree known to the law, which can be enforced through its control of property within the state over which it has acquired jurisdiction by publication (123-431, 144+138, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1061). Judgment, §17(3), 807.

Where defendant in an action to determine adverse claims is a resident of the state, and has a record title in which his surname appears somewhat different from his true name, but such that from it he could be found and served within the state, jurisdiction cannot be acquired of him by publication (129-270, 152+640). Process, §87.

7739. When defendant may defend—Restitution—

In general—In opening an interlocutory judgment in partition, and granting leave to answer, upon the application of a nonresident, under this section, the court may impose terms, though the applicant has not been guilty of laches. The terms, however, should not be such as to deprive the applicant of any substantial right as claimed in his proposed answer, or such as are burdensome; the applicant not being guilty of laches and making his application within the year. It was therefore improper to require the applicant to stipulate to accept and abide by the judgment already entered, in so far as it had been executed by a sale, to pay into court a sum of money sufficient to pay all expenses of the sale and the costs, and to disclaim the undivided one-half interest in the property decreed to plaintiff (123-471, 144+140). Judgment, §167.

Upon the application it is not proper to try the merits of the proposed answer (123-471, 144+140). Judgment, §163.

Diligence in making application—The defendant, to whom a copy of the summons is delivered in person without the state, is not personally served within this section; the service being merely an equivalent of summons by publication. From the time defendant, served by publication, has knowledge of the commencement of the suit, he must proceed with diligence to make his defense. Defendant, to whom summons was delivered in person in New York, held not guilty of inexcusable neglect in failing to answer in time (122-396, 142+714, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 563). Judgment, ¶142.

7741. Jurisdiction, when acquired—Appearance—

Presence at a general term call of the calendar, when the case is set for trial, without participation or objection, is not a general appearance (122-352, 142+709). Appearance, ¶8(1).

An order, entered upon a special appearance, to show cause why the service should not be set aside, did not convert the special appearance into a general one, though it enlarged the time for answering in the event that the service should be upheld. A special appearance to contest the service is not made general by an adjournment, granted at defendant's request, of the hearing upon the order to show cause (122-245, 142+310). Appearance, ¶9(3).

As to time when action is deemed commenced (see 124-195, 144+942). Action, ¶64.

7742. Appearance and its effect—

Appearance by appellee in district court waives defects in proceedings for appeal from judgment of justice of the peace (122-352, 142+709). Justices of the Peace, ¶160(7).

An unverified answer in justice court, though a nullity, is an appearance (124-147, 144+449). Justices of the Peace, ¶84(1).

An attempt to demur in justice court is an appearance (124-147, 144+449). Justices of the Peace, ¶84(1).

7745. Same—By mail—When and how made—Effect—

This section deals exclusively with the service of pleadings, notices, and the like in legal actions or proceedings, and has no reference to notices under private contracts, as to which there is no statutory requirement (129-335, 152+723, L. R. A. 1916B, 1114). Notice, ¶10.

7746. Defects disregarded—Amendments, extensions, etc.—

This section does not confer on the court power to enlarge the time fixed by statute for making a demand for a review by a jury of the order of the court fixing the amount of benefits or damages in a judicial ditch proceeding (131-372, 155+626). Drains, ¶82(1).

That plaintiff and the court, in entering a judgment of dismissal on stipulation, overlooked the fact that a new action was barred by a contract provision, was an "omission" or "mischance" for which the court could grant relief against such judgment (131-246, 154+1099). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶43(4).

Refusal to require plaintiff to elect between several causes of action which in fact were tried as one, even if error, was without prejudice (127-490, 150+218). Appeal and Error, ¶1089(9).

Complaint in action for breach of contracts for sale of lumber held sufficient, as against an objection to the introduction of evidence thereunder (123-122, 143+253). Pleading, ¶428(2).

MOTIONS AND ORDERS

7749. Defined—Service of notice—

Under this section, an order to show cause, in proper form and properly served, is as effective as a statutory notice of motion to bring into court the party to whom it is directed and to give jurisdiction (162+523). Motions, ¶24.

The time of notice of an application for settling a case, as prescribed by § 7832, may be shortened by an order to show cause under § 7749 (125-475, 147+654). Appeal and Error, ¶568.

The granting of leave to renew a motion on the same facts is within the discretion of the court (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Motions, ¶43.

Misnomer of corporate defendant by adding to its name the words "Relief Department," may be taken advantage of by motion to dismiss, instead of by plea in abatement (133-434, 158+711). Parties, ¶95(5).

7750. Motions, etc., where noticed and heard—

Findings are not proper on motion for judgment on the pleadings. On motion by relator in mandamus for judgment on the pleadings, the court looks to the allegations of the writ admitted by the return and the allegations of new matter in the return (129-181, 151+970). Pleading, ¶350(3).

Upon motion for judgment on the pleadings, every reasonable intendment will be given the pleading attacked (125-118, 145+812). Pleading, ¶350(3).

Where the supplemental answer in ejectment stated that plaintiff took possession after commencement of the action, but did not allege that such possession was acquired by force or wrongfully, and apparently it could not have been acquired otherwise than by defendant's voluntary act, plaintiff was entitled to judgment on the pleadings (124-538, 144+1090). Ejectment, ¶79.

Judgment on the pleadings for failure to reply may be opened on motion of plaintiff, and leave given to file reply (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Judgment, ¶145(1).

7751. Same—Ex parte motions—

In replevin to recover a piano sold to defendant on a conditional contract, an answer setting up a warranty and a breach thereof presents a proper counterclaim (126-461, 148+307). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶29(1).

Vague allegations that an expenditure of money by a village for the purchase of land to open a street is an extravagant waste of funds of the village, without stating any facts on which the court can form any judgment, are not sufficient to warrant an injunction (129-259, 152+412). Where, in a complaint by foreign receivers of a foreign corporation to recover a stock subscription, there was nothing to show that the appointing court acted under its general equity powers, or without statutory authority, or that it exceeded its jurisdiction, a general demurrer did not present any question of jurisdictional defects (122-250, 142+315). Abatement and Revival, ¶83.

The petition and notice of contest of an election under §§ 529 and 599 is governed by the rules of practice applicable to an ordinary complaint, and contestee, desiring to attack the petition on the ground of legal incapacity of contestants, must demur or answer under this section, or he will be deemed to have waived the objection (161+513). 7756. Contents of answer—

In general—Where an answer sets out in full the contract sued on, plaintiff cannot contend that the issue as to whether the contract was entire was not raised by the answer (125-179, 146+347, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 254, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 882). Contracts, ¶338(1).

Where the answer admits consideration of the note sued on, an offer by defendant to prove want of consideration is properly denied (128-241, 150+870). Pleading, ¶36(3).

Evidence of contributory negligence is admissible under an answer containing a general denial and a specific allegation "that the damage * * * was caused by the negligence of the said plaintiff and its servant and employé, and not otherwise" (161+390). Negligence, ¶117.

Illegality of a lease as contemplating violation of the liquor laws held not available as a defense in an action thereon, where it neither appeared from the complaint nor was alleged in the answer, and was not litigated by consent (126-417, 148+566). Landlord and Tenant, ¶230(8).

Where defendant did not plead the law of a foreign state, by which the principles of the case were governed, and tried the case on the theory that such law was applicable, he could not complain on appeal that such law was not pleaded (132-205, 156+3). Appeal and Error, ¶171(3).

An answer, pleading that defendant's ancestor was at the time of his death lawfully seized of the premises and that he had good and sufficient title thereto, held sufficient to permit a defense of title by parol gift, accepted and executed (126-389, 148+125). Frauds, Statute of, ¶149.

In an action to foreclose a log lien, an answer expressly denying that any demand had been made on defendant before the filing of the lien, and averring lack of information sufficient to form a belief as to any of the allegations of the complaint, raised the issue as to such demand, and whether the work was completed before the lien was filed (128-5, 150+216). Logs and Logging, ¶33(8).

Personal property having been converted by an attempted foreclosure and sale by the former mortgagee, the amount of a new note cannot be deducted from the damages awarded without pleading and proof of the note (132-364, 157+582). Pleading, ¶139.

Defendant need not plead facts showing that the injury complained of resulted from a cause different from that alleged by plaintiff (131-266, 154+1093). Master and Servant, ¶262(1).

In an action on a contract, there being a denial of the making of the contract, defendant need not plead facts tending to show that the material and labor constituting the subject of the action were furnished without expectation of pay and that the minds of the parties never met in an agreement (127-449, 149+950). Contracts, ¶346(9).

A denial of any consideration will not admit proof of an illegal consideration (135-208, 160+676). Pleading, ¶346(3).

An admission in an answer that defendant executed a bond sued on in the form and manner set out in the complaint carries with it an admission of all that is essential to a valid execution of the bond, the terms contained therein including the full authority of the agents by whom it was executed (123-218, 143+355). Pleading, ¶127(2).

A claim for attorney's fees for the collection of a note is not a part of the cause of action on the note, and a denial in the answer of the value thereof as alleged in the complaint does not raise an issue, preventing the testing of the answer by demurrer as not stating a defense to the note (161+398). Pleading, ¶204(5).

Effect of general denial—Where the complaint in a suit on a note alleges that no part of the note has been paid, a general denial does not raise a material issue upon the question of payment (161+398). Bills and Notes, ¶489(1).

Under a general denial in an action for slander, defendant may show in diminution of damages that plaintiff's reputation was bad (122-517, 142-897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Libel and Slander, ¶100(4).

The issue of noncompliance with § 3858, requiring notice of assignments of wages to be given to the employer, held sufficiently raised by defendant's general denial (125-211, 146-359, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 688). Assignments, ¶132.

Matters provable under general denial in action for slander (122-177, 142-147, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1098, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 894). Libel and Slander, ¶100(1).

A general denial in an action for treble damages for cutting timber puts in issue the question whether the cutting was casual or involuntary, though the answer admitted that some timber was cut by defendant's servants without lawful right; it not appearing from the answer that such cutting was with defendant's knowledge or consent (127-360, 149-461). Treaties, ¶40(4).

Where, in an action for assault and battery, defendant filed a general denial merely, it was not error to refuse to instruct on the subject of justification (124-260, 144-950). Trial, ¶251(8).

Several defendants—Where several defendants answer separately, a defense interposed by one is not available to a codefendant, where his separate answer does not present it (129-324, 152-755). Pleading, ¶84.

Admission of ultimate facts—Defendant, having admitted the ultimate facts pleaded in the complaint, cannot insist that the plaintiff must either plead or prove the subsidiary matters which go to make up such facts (132-238, 156-283). Pleading, ¶376.

Extension of time as releasing surety—A surety on a building bond, claiming a release because of an extension of time granted the contractor, must plead such defense. Such surety, claiming a release on the ground that the owner paid the contractor a sum of money after default, must plead such defense (123-222, 143-715). Principal and Surety, ¶156.

7757. Requisites of a counterclaim—Pleading does not admit—

In general—Pleading recoupment (121-280, 141-179).

Whether a cause of action pleaded is a proper counterclaim in the particular action can only be raised by demurrer (133-306, 153-420). Pleading, ¶195.

Subd. 1—In a suit on a note, transferred by a trustee in bankruptcy, to plaintiff, defendant was entitled to set off damages by a breach of contract of bailment by the bankrupt, where the damage occurred while the property was in the possession of the bailee or his trustee in bankruptcy. (124-54, 144-426). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶49(1).

Where the conditional vendee of an automobile was in default, the possession of the automobile by the vendor was not wrongful until he began suit on the purchase money notes, and the court properly limited recovery on the vendee's counterclaim to the time subsequent to the commencement of the action (125-317, 146-1113, L. R. A. 1916A, 912). Sales, ¶479(15); Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶29(2).

Defendant must plead a set-off, and plaintiff need not prosecute an equitable accounting to ascertain whether defendant is entitled thereto (128-58, 150-227). Contracts, ¶328(1).

Where the complaint seeks an accounting, defendant is entitled to deductions, though he does not plead the same as a set-off or counterclaim (123-307, 150-903). Pleading, ¶139.

In replevin by a chattel mortgagee, defendant cannot set up as a counterclaim a conversion by plaintiff of the property involved in the action after the commencement of the action (133-305, 158-420). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶11.

Where plaintiff, a grading contractor, sublet a part of the work to defendant partnership, advanced money to the firm, and took a mortgage on its grading outfit to secure such advances, and on default brought replevin against the firm, defendants were entitled to assert a partnership claim by way of counterclaim, though the mortgage was not given by the firm, but by a member thereof and his wife (133-305, 158-420). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶29(1).

Where a landlord forcibly evicted his tenant, who had paid his rent in advance, and brought an action to restrain the tenant from interfering with the property and for damages, a counterclaim for damages for conversion of the tenant's property in the building and for the value of the term covered by his advance payment of rent arose "out of the contract or transaction pleaded in the complaint" or "connected with the subject of the action," and was permissible under this section. (123-447, 143-1128). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶29(3).

The provision that a counterclaim is proper when it is "connected with the subject of the action" should receive a liberal construction (126-461, 148-307). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶3.

Damages due to plaintiff's quitting defendant's service without cause, in violation of the contract of employment, could be pleaded as a set-off to plaintiff's cause of action for conversion of garden truck (130-50, 152-865). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶33(1).

Subd. 2—Where defendant, a tenant whose term expired February 28th, and who had paid his rent to that date, was forcibly evicted by plaintiff, the landlord, on February 10th, and on February 11th plaintiff brought an action against defendant for damages for a forcible re-entry, and to restrain defendant from interfering with plaintiff's possession, a counterclaim interposed by defendant to recover $500, the value of goods in the building converted by plaintiff, and for $150 "for the use and occupation" of the premises, stated a cause of action existing in favor of defendant against plaintiff at the commencement of the action. While defendant had no cause of action for use and occupation, defendant being a trespasser, his designation of his claim as for "use and occupation" would be treated as surplusage, and the claim therefor treated as one for damages for the eviction, recoverable at the date of such eviction. A further allegation of defendant's answer that "by reason of the premises defendant has been damaged in the sum of at least $650' was sufficient to present a claim for tort accruing before the commencement of the action (123-447, 143+1128). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶24.

Where plaintiff, a grading contractor, sublet a part of the work to defendants, advanced money to them, and took a chattel mortgage on their grading outfit, and, on default in the payment of the mortgage, brought replevin, a counterclaim by defendants setting up an oral agreement by plaintiff to pay extra compensation for wet excavation, encountered after the work was undertaken, was permissible under the second subdivision of this section, as another cause of action arising on contract interposed in an action on contract, though such counterclaim was not maintainable under the first subdivision (133-305, 158+420). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶29(1).

Where the maker of a note for the price of corporate stock sued to enforce a contract by defendant, the payee, by which the latter agreed to collect the amount of the note from a larger note assigned by plaintiff to defendant as collateral, and for that purpose to renew plaintiff's note, a counterclaim by defendant alleging that the collateral note was worthless and had been fraudulently assigned by plaintiff to defendant, and that plaintiff had wrongfully taken possession of his own note, and praying judgment for the amount thereof, was not based on a tort, but on contract growing out of the transaction, and a demurrer thereto was properly overruled (132-399, 157+640, L. R. A. 1916E, 771). Set-Off and Counterclaim, ¶34(1).

7758. Several defences, etc., how pleaded—Answer and demurrer—

In an action on an accident policy for death resulting from accident, where defendant alleged that the death was caused by suicide, and also that it was caused by the beneficiary, it was proper to deny plaintiff's motion to require defendant to elect on which claim it would rely, since the issue was the question of accident, and the affirmative of the issue was with the plaintiff, and it would have been proper to show either one of such claims under a general denial in disproof of accident, they not being affirmative defenses and not being inconsistent (134-192, 158+967). Pleading, ¶93(2).

7759. Judgment on defendant's default—

Where a complaint stated a cause of action against one of two defendants, a joint demurrer of both defendants was properly overruled (123-159, 143+257, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 137). Pleading, ¶198.

7760. Demurrer or reply to answer—

Demurrer to answer—Whether a cause of action pleaded is a proper counterclaim can only be raised by demurrer (133-305, 158+420). Pleading, ¶195.

A claim for attorney's fees for the collection of a note is not a part of the cause of action on the note, and a denial in the answer of the value thereof as alleged in the complaint does not raise an issue which prevents testing by demurrer the sufficiency of the answer as a defense to the note (161+398). Pleading, ¶204(5).

A demurrer to the second defense of an answer in ejectment denying generally the complaint and attempting to plead an oral agreement for a conveyance of the land, taken out of the statute of frauds by part performance, was not bad as being to a part of a defense only (134-321, 159+752). Pleading, ¶204(7).

Reply to answer—A complaint construed as required by § 7769, and held that a reply was unnecessary (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Pleading, ¶165.

In an action on a benefit certificate, in which the answer set up the expulsion of assured from the order, a reply that the expulsion was arbitrary and void, and constituted a breach of the contract, was responsive to defenses set up in the answer to the effect that after the expulsion deceased failed to pay his assessments, and that proofs of his death were not furnished (127-196, 149+197). Insurance, ¶815(3).

A reply denying that a special administrator was appointed was sufficient to raise the issue that an appointment in fact made was invalid, because no petition for such appointment was filed as required by § 7227 (128-112, 150+385). Executors and Administrators, ¶443(7).

Admissions in reply (129-214, 152+404). Pleading, ¶177.

7761. Failure to reply—Judgment—

An allegation of payment in the answer, to which no reply was interposed, held presumptively litigated by consent (131-249, 154+1072). Appeal and Error, ¶907(1).

7762. Sham and frivolous pleadings—

In general—In an action on a note given in satisfaction of a judgment, and to foreclose a mortgage given to secure such note, an answer setting up newly discovered evidence, and praying that the judgment be vacated and that a new trial be granted, held properly stricken as sham and frivolous (161+257). Pleading, ¶358.

A frivolous reply and a sham reply defined and distinguished, and held that such a reply may be stricken on motion; its falsity being established by affidavit (125-98, 145+787). Pleading, ¶358, 359, 360(1, 3).

Sham pleadings—To warrant striking an answer as sham its falsity must be clearly and indisputably shown. That a pleading is verified does not prevent it from being attacked as sham. An answer setting up failure of plaintiff to comply with §§ 6107-6113 in respect to an interstate transaction held properly stricken as sham (133-240, 158+239). Pleading, ¶360(3).

Frivolous pleadings—To warrant striking an answer as frivolous, the facts pleaded must not in any legal view present a defense (133-240, 158+239). Pleading, ¶358.

Irrelevant pleadings—In action for alienation of wife's affections, allegation of the answer setting out statement of trial court contained in the decree of divorce as to the treatment of his wife by defendant therein, plaintiff here, prior to the action for divorce, was properly stricken (162+448). Pleading, ¶364(1).

Where, after the filing of a counterclaim, plaintiff in replevin dismissed without prejudice to the prosecution of the counterclaim, that part of an amended answer, thereafter filed, setting up an additional "counterclaim" for conversion of the property after the date of the dismissal, cannot be supported as a supplemental answer (133-305, 158+420). Pleading, ¶146.

Where it appears from the supplemental answer in ejectment that plaintiff had taken possession after commencement of the action, but the answer did not demand a dismissal and defendant did not offer to let plaintiff have judgment determining her right of possession, but demanded judgment on the merit refusal to dismiss because of plaintiff's possession was not error (124-538, 144+1090). Ejectment, ¶100.

7764. Interpleader—

Where a party is ordered to interplead and his right to a fund in court depends on the power of the court to relieve him from an accepted bid, he is not entitled to a jury trial (135-115, 160+500). Jury, ¶13(19).

Substitution of party defendant, on deposit in court by the retiring defendant, of the fund in controversy, held not improper (122-187, 142+144). Parties, ¶59(1).

An order of interpleader, made under this section, making appellant a party, and requiring her to present her claim to the fund in the hands of defendant, and restraining appellant from prosecuting an action in another state, held proper (132-167, 156+271). Injunction, ¶33; Interpleader, ¶11.

Where a beneficiary certificate, or the constitution and by-laws of the order, did not provide that the proceeds of the certificate, on the death of the beneficiary named, should be paid to the administrator under G. S. 1913 § 3514, as trustee, a special administrator of the deceased member, the beneficiary having predeceased him, could not be impleaded by the beneficial association, under this section, when sued on the certificate by the heirs of the deceased member (122-221, 142+316). Executors and Administrators, ¶438(1).

7766. Intervention—

The trial court's determination, made on conflicting affidavits, as to the number of folios charged for in making the transcript and two copies of the testimony, made necessary on account of the intervention, cannot be disturbed (127-212, 149+295). Appeal and Error, ¶1024(5).

Where a bank intervened in an action on a note, claiming that it held the note as collateral security, whereupon plaintiff withdrew from the case, and thereafter the complaint in intervention was withdrawn, intervenor was liable for statutory costs on dismissal of the action on defendant's motion (131-193, 154+953). Costs, ¶98.

Where an intervenor, claiming a lien on property for the negligent loss of which the action is brought, reiterates the allegations of the complaint in the action, and becomes practically a coplaintiff, he is liable, under this section, jointly with the plaintiff for costs, upon the setting aside of separate verdicts in their favor, including the expense of a transcript and two copies of the testimony (127-212, 149+295). Costs, ¶98.

7769. Pleadings liberally construed—

Under this section, a complaint construed, and held a reply was not necessary (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Pleading, ¶165.

Construction against admission of fact (122-118, 142+10). Pleading, ¶177.

7770. Irrelevant, redundant, and indefinite pleadings—

Allegations of perjury and fraudulent practices in obtaining a judgment without statement of facts constituting the fraud are mere conclusions and irrelevant (126-414, 148+455). Pleading, ¶8(1).

Allegations in an action to set aside a judgment held properly stricken as redundant or irrelevant (126-414, 148+455). Pleading, ¶364(2, 3).

An order requiring a complaint to be made more definite and certain rests in the discretion of the trial court, and will not be reversed unless the discretion is abused (126-414, 148+455). Appeal and Error, ¶960(2).

Where a general allegation of permanent injury is deemed insufficient, the proper practice is to move the court for more specific allegations (124-260, 144+950). Pleading, ¶367(4).

7771. Averments, when deemed admitted—

An answer held not to admit a cause of action alleged in a complaint (126-494, 148+299). Insurance, ¶815(2).

A defendant, who omits to plead and prove a partial payment of an account, is concluded by the judgment and cannot maintain an action to recover such payment (123-389, 143+910). Judgment, ¶619.

A reply averring that insured paid all the monthly assessments which defendant permitted him to pay, and that since a date specified defendant refused to accept payments of assessments or to recognize insured as a member of defendant beneficial order, admitted the allegations of the answer that no monthly assessments were in fact paid subsequent to the time stated (134-302, 159+624). Pleading, ¶177.

7773. Ordinances and local statutes—

In a criminal prosecution for violation of a village ordinance, the complaint is sufficient if it refers to the ordinance by number, chapter, or section, and it is not necessary to introduce the ordinance in evidence (124-498, 145+383, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 40, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 812). Criminal Law, ¶304(12).

7774. Incorporation, pleading and proof—

Where fact of incorporation is material, denial on information and belief or general denial does not raise an issue. Allegation of incorporation, where immaterial to the issues, need not be proved (128-73, 150+226). Corporations, ¶514(1), 518(2).

In an action against a corporation the complaint need not allege defendant's corporate existence, and a denial thereof in the answer is unavailing when it is refuted by the verification and evidence brought out by defendant itself (124-317, 145+37). Corporations, ¶514(2), 518(2).

Failure to allege corporate character and powers of defendant company is not ground for demurrer (122-380, 142+871). Corporations, ¶513(1).

7775. Copartnerships—Proof as to members—

Failure to allege that plaintiffs are partners is not ground of demurrer (122-380, 142+871). Partnership, ¶213(1).

7777. Items of account, how pleaded—

Where the complaint in an action for board and lodging sets out the dates between which the same was furnished, the number of meals and the number of lodgings, and the value of each, the failure of plaintiff to furnish a bill of particulars on defendant's demand is not presumptively prejudicial, where the demand does not indicate what information is desired beyond what is contained in the complaint (132-8, 155+617). Appeal and Error, ¶1039(10).

Under this section evidence will not be excluded because a bill of particulars is verified by counsel, instead of the party; it having been returned with only a general objection, and the defect, if any, being subject to remedy (130-196, 153+310). Pleading, ¶422.

7778. Pleadings in slander and libel—

In general—A complaint construed to present two separate causes of action, so that plaintiff could recover on either of them, in absence of a request to compel an election (125-122, 145+808). Pleading, ¶369.

Where a single injury is suffered in consequence of the wrongful acts of several persons, all of whom contribute directly to cause the injury, though there was no conspiracy or joint concert of action between them, are jointly and severally liable (131-375, 155+621). Torts, ¶22.

Pleading mitigating circumstances—If defendant plead the truth of the charge, or of a part thereof, and fail in his proof, this may be considered by the jury in aggravation of damages; but, if the plea was interposed in good faith, it may be considered by the jury on the issue of malice, and in mitigation of exemplary damages (122-517, 142+897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Libel and Slander, ¶57.

Bad reputation of plaintiff and absence of malice are provable under a general denial, where the complaint states a case for the recovery of punitive damages (122-177, 142+147, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1098, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 894). Libel and Slander, ¶100(1).

Under a general denial in an action for slander defendant may show, in diminution of damages, that plaintiff's reputation was bad (122-517, 142+897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Libel and Slander, ¶100(4).

Justification—In order to justify, defendant must plead specific facts showing the truth of the charge (122-517, 142+897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Libel and Slander, ¶100(3).

What need not be pleaded—Plaintiff, suing for slanderous words imputing unchastity, need not allege that her character was good, that being presumed (122-517, 142+897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Libel and Slander, ¶100(6), 101(1).

Where spoken words are slanderous per se, the complaint need not allege special damages (128-10, 147+668). Libel and Slander, ¶89(1).

7780. Joinder of causes of action—

In general—Different items of damages do not constitute separate causes of action (121-296, 141+181, 45 L. R. A. [N. S.] 205, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 720). Action, ¶53(1).

Refusal to require plaintiff to elect between different causes of action which in fact were tried as one was without prejudice to defendant (127-490, 150+218). Appeal and Error, ¶1039(9).

Where misjoinder of causes of action appears on the face of the complaint, objection thereto must be taken by demurrer, or the defect is waived (132-27, 155+756). Pleading, ¶406(8).

Subd. 1—Cited (134-461, 159+1081).

Causes of action for concurrent negligence of two defendants may be joined, where the facts concerning each are identical as to time, place, and result (124-531, 144+474). Parties, ¶27.

Two causes of action for malicious prosecution held to arise out of transactions connected with the subject of action, and to each affect all the parties to the action, and therefore to be properly united in one complaint (130-229, 153+532, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 267). Action, ¶43(2), 50(6).

Subd. 2—Complaint alleging that three defendants contracted to pay a debt of plaintiff to a third party, and that one of the defendants had previously contracted to make such payment, and had failed to do so, does not improperly unite two causes of action (122-380, 142+871). Action, ¶38.

Election between express contract and quantum meruit not required (121-352, 141+481). Pleading, ¶369(2).

Subd. 3—Negligence at common law may be joined with charge of negligence in failing to comply with statute (121-461, 141+518). Master and Servant, ¶313.

A complaint against two defendants, alleging that their concurrent negligence caused an injury to plaintiff, is good as against a demurrer for misjoinder, though the liability of one defendant rests on the federal employers' liability act and the other on the common law (134-461, 159+1081). Action, ¶45(3).

7782. Amendments of course, and after demurrer—

The right to amend a pleading after a demurrer thereto has been determined is vested in the discretion of the trial court, which discretion will not be disturbed, unless abused (129-342, 152+734). Pleading, ¶225(2).

7783. Amendment by order—

130-151, 153+316.

Cited (132-389, 157+642).

In general—Consent to amendment permitted by the court (see 130-342, 153+745).

A proposed amendment to an answer held improperly disallowed (126-494, 148+299). Pleading, ¶256.

Application of statute—Amendment of findings (121-285, 141+186). Trial, ¶400(1).

While a summons is not strictly process, and is not in terms specified in this section, it is one of the documents in the action, which in virtue of this section and § 7786 may be amended in the sound discretion of the court; and where a summons, intended for and actually served on a father, contained the initials of his son, instead of the given name of the father, the court had power, on proper notice, to amend the summons by striking out initials of the son, and inserting in lieu thereof the correct name of the father (131-173, 154+952). Process, ¶163.

Amendment on the trial—Amendment of pleadings at the trial is largely within the discretion of the trial court (131-10, 154+508). Pleading, ¶236(3).

Amendment after judgment—There was no abuse of discretion in refusing defendant leave, after the case was tried and decided, to amend his answer so as to plead mistake and ask for a reformation of the contract involved in the suit (131-159, 154+951). Pleading, ¶236(4).

Amendment of parties—Misnomer of corporation defendant, by adding to its corporate name the words "Relief Department," held amendable as of course, and motion at trial to vacate service of summons on ground that same was not made on defendant was properly overruled (133-434, 158+711). Parties, ¶95(5).

7784. Variance—Amendment—Exceptions—

Proof must follow pleadings—Plaintiff must proceed on a definite theory, and no change of attitude, prejudicial to defendant, can be allowed (122-59, 141+1105). Pleading, ¶18, 387.

Immaterial variance—An objection that the complaint was not specific enough to allow proof of so-called "short rates" was properly overruled, where a bill of particulars had been furnished fully disclosing these rates, so that defendant could not have been misled (133-316, 158+424). Contracts, ¶346(3).

Where a complaint declares on a quantum meruit for the reasonable value of services, and the evidence discloses that defendant agreed to pay a specified price, a recovery of the agreed price is proper, where it does not appear that defendant was misled to his prejudice (128-304, 150+901). Pleading, ¶398.

A variance between the pleadings and proof held not of a nature to mislead the defendant (135-175, 160+771). Municipal Corporations, ¶671(4).

Substantial performance provable under general allegation of performance (121-280, 141+179). Contracts, ¶346(8).

In an action for death of a boy at a railroad crossing, held that there was not a fatal variance between the pleadings and the proof (125-137, 145+304). Railroads, ¶345(4).

Variance as to places and dates of making fraudulent representations inducing contract for sale of land held immaterial (122-295, 142+710). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶123.

In an action under the federal employers' liability act, held that there was no fatal variance between the allegations and proof (128-112, 150+385). Master and Servant, ¶264(10).

That each allegation of fact in a negligence case was not proved did not show a variance (128-112, 150+385). Negligence, ¶119(7).

7785. Failure of proof—

It is not essential that every averment of negligence be proved as alleged (128-112, 150+385). Negligence, ¶119(1).

Where the creation of a corporation is not a material issue, it need not be proven, though alleged (128-73, 150+226). Corporations, ¶514(1), 518(2).

7786. Extensions of time—Relief against mistakes, etc.—

In general—The defendant to whom a copy of the summons is delivered in person within the state is not personally served within this section, the service being merely an equivalent of summons by publication (122-396, 142+714, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 563). Judgment, ¶142.

A judgment entered against defendant without his knowledge, after the claim sued on was extinguished by defendant's discharge in bankruptcy, held properly set aside under this section as having been taken through mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect (126-184, 148+57, L. R. A. 1916F, 837). Judgment, ¶143(3).

Default for want of a reply may be opened, though the complaint fails to allege the giving of notice to defendant city, as required by § 1786 (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Judgment, ¶145(1).

Opening a judgment and permitting defendant to interpose an amended answer presenting a defense which had been abandoned at the trial held not an abuse of discretion (134-307, 159+626). Judgment, ¶364.

An affidavit by an attorney, based upon knowledge acquired from investigation of the affairs of a corporation, held sufficient to sustain an order opening a default judgment; an affidavit by all the officers and directors showing ignorance of the entry of the judgment not being necessary (127-435, 149+671). Judgment, ¶159.

Overruling of objection that motion was renewal of former motion amounted to a grant of leave to present the motion (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Motions, ¶45.

An order of the trial court refusing to relieve defendant from its failure to appear at the time set for trial held not an abuse of discretion (128-311, 150+907). New Trial, ¶85.

In making the motion for new trial after entry of judgment, it is not necessary to make a formal motion to set aside the judgment, as the order granting the new trial will in effect vacate the judgment (125-475, 147+654). New Trial, ¶124(1).

Where a party is served with a short notice of an interlocutory motion, he should apply to the court to vacate the service or be relieved from default in order to raise the question on appeal (125-475, 147+654). Appeal and Error, ¶189(1).

Where a motion to open a default judgment failed to urge the objection that the judgment was in excess of the relief prayed in the complaint, and that the complaint was fatally defective in its statement of one cause of action, such objections cannot be considered for the first time on appeal (123-531, 143+1123). Appeal and Error, ¶193(9), 223.

Mandamus will not lie to require the trial court to allow and settle a case after expiration of the time allowed therefor, where the denial of the relief is not shown to be an abuse of discretion (124-537, 144+755). Appeal and Error, ¶571.

Application—The district court has jurisdiction, upon proper notice, to vacate an order of dismissal and reinstate the case (134-261, 159+272). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶81(2).

The trial court may vacate a judgment rendered for default in filing a reply, and grant leave to plaintiff to reply (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Judgment, ¶139, 143(12).

An action cannot be maintained to set aside a judgment for perjury, where the issues were so definite that each party must have known what the other intended to prove (126-154, 147+959). Judgment, ¶444.

Judgment perpetually enjoining railroad from occupying street, because right had not been regularly acquired, should be vacated, when right is acquired by proper franchise and condemnation proceedings. Court may, in its discretion, modify perpetual injunction against railroad from occupying city street before the condemnation proceeding in which it acquires such right is complete (162+523). Injunction, ¶210.

Where a receiver, without notice to defendant or the creditors, secured an order authorizing a settlement whereby the receiver recognized title of a third person to certain property of the estate, and thereafter the receiver, by direction of the court, brought an action to test the validity of the settlement, which action was removed by defendant to the federal court, where defendant interposed a plea of former adjudication, the state court, which made such order of authorization, had power to entertain a motion to set aside the same; such action of the state court not being an interference with the jurisdiction of the federal court (135-286, 160-781). Receivers, ¶78.

A summons is not strictly a process, and is not in terms specified in this section and § 7783, but it is a document in the action, which may be amended in the sound discretion of the court; and where a summons, intended for and actually served upon a father, mistakenly gave the initials of a son, the court had power, on proper notice, to amend the same by inserting therein the true name of the father (131-173, 154+952). Process, ¶163.

Amendment of judgment on appeal in condemnation proceedings (see 128-321, 150+906). Eminent Domain, ¶241.

This section does not empower the court in a judicial ditch proceeding to enlarge the time fixed by statute for demanding a review by a jury of the order of the court fixing the benefits and damages (131-372, 155+626). Drains, ¶82(1).

The exception in this section of final judgments in divorce actions is not an inhibition against correcting a decree as to alimony, but only against modifying or vacating the part of such decree which deals with the marriage status. A correction of a decree of divorce, so as to more accurately express the decision of the court in respect to the alimony awarded, may be made at any time, where neither party nor any third person has, between the entry of the decree and its correction, changed positions, so as to be prejudiced by the correction (133-86, 157+999). Divorce, ¶245(1).

This section applies and permits the opening of a judgment awarding compensation under the workmen's compensation act (134-189, 158+825). Master and Servant, ¶411.

Supplying omissions in the findings—The court may, even after judgment, supply an omission in the findings (134-468, 158+787). Trial, ¶400(1).

Meritorious defense necessary—Affidavit of merits is essential upon application to vacate default judgment and for leave to answer (162+518). Judgment, ¶158.

Who may apply to vacate—Though a dismissal terminates the action, if the dismissal is obtained by fraud and collusion, the court has jurisdiction to vacate the order and reinstate the cause on the motion of a party or stranger having an interest in the subject-matter (122-355, 142+818, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 830). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶43(2).

Discretion—Opening a default judgment rests in the discretion of the trial court, and its action in that respect will not be reversed, except for palpable abuse of discretion (127-435, 149+671; 129-316, 152+721; 129-414, 152+772; 131-488, 154+659; 162+518). Appeal and Error, ¶957(1); Judgment, ¶139.

The right to be relieved from a default is not absolute, but rests largely in the discretion of the trial court, and where inexcusable neglect of counsel appears, and there is a question as to diligence and the merits of the defense, the action of the trial court in denying a motion to reopen the case will not be reversed as an abuse of discretion (134-328, 159+752). Judgment, ¶139, 143(10).

Where the affidavits were sufficient to sustain a finding, either that an answer was served in time, or that, if not served in time, the default was due to inadvertence and excusable neglect of defendant, an order opening default judgment will not be disturbed on appeal (133-116, 157+1076). Judgment, ¶162(4).

Power of court commissioner—A court commissioner is without power to vacate a judgment rendered by the district court (131-129, 154+748). Court Commissioners, ¶4.

Mistake—Where plaintiff had judgment by default due to misunderstanding by defendants' attorney as to defendants' interest in the land in question, and defendants showed a meritorious defense, the order vacating the judgment was within the court's discretion (162+352). Judgment, ¶143(4).

That defendant in a damage suit, when the papers were served on him in prison, believed they were papers concerning the criminal case, and therefore did not read them, did not make it an abuse of discretion to refuse to open a default judgment (130-45, 152+865). Judgment, ¶143(6).

That attorney assumed, on account of similarity of heading of summons and complaint, that client's case was in same court in which he had other cases, would not excuse default; the summons and complaint being in his possession (162+518). Judgment, ¶143(10).

Time of application—Diligence—From the time defendant, served by publication, has knowledge of the commencement of the suit, he must proceed with diligence to make his defense (122-396, 142+714, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 563). Judgment, ¶142.

Illness which does not incapacitate defendant from understanding his rights or giving directions as to litigation is not a good excuse for long delay in moving to vacate a judgment entered by default. So held in a case where defendant waited nine months after being informed by an attorney of the steps necessary to be taken to open the default (132-354, 157+586). Judgment, ¶153(1, 3).

Unexplained delay for nearly two years is laches, warranting denial of motion (122-43, 141+806). Judgment, ¶386(2).

Where plaintiff's counsel, through inadvertence and mistake, failed to file a reply for about two months after it was due, the granting of leave to file same out of time was not an abuse of discretion (131-489, 154+789). Pleading, ¶172.

After affirmance of a judgment on appeal without a motion for new trial, and after the lapse of six months from notice of the rendition of the judgment, a motion for a new trial, on the grounds of insufficiency of the evidence and errors occurring at the trial, will not be entertained (134-292, 159+623). New Trial, ¶4.

A party may make a motion for a new trial after entry of judgment, if without fault on his part he has had no reasonable opportunity to make the motion before judgment, and if he uses reasonable diligence in doing so afterwards. The question of diligence is in the sound discretion of the trial court (125-475, 147+654). New Trial, ¶4, 116(3), 124(1).

Where a receiver, without notice to the defendant or the creditors, obtained an order approving a settlement made by the receiver with a third person, recognizing title of the latter to certain property of the estate, the court had power, three years after the entry of such order, to vacate the same under this section, as limitation of the right of appeal did not run against defendant and the creditors, and the receiver, by reason of his consent, did not have the right to appeal, and the doctrine of estoppel or laches did not apply as against the persons directly involved (135-286, 160+781). Receivers, ¶78.

Excusable neglect—Excuse offered by defendant for failure to appear at the trial held insufficient to justify vacating the judgment (133-63, 157+903). Judgment, ¶138(2).

Discretion of trial court in opening a default on the ground of negligence of defendant's attorney held not so clearly abused as to warrant reversal (122-187, 142+144). Judgment, ¶143(12).

Though complaint was defective, where affidavits offered on motion to open default and permit plaintiff to reply showed a meritorious cause of action, and that plaintiff's attorney was unfamiliar with practice and negligent, motion was properly granted in the discretion of the court (122-154, 141+1134; 122-154, 142+134). Judgment, ¶143(12, 16).

Good cause—The court may in its discretion open a default judgment obtained against a corporation because of bad faith or intentional neglect of the officer charged with the duty of making defense (127-435, 149+671). Judgment, ¶143(1).

Where an attorney, from ignorance of facts or from bad faith, stipulates for judgment against a client who has a good defense, the court may, in its discretion, open the judgment and permit the defense to be interposed, if no substantial prejudice will result to the opposing party from the delay (127-435, 149+671). Appeal and Error, §957(1); Judgment, §90, 143(10, 11, 12, 13), 158, 159.

It was not an abuse of discretion to permit defendant to answer after entry of default, where she showed a meritorious defense, and had relied on her husband to take proper steps to protect her, and he failed to do so through a mistaken belief that no judgment could be entered against her after judgment obtained against him, and no prejudice would result to plaintiff (124-535, 144+743). Judgment, §143(3, 16).

Where defendant, on being served personally with summons, wrote to plaintiff's attorney, denying liability, and the attorney answered the letter, asking for certain information, which was given, a default thereafter entered would be opened, if defendant showed a meritorious defense (124-530, 144+1134). Judgment, §145(2).

fied by him, held a question of fact, and not of law (181-231, 154+1081). Appeal and Error, see 999(1).

Construction of contracts—Whether subsequent acts of the parties to a contract have rendered certain ambiguous parts of the written contract is a question of fact for the jury (128-490, 151+203). Contracts, see 176(2).

Where the intention of the parties to a written instrument is to be determined from a consideration of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the transaction, the question becomes largely one of fact for the jury (129-328, 152+732).

Construction of building contract held improperly disposed of by the trial court as a question of law; it being one of fact, or of mixed law and fact, as to which the court should have received testimony (127-129, 148+1077). Contracts, see 176(5).

Where a written contract is ambiguous, and the parol evidence as to its meaning is not conclusive as to the intention of the parties, the construction of the contract is properly submitted to the jury (127-241, 149+285). Contracts, see 176(2).

Insurance—Whether a fraternal insurance order waived nonpayment of assessments by refusing to receive payment thereof when tendered held a question for the jury (126-494, 148+299). Insurance, see 825(1).

Whether an injury was a visible one, within the meaning of a by-law of a fraternal benefit association, held for the jury (123-505, 144+160, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1022, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 536). Insurance, see 668(11).

Whether a misrepresentation by an applicant for life insurance is material, whether it increases the risk of loss, and whether it was made with fraudulent intent, are usually questions of fact for the jury (123-453, 144+218, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 458). Insurance, see 668(6).

Evidence held sufficient to take the case to the jury on the question whether the hearing before the executive committee of a fraternal benefit order, pursuant to which assured was expelled, was such as to deprive the court of jurisdiction because no appeal was taken within the order (124-437, 145+120). Insurance, see 825(1).

Whether the warranty by the insured that the building, wherein was kept the property covered by the policy, was a private residence, was for the jury (125-54, 145+622). Insurance, see 666.

Cause of injury—Evidence in an action under the federal employers' liability act held not so conjectural as to the cause of the death of plaintiff's intestate as to render it improper to present the question to the jury (127-498, 150+165). Master and Servant, see 278(3).

Whether the defective floor of a bridge was the proximate cause of injury to a passenger in an automobile held a question for a jury (125-431, 147+434). Carriers, see 320(30).

Question of proximate cause of injury on defective bridge held for the jury (128-47, 150+221). Bridges, see 46(11).

Questions of law in general—Whether a transaction is usurious is usually a question of fact; but where the facts are undisputed, and only one inference can be drawn from them, it becomes a question of law (132-323, 156+666). Usury, see 119.

Where there is no evidence as to the location of government corners, monuments placed by a county surveyor, under § 773, are prima facie the government corners, and it is error to submit the question to the jury (124-233, 144+758). Boundaries, see 40(1).

Where defendant contracted to furnish ice to plaintiff, who conducted a meat market, damage to the meat from failure to deliver the ice was necessarily within the contemplation of the parties, and it was not error for the court to so instruct the jury as a matter of law (123-401, 143+1125). Sales, see 418(14).

Whether a buyer of ice exercised reasonable diligence, under the circumstances, to obtain a delivery of the ice, held a question for the jury (123-401, 143+1125). Sales, see 420.

Where a physician for insurer positively testified that insured made answer to certain questions on his application for life insurance, and signed the application, the mere fact that a witness testified that he was in the physician's outer office, and that the physician and insured were in the physician's private office at the time the application was signed no more than ten minutes did not raise a question for the jury as to whether insured gave the answers shown on the application (129-340, 152+724). Insurance, see 819(1).

A conceded fact is a matter of law for the court (123-453, 144+218, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 458). Insurance, see 668(1).

The court cannot say as a matter of law that the rule of respondeat superior does not apply, unless the evidence shows conclusively that the alleged employer possessed no control over the negligent person (128-43, 150+211). Master and Servant, see 284(2).

The question of loss of residence by a debtor, claiming under the exemption law, held, on the evidence, a question of law (122-228, 142+307). Trial, see 139(1).

There being no evidence connecting defendant with alleged fraud, it was error to submit the issue to the jury (127-340, 149+545).

Evidence held insufficient to warrant submitting to the jury the question of mental incompetency to execute a release for personal injuries (128-440, 151+188). Compromise and Settlement, see 8(2); Release, see 57(1).

Negligence—Assumption of risk by employé held not a question of law for the court (124-257, 144+955). Master and Servant, see 288(2).

Whether it was unreasonable for a servant to rely on assurances given him was a question for the jury, unless the court could say that reasonable minds could reach but one conclusion (127-132, 148+1078). Master and Servant, see 288(1, 16).

Passenger on freight train held not to have assumed the risk of injury by riding in cupola in caboose of freight train, contrary to carrier's rules, nor was he guilty of contributory negligence as matter of law (123-405, 143+1131). Carriers, see 347(6).

Probable cause—Want of probable cause for prosecuting a suit is for the court on undisputed facts, but the aid of a jury may be required where the facts are disputed, and whether advice of counsel protected defendant from liability for malicious prosecution was a question for the jury in this case (131-320, 155+205). Malicious Prosecution, ¶24(1), 60(4), 71(2).

What facts, and whether particular facts, constitute probable cause for a prosecution, is for the court (129-97, 151+895, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 374). Malicious Prosecution, ¶71(2).

Whether undisputed facts show probable cause for a criminal prosecution is a question for the court (128-128, 147+1093). Malicious Prosecution, ¶71(2).

7793. Of fact, how brought to trial—Issues of facts may be brought to trial by either party, upon notice served eight or more days before the beginning of a general term. At least seven days before the term one of the parties shall file a note of issue, containing the title of the action and the names of the respective attorneys, and stating the time when the last pleading was served and whether the issue is triable by the court or a jury. The clerk shall thereupon enter the cause on the calendar according to the date of issue, and it shall remain thereon, from term to term, until tried or stricken off by the court. Provided, that in all districts now or hereafter consisting of one county only, wherein but one term of court is or hereafter shall be held annually, no notice of trial need be served, but the party desiring to place a cause upon the calendar thereof for trial, shall, after issue is joined therein, prepare a note of issue containing the title of the cause, a statement as to whether the issue is an issue of law or an issue of fact, and if an issue of fact, whether triable by court or jury, and the names and addresses of the respective counsel, and shall serve the same on opposing counsel, and file such note of issue, with proof of service, with the clerk of court within ten days after such service; and, thereupon, the clerk shall set such cause for trial, in accordance with such rules as the judges of said court may make, but in no event earlier than thirty days after the filing of such note of issue, and shall notify all counsel in said cause by mail of the date of such setting. The judges of said court may, by order or rule of court, provide for the assigning and setting of cases for trial upon such calendar, and the order in which they shall be heard, and the re-setting thereof. All appeals from inferior tribunals, including probate court, justice court, county commissioners, and all boards from the decision of which an appeal lies to such court, shall in like manner be placed upon the calendar for trial. For all purposes, other than those specifically herein provided for, the first Monday in each month of the year, except in the months of July, August and September, shall be deemed the first day of a regular or general term of such district court, held in such county, and all persons committed for trial, or held to appear before such court, shall, unless otherwise provided, appear on such dates. Provided, that when the first Monday of any such month shall be a legal holiday the following day shall be deemed to be the first day of such general term of such district court. (Amended '17 c. 6 § 1)

That a motion for new trial was heard seven, instead of eight, days from the day of service of the notice, was an irregularity, not ground for reversal, in absence of a request for relief on account of the insufficiency of the notice (129-528, 152+270). New Trial, ¶165.

JURY TRIALS

7797. Jury, how impaneled—Ballots—Rules of court—Examination—Challenges—

In examining jurors, a party may elicit such information as is necessary to enable him to discover interest or bias; but he will not be permitted to excite prejudice against the adverse party. The nature and extent of the examination rests largely in the discretion of the court (134-378, 159+832). Jury, ¶131(5).

In a suit for damages from negligence, plaintiff may show by evidence that defendant is insured, as a basis of questioning the jurors as to any interest they may have in the insurance company, but mere intimations that defendant carries insurance is improper (134-378, 159+832). Trial, ¶108½.

7798. Challenges—

7799. Order of trial—

Not ground for reversal where no prejudice results (121-170, 141+1). Appeal and Error, ¶1046(4).

It is not error to refuse to reopen the case and permit plaintiff to introduce evidence under its reply to defendant's amended answer filed after the submission of the evidence, where the amended answer and reply presented no new issues (128-498, 151+201). Trial, \S 66.

Refusal to direct a verdict at the close of plaintiff's case is not available error, though plaintiff had failed to prove notice of her injuries to defendant city, where such evidence was in fact received before the case was submitted to the jury (126-491, 148+304). Appeal and Error, \S 1061(4).

A concession as to the facts made in the opening statement may be made the basis of a motion to dismiss, where, with such facts, there can be no recovery under the complaint (127-443, 149+667). Trial, \S 109.

Instruction which in effect directs the jury to disregard argument of counsel is fatally erroneous (124-386, 145+116, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 734). Trial, \S 218.

7800. View of premises—Procedure—

Sufficiency of request for review by jury (see 126-203, 148+113).

7802. Requested instructions—

In general—The trial court did not err in answering a question asked by a juror (124-431, 145+118). Insurance, \S 825(1).

Request for instructions, contributory negligence affecting amount of damages under federal employers' liability act (121-269, 141+175).

The court may decline to give requested instructions which are either inaccurate or do not conform to the evidence (128-193, 150+800).

Ambiguity or uncertainty in the court's charge must be called to the attention of the trial court before the jury retires (126-203, 148+113).

An instruction fundamentally wrong, or which has the effect of preventing a verdict for a substantial amount on a cause of action well pleaded, may be assigned as error on motion for new trial, though no exception is taken at the trial; but it is otherwise with respect to inaccuracies of expression and inadequate treatment of the controversy (125-441, 147+445, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1176). New Trial, \S 40(4).

Requests covered by the general charge—Requested instructions, covered in substance by the charge as given, are properly refused (124-222, 144+774, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 170; 121-160, 141+104; 121-258, 141+164, L. R. A. 1915D, 644; 122-20, 141+810; 124-155, 144+462; 125-150, 145+806). Trial, \S 260(1).

Requested instructions covered by charge as given are properly refused (127-515, 150+176).

Failure to request instructions—Where an instruction contains misstatements or omissions due to inadvertence, it is the duty of the party complaining to request a correct instruction, and this rule is not affected by 1901 c. 113 (125-466, 147+441). Trial, \S 287.

Where no request is made by counsel, it is not error if the trial court merely fails to give an instruction on an issue presented by the pleadings (132-147, 153+513; 132-147, 155+1040). Trial, \S 255(1).

Duty to request more definite and specific instructions (121-439, 141+523). Trial, \S 273.

Verbal inaccuracies or incompleteness in a charge is not ground for reversal, where the error could have been corrected by a requested charge, but no request was made (131-482, 155+758). Appeal and Error, \S 1064(4).

Failure of the court to instruct on a particular phase of the case is not error, in absence of a request for such instruction (131-274, 154+1070). Trial, \S 256.

If an instruction is desired upon a point omitted in the general charge, a request embodying such point should be presented (122-517, 142+897, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 1056). Trial, \S 255(9).

Omission in charge is not ground for reversal in absence of request (122-343, 142+816). Torts, \S 28.

Where the court, through inadvertence, omits an exception in stating the purport of a statute, it is the duty of the party complaining thereof to call the court's attention thereto (125-431, 147+434). Appeal and Error, \S 215(4).

A misstatement in an instruction due to inadvertence is not ground for reversal, where appellant failed to call the trial court's attention thereto (129-70, 151+537).

Failure to instruct as to the character of the evidence required to prove an issue is not error, in the absence of a request therefor (125-353, 147+244).

Defendant, not having requested an instruction on assumption of risk, cannot complain on appeal of the court's failure to present that issue (124-245, 144+772). Trial, \S 255(11).

An incomplete definition of assumption of risk in an instruction is not ground for reversal, in absence of a request for a correct charge (123-109, 143+121). Appeal and Error, \S 215(1).

Defendant, having failed to call the court's attention to the fact that its instructions upon assumption of risks was included in its charge upon negligence, and having requested no further direction, was not in a position to complain (123-173, 143+322). Appeal and Error, \S 216(1).

Failure of court to instruct as to distinction between knowledge and notice, as imposing duty to warn servant, was not reversible error, in absence of request (124-1, 144+466). Trial, \S 256(9).

Where a railroad company, sued for damages to live stock, did not request an instruction as to a limitation of the amount of recovery, it could not complain on appeal of the court's failure to instruct as to such limitation (123-495, 144+220). Appeal and Error, \S 215(1).

Failure of the court to instruct on the issue of the contributing negligence of a fellow servant is not available error, where no instruction was requested thereon (124-141, 144-751). Trial, \S 255(10).

Modification of request—Where the court fairly informs the jury as to the weight of the evidence necessary to impeach a release, the refusal to state the rule in the language of the proffered request is not error (123-516, 144-407). Trial, \S 266.

If the substance of a requested instruction is given, it is not error to refuse to repeat the same thought in the language of the requested instruction (125-431, 147-434). Trial, \S 260(1).

The court need not give a requested charge in the same words in which it is asked (128-490, 151-208).

Failure of judge to mark instructions as given or refused—Failure of the court to mark requested instructions as given or refused is not reversible error, where counsel does not call the court's attention thereto until after final argument has been completed (125-431, 147-434). Appeal and Error, \S 230.

Mode of presenting instructions to jury—It is bad practice to announce to the jury that certain instructions given were requested by one of the parties, but it is not reversible error if the court makes it clear that the instruction is given as the law of the case (134-392, 159-955). Trial, \S 296(1).

That defendant's counsel read to the jury in argument some instructions which the court later gave in accordance with this section was not prejudicial error (134-392, 159-955). Appeal and Error, \S 1060(1).

7803. What papers jurors may take—

That an improper paper was taken by the jury to the jury room along with other papers held not to require a new trial, in absence of a showing of prejudice (125-291, 146-1104, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 922). New Trial, \S 56.

It was not error to decline to permit the jury, on its request, to have a transcript of the testimony of a witness given on a former trial (124-431, 145-118). Trial, \S 307(1).

It was not error to refuse to permit a letter in evidence to be taken into the jury room; the letter being read to the jury instead (124-431, 145-118). Trial, \S 307(2).

A party, desiring to have the jury take the pleadings with them to the jury room for the purpose of obtaining the benefit of admissions in the pleadings, should offer the pleadings in evidence for the express purpose of introducing the admissions, and a mere general offer of the pleadings as evidence is insufficient (133-156, 157-1073). Trial, \S 48.

7804. Verdict, when received—Correcting same—Polling jury—

The court may correct formal or clerical errors in a directed verdict after the verdict is recorded and after the time for appeal has expired (123-420, 144-148). Trial, \S 340(1).

When the jury returns a verdict which is not justified in any view of the evidence and law of the case as embodied in the instructions, the court may refuse to accept it and require the jury to return and report a proper verdict (129-372, 152-765). Trial, \S 339(3).

7805. Five-sixths of jury may render verdict, etc.—

This section is applicable to bastardy proceedings (135-65, 160-189). Jury, \S 32(4).

This section is applicable to an action in a state court based upon the federal employers' liability act (126-251, 148-104; 134-61, 158-796; 128-112, 150-385). Trial, \S 321½.

It is the province of a trial court to determine whether a jury has given sufficient consideration to a case to justify a reception of a verdict not unanimous, and such determination will not be reversed, unless the discretion is abused or the law has not been complied with (126-180, 148-51). Appeal and Error, \S 975.

Where the verdict is concurred in by twelve jurors, the defeated party cannot raise the question of the constitutionality of this act (132-391, 157-650).

What constitutes twelve hours' deliberation—A recital in the verdict that it was rendered after twelve hours' deliberation makes a prima facie showing that it was properly rendered by five-sixths of the jury, which is not overcome by a notation of the hour and minute at which the agreement is reached or the verdict signed (131-236, 154-1075). Trial, \S 321½.

A statement by a juror that ten of the jurors agreed on the verdict finally rendered by them shortly after the jury retired, but did not sign it until after the 12 hours' deliberation, did not show that there was not 12 hours' deliberation and effort to agree, as contemplated by the statute (131-231, 154-1081). Trial, \S 321½.

The length of time devoted to meals and sleep while a jury are deliberating cannot be shown, for the purpose of proving that they did not deliberate for the prescribed length of time (126-180, 148-51). Trial, \S 321½.

7807. Verdict, general and special—

A general verdict for plaintiff for the exact amount of his claim necessarily determines the defendant's counterclaim contrary to his contention (127-440, 149-950).

7808. Same—Interrogatories—Special findings—

It is within the discretion of the trial court to grant or refuse a request to submit special interrogatories to the jury (127-468, 149-947). Trial, \S 349(2).

The matter of submitting special issues, as well as their form and substance, rests in the sound discretion of the trial court (132-181, 156-251, L. R. A. 1916D, 144). Trial, \S 352(1).

When a special finding submitted to the jury is material, it cannot be withdrawn by the court or ignored by the jury, without the consent of both parties (123-353, 143+975). Trial, ⚡356(1).

Court may correct formal or clerical errors in a directed verdict, after the verdict is recorded and the time for appeal has expired (123-420, 144+148). Judgment, ⚡299(1); Trial, ⚡340(1).

A special verdict, which does not negative any essential element of the cause of action, neither controls, nor is inconsistent with, the general verdict (122-171, 142+145). Trial, ⚡359(1).

7812. Receiving verdict—

It is not reversible error, if the court in a civil action fails to notify absent counsel when the jury returns into the courtroom, either for additional instructions or to return the verdict (129-372, 152+765). Trial, ⚡21.

7813. Entries on receiving verdict—Reserving case—Stay—

Suspension of sentence for a definite period held proper, and within the discretion of the court (125-529, 147+273). Criminal Law, ⚡1001.

A stay does not prohibit the prevailing party from resorting to such ancillary remedies as garnishment or attachment (123-353, 143+975). New Trial, ⚡12.

TRIAL BY THE COURT

7815. Decision, how and when made—

Amendment of findings—Denial of motion to make new and amended findings after remand of cause from supreme court held proper (130-530, 152+866). Appeal and Error, ⚡1213; Trial, ⚡400(2).

Plaintiff's application to amend the findings of the trial court held properly refused (125-322, 147+107). Trial, ⚡400(1).

Court need not amend findings as to contentions not within the pleadings or made until the motion to amend (122-59, 141+1105). Trial, ⚡400.

Necessity of motion for amendment of findings, and construction of findings in absence of motion to amend same or for new trial (see 127-530, 149+1070). Trial, ⚡400(1).

The court has power to supply an omission in the findings, even after judgment (134-468, 158+757). Trial, ⚡400(1).

What findings not necessary—Formal findings of fact are not required on an interlocutory motion for allowance of attorney's fees for trustee (125-322, 147+107). Trial, ⚡388(2).

Findings are not proper on motion for judgment on the pleadings (129-181, 151+970). Pleading, ⚡350(3).

Where the complaint sets up an action at law, the fact that the answer pleads fraud and asks equitable relief does not require that the court should make findings instead of directing a verdict (126-445, 148+302). Trial, ⚡388(1).

It is not necessary, in a will contest, to make a specific finding of the facts upon which the right of the objector to contest the will depends (129-460, 152+872). Wills, ⚡334.

Court need not make findings on immaterial matters (122-295, 142+710). Trial, ⚡1; Vendor and Purchaser, ⚡33.

Refusal of findings of evidentiary facts held proper (122-510, 142+885). Trial, ⚡401.

Nature of facts to be found—A judgment will be affirmed, though a material finding is lacking, when it clearly appears that its omission was an oversight, and the evidence is conclusive as to what it should be (134-468, 158+787). Appeal and Error, ⚡1071(6).

The court should make findings upon every material issue of fact, the determination of which is necessary to sustain its judgment (132-160, 156+268). Trial, ⚡388(1).

Where title to real estate is in controversy, a finding that one party is the owner thereof is a finding of the ultimate issuable fact, and a finding of the evidentiary facts which result in such conclusion is unnecessary (132-144, 155+1038). Trial, ⚡395(5).

That parts of a finding of fact may be immaterial does not require a new trial, or a change in the conclusions of law (132-321, 156+348). New Trial, ⚡61.

Findings held to negative payment set up as a defense in the answer (131-249, 154+1072). Trial, ⚡404(1).

Conclusions held justified by the findings of fact (122-17, 141+789; 131-249, 154+1072). Trial, ⚡395(7).

Court, having determined total amount due, need not make specific findings as to each item (121-285, 141+186). Trial, ⚡395(1).

In an action for money had and received, a finding that the relation of principal and agent existed between plaintiff and defendant held not improper, though such agency was not pleaded (127-502, 150+167). Money Received, ⚡18(3).

Findings that one quarterly installment of rents were paid to a mortgagor during the period of redemption held not sufficient to authorize the trial court to determine the amount due to the mortgagor (135-443, 161+165). Mortgages, ⚡491.

Findings which do not cover material issues will not support conclusions of law embracing those issues (128-5, 150+216).

Review—Where the findings are insufficient to support the conclusions of law, the defeated party is not required to move to amend the findings in order to raise the question for the first time on appeal (128-5, 150+216). Appeal and Error, ⚡237(6).

When an action is tried by court, its findings of fact are entitled to the same weight as a verdict, and will not be reversed unless manifestly contrary to the evidence (162+679). Appeal and Error, ¶1008(1).

The supreme court cannot make findings of fact (129-380, 152+774; 134-276, 159+566). Appeal and Error, ¶1122(2).

A positive and unambiguous order of the trial court cannot be modified or limited by inferences drawn from a memorandum of the judge not made a part thereof (123-231, 143+728). Motions, ¶62.

A contention not sustained by findings will not be considered, in the absence of a request in the trial court for findings (122-448, 142+876). Appeal and Error, ¶219(2).

The refusal of the trial court to make additional findings will not be reversed, unless the evidence is conclusive in favor of such proposed findings, nor where the proposed findings are in conflict with those already made (130-450, 153+874). Appeal and Error, ¶1023.

Findings control memorandum—The findings of fact control the memorandum of the trial judge (131-16, 154+512).

Findings without judgment as a bar—If a finding without a judgment is ever a bar, it must be upon an issue in the case where it is made, and there must be something equivalent to an estoppel against parties to assert the contrary. In state's action of trespass for taking of timber, finding on issue in a former case offered in bar held not an estoppel operating against the defendant (162+1054). Judgment, ¶658.

7816. Proceedings on decision of issue of law—

Where a demurrer was overruled, and judgment was entered for plaintiff without notice, but no application was made to the trial court for leave to answer or vacate the judgment, the question whether defendant was entitled to answer or to have the judgment vacated cannot be considered upon appeal (126-367, 148+306). Appeal and Error, ¶224.

7817. Court always open—Decisions out of term—

Powers of court commissioner (see 131-129, 154+748). Court Commissioners, ¶4.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

7825. Dismissal of action—

Cited (127-416, 149+735).

In general—A judgment of dismissal is not evidence in a subsequent suit between the same parties for the same cause (123-17, 142+930, L. R. A. 1915B, 1179, 1195). Judgment, ¶570(3, 4).

Where one who has contracted with an agent of an undisclosed principal sues both principal and agent, the remedy of the defendants is a motion to compel plaintiff to elect as to which defendant he will proceed against (124-421, 145+173). Principal and Agent, ¶184(2).

Vacation or setting aside of dismissals—Rights of stockholders as to dismissal of action in which the corporation is interested (122-355, 142+818, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 830). Corporations, ¶204.

The court has jurisdiction to vacate a judgment of dismissal, though it terminates the action, on the ground of fraud and collusion, at the motion of a party or strangers having an interest in the subject-matter (122-355, 142+818, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 830). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶43(2).

A plaintiff who acts in a fiduciary capacity has no absolute right to dismiss the action, and if he does not act in good faith in doing so the order of dismissal may be set aside (122-355, 142+818, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 830). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶43(4).

On reinstatement of case after dismissal on application of defendant, on plaintiff's failure to appear at the time set for trial, held, that the court properly required plaintiff to pay the expense incurred by defendant in bringing a witness from Canada for the trial (135-471, 160+1032). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶81(8).

Subd. 1—A dismissal in a court of another state is not to be counted in determining the number of successive dismissals (128-49, 150+397). Dismissal and Nonsuit, ¶42.

Consent to a dismissal precludes a subsequent motion to strike the consent and grant a new trial (123-532, 144+137). Appeal and Error, ¶883.

An appeal, taken under §§ 5407-5409, on the question of damages, may be dismissed by the appellant under this section (128-66, 150+222). Eminent Domain, ¶238(1, 7).

Subd. 2—Appellants cannot dismiss the appeal by merely serving a notice of dismissal upon appellee (134-464, 157+327). Appeal and Error, ¶776.

Subd. 3—Where subsequent grantee of a mortgagor and an assignee of the purchaser at a foreclosure sale were plaintiffs in an action against the original covenantor for breach of covenant of warranty, it was not error to dismiss as to all the plaintiffs except such assignee (126-14, 147+670). Covenants, ¶80.

A judgment entered upon a dismissal of an action on motion of the defendant at the close of plaintiff's testimony for insufficiency of evidence is not res judicata (124-495, 145+380). Judgment, ¶570(5).

A case may be dismissed, where plaintiff, in his opening statement, concedes facts which prevents his recovery under the complaint (127-443, 149+667). Trial, ¶109.

A misnomer of defendant railroad company, by adding to its corporate name the words "Relief Department," was not a ground for dismissal, jurisdiction having been acquired; the defect being amendable as of course (133-434, 158+711). Parties, ¶95(5).

Subd. 4—A case held properly on the calendar, and properly dismissed for want of prosecution (126-108, 147+822). Venue, §72.

Where a supersedeas bond is not approved, and does not stay proceedings, the action may be dismissed by the trial court for want of prosecution (135-474, 159+1067). Appeal and Error, §452, 470.

7826. Offer of judgment—Costs—

Tender as waiver of defense that debt is not due (121-285, 141+186). Tender, §26.

The offer contemplated by this section may be made in defendant's answer (135-343, 160+864). Costs, §42\(2\).

NEW TRIALS

7828. Grounds—Presumption on appeal—

THE STATUTE GENERALLY

Other remedy—The proper remedy for the omission to find on an issue is not by motion for new trial, but by application to the court for a finding (134-468, 158+787). New Trial, §61; Trial, §399.

Of less than all the issues—Where two issues are submitted to the jury, and one is found in favor of one party, and the other in favor of the other, and a motion for new trial on but one of the issues is filed, the court may grant a new trial as to that issue alone (122-463, 142+729). Wills, §337.

A new trial may be granted as to a part of the issues less than an entire cause of action. A new trial may be granted as to certain distinct claims, where the court erred in excluding evidence as to such claims (131-389, 155+391). Appeal and Error, §1172\(3\).

IRREGULARITY OR ABUSE OF DISCRETION

Misconduct in general—A new trial will seldom be granted on the ground of abuse of discretion of the trial court in rebuking counsel (122-301, 142+812, 48 L. R. A. [N. S.] 842, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 804). Appeal and Error, §972.

Remark of trial judge that conduct of defendant's counsel was contemptible, and not fair and right, held not ground for new trial (122-343, 142+816). Appeal and Error, §1060\(1\).

The fact that an improper paper was taken, with other papers, to the jury room, held not ground for new trial (125-291, 146+1104, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 922). New Trial, §56.

Quotient verdict (129-14, 151+408). Trial, §315.

MISCONDUCT OF THE JURY

In general—A mere showing that after the trial a juror associated with the successful party on terms of intimacy was not such misconduct as to require a new trial (124-260, 144+950). New Trial, §47.

When a mistake of the jury in writing up the verdict unanimously agreed upon is clearly shown, the question of discretion of the trial court in the grant of a new trial is not involved (135-13, 159+1070). New Trial, §58.

Misconduct of the jury, such as drinking intoxicants, not prejudicial, and not brought about by the prevailing party, is not ground for new trial; but, where an interested person associates with the jurors and drinks with them, there is such misconduct as will vitiate a verdict favorable to the interest of such meddler (130-206, 153+526). Bastards, §69; New Trial, §56; Trial, §304.

Affidavits on motion and testimony of jurors—Affidavits of all the jurors that by a clerical error of the jury the verdict returned was the opposite of that unanimously agreed upon may be considered on a motion for new trial (135-13, 159+1070, distinguishing 27-108, 6+450). New Trial, §143\(4\).

The testimony of a juror held improperly received to impeach a verdict, unless the testimony relates to matters which occurred outside of court (126-180, 148+51). Trial, §306, 344.

Unauthorized view—The decision of the trial court that an unauthorized view by a juror of the locus in quo did not influence the verdict is sustained (126-168, 148+61). New Trial, §56.

The action of jurors in examining a vehicle, or the place where the collision with such vehicle occurred, held ground for new trial (126-90, 147+716). Appeal and Error, §1015\(5\).

Examination of articles not in evidence (121-326, 141+300). New Trial, §44\(4\).

MISCONDUCT OF COUNSEL

In general—An application for a new trial on the ground of misconduct of counsel is largely addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, and such discretion will not be disturbed, unless clearly abused (130-80, 153+269). New Trial, §29.

Though the granting of a new trial for misconduct of counsel in his argument to the jury is within the sound discretion of the trial court, it is prejudicial error to fail to instruct, on request, that the jury should disregard improper remarks of counsel (133-192, 158+46). New Trial, §29.

Remarks by attorney of prevailing party in argument held not ground for new trial (128-245, 150+804). New Trial, ¶32.

Alleged improper remarks by counsel in his argument to the jury held not ground for a new trial (127-15, 148+476). Trial, ¶133(6).

ACCIDENT OR SURPRISE

134-481, 159+1095; 134-292, 157+499; 134-292, 159+623.

Where one moving for a new trial on the ground of accident and surprise, based on the affidavit of a witness that he was mistaken in his testimony as to dates, had given such witness a searching cross-examination on the trial, denial of the motion for new trial was not a breach of discretion (134-468, 158+787). New Trial, ¶90.

Trial court held not to have abused discretion in denying new trial (121-455, 141+803). New Trial, ¶82.

161+515; 132-114, 155+1074; 135-9, 159+1075.

In general—Denial of new trial held proper (121-445, 141+795).

A motion for a new trial, based on newly discovered evidence, held properly denied (125-343, 147+111).

Denial of a new trial for newly discovered evidence held not an abuse of discretion (135-292, 160+793). New Trial, ¶106.

An order denying a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence will be reversed only where it violates a clear legal right of appellant or involves an abuse of discretion (131-3, 154+441). Appeal and Error, ¶981; New Trial, ¶99.

The grant of a new trial for newly discovered evidence is within the discretion of the trial court, and its ruling will not be disturbed, except in a case of clear abuse of discretion (130-469, 153+867). Appeal and Error, ¶981.

A motion for new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence is addressed to the discretion of the trial court (130-304, 153+613). New Trial, ¶99.

Award of a new trial for newly discovered evidence rests largely in the discretion of the trial court, whose action will not be disturbed, where abuse of discretion is not shown (133-156, 157+1073).

Showing on motion—Where no diligence is shown a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence is properly denied (129-460, 152+872). New Trial, ¶102(1).

Where the party moving for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence, consisting of the affidavit of a witness that he was mistaken in his testimony as to dates, had given such witness a searching cross-examination on the trial, denial of a new trial was not an abuse of discretion (134-468, 158+787). New Trial, ¶90.

Cumulative evidence—Newly discovered evidence, cumulative in character, is not ground for a new trial (125-401, 147+279). New Trial, ¶99.

Newly discovered evidence, cumulative and directed to collateral matters, is not ground for new trial; the excuse for not producing it at trial being weak (123-319, 143+793, Ann. Cas. 1915A, 257). New Trial, ¶99.

Newly discovered evidence, cumulative in character, is not ground for new trial (122-510, 142+885). New Trial, ¶104(2).

EXCESSIVE OR INADEQUATE DAMAGES

134-477, 159+1095.

Inadequate damages—Actions open to losing party—A motion by plaintiff for a new trial on the ground of inadequate damages may be resisted by defendant on the ground that defendant should have prevailed on the merits (122-444, 142+706). New Trial, ¶75(1).

General principles—In determining whether passion or prejudice influenced the jury to give excessive damages, the whole record may be examined, and not alone the erroneous rulings whereby evidence tending to create passion and prejudice was received (131-320, 155+205). Appeal and Error, ¶839(2).

Where damages are not ascertainable by any fixed standard, the trial court may order a new trial conditioned on a reduction of the verdict, though the amount is so excessive as to evince passion and prejudice, where it cannot with reason be said that such passion and prejudice affected the other issues in the case (131-261, 154+1100). New Trial, ¶162(3).

The award of a new trial for excessive damages, or the reduction of the verdict on account of such excessiveness, rests in the sound discretion of the trial court, and the supreme court will not interfere unless the discretion is abused (127-373, 149+544). Appeal and Error, ¶979(5); New Trial, ¶76(4).

The supreme court should not grant a new trial for excessive damages, unless the evidence is so manifestly and palpably against the verdict that the trial court violated a clear right of defendant, and abused its discretion, in refusing a new trial (123-480, 144+149, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 756). Appeal and Error, ¶1005(2).

Where interest, properly claimed in the complaint, may account for an alleged excessiveness of a verdict, a new trial will not be granted (122-39, 141+847). Damages, ¶140.

A verdict in excess of the amount demanded in the complaint held not to indicate passion and prejudice on the part of the jury (135-248, 160+665). Appeal and Error, ¶1004(1).

The record on appeal held not to indicate that a verdict was given under the influence of passion and prejudice (129-372, 152+765).

Necessity of passion or prejudice—A new trial will not be granted on the ground of excessive damages, nor will the verdict be reduced, unless the award was made under the influence of passion and prejudice (127-373, 149+544). Appeal and Error, see 979(5); New Trial, see 76(4).

Remittitur—Where a verdict in excess of the amount claimed in the complaint is supported by the evidence, a new trial may be denied on entry of a remittitur (123-222, 143+715). New Trial, see 162(2).

Where the only error alleged is the amount of the damages, a new trial may be granted on that issue alone; and where defendant's testimony admits a certain amount, plaintiff may be given the option of accepting that amount in lieu of a new trial (124-421, 145+173). Appeal and Error, see 1140(1), 1178(3).

In an action for malicious prosecution of an attachment suit, error in admitting in evidence a part of the record in a subsequent suit between plaintiff and one of the defendants, in which plaintiff recovered damages for breach of a contract, which breach existed at the time of the suing out of the attachment, and might have been used as a counterclaim, justified the awarding of a new trial (123-435, 143+1124). Malicious Prosecution, \S 60(1).

The discretion of the trial court in granting a new trial for prejudicial error in instructions will not be disturbed, unless the order was clearly without substantial foundation for the conclusion of prejudice (130-285, 153+596). Appeal and Error, \S 977(3).

Where plaintiff's attorney called defendant's counsel and interrogated him as a witness as to the whereabouts of defendants and why they were not in court, so that they could be called for cross-examination, and defendants' counsel objected, but did not reserve exceptions to the rulings, either at the trial or on motion for new trial, there is nothing for review on appeal (161+167). Appeal and Error, ¶301.

it is otherwise with respect to inaccuracies of expression and inadequate treatment of the controversy (125-441, 147-445, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1176). New Trial, Ⓒ40(4).

Appeal and Error, Ⓒ263(2).

Where one contesting a will did not object in the trial court to an instruction, but on the contrary stated that the instructions were entirely satisfactory, he could not complain on appeal (126-275, 148+117). Wills, Ⓒ336.

The failure of the trial court to expressly call the attention of the jury to the degree of care imposed upon defendant in respect to the maintenance of the right of way fence was an inadvertence, and since no exception was taken at the trial, is not reversible error (162+469, following and applying 101-12, 111+651, 11 L. R. A. [N. S.] 228, 11 Ann. Cas. 429). Appeal and Error, Ⓒ263(3).

Appeal and Error, ¶571.

Mandamus will not lie to require the trial court to allow and settle a case after expiration of the time fixed therefor, where the denial is not shown to be an abuse of discretion (124-537, 144+755). Appeal and Error, ¶571.

In replevin for cordwood taken by defendant from several piles of wood on a tract of land, some of which piles belonged to plaintiff and others not, plaintiff had the burden of proving the identity of the wood claimed by him (123-525, 143+268). Replevin, ¶70.

Mere severance of trees standing on land in possession of plaintiff will not support replevin, but it is otherwise where defendant removes the logs from the land. Plaintiff, in possession of public land under the homestead laws, held entitled to maintain replevin for logs unlawfully cut and removed from the land by defendant (207 Fed. 40, 124 O. C. A. 600). Replevin, ¶9.

7838. Exception to sureties—Rebonding—

In an action for conversion, where plaintiff proves title, it is no defense that the property was taken under a writ of replevin from plaintiff's husband, and was returned to the husband on his rebonding it (127-177, 149+2). Trover and Conversion, ¶22.

ATTACHMENT

7845. When and in what cases allowed—

This section compared with § 7859 as to the necessity of a formal commencement of the action before the issuance of the writ (123-330, 143-792). Attachment, ¶71; Garnishment, ¶64.

7846. Contents of affidavit—

Subd. 4—A preferential transfer or payment without actual fraud does not constitute a disposition of property with intent to delay and defraud creditors, so as to authorize attachment under this section (124-112, 144+433). Attachment, ¶44.

Mere constructive fraud in a chattel mortgage from son to father covering a growing crop is not sufficient to support an attachment under this subdivision, an actual personal intent to defraud being necessary (130-141, 153+125). Attachment, ¶44.

The transfer contemplated by this subdivision is a transfer fraudulent as to creditors at common law or under the English statute (124-112, 144+433). Attachment, ¶44.

7847. Conditions of required bond—

A judgment of dismissal, entered under a stipulation of the parties settling and adjusting all matters in dispute between them, will not support an action on the bond given under this section, since such stipulation releases the surety, and since the statute, which is part of the contract, contemplates a judgment determining that plaintiff had no cause of action at the time of the levy. The rule as to collateral attack on a judgment is not involved (132-201, 156+5). Attachment, ¶331; Judgment, ¶516.

7849. Execution of writ—

A written contract held to constitute a sale of timber, and not a mere license, so that the estate and rights of the vendee, its contract being of record, were not effected by subsequent attachment and lis pendens against the interest of the timber vendor, nor by the latter's subsequent assignment of its land contract (126-176, 148+43). Vendor and Purchaser, §79.

7853. Motion to vacate—

Upon motion to vacate an attachment, based on affidavits putting in issue the facts on which the writ was issued, the burden is upon plaintiff to sustain the allegations of the original affidavit, by competent evidence (135-469, 160+1024). Attachment, §47\(2\).

GARNISHMENT7859. Affidavit—Garnishee summons—Title of action—

There is a judgment on which garnishment may be based, though an appeal, without supersedeas, has been taken, and the affirmance of the judgment is based on the condition of the entry of a remittitur as to a part of the recovery, and the remittitur has not been filed (132-336, 156+668). Garnishment, §7.

This section contemplates and requires, as essential to the right to proceed thereunder, that either the main action be pending or that it be commenced by issuing a valid summons at the time of the issuance of the garnishee summons (123-330, 143+792). Garnishment, §64.

A guaranty insurance company held not liable as garnishee under a judgment against an assessor on an indemnity risk, when at the time of service of garnishee summons and when disclosure was made it held a valid claim for policy premiums against assured in excess of such judgment, though it defended the main action (124-339, 145+26). Garnishment, §130.

7861. In district court—

Service by publication on defendant, and notice under § 7870 of motion for leave to file supplemental complaint against garnishee (see 133-326, 158+606; notes under §§ 7865, 7870).

7862. Effect of service on garnishee—Fees—

The interest of a creditor in an estate assigned for the benefit of creditors is subject to garnishment, and the garnishee summons impounds the interest of such creditor in the trust estate (130-392, 153+740). Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, §184; Garnishment, §31.

Though the right to money is complete, plaintiff cannot recover same, where it is subject to an undetermined garnishment (125-262, 146+1093). Abatement and Revival, §8\(1\).

A garnishment creditor gets nothing more than an inchoate lien, and this lien can be perfected only by proceeding to judgment against the garnishee in the manner provided by statute (124-254, 144+959). Garnishment, §106.

An inchoate lien by garnishment cannot be tacked to a lien of an execution on the judgment against the defendant, and levied upon the indebtedness of the garnishee, so as to make up the period of four months specified by the bankruptcy act (124-254, 144+959). Bankruptcy, §161\(1\).

7863. Property subject to garnishment—

A surety company, participating in the defense of an action for personal injuries, may be made a garnishee as to the amount of the judgment under its bond of indemnity to the defendant (132-336, 156+668). Garnishment, §42.

Where an assignee for the benefit of creditors is garnished by a creditor of a creditor entitled to participate in the assigned estate, the garnishee proceedings should be continued until the amount applicable to plaintiff's claim can be determined (130-392, 153+740). Action, §68; Garnishment, §31.

Bill of sale held not to vest title of personal property in claimant, so as to free the property from garnishment as the property of defendant (123-444, 143+1130). Garnishment, §49.

An order for compensation for an attorney under § 8513, is neither a judgment, nor the amount thereof in custodia legis, but merely creates a county debt which is garnishable as such (126-264, 148+66). Garnishment, §44, 58.

Compensation ordered under § 8513 in favor of an attorney for defending an indigent accused of crime is not exempt from garnishment as being fees of a public officer (126-264, 148+66). Garnishment, §63.

7864. In what cases garnishment not allowed—

A beneficiary in an assignment for the benefit of creditors takes a vested and not a contingent interest in the estate of his debtor, and hence such creditor's interest is subject to garnishment, and the garnishment proceedings should be continued until the amount of such interest is determined (130-392, 153+740). Action, §68; Garnishment, §31.

An order for compensation for an attorney under § 8513 is neither a judgment, nor the amount thereof in custodia legis, but merely creates a county debt, which is garnishable as such (126-264, 148+66). Garnishment, §44, 58.

7865. Examination of garnishee—

The filing of the affidavit of nonresidence of defendant, as provided for in this section, has the same effect that it had prior to the revision of 1905, notwithstanding § 7870, and such affidavit relieves plaintiff from the necessity of serving notice upon the defendant of an application for leave to file a supplemental complaint against the garnishee under § 7870 (133-326, 158+606). Garnishment, *§*99.

Service of summons by publication on a nonresident defendant gives jurisdiction to render a judgment binding upon him to the extent of the property impounded (133-326, 158+606). Judgment, *§*17(11).

7869. Claimant of property to be joined—

Evidence held insufficient to support a finding that a fund in bank standing in the name of the defendant in garnishment was in fact the property of a third person, so as to render the bank liable to such person on its deposit of the fund in court (128-455, 151+178). Garnishment, *§*218.

7870. Proceedings when debt or title is disputed—

Where a garnishee made disclosure that his liability to the defendant was on a contract of indemnity made in Nebraska, under the laws of which state no liability would accrue until the indemnitee had in fact suffered loss or damage by the payment of the claim from which he was protected, an issue of fact as to the law of Nebraska was presented, to be tried upon supplemental complaint under this section and plaintiff was not entitled to judgment on the disclosure (131-75, 154+739). Garnishment, *§*144.

The testimony of other witnesses may be received to supplement or explain the garnishee's disclosure. Evidence held sufficient to sustain finding discharging garnishee (129-188, 152+136). Garnishment, *§*163, 164.

A judgment cannot be rendered against a garnishee upon an unevasive disclosure, which does not affirmatively and clearly show liability on his part (129-188, 152+136). Garnishment, *§*180.

Bill of sale from defendant to claimant held not to transfer title from defendant, so as to discharge the property from liability for defendant's debts (123-444, 143+1130). Garnishment, *§*49.

The filing of the affidavit of nonresidence under § 7865 has the same effect as it had prior to the revision of 1905, and, notwithstanding the provision of this section as to service of notice on the garnishee and defendant, it relieves plaintiff of the necessity of serving notice upon defendant of an application for leave to file a supplemental complaint against the garnishee. Service of notice to appear and take part in the examination of the garnishee, and of an application to file a supplemental complaint against the garnishee, is not necessary to bring defendant into court, as he is already in court so far as the property seized by the garnishment is concerned (133-326, 158+606). Garnishment, *§*99.

7872. Same, when rendered—Discharge—Transfer of action—

Where garnishee makes full disclosure and thereafter venue in main action is changed to another county, a dismissal there discharges garnishment, as under this section no judgment can be rendered against garnishee until after judgment is rendered against defendant (162+468). Garnishment, *§*196.

7876. Amount of judgment—Effect—

Cited (124-254, 144+959).

Garnishee cannot set off against its liability to defendants, arising after their adjudication as bankrupts, claims arising before bankruptcy; the bankrupts having been discharged (132-336, 156+668). Garnishment, *§*130.

INJUNCTION7888. How issued—Effect on running of time—

This section has no application to the question as to the time of accrual of a cause of action to recover excessive freight rates paid while an injunction was in effect prohibiting enforcement of the statutory rates, of which injunction plaintiff had notice, where sufficient time existed for commencement of the action after dissolution of the injunction before the statutory limitation period had run (135-45, 159+1082). Limitation of Actions, *§*111.

7889. Temporary injunction when authorized—

161+520; 161+524.

In general—Whether the injury to plaintiff from the denial of a temporary injunction is so much greater than the injury to defendant from an award of the order that a temporary restraining order should issue is peculiarly for the trial court, and its action on evenly balanced testimony will not be disturbed on appeal (123-231, 143+728). Appeal and Error, *§*954(1).

An order granting or refusing a temporary injunction will not be disturbed on appeal, unless the discretion of the trial court has been abused (130-510, 153+1088). Appeal and Error, *§*954(1).

A citizen and taxpayer may not enjoin municipal officers from leasing a building not needed for public use, unless the municipality and its officers are acting ultra vires and such acts may injuriously affect his rights (162+1073). Municipal Corporations, *§*993(2).

Review of order dissolving temporary injunction where evidence is conflicting (128-391, 151+139). Appeal and Error, ¶954(3).

Injunction granted—A temporary injunction may be granted, though the equities of the complaint are fully denied by the answer under oath, where it appears probable that the material allegations of the complaint will on final hearing be found to be true. A temporary restraining order held properly granted in this case under the rule stated (131-337, 155+99). Injunction, ¶146.

An order granting a temporary injunction restraining the city of St. Paul from executing an order for the removal of an alleged obstruction to the use of a public alley declared by the city a public nuisance held not an abuse of discretion (162+1062). Injunction, ¶38.

Where county officials took possession of a building erected by the county for a sheriff's residence and jail, and used it as a courthouse owing to the fact that the county had no other building at the time for the transaction of the county business, and the sheriff locked up the building and excluded the other county officials from access to records which they had placed in the building, a temporary restraining order procured by the county against the sheriff to prevent him from the doing of such acts pending determination of the suit for injunction will not be reversed on appeal, since the public interests are of greater importance than any right the sheriff is shown to possess in and to the building (134-473, 159+129). Injunction, ¶38.

Facts held sufficient to justify the issuance of a temporary injunction to restrain interference with plaintiff's employes (131-458, 155+638). Injunction, ¶101(2).

Showing of probable irreparable injury from cancellation of contract for sale of land under § 8081, to warrant temporary restraining order against service of notice during pendency of action for rescission of contract for fraud of grantor (132-384, 157+587). Injunction, ¶38.

Injunctions denied—Where, under a complaint, the court was justified in refusing to entertain an action at all, there was no abuse of discretion in denying an application for a temporary injunction (124-10, 144+423, L. R. A. 1915F, 1012, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 448). Injunction, ¶137(1).

Where, after judgment for separate maintenance rendered in this state, the defendant brought an action for divorce in Illinois, a temporary injunction to restrain the prosecution of such action held properly denied (127-21, 148+478). Injunction, ¶136(1).

7891. Bond required—Damages, how ascertained—

Where the expense of removing an embankment constituting a nuisance was less than the diminution in the value of the land owing to the fact that the embankment caused the ponding of water during rain falls, the damages will be restricted to the lesser amount (126-470, 148+311, L. R. A. 1916E, 977). Damages, ¶108.

RECEIVERS

7892. When authorized—

In general—A receivership being merely ancillary to the main action, the validity of the appointment of a receiver depends upon the jurisdiction of the court of the action (126-440, 148+449). Receivers, ¶5.

Subdivisions 3 and 4 of this section do not limit the authority of the court in the appointment of receivers for corporations to the instances provided by § 6634, but recognize the general equity powers of the court to appoint receivers for corporations when proper grounds are made to appear (134-422, 159+948). Corporations, ¶553(1).

Receiver appointed—A receiver may be appointed in an action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on a sufficient showing that it is necessary to protect or preserve the property (161+407). Mechanics' Liens, ¶283.

In foreclosure, where, in addition to mortgagor's insolvency and insufficiency of the security, the rents had been appropriated by mortgagor to his own use and he had not paid taxes or overdue interest, so as to depreciate security, appointment of a receiver to collect and apply rents was justified (162+674). Mortgages, ¶468(3).

Appointment denied—Appointment of receiver to take possession of property pendente lite is within discretion of court. The appointment will not be made unless there is imminent danger of loss and where there is not adequate remedy at law. Appointment will not ordinarily be made when title is in dispute, unless there is a reasonable probability that applicant will prevail on the issue of title. A receiver held properly denied in a suit for a partnership accounting (129-229, 152+264; 129-229, 152+537). Partnership, ¶325(2); Receivers, ¶8, 16.

Where a corporation repudiates an act of one who acquired property as its agent, it has no standing to demand an appointment of a receiver to hold the property pending an action concerning it (126-440, 148+449). Receivers, ¶9.

A receiver held improperly appointed in an action for a partnership accounting (125-283, 146+1101). Partnership, ¶325(2).

7896. Measure of relief granted—

In a suit for divorce, in which personal service is had on defendant, the court has power to allow alimony, notwithstanding this section, though the complaint contains no specific demand therefor and the defendant does not answer (130-472, 153+864). Divorce, *§*203.

Plaintiff may recover interest as an element of damages for false representations in the sale of a horse, though he does not pray therefor in his complaint (124-265, 144+954). Damages, *§*157(4).

Where defendant appears plaintiff is not limited, as to his relief, to the prayer of his complaint, but he cannot recover a greater amount than that stated therein (124-279, 144+952). Judgment, *§*252(1).

7897. Judgment between parties and against several defendants—

It is error to instruct that the verdict must be for or against both defendants, and that the only question for determination was whether or not there was a conspiracy between defendants to injure plaintiff (123-17, 142+930, L. R. A. 1915B, 1179, 1195). Torts, *§*28.

That two defendants are sued as copartners does not make a recovery depend on proof of partnership (127-163, 149+20). Partnership, *§*219(1).

7898. Same, how signed and entered—Contents—

In view of this section a judgment, in an equitable action to determine title, held not to grant relief ordinarily incident to an action of ejectment (122-158, 142+150). New Trial, *§*178(1).

A decision of the district court that "it is ordered and adjudged" that the judgment of the probate court, reciting its terms, is affirmed, signed by the judge, and not by the clerk, as required by this section, is an appealable judgment, not a mere order for judgment, so that it should be affirmed, not dismissed, on default of appellant (135-235, 150+565; 135-235, 160+765). Appeal and Error, *§*133.

Evidence, in an action by an employé for injuries from the explosion of a bottle that he was filling on an unguarded machine, held to warrant denial of a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict for plaintiff (123-76, 142+1045). Master and Servant, *§*258(12).

7901. Damages for libel—

The notice of retraction need not specify each particular part of a published article which contains defamatory matter, it being sufficient if the publisher can determine, without difficulty, the words that contain a libelous imputation (126-239, 148+102, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 888). Libel and Slander, *§*70.

Persons who are neither owners nor publishers of a newspaper, who cause a circular letter to be published therein of a libelous nature, are not within the provision of this section as to demand for retraction before suit will lie (131-355, 155+212). Libel and Slander, *§*70.

7904. Docketing judgments—Transcripts—Lien on land—

A judgment debtor, acting as a mere conduit for transfer of title to land from one person to another, acquires no title or interest on which the judgment lien attaches (130-365, 153+861). Judgment, *§*780(5).

Where a deed to a wife was adjudged to be an equitable mortgage, an amount deposited to redeem therefrom could not be subjected to a judgment against the husband (128-126, 150+396). Mortgages, *§*608½.

7905. Same—To take effect January 1, 1914—

A subsequently docketed judgment against the grantor in an absolute deed given to secure a debt is not notice to a subsequent purchaser from the grantee (123-293, 143+720). Judgment, *§*787.

7908. Lien discharged by deposit of money, when—

This section held not applicable to redemption from a mortgage foreclosure sale, so as to require commencement of suit, and deposit of amount of tender in court in order to extinguish the right of a judgment creditor to redeem (127-37, 148+1066, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 527). Mortgages, *§*596.

7909. Assignment of judgment—Mode and effect—

This section affects the validity of assignments only as to subsequent purchasers and attaching creditors; between the parties the assignment is valid without compliance with the formalities stated in the statute (127-203, 149+199). Judgment, *§*840.

A finding that a judgment was "sold, assigned, and transferred" to defendant implies the payment of a consideration (127-203, 149+199). Trial, *§*404(1).

7910. Judgments, procured by fraud, set aside by action—

In general—In an action to set aside a judgment for fraud and perjury, evidence that the judgment defendant was not indebted to plaintiff on the note sued on, and that her signature to the note was a forgery was not admissible (133-463, 157+1069). Judgment, *§*444.

Failure to disclose on the trial of a divorce action an agreement of separation, entered into after the desertion charged in the complaint, though intentional, is not fraud or perjury for which the judgment can be set aside under this section. A finding of the trial court that there was no fraud in obtaining service of the summons in a divorce case held sustained by the evidence (127-406, 149+666). Divorce, *§*167.

To authorize a court of equity to relieve against a judgment on the ground of newly discovered evidence after the time for filing motion for new trial has elapsed, the showing must be clear and specific, free from hearsay, doubt, or conjecture, and justify the conclusion that manifest injustice will result if the relief be not granted (161+257). New Trial, *§*167(2).

This section applies to divorce cases (133-148, 157+1086). Divorce, *§*167.

The fact that defendant's husband failed to call her attention to the action in which summons was served by delivery to him, or a copy thereof, cannot be charged to the plaintiff, so as to form the basis of an action to set aside the judgment (133-463, 157+1069). Judgment, *§*419.

Complaint—A complaint to set aside a judgment for fraud of the prevailing party must, by clear, direct, and positive averments, show that the action is brought within the time stated in this section (135-432, 161+143). Judgment, *§*400(1).

For perjury—An action cannot be maintained under this section to set aside a judgment on the ground of perjury by the successful party or his witnesses, where the issue of fact is squarely made by the pleadings, so that each party knows what the other may be expected to prove (126-414, 148+455). Judgment, *§*443(1), 444.

Where, in an action on a benefit certificate, defendant prevailed on the ground that insured had been tried and expelled as a member, the answer setting up such expulsion, and the reply denying it, plaintiff cannot maintain an action under this section to set aside the judgment on the ground that the same was supported by false and perjured testimony offered in proof of such expulsion, since the evidence related to an issue squarely made by the pleadings, and though the facts as to the expulsion were peculiarly within the knowledge of defendant, plaintiff cannot prevail in his subsequent action, where he could readily have obtained evidence to counteract the alleged false testimony (134-338, 159+835). Judgment, *§*444, 460(4).

Laches—On the facts, held, that a husband was precluded by laches from maintaining an action under this section to set aside a decree of divorce obtained by the wife, though he alleged that he was led to believe that the suit for divorce had been abandoned, and that the parties, though maintaining separate homes, cohabitated together occasionally after the divorce was granted, and until the wife remarried (133-148, 157+1086). Divorce, *§*167.

The right to have a decree vacated for fraud is not absolute and may be barred by laches (133-148, 157+1086). Judgment, *§*456(1).

7914. Discharge of judgments against bankrupts—

Where a judgment debtor sues to cancel the judgment on the ground that since its rendition he had been discharged in bankruptcy, it was error to determine an issue as to whether the judgment was a lien on property owned by one not a party, and to decree satisfaction of the judgment, whether the action be considered as one to cancel or as a motion under this section (125-286, 146+1097). Bankruptcy, *§*433(2), 433½.

7915. Joint debtors—Contribution and subrogation—

Lessor of dam, compelled to pay damages to third persons on account of the flooding of their land, owing to the use of same for floating logs, held not entitled to recover from the lessee under this section (124-475, 145+163). Waters and Water Courses, *§*171(3).

7916. Several judgments against joint debtors—

One of two makers of a note, who gives his personal note to the payee upon the maturity of the note, and the same is accepted as payment of it, may maintain an action for contribution against his comaker (125-266, 146+1094). Contribution, *§*6.

In an action by two makers of a note, who paid it, to recover of a comaker his proportionate share, the evidence justifies the findings of the court (125-266, 146+1094). Contribution, *§*9(6).

7918. By confession—On statement—

7920. Submission without action—

135-314, 160+792.

7922. Judgments, how enforced—

A judgment held, in view of this section, not to require delivery of possession of land to defendant (122-158, 142+150). Judgment, *§*533.

Where, prior to the passage of 1913 c. 318, the defendant denied liability to plaintiff, but upon action brought such liability was found by the court and judgment directed accordingly prior to such passage, and was entered afterwards, such judgment will not be enforced in proceedings by contempt, where the widow was the pensioner's common-law wife (126-332, 148+279). Contempt, *§*21.

7924. Execution, how issued—Contents—

No order of court is necessary for the issuance of an alias execution. Alias execution cannot issue until the return of the original writ; but where the evidence shows that the original writ was returned, and the alias writ issued on the same day, it will be presumed that the rule stated was complied with (127-203, 149+199). Evidence, *§*83(6); Execution, *§*99.

That the copy of the execution served on the judgment debtor does not bear the signature or seal of the clerk does not invalidate a sale of real estate made under the execution (127-203, 149+199). Execution, ¶94.

7925. When returnable—Inventory—

No formal levy is necessary to be made on real estate in order to sell the same on execution. Failure of the sheriff to make return after the execution sale does not invalidate a sale of real estate (127-203, 149+199). Execution, ¶275, 330.

7930. What may be levied on, etc.—

An estate, dependent on a conversion from realty to personalty in the future is not subject to execution (126-21, 147+812, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 430). Wills, ¶869.

A garnishment lien and an execution lien on the judgment against defendant cannot be tacked, so as to make up the four months period specified by the bankruptcy act (124-254, 144+959). Bankruptcy, ¶161(1).

7935. Certificate to be furnished officer—

Where a levy is made under execution on personal property in hands of third party and receipt is taken by officer pursuant to this section, and no further steps are taken for seven months, the levy becomes ineffectual as lien against property (162+468). Execution, ¶146(1).

7939. Service on judgment debtor—

That copy of execution served on the judgment debtor does not bear the signature or seal of the clerk does not invalidate a sale of real estate under the execution (127-203, 149+199). Execution, ¶93.

7947. Certificate of redemption—Effect of redemption—

Cited (129-356, 152+727).

7949. Redemption pending action to set aside execution sale—

Cited (123-293, 143+720).

7950. Stay of execution on money judgment—

Cited (133-63, 157+903).

7951. Property exempt— * * *

16. The wages of any person, not exceeding thirty-five dollars, due for any services rendered by him for another during thirty days preceding any attachment, garnishment or the levy of any execution against him, provided, that all wages paid to such person, and earned within said thirty day period, shall be deemed and considered a part of, or all, as the case may be, of said exemption of thirty-five dollars. (Subd. 16, amended '15 c. 202 § 1)

In general—It is immaterial to creditors what agreement is made by the debtor with respect to exempt property (133-375, 158+612). Chattel Mortgages, ¶191.

A debtor, by a temporary absence from the state on a visit, held not to have lost his residence (122-228, 142+307). Exemptions, ¶29.

The revision of 1906 introduced no change in this section on the question of selection of exempt property by the debtor, and hence a construction of such provision prior to the revision is still controlling (122-228, 142+307). Exemptions, ¶116.

Where all the property taken on execution is exempt, no selection or claim is necessary to entitle the debtor to assert the right of exemption (122-228, 142+307). Exemptions, ¶116.

Subd. 2—A piano, together with a plush cover and stool, are exempt (122-228, 142+307). Exemptions, ¶47.

Subd. 13—Proceeds of insurance on a building on a homestead, after destruction of the building by fire, is exempt from garnishment under this subdivision (132-372, 157+504). Homestead, ¶79.

Subd. 16—The proviso to G. S. 1913 § 7951 subd. 16, was violative of Const. art. 1 § 12, but the remainder of the subdivision was valid (129-184, 152+135). Exemptions, ¶63; Statutes, ¶64(2).

7952. Levy on property in excess of exemption—

Selection not necessary, where all the property levied on is exempt (122-228, 142+307). Exemptions, ¶116.

7970. Talesmen—

The fact that special veniremen were summoned from only 7 out of 36 towns, cities, and villages in the county, and that 8 were summoned from one village and others from points near to it, is not ground for challenge to the panel; no bad faith, fraud, or oppression being established, and it not appearing that the men selected were not fair-minded jurors (124-162, 144-752, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 377). Jury, ~~6~~70(10), 75(2).

7971. Jurors, when and how selected—The county board, at its annual session in January, shall select, from the qualified voters of the county, seventy-two persons to serve as grand jurors, and one hundred and forty-four persons to serve as petit jurors, and make separate lists thereof, which shall be certified and signed by the chairman, attested by the auditor, and forthwith delivered to the clerk of the district court. If in any county the board is unable to select the required number, the highest practicable number shall be sufficient. In counties where population exceeds ten thousand no person shall be included in two successive annual lists, nor shall any juror at any one term serve more than thirty days and until the completion of the case upon which he may be sitting and in counties having two or more terms of court in one year, after the jurors have been drawn for any term of such court, the clerk shall strike from the original list the names of all persons who were drawn for such term, and notify the board thereof, which at its next session shall likewise select and certify an equal number of new names, which shall be added by such clerk to the names in the original list. If such list is not made and delivered at the annual meeting in January, it may be so made and delivered at any regular or special meeting thereafter. Whenever at any term there is an entire absence or deficiency of jurors whether from an omission to draw or to summon such jurors or because of a challenge to the panel or from any other cause, the court may order a special venire to issue to the sheriff of the county, commanding him to summon from the county at large a specified number of competent persons to serve as jurors for the term or for any specified number of days, provided that before such special venire shall issue the jurors who have been selected by the county board and whose names are still in the box provided for in section 9101 of said General Statutes, shall first be called and upon an order of the court the number of names required for such special venire shall be drawn from said box in the manner required by law and the jurors so drawn, shall be summoned by the sheriff as other jurors; and as additional jurors are needed successive drawings shall be ordered by the court until the names contained in said box have been exhausted. (Amended '17 c. 485 § 1)

[7971—]1. Same—Laws repealed—That section 166 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for the year 1913 relating to the method of selecting jurors be and the same hereby is repealed. ('17 c. 485 § 2)

7972. Jurors, when and how selected in counties having more than 100,000 inhabitants—

Under this section the judges of the municipal court of St. Paul may select supplementary lists of persons to serve as jurors in that court whenever from any cause there is a deficiency of persons qualified to serve as jurors in the original or supplementary lists (134-300, 150+789). Jury, ~~6~~72(3).

CHAPTER 79

COSTS AND DISBURSEMENTS

7973. Argument as to fees of attorney—Costs defined—

124-526, 144+1134; 131-102, 154+962; note under § 4955 subd. 5.

Construction and performance of agreement (128-392, 151+135). Attorney and Client, § 148(1).

Construction of contract; validity of agreement of attorney to advance expenses of litigation, and deduct same from recovery (128-365, 151+125). Attorney and Client, § 144.

A stipulation in the contract that neither the attorney nor the client should settle the case without the consent of the other is invalid (128-354, 151+128). Attorney and Client, § 189.

Court, in summary proceedings by client under § 4956, may construe agreement as to compensation. Agreement construed (122-87, 141+1103). Attorney and Client, § 126, 148.

Champerty (128-392, 151+135). Champerty and Maintenance, § 5(1).

A complaint by one attorney against another, alleging a contract by defendant to pay plaintiff half of the fees received in a pending action, held to state a cause of action (125-357, 147+278). Attorney and Client, § 151.

7974. Costs in district court—

On appeal by the state from an adverse judgment in an action against the members of the state board of medical examiners to recover license fees collected and not turned into the state treasury, costs are properly taxed in favor of defendants on affirmance of the judgment (124-151, 144+755). States, § 215.

In an action to determine adverse claim, where defendant answered claiming title absolute, the court properly allowed costs to plaintiff, though under § 2163 the lien was decreed defendant as holder of the tax certificate (126-218, 148+273). Taxation, § 818.

Where plaintiff, suing to quiet a tax title, is denied relief, but the amount of taxes paid is adjudged a lien on the land, defendant is entitled to costs (128-498, 151+201). Taxation, § 818.

7975. In actions for services—Double costs—

Double costs held improperly allowed under this section, where no claim therefor was made in the complaint, and no proof of the right thereto on the trial (125-211, 146+359, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 688). Costs, § 66.

7976. Disbursements—Taxation and allowance—

Where documentary evidence is procured for use in the trial of several actions growing out of the same transaction, but accruing to different persons, one of the plaintiffs cannot recover more than his proportionate share of the expense of obtaining such testimony, unless he shows that he has actually paid more than his share. Expenses of serving subpoenas by a private person are not taxable disbursements; nor are amounts paid for transcript of testimony obtained for the use of the attorney during the progress of the trial; nor are expense of maps and photographs received in evidence (124-361, 145+114). Costs, § 176, 180, 190.

Money paid by plaintiff to civil engineers for a survey of his land, and to a timber cruiser for an estimate of the timber cut and taken from the land by defendant, in preparing for the trial of an action involving the location of the boundary line, are not taxable as "disbursements" (135-349, 160+863). Costs, § 178.

Right of defendant to tax witness fees on dismissal by plaintiff after case set for trial (see 132-478, 157+592). Costs, § 184(3).

Where three actions against three different defendants were tried together by agreement, and there was a verdict against each defendant, the court is not required to apportion the disbursements among the defendants, where two of them are not liable in any event (130-19, 153+113). Costs, § 101.

7977. Several actions—Costs, how allowed—

7983. Against guardian of infant plaintiff—

Motion by infant plaintiff to require remittitur to be sent without payment of judgment for costs denied, where there was no showing of the inability of the guardian ad litem to pay (127-532, 148+1096). Infants, § 116.

7985. Chargeable on estate or fund—

Under this section a receiver, who is the losing party on appeal, cannot be charged personally with the costs, unless it is shown that he is guilty of mismanagement or bad faith (122-531, 142+200). Receivers, § 189.

7987. On appeal from justice—

In determining whether a more favorable recovery was had by plaintiff on his appeal the costs in justice court are not to be considered (122-53, 141+811). Costs, § 231.

7989. Supreme court—Costs and disbursements—

Costs allowable—On appeal by the state from an adverse judgment in an action by the state against the members of the state board of medical examiners to recover license fees collected and not turned into the state treasury, costs are properly taxed in favor of defendants on affirmation of the judgment (124-151, 144+755). States, \S 215.

Expenses of serving notice of appeal by a private person cannot be allowed as costs. Where notice of appeal is served on the attorney of a party, appellant is not entitled to costs for service of notice on the parties, as such additional service is unnecessary. Sheriff's fees for serving notice of appeal, the record and briefs on defendants, who were not adverse parties, cannot be allowed as part of appellant's costs and disbursements (134-148, 159+564). Costs, \S 247.

Costs cannot be allowed appellant for certified copies of the records, where it does not appear that they were for use in the appellate court (134-148, 159+564). Costs, \S 256(1).

Disbursements allowable—Disbursements for printing matter unnecessary for the presentation of the assignments of error will not be allowed (124-183, 144+768, 1135). Costs, \S 256(2).

A charge for copying exhibits which were incorporated into the settled case used on the motion for new trial will not be allowed (124-183, 144+768, 1135). Costs, \S 254(2), 256(1).

The prevailing party will not be allowed for disbursements for the printing of matter unnecessary to present the questions urged on appeal (128-129, 150+618). Appeal and Error, \S 764.

In view of the practice in the three large cities of the state to charge 60 cents per page for printing the paper book and brief, where the printing is done in one of those cities, a charge of 75 cents per page, the rate prevailing in the rest of the state, will be reduced to 60 cents per page (127-462, 149+940). Appeal and Error, \S 764.

Costs in partition suit—On reversal of judgment denying partition, costs will be taxed against the losing party, and are not expenses of partition under § 8037 (128-539, 151+1102). Partition, \S 114(1).

An appeal in a partition suit is an adversary proceeding, and the rule as to apportionment of costs laid down for the district court by § 8037 does not apply (135-134, 160+496). Partition, \S 114(1).

Several cases between same parties—On appeals in three actions between the same parties and involving identical questions of law, with one record, one brief, one oral argument, and one attorney on each side, and presented together under stipulation, only one allowance of statutory costs should be made (132-69, 156+1). Costs, \S 250.

That the printed record was used in another case, with which the case under consideration was tried, does not require that but one-half of the cost of printing be taxed as costs (127-304, 149+955). Costs, \S 254(1).

7990. Additional allowance—Costs, when paid—

The proviso to this section does not apply to a receiver, unless it appears that the creditors are unable to pay the costs and disbursements (122-531, 142+200). Appeal and Error, \S 1189.

Award in case of appeal for delay (see 134-464, 157+327). Costs, \S 260(1).

APPEALS IN CIVIL ACTIONS

7995. Notice of appeal—Service—Bond and notice to be filed—Deposit, etc.—An appeal shall be made by the service of a notice in writing on the adverse party, and on the clerk with whom the judgment or order appealed from is entered, stating the appeal from the same, or some specific part thereof. To render the appeal effective for any purpose the party appealing shall, within the time provided by law for taking such appeal, file said notice together with the bond on appeal with the clerk of the lower court, and at the time of filing such notice and bond, such appellant shall deposit with the clerk the sum of $15, of which ten dollars shall be transmitted to the Clerk of the Supreme Court as provided in section 7996, General Statutes 1913, as and for the filing fee required in the Supreme Court by chapter 177, Laws 1915 [5761—1], and the remainder retained by the clerk of the court below as and for the fee provided in section 5756, General Statutes 1913, subdivision 50. Whenever a party, in good faith, gives notice of appeal from a judgment or order, and omits, through mistake, to do any other act necessary to perfect the appeal, or to stay proceedings, the court may permit an amendment on such terms as may be just. (Amended '17 c. 66 § 2)

Where service of notice of appeal is made on the attorney of the adverse party service on such party is unnecessary (134-148, 159+564). Appeal and Error, \S 424.

An appeal held from the judgment, and not rendered ineffective by reference in the notice of appeal to nonappealable orders, or to items claimed to have been erroneously omitted from the judgment (124-361, 145+114). Appeal and Error, §422.

The notice of plaintiff's appeal from the order granting their motion for a new trial does not in terms embrace an appeal from the court's orders on the demurrers interposed, even if such orders were appealable (127-105, 149+3, L. R. A. 1915B, 287). Appeal and Error, §418.

7996. Return to supreme court—Court to fix time for serving and filing printed record and briefs and date for argument, etc.—Upon an appeal being perfected, the clerk of the court appealed from shall immediately transmit to the clerk of the supreme court the ten dollar fee prescribed by section 7995, General Statutes 1913, together with a certified copy of the notice and bond upon appeal, and the filing thereof shall vest in the supreme court jurisdiction of the cause. Upon the filing of such return the supreme court may fix the time within which the printed record and briefs shall be served and filed, and also set a date for the argument of the questions presented by the appeal. Upon request of either party, the clerk of the court appealed from shall at the time required by the rules of the supreme court transmit to the clerk of the supreme court the original record, judgment roll, settled case, or bill of exceptions, and such exhibits as may be on file in his office, the same to remain in the supreme court for its use until the case is disposed of and then returned to the clerk of the court appealed from. (Amended '17 c. 66 § 3)

Record not authenticated will not be reviewed (122-43, 141+806). Appeal and Error, §612\(1\).

An apparent mistake in making up the record cannot be corrected on an ex parte application for a rehearing (132-437, 157+991). Appeal and Error, §653\(1\).

A ruling of the trial court excluding a document from evidence cannot be reviewed, when the document is not in the record, and there is no testimony to show its materiality (123-214, 143+357). Appeal and Error, §692\(1\).

A record excluded by the trial court, not having been returned to the appellate court, the ruling of the trial court cannot be considered (135-229, 160+787). Appeal and Error, §692\(3\).

Where an order sustaining a demurrer does not appear in the record, the appeal will be dismissed (135-480, 160+486). Appeal and Error, §635\(1\).

The rule that the trial court may settle and allow a case after an appeal has been taken from an order denying a new trial is not changed by the amendment of this section (127-533, 149+550). Appeal and Error, §567\(1\).

7997. Powers of appellate court—

Necessary parties on appeal—A judgment affecting a party below, who is not made a party on appeal, cannot be reversed or modified as to such party (132-357, 157+500). Appeal and Error, §1173\(2\).

As to findings of fact—Generally the supreme court cannot make nor direct specific findings of fact, but, where all the evidence is before it, an erroneous finding is amendable as a matter of law, and an amendment will be directed without a retrial (132-357, 157+500). Appeal and Error, §1176\(1\).

The supreme court is without power to make findings of fact, or to direct the trial court to find a particular fact, except perhaps where the evidence is conclusive (129-380, 152+774). Appeal and Error, §1122\(2\).

Decisions in former appeals—A decision on a former appeal in the same case is the law of the case on a subsequent appeal (134-432, 159+955). Appeal and Error, §1099\(7\).

Decision of the court on a former appeal is the law of the case on a subsequent appeal in the same case (133-464, 158+251). Appeal and Error, §1099\(7\).

New trial on part of the issues—Where the only error urged is the amount of damages, a new trial may be awarded on that issue alone (124-421, 145+173). Appeal and Error, §1140\(1\), 1178\(3\).

Where, in an action for personal injuries, the errors at the trial affected only the matter of damages, and not the question of liability, a new trial may be ordered as to the matter of damages alone (133-192, 158+46). New Trial, §9.

In granting a new trial it may in a proper case be limited to a part of the issues; and where the only error of the trial court was the exclusion of evidence as to certain distinct claims, a new trial may be granted as to such claims, without disturbing the verdict in other respects (131-389, 155+391). Appeal and Error, §1172\(3\).

Where, in a contest over the right of a mortgagor to receive the rents and profits during the period of redemption, the only finding of the trial court was that the mortgagor had received one quarterly payment of such rent, the supreme court, on affirming the right of the mortgagor to such rents and profits, cannot enter judgment for the rents of the remaining three quarters, but will remand the cause for a new trial on the question as to the amount that the mortgagor is entitled to recover (135-443, 161+165). Mortgages, §491.

New trials granted when—A reversal on the ground that the findings of fact are not supported by the evidence is not a direction to the trial court to change its findings without a further trial. Where a judgment is reversed on the ground that the findings of fact are not sustained by the evidence, and new findings are necessary to support any judgment subsequently rendered, a new trial follows as of course, where the reversal is without specific direction as to new trial (129-380, 152+774). Appeal and Error, *§*1210(1).

On reversal and remand without directions as to a new trial, a new trial follows in the court below as a matter of course (134-471, 153+908). Appeal and Error, *§*1210(1).

Where the supreme court determines that the statute of limitations has run against appellants' claim of title, unless they are under disability, a matter not shown by the record, judgment will not be directed for appellee, but new trial will be ordered (122-235, 142+198). Appeal and Error, *§*836.

Where material facts found by the trial court are not supported by the evidence, and the record contains evidence which might support the finding of other material facts, a new trial will be ordered (132-417, 157+645). Appeal and Error, *§*1001(3).

Where, on appeal from an order denying a new trial, the order is reversed without any express statement as to a new trial or limitation as to the issues to be retried, there must be a new trial of all the issues, and the opinion of the appellate court cannot be resorted to, to establish the claim that it was intended to grant a new trial as to certain issues only (134-5, 153+704). Appeal and Error, *§*1210(1).

Newly discovered evidence arising after appeal—The supreme court has jurisdiction to remand a case, to enable appellant to renew his motion for a new trial for newly discovered evidence arising since the appeal. In determining whether a motion to remand, to enable appellant to renew his motion for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence arising since the appeal, shall be granted, the court is limited to an inquiry whether the showing made is such that the moving party should have the opportunity to present his motion to the trial court, and the appellate court will not consider the merits (132-475, 157+498). Appeal and Error, *§*1106(4).

Judgments affirmed—Motion for affirmance granted, where appellant delayed for an unreasonable time to file his printed briefs and record (see 135-464, 160+663). Appeal and Error, *§*773(4), 818.

A plaintiff, whose action is erroneously dismissed, will not be awarded a new trial in order to give him merely nominal damages (134-209, 153+979). Appeal and Error, *§*1169(2), 1171(6).

Where, pending appeal in injunction proceedings, the period of time for which injunction is sought expires, judgment will be affirmed (121-523, 141+97). Appeal and Error, *§*1138.

Though the evidence is not conclusive in support of the findings, the judgment must be affirmed, where the evidence reasonably tends to support the findings (132-476, 157+590). Appeal and Error, *§*1010(1).

Moot questions—Dismissal of appeal on question involved becoming moot (141+1134). Appeal and Error, *§*781(1).

Equally divided court—Equally divided court (121-254, 141+115). Appeal and Error, *§*1123.

7998. Judgment notwithstanding verdict or disagreement and discharge of jury—When, at the close of the testimony, any party to the action moves the court to direct a verdict in his favor, and such motion is denied, upon a subsequent motion that judgment be entered notwithstanding the verdict, or notwithstanding the jury has disagreed and been discharged, the court shall grant the same if the moving party was entitled to such directed verdict. An order for judgment notwithstanding the verdict may also be made on a motion in the alternative form asking therefor, or, if the same be denied, for a new trial. If the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict be denied, the supreme court, on appeal from the judgment, may order judgment to be entered, when it appears from the testimony that a verdict should have been so directed at the trial; and it may also so order, on appeal from the whole order denying such motion when made in the alternative form, whether a new trial was granted or denied by such order. (Amended '17 c. 24 § 1)

126-491, 148+304; 129-530, 152+1102.

Motion for directed verdict—The provision of this section abolishing directed verdicts does not apply to equitable actions in which the court has ordered the submission of specific issues to the jury (129-59, 151+532). Trial, *§*171.

The provision of this section that a directed verdict shall not be given if the adverse party objects does not deprive the courts of their constitutional power to determine whether a cause of action or defense has been made out, but merely regulates or postpones the exercise of the power (129-4, 151+412). Trial, *§*171.

Arguing the merits of a motion for a directed verdict does not waive the provisions of this section, but remaining silent after the court has stated its understanding that objection has been waived precludes a claim of the benefit of the statute (129-4, 151+412). Trial, *§*181.

Where there is an objection to an instructed verdict under this section, the objecting party is not required to request the submission of particular issues. While such request may be made, the trial court will, without a request, submit such issues as are presented by the pleadings and evidence, as the court deems proper (128-465, 151+182). Trial, *§*255(1).

This section does not deprive the court of the power to strike out immaterial evidence, nor require it to submit to the jury questions having no bearing upon the outcome of the suit. Where the court states the case, and explains the rules of law applicable, and permits the jury to return such verdict as they may deem proper under the circumstances, the court has fully performed the duty imposed upon it by the statute (127-262, 149+370, L. R. A. 1915B, 1121). Trial, see 89, 253(10).

Whether this section applies to dismissals at the close of plaintiff's case, quere (127-369, 149+541).

Motion for judgment—A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict does not bar a subsequent motion for a new trial (134-292, 157+499). New Trial, see 10.

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict can be granted only when a motion for a directed verdict was made at the trial, and a motion to dismiss an appeal from probate court is not equivalent to such motion (124-191, 144+941). Judgment, see 190(5, 6).

Where defendant moves for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, but makes no motion for a new trial, the only questions for consideration on appeal are whether the trial court had jurisdiction and whether there is any competent evidence tending to sustain the verdict (134-245, 158+975). Appeal and Error, see 863.

Motion under this section does not answer the purposes of a motion for new trial in presenting questions for review on appeal (128-514, 151+419, L. R. A. 1915D, 1077; 129-25, 151+421). Appeal and Error, see 289, 292; New Trial, see 10.

The trial court may entertain a motion for a new trial after the decision upon an appeal from a judgment; there having been a motion for a judgment notwithstanding the verdict, but no motion for a new trial (134-292, 157+499). Appeal and Error, see 1202.

Application in the appellate court for judgment under this section must be denied after the cause has been remitted to the lower court (130-520, 152+866).

When judgment should be ordered—Where the evidence is conflicting, it is error to grant judgment notwithstanding the verdict (130-52, 153+133). Judgment, see 190(1).

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict will only be granted when the evidence is conclusive against the verdict (131-313, 155+202). Carriers, see 320(28); Judgment, see 199(3).

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict will not be ordered, where it appears probable from the record that the defendant has a good defense and can supply the defects in the evidence on another trial (133-230, 158+253). Judgment, see 190(3).

A motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict should be granted only where it clearly appears that the cause of action sought to be established does not in point of substance constitute a right of recovery (133-167, 157+1090). Judgment, see 199(1).

That the cause of action arose under the federal employers' liability act did not deprive the state court to direct entry of judgment notwithstanding the verdict (133-460, 157+638). Judgment, see 199(1).

Judgment notwithstanding the verdict cannot be ordered merely because the evidence is such that, had the trial court granted a new trial, this court would have sustained its action. Evidence as to negligence in the construction or maintenance of a bridge by which a child was injured held not to warrant an order for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (126-33, 147+710). Judgment, see 199(3).

Where pails of hot tar used by a street-repairing gang which traveled from place to place to make repairs in the asphalt pavement were usually carried on a special fire wagon or swung under the wagons, the fact that a pail was by some unknown cause placed in a wagon in which the men rode, so that plaintiff, one of such laborers, inadvertently put his foot therein and was injured, presented no more than a question of the negligence of the foreman of defendant city, and, under this section, it was error to direct a verdict for plaintiff (130-280, 153+516). Master and Servant, see 286(3); Trial, see 181.

Where the trial court submits a case to the jury on a ground of negligence which does not show liability, but the pleadings and evidence make a case on grounds not submitted, a new trial, and not final judgment, is the remedy. Defendant in a negligence case is not entitled to judgment notwithstanding the verdict, where it appears probable that plaintiff has a good cause of action and that defects in evidence may be supplied on the trial (133-301, 158+430). Judgment, see 199(1).

In an action by an employé for injuries, judgment directed for defendant notwithstanding the verdict, for the reason that the finding of negligence by the jury is not sustained by the evidence (131-34, 154+616). Master and Servant, see 278(17), 279(5).

On the evidence in a boundary dispute, held, that the supreme court, on reversing the judgment for insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict, would not order judgment notwithstanding the verdict (124-233, 144+758). Appeal and Error, see 1177(8).

Evidence in ejectment held to warrant direction of judgment notwithstanding verdict (122-184, 142+155). Landlord and Tenant, see 76(3).

Evidence held to justify granting new trial and denying judgment notwithstanding verdict (121-431, 141+806). Judgment, see 199(1).

Judgment held properly rendered in action for injury to property by fire set out by locomotive (121-439, 141+523).

Verdict exonerating superintendent held not inconsistent with verdict against employer (121-388, 141+488). Master and Servant, see 297.

Where the pleadings and evidence show a substantial right of action, judgment notwithstanding the verdict will not be granted for defects in the evidence, when it appears from the record that such defects may be supplied on another trial (129-432, 152+840). Judgment, see 190(1).

A servant held to have conclusively assumed the risk of injury, so that judgment notwithstanding verdict in his favor would be ordered (128-479, 151+183).

The parents of an intestate, suing for his wrongful death, held to have proved pecuniary loss, so that defendant was not entitled to judgment notwithstanding the verdict for plaintiffs (128-332, 150+1088). Death, ¶77.

In an action for injuries to an employé, evidence held not to warrant judgment notwithstanding the verdict (128-270, 150+919).

In an action by a servant for injuries, held, that the evidence was not such as to require judgment notwithstanding the verdict (128-239, 150+784).

In an action on a benefit certificate, evidence on the issue of payment of dues held not to warrant judgment notwithstanding verdict for plaintiff (125-72, 145+798).

Evidence held to establish probable cause for a criminal prosecution, so that a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was properly overruled (126-128, 147+1093). Malicious Prosecution, ¶64(2).

In an action for wrongful discharge of a servant, held, on the evidence, that it was improper to render judgment notwithstanding the verdict for plaintiff (127-117, 149+8). Judgment, ¶199(3).

In an action by an employé for injuries, defendant held not entitled to judgment notwithstanding the verdict on the ground that the evidence failed to show that plaintiff was acting within the scope of his employment or that contributory negligence conclusively appeared (126-203, 148+113). Judgment, ¶199(3).

To warrant judgment notwithstanding the verdict on the ground of contributory negligence of plaintiff's intestate, the evidence must conclusively establish a state of facts from which no other reasonable inference can be drawn, except that of contributory negligence; it not being sufficient that the verdict is manifestly against the preponderance of the evidence (132-307, 156+346). Death, ¶58(1); Judgment, ¶199(3).

Evidence held insufficient to warrant judgment notwithstanding the verdict (133-73, 157+993).

Whether judgment notwithstanding a verdict against defendant master and in favor of defendant servant in an action for injuries resulting from the negligence of the latter, should be awarded, quære (131-313, 155+202).

Appealability of order on motion—This section, as amended by 1915 c. 31, does not repeal § 8001 subd. 4, and hence, where plaintiff had a verdict, and defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was denied, but a new trial, not exclusively for errors occurring at the trial, was granted, defendant could not appeal from the whole order (132-84, 155+1053). Appeal and Error, ¶110.

An order denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict is not appealable in the absence of a motion for a new trial (132-467, 155+1039). Appeal and Error, ¶109.

An order denying judgment notwithstanding the verdict, but granting motion for new trial, on the ground that the verdict was not sustained by the evidence, is not appealable (125-297, 146+875). Appeal and Error, ¶110.

The supreme court has jurisdiction of an appeal from an order denying a new trial after affirmance on a former appeal of a judgment entered on a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, without motion for new trial (134-292, 157+499). Appeal and Error, ¶110, 1202.

Disposal on appeal—Failure to submit a case to the jury as required by this section, where it clearly appears that such submission could not have changed the result, is error without prejudice (130-111, 153+259). Appeal and Error, ¶1081(4).

Where the judge who tried the case was required by this section (1913 c. 245) to submit the case to the jury, and he retired from the bench without opportunity for review, and the judge who signed the order denying a new trial was without the usual opportunity for review, the judgment will be reversed and a new trial granted (130-277, 153+736).

On appeal from a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial, whether the verdict can be sustained must be determined, not by considering the evidence opposed to it, but by considering whether there is any evidence fairly tending to support it (133-467, 158+417). Appeal and Error, ¶863.

7999. Dismissal of appeal in vacation—

Moot question (see 129-535, 152+654). Appeal and Error, ¶781(1).

8000. Appeal, when taken—

Admission of due service of notice of appeal does not give validity to an appeal attempted to be taken after the time limited by this section (135-23, 160+80). Appeal and Error, ¶355.

After the expiration of six months from entry of judgment no appeal lies from an order made before judgment denying a motion for a new trial, though no notice of the entry of the order was given (135-23, 160+80). Appeal and Error, ¶339(6).

After affirmance of a judgment on appeal without a motion for new trial, and after the lapse of six months, a motion for a new trial on the grounds of insufficiency of the evidence and errors occurring at the trial will not lie (134-292, 159+623). New Trial, ¶4.

Thanksgiving Day not being a legal holiday, where the time for perfecting appeal expires on that day, an appeal perfected on the following day will be dismissed (129-522, 151+273). Time, ¶10(2).

Wrong citation; should be 7490 (133-124, 155+906).

Subd. 1—Appeal will not lie from an order denying a motion for judgment; the proper remedy being an appeal from the judgment (126-13, 147+668). Appeal and Error, ¶337(2).

In a divorce suit, defendant may appeal from an adverse judgment, though her attorney has received the attorney's fee allowed him by the court, and charged against plaintiff, and has satisfied the judgment to that extent (129-531, 152+269). Divorce, §178.

A party aggrieved by a judgment dissolving a corporation and distributing its assets may appeal from the part of the judgment which dissolves the corporation, though he has accepted his part of the assets under the distribution, and is estopped to question that part of the decree (134-148, 156+780). Appeal and Error, §161, 884.

Waiver of right to appeal from judgment granting relief to both parties by acceptance of benefits (see 130-281, 153+756). Appeal and Error, §161.

An appeal lies from a judgment involving only costs and disbursements, where these accrued before the cause of action was settled, were excluded from the settlement, and are not trifling in amount (124-361, 145+114). Appeal and Error, §119.

Subd. 2—Review of discretion of trial court in allowing or refusal of temporary injunction (see 130-510, 153+1088). Appeal and Error, §954\(2\).

In an action on a beneficiary certificate, denial of defendant's application for an injunction restraining the prosecution of the action until a prior suit in equity, brought by defendant against the insured in his lifetime, to cancel the certificate, had proceeded to judgment, was appealable (132-422, 157+646). Appeal and Error, §1001\(1\).

The discretion of the trial court in refusing a temporary restraining order will not be disturbed on appeal, the evidence being evenly balanced (123-231, 143+728). Appeal and Error, §954\(3\).

Review where evidence is conflicting as to right to dissolution of temporary injunction (123-391, 151+139). Appeal and Error, §954\(3\).

Subd. 3—An order of the district court denying a motion to dismiss certiorari proceedings instituted to review the action of the county commissioners in apportioning school funds under § 2696 does not involve the merits and is not appealable (129-300, 152+541). Certiorari, §70\(1\).

Subd. 4—An order granting a new trial is not appealable, unless it appears therefrom, or from the memorandum attached thereto, that it is granted exclusively on the ground of errors of law occurring at the trial (128-488, 151+139). Appeal and Error, §110.

The trial court's discretion in awarding a new trial will not be disturbed on appeal, where the evidence is not manifestly and palpably in favor of the verdict (123-530, 143+1123). Appeal and Error, §979\(2\).

An order denying judgment notwithstanding the verdict, but awarding a new trial on the ground that the verdict was not justified by the evidence, and a subsequent order amending the former order, "so as to read that the court erred in denying the motion of defendant to dismiss the action of the plaintiff at the close of the plaintiff's testimony for the reason that there was no evidence sufficient to sustain the claim made by the plaintiff," held not to show that the order granting a new trial was based exclusively on errors occurring at the trial, so as to support an appeal under this subdivision (134-266, 159+564). Appeal and Error, §110.

1915 c. 31 does not repeal this subdivision, and hence, where plaintiff had a verdict, and defendant's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was denied, but a new trial was granted, not for errors occurring on the trial, defendant was not entitled to appeal from the whole order (132-84, 156+1063). Appeal and Error, §110.

The supreme court cannot interfere with an order granting a new trial unless the evidence is manifestly in favor of the verdict (122-523, 141+812). Appeal and Error, §979\(2\).

Review of discretion in granting new trial (122-118, 142+10). Appeal and Error, §979\(2\).

Under this subdivision the sufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict is not reviewable on the plaintiff's appeal from an order granting defendant a new trial (134-192, 158+967). Appeal and Error, §854\(6\), 867(4).

On plaintiff's appeal from an order denying a new trial the defendant cannot have reviewed an appealable order adverse to it made upon its motion to set aside the service of the summons for want of personal jurisdiction (131-122, 154+945). Appeal and Error, §878\(2\).

A motion in an action of claim and delivery to "vacate and set aside the action" was in effect a motion to dismiss, and an order denying the same was not appealable (132-473, 157+114). Appeal and Error, §105.

This section, as amended by 1913 c. 474, does not contemplate certification of questions to the supreme court, but merely saves the right of appeal from an order overruling a demurrer upon the conditions prescribed thereby; the case being reviewable the same as prior to the amendment (125-325, 146+1110). Appeal and Error, §308.

Subd. 6—Whether an appeal will lie from an order denying a new trial to an intervener in garnishment from an adverse verdict on a special issue submitted to a jury to be used by the court in the ultimate determination of the controversy, upon which no judgment was or could have been rendered held questionable (131-224, 154+1078).

Subd. 7—134-473, 159+129.

An order requiring defendants, the officers of a village, to levy a special assessment to pay for paving, following a judgment restraining the doing of the work without levying a certain percentage of the cost on property benefited, from which judgment no appeal was taken, is appealable as a final order affecting a substantial right (161+1055).

An order modifying a judgment after it had been entered and satisfied of record affects a substantial right, and is appealable (128-321, 150+180). Appeal and Error, §113\(1\).

An appeal from an order denying a new trial held to have been seasonably taken, the order of the district court directing a dismissal of the appeal from an order of consolidation not being a final order (122-383, 142+723). Schools and School Districts, §39.

Who is aggrieved party—A foreign administrator, who has no right to sue for wrongful death in the state of his appointment, nor in the state where the injury occurred, and consequently not in this state, is not aggrieved by an order in such suit brought by him for the benefit of the next of kin denying his motion to substitute the next of kin as parties plaintiff (126-31, 147+667). Appeal and Error, §151\(2\).

A receiver in proceedings to enforce the liability of stockholders of an insolvent corporation has no interest in the disallowance of claims against the insolvent, nor in an order granting a rehearing, and cannot appeal from such an order as a party aggrieved (134-376, 159+826). Appeal and Error, §150\(3\).

The creditor, upon whose complaint a proceeding to enforce the liability of stockholders of an insolvent corporation is founded, has no interest in an order disallowing claims of other creditors, and cannot appeal from such disallowance as a party aggrieved (134-376, 159+826). Appeal and Error, §150\(6\).

A party whose motion for new trial has been granted is not aggrieved by the order, and rulings on the trial adverse to him cannot be reviewed on his cross-appeal (127-106, 149+3, L. R. A. 1915B, 287). Appeal and Error, §882\(1\).

Orders held appealable in general—An order vacating an order of dismissal and reinstating the case is appealable (134-261, 159+272). Appeal and Error, §113\(4\); Dismissal and Nonsuit, §81\(2\).

An order, made on motion of plaintiff, after death of defendant, substituting appellants as parties defendant, is appealable (131-365, 155+396). Appeal and Error, §95, 128.

An order permitting plaintiff to prosecute his action to final determination, that defendants be permitted to serve an answer within 20 days, that plaintiff may serve a reply, and that the action may be placed on the calendar for trial at the next term, is not appealable (161+783). Appeal and Error, §73\(1\).

Orders held not appealable in general—No appeal lies to the supreme court from an order made by a court commissioner (131-129, 154+748). Appeal and Error, §30.

From an order imposing punishment for a civil contempt an appeal lies, but no provision has been made for an appeal from an order punishing for criminal contempt. The two forms of contempt defined, and held, in the present case, that the contempt was criminal, and appeal would not lie (128-153, 150+383). Contempt, §3, 66(2).

An order of the district court transferring a cause to the federal district court upon petition and bond filed by a foreign corporation is not appealable; the proper remedy being a motion to remand presented in the federal court (128-77, 150+224, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 1047). Removal of Causes, §89\(3\).

An appeal does not lie from an order denying a judgment non obstante veredicto (128-10, 150+169). Appeal and Error, §109.

An order made before judgment denying an application to file a supplemental complaint is not appealable (129-536, 152+653). Appeal and Error, §103.

A second appeal from an order granting a new trial, based on a motion to vacate the order granting the new trial, filed and denied after affirmance of the original order, will not be entertained (129-528, 152+270). Appeal and Error, §1097\(1\).

An order made before trial, denying an application for leave to serve and file a supplemental answer, is not appealable (130-534, 153+306). Appeal and Error, §103.

An order denying a motion for such judgment as the moving party may be entitled to on the files, records, and pleadings, including the decision of this court on appeal, is not appealable (132-413, 157+591). Appeal and Error, §118.

Orders concerning blended motions—Where alternative motion for amended findings, refusal of which is not appealable, or for new trial, order refusing which is appealable, is made, order denying both motions is appealable (162+522). Appeal and Error, §110.

An order based on an alternative motion denying judgment, but granting a new trial, on the ground that the verdict was not sustained by the evidence, is not an appealable order. The former rule of the court sustaining the right of appeal from such orders was abrogated by 1913 c. 474 (125-297, 146+975). Appeal and Error, §110.

An order denying a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and granting a motion for a new trial is not appealable (129-530, 152+1102). Appeal and Error, §109.

Where court, after denying motion for judgment, granted a new trial on its own motions, but without a statement in the order from a memorandum that the new trial was based exclusively upon errors occurring at the trial, the order was not appealable (129-528, 151+1101). Appeal and Error, §110.

8002. Bond or deposit for costs—

No order of the court is necessary to enable a party to make a deposit in lieu of an appeal bond (134-148, 156+780). Appeal and Error, §388.

A deposit made under this section does not stay proceedings on the judgment (134-148, 156+780). Appeal and Error, §472.

8003. Appeal from order—Supersedeas—

A deposit in lieu of an appeal bond, given under § 8002, does not stay proceedings on the judgment (134-148, 156+780). Appeal and Error, §472.

An appeal under § 8311 from an order denying a writ of habeas corpus and remanding the prisoner does not, in view of this section, stay issuance of commitment upon the conviction (123-84, 142+1051). Habeas Corpus, §113\(8\).

Appellant may by agreement of the parties, give a common-law bond to pay all judgments which may be rendered against them in the action. The bond in this case held a common-law bond. Such a bond must be supported by a valid consideration, and an agreement to stay proceedings and forbear entering judgment is a sufficient consideration (123-218, 143+355). Appeal and Error, ¶1223.

Evidence held to show that an agreement was made between the parties to an action to the effect that appellant should give a common-law bond (123-218, 143+355). Appeal and Error, ¶1246.

Where the bond on appeal, though in form a supersedeas, was not approved, it did not stay proceedings, and the trial court had power to dismiss the action for want of prosecution (135-474, 159+1067). Appeal and Error, ¶452, 470.

An appeal from a nonappealable order and a supersedeas thereon do not deprive the district court of jurisdiction to proceed further in the case (128-10, 150+169). Appeal and Error, ¶436.

8014. Death of respondent—Substitution—

Upon suggestion in the supreme court of the death of a party a hearing of the appeal will not be had without a substitution. If the death occurred before commencement of the action, the proper practice is to move to dismiss the appeal. Respondents are not entitled to a remand in order that proof may be made in the trial court of the death of the party (132-400, 157+648). Appeal and Error, ¶334(1), 780(1), 1106(4).

8015. Death of party after submission of appeal—

132-400, 157+648; note under § 8014.

ACTIONS RELATING TO REAL PROPERTY

GENERAL PROVISIONS

8025. Notice of lis pendens—

The defendant, not claiming ownership of the land included in a highway, an obstruction in which plaintiff seeks to abate, and who is not an abutting owner, and who has no interest in the highway, except as a member of the general public, cannot move for a cancellation of a lis pendens improperly filed by plaintiff. A lis pendens filed in an action not of an authorized class, may be canceled on motion, and an action brought to abate a nuisance consisting of the obstruction of a public highway and recover damages, is not of such class (123-342, 143+911). Lis Pendens, ¶3(1), 20.

8026. Notice of no personal claim—

Failure to publish notice of lis pendens required by § 8061 was not cured by the publication, in connection with the summons, of a notice of no personal claim under this section, where such notice did not contain the information required by § 8061 (123-199, 143+361). Quieting Title, ¶31.

8027. Transfer of title by judgment—

Jurisdiction of the person is not essential to the operation of this section (123-431, 144+138, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1061). Judgment, ¶807.

The courts of the state may determine plaintiff's interest in real estate within the state, as against his nonresident partner, served by publication, though a partnership accounting is necessary (123-431, 144+138, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1061). Partnership, ¶323.

An intestate's estate, having been reduced to personality, the probate court had jurisdiction to determine the rights of a child, claiming under a common-law adoption of her mother, therein, and to award to such child the share to which she was entitled under a contract of the mother with the adopting parents (124-85, 144+455). Descent and Distribution, ¶71(1).

ACTIONS FOR PARTITION

8028. Action for partition or sale, who may bring—

The grantee in a deed from a tenant in common granting the absolute right for a period of five years to take and remove all the sand he might wish and find use for, with the right of entry for such purpose, the value of which right was alleged to be $1,500, did not have an "estate of inheritance * * * or for years" within this section (129-276, 152+534). Partition, ¶16.

A cotenant has a right to compel partition, actual or by sale, unless he has waived such right by agreement. An agreement between cotenants as to possession of the common property held not to prevent partition (128-207, 150+798, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 925). Partition, ¶14, 22.

8031. Judgment for partition—Referees—

128-207, 150+798, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 925. Partition, ¶22.

Where a tenant in common has given a mortgage on his undivided interest, he cannot, in a partition suit, base error upon the action of the court in shifting the mortgage to the portion allotted to him (135-134, 160+496). Partition, ¶88.

Where a permanent improvement has been erected by one cotenant with the consent of the others, the court in partition, where a division is practicable, may award that portion of the land on which the improvement is to the one who erected it, without taking its value into consideration, if no injustice results to the other cotenants; but, if a sale is necessary, the court may determine in what amount the present value of the whole is enhanced by the improvement, and direct that the amount so determined be paid to the cotenant making the improvement. The relation of landlord and tenant held not to have existed between cotenants, so that an improvement placed on the premises by the alleged lessee tenant with the consent of the other would accrue to the cotenant claimed to have occupied the position of landlord (135-134, 160+496). Partition, ¶85.

8033. Duty of referees—Report—Expenses—

The referees are not required to make and report findings of evidentiary facts. A partition reported and concurred in by two of the referees is binding on approval by the court (133-49, 157+908). Partition, ¶94(1).

The report has the effect of a verdict, and, when confirmed, will not be disturbed on appeal on the ground of error of judgment by the referees unless manifestly inequitable (133-49, 157+908). Appeal and Error, ¶1022(1).

8037. Costs apportioned—

Costs and disbursements under this section may be apportioned among the parties in the district court, but this rule is not applicable to an appeal to the supreme court, since that is an adversary proceeding; and hence a party who did not prevail on appeal as to the real issue cannot complain of the action of the appellate court in making an equal apportionment of the costs of that court (135-134, 160+496). Partition, ¶114(1).

On reversal of a judgment denying partition the costs on appeal are to be taxed to the unsuccessful party and are not expenses under this section (128-539, 151+1102). Partition, ¶114(1).

8038. Compensation for equality—

In partition, evidence as to payment of taxes, in the absence of objection at the time to its character, held to support the court's finding as to amounts due from different parties for taxes (162+463). Partition, ¶63(3).

8041. Sale ordered, when—

128-207, 150+798, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 925; note under § 8028.

A lot 25 feet wide occupied by a business building held not capable of division, and a sale ordered (135-134, 160+496). Partition, ¶63(3).

8042. Liens—New parties—No sale, when—

8043. Proceeds, how applied—

Mode of adjusting rights of cotenants to improvement erected by one cotenant with consent of others (see 135-134, 160+496). Partition, ¶85. See, also, note under § 8031, ante.

ACTIONS TO TRY TITLE8060. Action to determine adverse claims—

126-218, 148+273; note under § 2168.

Title and proof—Plaintiff claiming under tax title cannot prevail by merely showing that defendant has no title (121-339, 141+293). Taxation, ¶793.

A finding of the trial court that a defendant never had any interest in the land in controversy held sustained by the evidence (130-365, 153+861). Quieting Title, ¶44(3).

Enforcement of lien for taxes paid where plaintiff's tax title fails (see 135-186, 160+490). Taxation, ¶814(4).

129-237, 152+405. Boundaries, ¶3(1), 37(3).

Conclusiveness of judgment—Where evidence that plaintiffs were the equitable owners of the land involved in an action to determine adverse claims was excluded as not within the issues, a judgment for defendant did not bar plaintiffs from asserting their equitable rights in a subsequent action (126-1, 147+662, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 589). Judgment, ¶590(4).

Judgment in action to quiet title, in which validity of redemption from mortgage foreclosure is determined, held not an adjudication of the mortgagor's right to rents and royalties under a mining lease of the land during the period of redemption (135-443, 161+165). Judgment, ¶721.

Conclusiveness and effect of judgment as to parties and their privies (see 130-397, 153+758, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 157). Judgment, ¶678(1), 682(1), 713(2).

Pendency of registration proceedings—Pendency of proceeding to register title as ground of abatement of action under this section (see 127-416, 149+735). Abatement and Revival, ¶7.

8061. Unknown defendants—

Where the heirs of a record owner were made defendants under a designation "unknown persons," failure to publish the notice required by this section was fatal to the jurisdiction of the court as to such heirs, and the judgment against them was void. Failure to publish the notice was not cured by the publication, in connection with the summons, of a notice of no personal claim under § 8026, where such notice did not by itself contain all the information required by this section (123-199, 143+361). Quieting Title, ¶31.

8062. Disclaimer—Default—Costs—

In an action to determine adverse claims, where defendant answered claiming title absolute, the court properly allowed costs to plaintiff, though under § 2168 the lien was decreed defendant as holder of the tax certificate (126-218, 148+273). Taxation, ¶818.

8066. Ejectment, etc.—Trial, how conducted—No second trial—

This section, prior to its amendment, was not applicable to equitable actions for the determination of title in which a counterclaim in ejectment was interposed, but was dismissed prior to trial (122-158, 142+150). New Trial, ¶178(1).

Where a purchaser of land, by a contract under which he is not entitled to possession until payment of the price and execution of a deed to him at a time stated, fails to make the payment, the vendor may maintain ejectment to recover possession of the land from such purchaser (127-238, 149+287). Ejectment, ¶9(3), 17.

8075. Occupant not in actual possession—Actions in other form—

Action for use and occupation does not lie against a mere trespasser (123-447, 143+1128). Use and Occupation, ¶1.

8077. Mortgagee not entitled to possession—

One acquiring the right of a mortgagee in possession does not lose the same by being temporarily or involuntarily dispossessed (122-235, 142+198). Mortgages, ¶191.

Under this section the mortgagor is entitled to the full usufruct of the mortgaged land until his rights are barred by foreclosure and expiration of the period of redemption, and this applies to rents and royalties under a mining lease; and this right cannot be contracted away by stipulation in the mortgage, and cannot be affected by a sale by the sheriff under advertisement of the rents and profits (135-443, 161+165). Mortgages, ¶199(1, 2).

A judgment for plaintiffs, in an action by creditors who have redeemed from a mortgage foreclosure sale, quieting title to the land and to a mining lease thereof, determining their redemption valid and determining a later redemption invalid, is not an adjudication of their right to recover rents or royalties that accrued during the year allowed for redemption (135-443, 161+165). Judgment, ¶721.

8078. Conveyance by mortgagor to mortgagee—

Parol evidence admissible; sufficiency of evidence (128-398, 151+132). Mortgages, ¶32(6), 38(3).

8081. Notice to terminate contract of sale—When default is made in the conditions of any contract for the conveyance of real estate or any interest therein, whereby the vendor has a right to terminate the same, he may do so by serving upon the purchaser, his personal representatives or assigns, either within or without the state, a notice specifying the conditions in which default has been made, and stating that such contract will terminate thirty days after the service of such notice unless prior thereto the purchaser shall comply with such conditions and pay the costs of service. Such notice must be given notwithstanding any provisions in the contract to the contrary, and shall be served within the state in the same manner as a summons in the district court; without the state, in the same manner, and without securing any sheriff's return of not found, making any preliminary affidavit, mailing a copy of said notice or doing any other preliminary act or thing whatsoever. Service of said notice without the state may be proved by the affidavit of the person making the same, made before an authorized officer having a seal, and within the state by such an affidavit or by the return of the sheriff of any county therein.

Provided, however, that three weeks' published notice, and the personal service of a copy of said notice within ten days after the first publication of said notice, and in like manner as the service of a summons in a civil action in the district court upon the person in possession of the premises described in said contract, if the same are actually occupied, shall have the same effect as the personal service of said notice upon said purchaser, his personal representatives or assigns, either within or without the state as herein provided for; and provided further, that in case of such service by publication as herein provided, the said notice shall specify the conditions in which default has been made and shall state that such contract will terminate ninety days after the service of such notice, unless prior thereto the purchaser shall comply with such conditions and pay the costs of service, and the purchaser, his personal representatives or assigns, shall be allowed ninety days from and after the service of such notice to comply with the conditions of such contract.

If within the time mentioned the person served complies with such conditions and pays the costs of service, the contract shall be thereby reinstated; but otherwise shall terminate. A copy of the notice with proof of service thereof, and the affidavit of the vendor, his agent or attorney, showing that the purchaser has not complied with the terms of the notice, may be recorded with the register of deeds, and shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated; but this act shall in no case be held to apply to contracts for the sale or conveyance of lands situated in another state or in a foreign country. (Amended '15 c. 200 § 1)

In general—A writing held not an option contract, but one for the sale of land, which could not be canceled, except by service of the statutory notice (125-447, 147-442). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶18(4).

As to what law governs a contract for the sale of land located in Washington, but which is executed and is to be performed in Minnesota, determined. A contract to sell land located in Washington may be a Minnesota contract, so that its cancellation will be governed by this section (126-72, 147-948). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶47.

Injunction will lie to restrain foreclosure under this section during the pendency of an action by the vendee to rescind for fraud of the vendor (132-384, 157-587). Injunction, ¶4.

Termination of rights—This section provides the exclusive method by which a vendor may terminate the rights of the vendee, but it does not relieve the vendee from the effect of an abandonment which the vendor elects to treat as such and in which he acquiesces. The facts held to show an abandonment by the vendee and acquiescence by the vendor (132-346, 157-589). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶86, 101.

Notwithstanding this section, a purchaser may, by his acts, be held to have abandoned his contract (161-587). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶86.

Acts constituting breach warranting cancellation (see 126-72, 147-948). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶95(2), 99.

Notice—The parties to a contract for the sale of land may stipulate as to the character of notice which may be given to cancel the contract under this section (126-72, 147-948). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶101.

Where the vendor has given the statutory notice, and the time for payment has expired, the vendee cannot reinstate the contract by thereafter electing to apply his claim for damages in discharge of the installments due under his contract (127-89, 148-895). Vendor and Purchaser, ¶105.

MISCELLANEOUS ACTIONS

8085. Nuisance defined—Action—

Cited (126-95, 147-953).

What is a nuisance—An open ditch maintained by a village, in which filth and sewage is permitted to collect, which, with the surface water, is allowed to be discharged on plaintiff's land, is a nuisance within this section (132-121, 155-1067, L. R. A. 1916D, 426). Municipal Corporations, ¶846.

Barns, located in a residence district, in which a large number of horses are stabled, though not per se a nuisance, may become such because of offensive and disagreeable odors and noise coming therefrom to the substantial detriment and discomfort of adjacent property owners, though such barns are not negligently cared for (131-346, 155-390). Nuisance, ¶3(4).

Where a railroad embankment constitutes a continuing nuisance by ponding water at rain falls, it may be abated by injunction (126-470, 148-311, L. R. A. 1916E, 977). Injunction, ¶48.

Lantern placed at excavation in street as nuisance attractive to children (see 161-503). Negligence, ¶39.

Operation of railroad as nuisance (125-224, 146-353, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1017). Railroads, ¶222(2).

Private actions—Who may sue—A private action cannot be maintained to abate a public nuisance, unless the injury to plaintiff is peculiar to himself, and not an injury common to himself and the general public (123-323, 143-910). Nuisance, ¶72.

Applying the rule stated in the last paragraph, plaintiff held not entitled to maintain a private action for the obstruction of a highway leading from another highway to a public lake (123-323, 143-910). Highways, ¶155.

Recovery may be had under Const. art. 1 § 13, for a private nuisance erected by a railroad company under authority of a statute, irrespective of the question of negligence in construction and irrespective of reasonableness and necessity of the structure from a public standpoint (161-501). Eminent Domain, ¶69; Railroads, ¶113(12).

8090. Trespass—Treble damages—

It is error to exclude evidence that the cutting of timber by defendant's servants was casual or involuntary, where there was a general denial in the answer, though the answer admitted that some timber was cut without lawful authority, there being no averment therein that such cutting was with defendant's knowledge or consent (127-360, 149+461). Trespass, § 45(3), 61.

A willful trespass on land, committed by a servant within the scope of his employment, warrants treble damages under this section, though the act was without the master's knowledge or consent (127-360, 149+461). Master and Servant, § 302(4).

8095. Action to determine boundary lines—

Order laying out cartway not evidence of boundary (121-468, 141+788). Boundaries, § 35(1).

The maintenance of a fence for upwards of ten years held not to conclude adjoining owners as to the boundary line (126-206, 148+115). Boundaries, § 46(1).

In construing a deed with inconsistent description, preference is given to the part most likely to express the intention of the parties and as to which there is least likelihood of mistake. The reference to a county road as a boundary is held to prevail over courses and distances and figures as to the quantity of land conveyed (124-331, 144+1089). Boundaries, § 3(4); Deeds, § 93, 111.

If doubt exists as to the meaning of a deed, reference may be had to the circumstances connected with its execution, in determining the intent of the parties as to a boundary line (124-331, 144+1089). Deeds, § 100.

Evidence held to sustain findings of the trial court that there was a practical location of a boundary line (125-365, 147+241). Boundaries, § 37(3).

Evidence held to justify finding of a practical location of a boundary line (129-9, 151+273). Boundaries, § 37(3).

Evidence, in a boundary dispute, held insufficient to support verdict for plaintiff (124-233, 144+758). Adverse Possession, § 114(2); Boundaries, § 37(3).

8097. Judgment—Landmarks—

Evidence as to and establishment of lost government corner (125-258, 146+1106). Boundaries, § 6, 37(3).

FORECLOSURE OF MORTGAGES

BY ADVERTISEMENT

8107. Limitation—

A mortgage not containing a power of sale cannot be foreclosed under this section (128-256, 150+899). Mortgages, § 331.

[8110—]1. Defective assignments—Curative—In every case where a mortgage heretofore made has been assigned in writing and said assignment is defective in that it incorrectly refers to the book or page or both book and page wherein said mortgage is recorded in the office of the register of deeds for the county wherein the land affected thereby is situated and where any said mortgage so assigned has been heretofore foreclosed according to law, by advertisement or otherwise, all said assignments and all said foreclosures of mortgages where so assigned, shall be and the same are hereby made valid and declared to be valid and sufficient for all purposes and of the same force and effect in all respects the same as if said assignment of said mortgage had correctly referred to the book or page or both book and page, wherein said mortgage was recorded in said register of deeds office. Provided, that this act shall not affect any proceeding now pending in any of the courts of this state. ('17 c. 250 § 1)

8111. Notice of sale—Service on occupant—

The occupancy requiring notice must be substantial and suited to an appropriate use of the property possessed. Notice should be served on the person in possession, though his occupancy is without authority or license (130-520, 153+997). Mortgages, § 353.

Evidence held to present a question for the jury where there was such occupancy of the mortgaged land at the time of foreclosure as to require service of notice of sale (130-520, 153+997). Mortgages, §369(6).

[8118—]1. Defective notice—Curative—All mortgage foreclosures upon real estate situated in this state, heretofore made by advertisement where the notice of sale as published gives the month incorrectly in the dating of such notice, but the sale was duly and regularly made at the time and place specified and appointed in such notice, as shown by the sheriff's certificate of such sale, together with the record of such sale, shall be sufficient for all purposes as against such erroneous date and the foreclosure based thereon together with the record thereof shall not be affected by reason thereof. ('15 c. 123 § 1)

[8118—]2. Same—Pending actions—The provisions of this act shall not affect any action now pending in any court of this state. ('15 c. 123 § 2)

[8126—]1. Defective power—Curative—Where any real estate mortgage has heretofore been foreclosed by advertisement in this state, by a resident guardian, and all the requirements of law in relation to such foreclosure have been had and taken, pursuant to law, except that the power of attorney therein authorizing an attorney to foreclose such mortgage was executed by a resident guardian, such foreclosures are hereby validated and declared to be valid and sufficient for all purposes. Provided, however, that this act shall not affect any action at law or in equity now pending in any of the courts of this state, affecting any such foreclosure or foreclosure sale. ('15 c. 109 § 1)

[8135—]1. Certain foreclosure sales legalized—Every mortgage foreclosure sale by advertisement heretofore made in this state under a power of sale in the usual form contained in any mortgage executed under the laws of the State of Minnesota, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county in this state, is together with the record of such sale, hereby legalized and made valid and effective to all intents and purposes as against the following objections, viz:

1. That the hour, book or page of the record of said mortgage or any assignment thereof in the office of the register of deeds is incorrectly stated in the notice of sale or in any of the foreclosure papers, affidavits or instruments;

2. That the date of the mortgage or any assignment thereof, or the date of the filing for record or either, is incorrectly stated in the notice of sale or in any of the foreclosure papers, affidavits or instruments;

3. That the notice of sale was served upon the occupant of the mortgaged premises by leaving a copy thereof with a member of the family of said occupant of suitable age and discretion then resident upon said premises, but who at the time of such service was not upon said premises;

4. That the power of attorney to foreclose the same, provided for by Section 8119 of the General Statutes of Minnesota for 1913, had not been executed and recorded prior to such foreclosure sale, but has since been executed and recorded prior to the passage of this act;

5. That the acknowledgment upon the power of attorney to foreclose such mortgage was taken and certified by a notary public who was also one of the attorneys named in such power of attorney to foreclose such mortgage;

6. That the sheriff's certificate of sale and the affidavit of costs and disbursements of the foreclosure, were not filed in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county within the time required by law, but have been filed and recorded in said register of deeds' office before the passage of this act;

7. That the power of attorney authorizing an attorney to foreclose any such mortgage was made and executed by a person, persons, co-partnership or corporation, their successors or assigns, being at the time of the execution of said power of attorney the owner and holder of said mortgage, but not being at said time the record owner thereof;

8. That the foreclosure sale notice stated a sale day falling on a legal holiday, and said foreclosure sale was held by the sheriff or his deputy of the proper county on a legal holiday;

9. That the mortgage foreclosed or the record thereof is defective by reason of having no witnesses, or only one witness, or has no scroll for a seal, or has a defective certificate of acknowledgment, or has no certificate of acknowledgment;

10. That the power of attorney provided by Chapter 262, General Laws 1897, Section 4461, Revised Laws 1905, and Section 8119 General Statutes 1913, has not been executed and recorded as provided by law, and a written instrument of ratification signed and acknowledged by the party owning and foreclosing such mortgage, ratifying all acts done by the attorney or attorneys conducting such foreclosure, and stating therein that such foreclosure was authorized by such owner, and the same recorded prior to September 1, 1915, in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such foreclosure was held. ('15 c. 306 § 1)

1. That the date of the mortgage, or of any assignment thereof, or the day, hour, book or page of the record of the mortgage, or of any assignment thereof, in the office of the register of deeds, is incorrectly stated in the notice of sale, or in any of the foreclosure papers, affidavits or instruments.

2. That the notice of sale was served upon the occupant of the mortgaged premises by leaving a copy thereof with a member of the family of said occupant, of suitable age and discretion, then residing upon said premises, but who, at the time of such service, was not upon said premises.

3. That the power of attorney to foreclose said mortgage provided for by section 8119, General Statutes of Minnesota, 1913, had not been executed and recorded prior to such foreclosure sale as provided by law, or had been executed prior to such foreclosure sale but not recorded until after such sale.

4. That the acknowledgment upon the power of attorney to foreclose such mortgage was taken and certified by a notary public who was also one of the attorneys named in such power of attorney to foreclose such mortgage.

5. That the sheriff's certificate of foreclosure sale and the affidavit of costs and disbursements of the foreclosure, or either, were not filed in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county within the time required by law, but have since been filed and recorded in such register of deeds office before the passage of this act.

6. That the foreclosure sale notice stated a date of sale falling on a legal holiday, and said foreclosure sale was held by the sheriff of the proper county on a legal holiday.

7. That the mortgage foreclosed, or the record thereof, is defective, by reason of having no witnesses, or only one witness, or has no scroll for a seal, or has a defective certificate of acknowledgment, or has no certificate of acknowledgment.

8. That the power of attorney provided for by section 8119 General Statutes of Minnesota, 1913, has not been executed and recorded as provided by law, and an original instrument of ratification, signed and acknowledged by the party owning and foreclosing such mortgage, ratifying all acts done by the attorney, or attorneys conducting such foreclosure, and stating therein that such foreclosure was authorized by such owner, and same shall be recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county, prior to September 1, 1917.

9. That the notice of the mortgage foreclosure sale was published only five or more successive weeks. ('17 c. 186 § 1)

8143. Action to set aside for certain defects, etc.—

Cited (122-235, 142+198).

This section is not unconstitutional, as against one in possession prior to its enactment, on the ground that one in possession cannot constitutionally be required by an after-enacted statute to bring an action or interpose a defense against an adverse claimant, unless such one in possession claims under the chain of title affected by the foreclosure (130-520, 153+997). Mortgages, ¶330.

8144. Action to set aside, etc.—Limitation—

A foreclosure sale, of record and fair on its face, is not open to attack upon any ground after 15 years (122-235, 142+198). Mortgages, ¶369(5).

8146. Redemption by mortgagor—

Though a foreclosure by advertisement was void because the mortgage contained no power of sale, where the purchaser at the sale, and his grantees, went into possession, and were permitted to remain in possession for more than five years by the mortgagor who had notice of the invalidity of the foreclosure, such mortgagor was estopped to redeem (128-255, 150+899). Mortgages, ¶597.

The mortgagor, during the period of redemption, is entitled to receive the rents and royalties from the land under a mining lease, and such right is not affected by a stipulation in the mortgage, or by the act of the sheriff in selling, under the advertisement, the rents and profits of the land (135-443, 161+165). Mortgages, ¶199(1, 2).

Judgment in action to quiet title and determining validity of redemption held not an adjudication of the right of the mortgagor to rents and royalties under a mining lease during the period of redemption (135-443, 161+165). Judgment, ¶721.

8147. Redemption by creditor—

A judgment creditor, whose judgment is irregular, has no right to redeem; but if the foreclosure purchaser receives and appropriates the redemption money, he cannot question the right of redemption. The certificate holder may rescind his acceptance of redemption money paid to him by a judgment creditor and assail the right of such creditor to redeem if the acceptance of the money was induced by fraud or mistake. Such certificate holder was not obliged to recognize the validity of the judgment, though he was not a party to the action from which it arose. But where such action was pending at the time of redemption, the certificate holder was chargeable with notice of facts affecting the validity of the judgment, and where he accepted the money without inquiry he could not assert that his acceptance was induced by fraud or mistake (129-312, 152+728). Mortgages, ¶594(2), 624(4).

A widow, in her own right and as administratrix of her husband, and a first mortgagee, held entitled to maintain an action to restrain a second mortgagee, whose mortgage was given without consideration, from redeeming from a foreclosure sale under the first mortgage, made at the request of the widow, to cut out the second mortgagee, who refused to execute a release (124-176, 144+761). Mortgages, ¶594(1, 6).

A second mortgage held, on the evidence, to be without consideration, so that the mortgagee had no right to redeem from the foreclosure of a prior mortgage (124-176, 144+761). Mortgages, ¶25(1).

8150. Effect of redemption—

A judgment creditor, whose judgment is irregular, may, on redemption from a foreclosure sale, acquire the rights of an assignee under this section, where the foreclosure purchaser receives and appropriates the redemption money, and there is not present in the transaction fraud inducing the acceptance of the money affording a right to rescind such acceptance (129-312, 152+728). Mortgages, ¶624(4).

BY ACTION

8152. By what rules governed—

An adverse title paramount to the mortgage cannot, over objection, be litigated in a foreclosure action (135-254, 160+776). Mortgages, ¶476, 586.

8154. Judgment—Transcript to sheriff—

Conclusiveness and collateral attack on judgment adjudicating adverse title paramount to mortgage (see 135-254, 160+776). Judgment, ¶479.

[8159—]1. Certificate dated prior to order confirming sale—Curative—In every foreclosure of mortgage heretofore made by action where the sheriff's certificate of sale was dated not more than ten days prior to the date of the order of the court confirming the report of such foreclosure sale, as provided by Section 4493 of the Revised Laws of Minnesota for 1905 [8159], such foreclosure sale if otherwise regular, shall be, and hereby is, declared to be valid and sufficient for all purposes and shall not be affected in any manner, by reason of the failure to have the order confirming the report of such foreclosure sale made and issued prior to the execution of the sheriff's certificate of such foreclosure sale. ('15 c. 156 § 1)

[8159—]2. Same—Pending actions—This act shall not affect any action at law or at equity now pending. ('15 c. 156 § 2)

[8159—]3. Failure to record within 20 days—Curative—That in all mortgage foreclosure sales by action, wherein heretofore the report of sale has been confirmed by order filed in the action, and the certificate of sale was thereafter executed in proper form and recorded more than twenty days after such confirmation, such certificate, and the record thereof, are hereby legalized with the same effect as if such certificate had been executed, acknowledged and recorded within such twenty days, provided that the provisions of this act shall not apply to or affect any action now pending involving the validity of such sale. ('17 c. 33 § 1)

8167. Redemption by mortgagor, creditor, etc.—

A tender by a judgment debtor, before arrival of the time for redemption by a judgment creditor, though after filing of intention to redeem by such creditor, cuts off the creditor's right to redeem, though the debtor does not bring suit to redeem and deposit the money tendered into court. No one in the line of redemptioners, nor an intermeddler, may, by tender of payment of a judgment, impair or destroy a judgment creditor's right to use the judgment to effect redemption (127-37, 148+1066, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 527). Mortgages, ¶596.

After the expiration of the year for redemption by the mortgagor, such mortgagor has no interest entitling him to question the right of redemption as between persons entitled to redeem thereafter. Such mortgagor's right to have the land applied to the payment of debts which were liens thereon depended entirely upon the lienholders making redemption in strict conformity with the statute (127-37, 148+1066, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 527). Mortgages, ¶591(1).

A judgment creditor, whose right to redeem appears on the face of the record, but whose right has in fact been extinguished by a tender of the payment of the judgment, acquires title as against the purchaser at the mortgage foreclosure sale, where the latter accepts the redemption money with knowledge of the tender (127-37, 148+1066, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 527). Mortgages, ¶624(4).

The legal title, though not vesting in the purchaser at a mortgage foreclosure during the period of redemption, relates back as of the date of the mortgage, and after the title vests the rights of the purchaser against prior covenants are the same as if the premises had been conveyed to him at the date of mortgage (126-14, 147+670). Covenants, ¶80.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

8172. Foreclosure or execution sale—Taxes, insurance and interest—

An assignee of a mortgage, who purchased at foreclosure sale, and within the year for redemption paid taxes to avoid the penalty, but without filing the affidavit required by this section, were nevertheless, on the mortgagors' redeeming, subrogated to the lien of the taxes in equity; the failure to file the affidavit being through inadvertence, and the mortgage stipulating that the mortgagee might pay the taxes and charge the amount to the mortgagors (127-124, 149+16). Mortgages, ¶604; Taxation, ¶531(2).

[8173—]1. Receiver on foreclosure of certain urban leaseholds—On the commencement of proceedings to foreclose, either by action or advertisement, any mortgage on a leasehold estate of more than three years covering urban property, or at any time after such commencement until the expiration of the period of redemption, the owner of any such mortgage or the purchaser at the foreclosure sale (as the case may be) may apply to the district court for the appointment of a receiver to take immediate possession of the mortgaged premises and to hold, maintain and operate the same and collect the rents and income therefrom, and apply the same in the manner hereinafter specified. The application for such receiver may be included in an action to foreclose the mortgage or may be by separate action, and if by separate action the only necessary party defendant shall be the owner of the mortgaged leasehold at the time of the commencement of the action. ('15 c. 305 § 1)

[8173—]2. Same—When and how appointed—The court shall appoint the receiver on a showing that default has been made in any of the conditions of said mortgage, without any further evidence and without regard to the solvency or insolvency of the person liable for the debt secured by said mortgage. The appointment shall be made without notice on a showing to the court that the danger of termination or forfeiture of the leasehold estate covered by said mortgage is imminent or that waste of the same is being committed, or that the owner of said leasehold cannot be found within the state. The mortgagee may be appointed receiver in the discretion of the court. ('15 c. 305 § 2)

[8173—]4. Same—Powers of—After filing the bond above mentioned the receiver shall enter into possession of the mortgaged premises and collect all the rents and income therefrom, and shall apply the same to the payment of the expenses of the receivership and to the payment of all sums of money necessary or proper to preserve and protect said leasehold estate, and to maintain and operate the mortgaged premises, and shall pay the surplus (if any) to the owner of the mortgaged leasehold at the termination of the receivership. The receiver may make any or all such payments on his own motion or may make the same in pursuance of an order of the court. Said expenses shall include reasonable attorneys' fees and receiver's fees to be fixed by the court. ('15 c. 305 § 4)

[8173—]6. Same—Not to limit other remedies—The provisions of this act shall in no manner detract from or limit the rights and remedies of the mortgagor or mortgagee respectively now or hereafter provided by law. ('15 c. 305 § 6)

ACTIONS BY OR AGAINST PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVES AND HEIRS

8174. What causes of action survive—

131-365, 155+396; notes under § 7685.

An action to restrain obstruction of a roadway, in which the issue was as to whether the road was a public one by virtue of an agreement relating to the opening of the way and acts done in pursuance of such agreement, affects interests in land and does not abate on the death of a party (133-128, 156+7). Abatement and Revival, ¶58(2).

8175. Action for death by wrongful act—

Complaint in an action for wrongful death held to show negligence on the part of defendant railroad company in leaving a car standing without brakes being set so that it was propelled against decedent without notice or warning (126-133, 147+964). Master and Servant, ¶258(13).

Defenses—As to a deceased wife, for whose death recovery is sought for the benefit of the husband and children, the evidence held that intestate was not guilty of contributory negligence as matter of law, barring recovery for fatal injuries received in a collision of an automobile driven by her husband, in which she was riding, with defendant's automobile (161+715). Highways, ¶213(4).

Contributory negligence of decedent (129-206, 152+137). Death, ¶23.

Imputation to deceased wife of negligence of her husband in driving an automobile in which decedent was riding when she received fatal injuries in a collision with defendant's automobile (see 161+715). Negligence, ¶93(2).

The contributory negligence of one of several beneficiaries is not a bar to all recovery under this section, and where no apportionment or reduction to the extent of his interest is asked for, full recovery will be allowed (161+715). Negligence, §89\(1\).

Who may sue—A special administrator, appointed in this state, may sue for the wrongful death in this state of his intestate, a nonresident (129-279, 152+413). Attorney and Client, §174.

A verdict for $5,000, reduced by the trial court to $3,500, for death of a boy of 14, held not excessive (134-451, 159+1076, L. R. A. 1917B, 548). Death, §99\(3\).

A verdict for $4,585 for death of a farmer 61 years of age, who left a daughter 13 and a son 20 years of age, and four married sons and daughters, is not excessive, as children not presently dependent may be taken into account in assessment of damages (135-37, 159+1087). Death, §99\(4\).

$7,500 for death of a yard employé of a railroad company, who was strong and healthy, earned from $90 to $100 per month, 32 years of age, and leaving a wife, but no children, held excessive, and reduced to $5,000 (127-381, 149+660). Death, §99\(4\).

Whether plaintiff's intestate was rightfully in defendant's building when a fire occurred therein which caused her death, so that she would have had the same cause of action that the tenants would have had, was a question for a jury (126-144, 148+108). Landlord and Tenant, §109\(11\).

A boy of 7 killed at a railroad crossing, held not conclusively shown to have been guilty of contributory negligence (125-137, 145+804). Railroads, §350\(14\).

8182. Heirs and devisees—When liable—

An action may be maintained under this act without first presenting the claim to the probate court, where the sole property inherited by defendants is a homestead, and the debt is for labor performed by a servant which is excepted by Const. art. 1 § 12, from the operation of the homestead exemption statute, there having been no order limiting the time for filing claims in the probate court, and § 7320 providing that such order need not be made where the only property of the estate is a homestead (161+413). Descent and Distribution, ¶140.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

PART 1

8195. Injury or death of employé—Liability of employer—Compensation by action at law—Modification of remedies—

128-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412; note under § 8202.

Construction and application—This act is remedial, and must be given a liberal construction (128-43, 150+211; 131-352, 155+103). Master and Servant, ¶348.

An injury may be received in the course of the employment, and still have no causal connection with it, so that it can be said to arise out of the employment (129-176, 151+912). Master and Servant, ¶371.

A teamster, while driving his employer's team on a street in the discharge of his duties, and who was killed by the falling of iron beams being hoisted to the top of a building in course of construction, is subject to this act, the accident being one arising out of and in the course of his employment (134-113, 158+913). Master and Servant, ¶354, 375(1).

A student elevator operator, though not possessing a license under § 1432, was an employé within the compensation act at the time of his injury, which occurred two weeks after he started with his employment, and while he was operating the elevator alone during the absence of his instructor (133-109, 157+995). Evidence, ¶67(1); Master and Servant, ¶361, 366, 405(2).

Injury to a bartender caused by being struck by a glass hurled by a patron of the saloon, who was so drunk that he did not know the nature of his act was one arising out of the employment of the bartender, so as to entitle him to compensation (134-16, 158+713, L. R. A. 1916F, 957). Master and Servant, ¶373.

A workman employed in this state, while working in Wisconsin, where he receives an injury, is subject to the compensation act of Wisconsin, the provisions of which had been accepted by the employer (128-158, 150+620). Master and Servant, ¶86.

Constitutionality—This act is not unconstitutional, in that it deprives the parties of a jury trial, that it deprives the employer of his property without due process of law, that it encroaches on the judiciary, or that it impairs the obligation of contracts of employment entered into before the act took effect (128-221, 150+623). Constitutional Law, ¶80(1). 146, 301, 329.

The workmen's compensation act of Wisconsin held not unconstitutional (128-158, 150+620).

Evidence—Evidence held to sustain findings that death of an employé stricken with paralysis while wheeling wheelbarrow, was caused by rupture of a blood vessel caused by his muscular strain and exertion (162+678). Master and Servant, ¶405(4).

Where a boy of 17 in previous good health dropped dead at the moment of contact with an electric wire while he was working on a wet cement floor, the circumstances sustained a finding of an accidental and not a natural death (134-324, 159+755). Master and Servant, ¶405(4).

Evidence as to intoxication of an employé at the time of an accident held to present a question of fact, the finding on which was conclusive on the appellate court (128-221, 150+623).

Bar to recovery—An action by the representatives of a deceased employé against the master for wrongful death, in which judgment for defendant was rendered on a demurrer to the complaint, for the reason that plaintiff's remedy was under this act, does not involve the same issues as are presented by a proceeding under this act, and the judgment is not res judicata or a bar to the compensation proceedings (161+388). Judgment, ¶572(2).

[8195—]1. Amendment to title of act—The title of Chapter 467, G. L. 1913 [8195-8230] is hereby amended to read as follows:

An Act prescribing the liability of an employer to make compensation by way of damages for injuries due to accident received by an employé arising out of and in the course of employment, modifying common law and statutory remedies, in such cases; establishing an alternative elective schedule of compensation, regulating procedure for the determination of liability and compensation thereunder in certain cases, and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof. ('15 c. 209 § 1)

PART 2. ELECTIVE COMPENSATION

8202. Not applicable to certain employments—This Act shall not be construed or held to apply to any common carrier by steam railroad, domestic servants, farm laborers or persons whose employment at the time of the injury is casual, and not in the usual course of the trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer. (Amended '15 c. 193 § 1)

Construction and application—This act is general in its terms, and applies to all cases within the territorial jurisdiction of the state save those expressly excepted. Those arising from interstate commerce by water are not excepted; and the territorial sovereignty of the state extends to a vessel of the state, though it is upon navigable waters (132-328, 156+669, L. R. A. 1916D, 935). States, ¶12(1).

Casual employment and usual course of business—An employé of a city injured while loading gravel used by the city for repairing its streets was entitled to compensation under the act, though the employment was casual, the work being in the usual course of the city's business (131-352, 155+103). Master and Servant, ¶362.

Where a servant was injured while returning from a business trip for his employer by the usually traveled way, he was within the scope of his employment, though he had deviated from such course while going to the place to which he was sent. Evidence held to support a finding that decedent was in the employ of defendant at the time of the accident, though he had resigned on the preceding day (128-221, 150+623). Master and Servant, ¶375(1).

Constitutionality—This act, in its application to a state vessel on navigable waters is not invalid as an interference with interstate commerce, since Congress has not legislated on the subject (132-328, 156+669, L. R. A. 1916D, 935). Commerce, ¶8(8).

By virtue of § 9 of the federal judiciary act, saving to suitors the right of a common-law remedy, a person injured on a state vessel in a navigable water may either proceed in admiralty in the federal courts, or by action in personam in the state courts; and it is within the power of the state to modify its common-law rules of liability; and hence the workmen's compensation act is applicable to such case, and, as so applied, is not an interference with interstate commerce (132-328, 156+669, L. R. A. 1916D, 935). Master and Servant, ¶347.

The excluding of certain classes of employes does not render the act unconstitutional, as class legislation, and the placing of employers who accept the provisions of the act within the operation of part 2, while those who do not accept are not given the benefit thereof, does not render the act invalid (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶208(7).

8203. Agreement to be subject to provisions of part 2—

The driver of an ice wagon, required to deliver ice at all times irrespective of weather conditions, who was killed by lightning which struck a tree toward which he was walking to seek protection from a downpour of rain, or in the performance of his work of soliciting orders, suffered an accident "arising out of" his employment within this section (129-502, 153+119, L. R. A. 1916A, 344). Master and Servant, ¶375(1).

An employé's death from rupture of blood vessel due to muscular strain and exertion was an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment within this section (162+678). Master and Servant, ¶376(1).

8204. Surrender of other rights—

A settlement by which the employer is released does not operate as a release of any claim for malpractice which the employé might have against the physician who treated him (132-128, 155+1077, L. R. A. 1916D, 644). Master and Servant, ¶354.

8205. Presumption as to acceptance of provisions of part 2—Election not to accept—Notices—

An employé accepts the provisions of the act until he makes an election not to accept it (127-399, 149+662). Master and Servant, ¶369.

That a corporation employer was designated by various names, and not by its true name, by the witnesses on the trial of an action against a third person for wrongful death of the employé, held not sufficient to overcome the presumption raised by this section that the deceased and his employer were subject to the workmen's compensation act (134-113, 158+913). Master and Servant, ~~§~~403, 405(3).

An employé who fails to give the notice of nonacceptance must be deemed to be subject to the act. So held in an action under the Wisconsin compensation act (128-158, 150+620). Master and Servant, ~~§~~358.

A workman, injured in Wisconsin, held not permitted to plead ignorance of the compensation act of that state to avoid its operation in his case (128-158, 150+620). Master and Servant, ~~§~~369.

8206. Termination of acceptance of election—Notice—Agreement—Either party may terminate his acceptance, or his election not to accept of the provisions of Part 2 by thirty (30) days' written notice to the other, such notice to be given as provided in Section 11 [8205]. A duplicate of such notice with proof of service attached thereto shall be filed with the labor commissioner and the time shall not begin to run until the notice is so filed. ('13 c. 467 § 12, amended '15 c. 209 § 2)

Under the proviso of this section, an employé's election, made within 30 days after October 1st, is effective at once, notwithstanding the clauses of this section and § 8205 relative to 30 days' notice; and an employé injured on October 15, 1913, perfecting his election not to be bound by the act on October 29, 1913, is, until that date, bound by the act, and cannot maintain a common-law action for his injury (127-399, 149+662). Master and Servant, ~~§~~359.

[8206—]1. Minors—Minors who are permitted to work by the laws of this state shall, for the purposes of Part 2 of this act, have the same power to contract, make election of remedy, make settlements, and receive compensation as adult employes; subject, however, to the power of the court, in its discretion, at any time to require the appointment of a guardian to make such settlement and to receive moneys thereunder or under an award. ('13 c. 467, amended '15 c. 209 § 3)

1915 c. 209 § 3 adds a new section to 1913 c. 467, to be known as section 12A, as above set forth.

8207. Schedule of compensation—Following is the schedule of compensation; (a) For injury producing temporary total disability sixty per centum of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of twelve ($12.00) dollars per week and a minimum of six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week; provided, that if at the time of injury the employé receives wages of less than six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, then he shall receive the full amount of such wages per week. This compensation shall be paid during the period of such disability, not, however, beyond three hundred weeks. Payments to be made at the intervals when the wage was payable, as nearly as may be.

(b) In all cases of temporary partial disability the compensation shall be sixty per cent of the difference between the wage of the workman at the time of the injury, and the wage he is able to earn in his partially disabled condition. This compensation shall be paid during the period of such disability, not, however, beyond three hundred weeks, payment to be made at the intervals when the wage was payable as nearly as may be and subject to the same maximum as stated in clause (a).

(c) For the permanent partial disability, the compensation shall be based upon the extent of such disability. In cases included by the following schedule the compensation shall be that named in the schedule, to-wit:

For the loss of a first finger, commonly called index finger, sixty per centum of daily wages during thirty-five (35) weeks.

For the loss of a fourth finger, commonly called little finger, sixty per centum of daily wages during fifteen (15) weeks.

For the loss of the first phalange of the thumb, or of any finger, shall be considered equal to the loss of one-half of such thumb, or finger, and compensation shall be paid at the prescribed rate during one-half the time specified above for such thumb or finger.

The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire finger or thumb; provided, however, that in no case shall the amount received for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand.

For the loss of a great toe, sixty per centum of daily wages during thirty (30) weeks.

For the loss of one of the toes other than a great toe, sixty per centum of daily wages during ten (10) weeks.

The loss of the first phalange of any toe shall be considered to be equal to the loss of one-half of such toe, and compensation shall be paid at the prescribed rate during one-half the time specified above for such toe.

The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire toe.

For the loss of a hand, sixty per centum of daily wages during one hundred and fifty (150) weeks.

For the loss of an arm, fifty per centum of daily wages during two hundred (200) weeks.

For the loss of a foot, sixty per centum of daily wages during one hundred and twenty-five (125) weeks.

For the loss of a leg, sixty per centum of daily wages during one hundred and seventy-five (175) weeks.

For the loss of an eye, sixty per centum of daily wages during one hundred (100) weeks.

For the complete permanent loss of hearing in both ears, sixty per centum of daily wages during one hundred and fifty-six (156) weeks.

For the loss of one arm and one foot, sixty per centum of the daily wages during four hundred (400) weeks.

For the loss of one arm and one leg, sixty per centum of the daily wages during four hundred (400) weeks.

Where an employee sustains concurrent injuries resulting in concurrent disabilities, he shall receive compensation only for the injury which produced the longest period of disability; but this section shall not affect liability for the concurrent loss of more than one member, for which members compensations are provided in the specific schedule and in sub-section (e) below.

In all cases of permanent partial disability, it shall be considered that the permanent loss of the use of member shall be equivalent to and draw the same compensation as the loss of that member; but the compensation in and by said schedule provided, shall be in lieu of all other compensation in such cases.

In cases of permanent partial disability due to injury to a member, resulting in less than total loss of such member not otherwise compensated in this schedule, compensation shall be paid at the prescribed rate during that part of the time specified in the schedule for the total loss of the respective member, which the extent of injury to the member bears to its total loss.

All compensations provided in clause (c) of this section for loss of members, or loss of use of members are subject to the same limitations as to maximum and minimum as are stated in clause (a).

In all other cases of permanent partial disability not above enumerated the compensation shall be sixty per centum of the difference between the wage of the workman at the time of the injury and the wage he is able to earn in his partially disabled condition, subject to a maximum of twelve dollars ($12.00) per week. Compensation shall continue during disability not, however, beyond three hundred (300) weeks.

(d) For permanent total disability as defined in sub-section (e), below, sixty per centum of the wages received at the time of the injury, subject to a maximum compensation of twelve ($12.00) dollars per week and a minimum compensation of six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, provided, that if at the time of injury the employee was receiving wages of less than six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, then he shall receive the full amount of his wages per week. This compensation shall be paid during such permanent total disability, not exceeding five hundred and fifty (550) weeks; but in all such cases drawing more compensation than six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, the payments after the first four hundred (400) weeks, shall be reduced to six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week for the remainder for the five hundred and fifty (550) weeks, while the permanent total disability continues; payment to be made at the intervals when the wage was payable as nearly as may be. The total amount of compensation payable under this sub-section shall not exceed five thousand ($5,000) dollars in any case. Provided, however, that in case an employee who is permanently and totally disabled, becomes an inmate of a public institution, then no compensation shall be payable unless he has wholly dependent on him for support a person or persons named in sub-sections (1), (2), and (3), of section 14, (whose dependency shall be determined as if the employee were deceased); in which case the compensation provided for in this sub-section shall be paid for the benefit of said persons so dependent, during dependency, in such institution.

(e) The total and permanent loss of the sight of both eyes or the loss of both arms at the shoulder, or complete and permanent paralysis, or total and permanent loss of mental faculties, or any other injury which totally incapacitates the employee from working at an occupation which brings him an income, shall constitute total disability.

(f) In case a workman sustains an injury due to accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, and during the period of disability caused thereby, death results proximately therefrom, all payments previously made as compensation for such injury shall be deducted from the compensation, if any, due on account of death. (Amended '15 c. 209 § 4; '17 c. 351 § 1)

What laws govern—As to a death occurring prior to the enactment of the amendment by 1915 c. 209, the prior law governs (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, §349.

Amount, how ascertained—The percentage of compensation is to be based on the salary of the employé which he actually receives, and it was improper to include as a part of such salary an amount paid to the employé by the employer to secure the services of an assistant (128-486, 151+182). Master and Servant, §384.

Several distinct injuries—Where employé suffers two distinct injuries, each entitling him to compensation under workmen's compensation act, payments should not run concurrently, when aggregate will exceed maximum weekly allowance prescribed by cl. (a) of this section, but should be made separately, one following the other (162+527). Master and Servant, §385(1).

Subd. (a)—Evidence held not to sustain a finding that claimant was totally disabled at the time of the hearing of his application for compensation (129-423, 152+838). Master and Servant, §385(15).

Subd. (c)—Employé, who had lost an eye prior to his employment, was entitled only to compensation as for permanent partial disability on loss of the other eye in the course of his employment (129-156, 151+910). Master and Servant, §385(9).

Where an employé's arm is injured, both above and below the elbow, it is improper to divide the injuries into two units, those of the hand and those of the arm, and award compensation for each (129-91, 151+530). Master and Servant, §385(2).

A fracture of the right heel bone, resulting in some difficulty and pain in walking, and a deformed condition of the foot, was a "permanent partial disability" under this section, as amended by 1915 c. 209, but was not the loss of a foot or a permanent loss of the use of such member, and allowance of compensation on the theory of the latter element was improper (161+391). Master and Servant, §385(14).

Subd. (d)—Injuries resulting in the total destruction of sight in the right eye, an impairment of vision to the extent of 95 per cent. in the left eye, which, however, with the aid of glasses, could, as to the left eye, be increased to about one-third normal, and other injuries which affected the head, so that claimant could not stoop or bend over without pain, warranted a finding of permanent total disability (133-439, 158+700). Master and Servant, §405(6).

Subd. (e)—Subd. (e) does not purport to set forth every injury which shall constitute permanent total disability (133-439, 158+700). Master and Servant, §405(6).

8208. Dependents and allowances—(1) Wife and children conclusively presumed wholly dependent—when, for the purposes of this act, the following described persons shall be conclusively presumed to be wholly dependent: (a) wife, unless it be shown that she was voluntarily living apart from her husband at the time of his injury or death, (b) minor children under the age of sixteen years.

(2) Prima facie presumption as to certain children—Children between sixteen and eighteen years of age, or those over eighteen, if physically or mentally incapacitated from earning, shall, prima facie, be considered dependent.

(3) Actual dependents, Wife, child, husband, mother, father, grandmother, grandfather, sister, brother, mother-in-law and father-in-law who were wholly supported by the deceased workman at the time of his death and for a reasonable period of time immediately prior thereto shall be considered his actual dependents, and payment of compensation shall be made to them in the order named.

(3A) Partial dependents. Any member of a class named in subdivision (3), who regularly derived part of his support from the wages of the deceased workman at the time of his death and for a reasonable period of time immediately prior thereto shall be considered his partial dependent, and payment of compensation shall be made to such dependents in the order named.

(4) In death cases, compensation payable to dependents shall be computed on the following basis and shall be paid to the persons entitled thereto, without administration.

(5) If the deceased employé leave a widow and no dependent child, there shall be paid to the widow, thirty-five per centum of the monthly wages of deceased.

(6) If the deceased employé leave a widow and one dependent child, there shall be paid to the widow for the benefit of herself and such child forty-five per centum of the monthly wages of deceased.

(7) If the deceased employé leave a widow and either two or three dependent children, there shall be paid to the widow for the benefit of herself and such children, fifty-five per centum of the monthly wages of deceased.

(8) If the deceased employé leave a widow and four or more dependent children, there shall be paid to the widow for the benefit of herself and such children, sixty per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased.

(8A) In all cases where compensation is payable to a widow for the benefit of herself and dependent child or children, the court shall have power to determine in its discretion what portion of the compensation shall be applied for the benefit of any such child or children and may order the same paid to a guardian.

(9) In case of re-marriage of a widow without children, she shall receive a lump sum settlement equal to one-half of the amount of the compensation remaining unpaid. This sum shall be paid to her within sixty (60) days after written notice to the employer of such re-marriage. In case of re-marriage of a widow who has dependent children, the unpaid balance of compensation which would otherwise become due to her, shall be paid to such children.

(10) If the deceased employé leave a dependent orphan, there shall be paid forty per centum of the monthly wages of deceased, with ten per centum additional for each additional orphan with a maximum of sixty per centum of such wages.

(11) If the deceased employé leave a dependent husband and no dependent child, there shall be paid to the husband twenty-five per centum of the monthly wages of deceased.

(12) If the deceased employé leave no widow or child or husband entitled to any payment hereunder, but should leave a parent or parents, either or both of whom are wholly dependent on the deceased, there shall be paid, if only one parent, thirty per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased, and if both parents, forty per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased to such parent or parents.

(13) If the deceased leave no widow or dependent child or husband or parent entitled to any payment hereunder, but leaves a grandparent, brother, sister, mother-in-law or father-in-law wholly dependent on him for support, there shall be paid to such dependent, if but one, twenty-five per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased, or if more than one, thirty per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased, divided between or among them share and share alike.

(14) If compensation is being paid under Part 2 of this act to any dependent, such compensation shall cease upon the death or marriage of such dependent, unless otherwise provided herein.

(15) Partial dependents—Partial dependents shall be entitled to receive only that proportion of the benefits provided for actual dependents which the average amount of the wages regularly contributed by the deceased to such partial dependent at, and for a reasonable time immediately prior to the injury, bore to the total income of the dependent during the same time.

(16) In all cases where death results to an employé caused by accident arising out of and in the course of employment, the employer shall pay in addition to the medical and hospital expenses provided for in Section 18, the expense of last sickness and burial, not exceeding in amount one hundred ($100.00) dollars, except, in cases where an insurer of the deceased or a benefit association is liable therefor, or for a part thereof; in which case the employer shall not be required to pay any part of such expense, for which such insurer or a benefit association is liable unless such non-payment by the employer would diminish the benefits received by the dependents of the deceased from any such insurer or benefit association. In case any dispute arises as to the reasonable value of the services rendered in connection with the last sickness and burial, the same shall be approved by the court before payment, after such reasonable notice to interested parties as the court shall require. If the deceased leave no dependents no compensation shall be payable except as provided by this subsection.

(17) Death compensation—The compensation payable in case of death to persons wholly dependent shall be subject to a maximum compensation of eleven ($11.00) dollars per week and a minimum of six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week; provided that if at the time of injury the employé receives wages of less than six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, then the compensation shall be the full amount of such wages per week. The compensation payable to partial dependents shall be subject to a maximum of eleven ($11.00) dollars per week and a minimum of six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week; provided that if the income loss of the said partial dependents by such death is less than six and one-half ($6.50) dollars per week, then the dependents shall receive the full amount of their income loss. This compensation shall be paid during dependency, not exceeding three hundred (300) weeks, payments to be made at the intervals when the wage was payable as nearly as may be.

(18) In computing and paying compensation to orphans or other children, in all cases, only those under eighteen years of age, or those over eighteen years of age who are physically or mentally incapacitated from earning, shall be included; the former to receive compensation only during the time they are under eighteen, the latter only for the time they are so incapacitated, within the period of three hundred (300) weeks.

(19) Actual dependents shall be entitled to take compensation in the order named in subsection (3) above, until fifty per centum of the monthly wages of the deceased during the time specified in subsection (17) shall have been exhausted; but the total compensation to be paid to all actual dependents of a deceased employé, shall not exceed in the aggregate eleven ($11.00) dollars per week. ('13 c. 467 § 14, amended '15 c. 209 § 5)

Nature of proceeding—The right of action to recover compensation for the death of an employé, given by this section, as amended by 1915 c. 209, is a new and distinct right of action created by the death (131-96, 154+661). Master and Servant, ¶346.

Subd. 1—134-131, 158+798; note under § 8208(3), post.

Subd. 2—134-131, 158+798; note under § 8208(3), post.

In determining compensation, it is immaterial that the dependent inherited from the estate of the employé. A widowed mother, without means, who is supported by her son, partly by his wages and partly by the yield of his land, is wholly dependent within this subdivision (131-27, 154+509). Master and Servant, ¶388.

Subd. 3—Cited (131-27, 154+509).

A widowed daughter, 30 years of age, though not physically or mentally incapacitated from earning money, deriving part of her support from her father is a partial dependent, and entitled to compensation, in view of the addition of the word "child" in the act as amended, notwithstanding the provisions of subds. 1, 2, and 18 of this section, and of subd. (c) of § 8230, post (134-131, 158+798). Master and Servant, ¶388.

Evidence held to warrant a finding of partial dependency (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶388.

Where a boy of 17 earned $7.50 per week, and gave it all to his parents, and lived with them, receiving his lodging, board, and clothing, and there was no other family income, except that his father earned $18 a week, the family consisting of the parents, the boy, and three sisters, the parents were partially dependent upon such boy, under this subdivision prior to its amendment in 1915 (134-324, 159+755). Master and Servant, ¶405(5).

A statement by the father, one of the partial dependents of a deceased son, that the son's wages were not enough to pay his board and clothing, was not conclusive of the rights of the partial dependents, where such statement was inconsistent with the other testimony (134-324, 159+755). Master and Servant, ¶405(6).

Subd. 3A—134-131, 158+798; note under § 8208(3), ante.

Subd. 9—This subdivision has no application to and does not include a child adopted by the widow after her husband's death (133-265, 158+250). Master and Servant, ¶388.

Subd. 12—Parents of decedent held, under the evidence, "wholly dependent" upon decedent for their support (128-338, 151+123). Master and Servant, ¶388.

The minimum compensation to a person wholly dependent on the deceased employé is $6 a week for 300 weeks (131-27, 154+509). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

Subd. 13—A partially dependent sister of a deceased workman is entitled to the minimum fixed by subd. 17 (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

Subd. 15—The monthly contributions of a workman to his mother should be considered as a part of her "total income" in determining the amount she is entitled to receive as a partial dependent (133-454, 158+792). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

A partially dependent sister of a deceased workman is entitled to the minimum fixed by subd. 17 (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

Subd. 17—Construing this subdivision with subd. 12, the minimum compensation to a person wholly dependent on the deceased employé is $6 a week for 300 weeks (131-27, 154+509). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

1915 c. 209, amending this section, does not apply to a death caused before the amendment took effect (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶348.

A partially dependent sister of a deceased workman is entitled to the minimum fixed by this subdivision (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

As to a death occurring prior to the amendment of 1915, the minimum compensation of $6 per week applies, and not $6.50, the minimum fixed by the amendatory act (134-324, 159+755). Master and Servant, ¶386(1).

8209. Injury increasing disability—

Where an employé, who had previously lost the sight of one eye, lost the other eye by accidental means entitling him to compensation, the employer was liable only for permanent partial disability (129-156, 151+910). Master and Servant, ¶385(9).

8211. Waiting period—In cases of temporary total or temporary partial disability no compensation shall be allowed for the first week after the injury was received, except as provided by section 18 [8212], nor in any case unless the employer has actual knowledge of the injury or is notified thereof within the period specified in section 19 [8213]. (Amended '15 c. 209 § 6; '17 c. 302 § 1)

The monthly contributions of a workman to his mother should be considered as a part of her "total income" in determining the amount she is entitled to recover as a partial dependent (133-454, 158+792). Master and Servant, ~~§~~386(1).

8212. Medical, and surgical treatment and supplies, etc.—Such medical and surgical treatment, medicine, medical and surgical supplies, crutches and apparatus as may be reasonably required at the time of the injury and thereafter during the disability, but not exceeding ninety (90) days, to cure and relieve from the effects of the injury, the same to be provided by the employer and in case of his inability or refusal seasonably to do so, the employer to be liable for the reasonable expense incurred by or on behalf of the employé in providing the same; provided, however, that the total liability under this section shall not exceed the sum of one hundred ($100.00) dollars in value; except that the court, may upon necessity being shown therefor at any time within one hundred (100) days after the date of the injury, require the employer to furnish such additional medical, surgical and hospital treatment and supplies during said period of ninety (90) days, as may be reasonable, which together with any such sums or relief theretofore furnished, shall not exceed in all two hundred dollars ($200.00) in value.

The pecuniary liability of the employer for the medical, surgical, and hospital service herein required and the liability of the employé for any amount in excess thereof shall be limited to such charges as prevail in the same community for similar treatment of injured persons of a like standard of living when such treatment is paid for by the injured persons, and in all cases of dispute as to the value of the medical or hospital service rendered an injured employé, either party may require that the same, before payment, shall be approved by the court, after such reasonable notice to interested parties as the court shall require. ('13 c. 467 § 18, amended '15 c. 209 § 7)

Under this section the trial court cannot, in the first instance, award more than $100 for medical services, in absence of an application for additional allowance (134-16, 158+713, L. R. A. 1916F, 957). Master and Servant, ~~§~~385(16).

8213. Notice of injury, etc.—

Where the employer has actual notice of the injury, written notice is not required; and where the mayor and street commissioner of a city had knowledge of injury to a city employé immediately after its occurrence, the city was chargeable with notice (131-352, 155+103). Master and Servant, ~~§~~398.

A finding of "actual notice" of the injury is equivalent to a finding of "actual knowledge" thereof (132-251, 156+278). Master and Servant, ~~§~~398.

Where the employer has actual knowledge of the happening of the accident and of the resulting injury, the giving of notice thereof is not necessary (129-423, 152+838). Master and Servant, ~~§~~398.

[8214—]1. Limitation of actions, etc.—The time within which the following acts shall be performed under Part 2 of this act shall be limited to the following periods respectively:

(1) Actions or proceedings by an injured employé to determine or recover compensation; one (1) year after the occurrence of the injury.

(2) Actions or proceedings by dependents to determine or recover compensation; one year after the date of notice in writing given by the employer to the Department of Labor of the state, stating his willingness to pay compensation when it is shown that the death is one for which compensation is payable. In case the deceased was a native of a foreign country, and leaves no known dependent or dependents within the United States, it shall be the duty of the department of labor to give written notice of said death to the consul or other representative of said foreign country forthwith.

(3) Proceedings to obtain judgment in case of default of employer for thirty (30) days to pay any compensation due under any settlement or determination; one (1) year after such default.

(4) In case of physical or mental incapacity, other than minority, of the injured person or his dependents to perform or cause to be performed any act required within the time in this section specified, the period of limitation in any such case shall be extended for one year from the date when such incapacity ceases. ('13 c. 467, amended '15 c. 209 § 8)

This section is not retrospective and does not affect accrued causes of action (134-21, 158+715). Limitation of Actions, ~~§~~ 8(1).

8215. Examination and verification of injury— * * *

(5) Any physician whose services are furnished or paid for by the employer who treats, or who makes or is present at any examination, of an injured employé, may be required to testify as to any knowledge acquired by him in the course of such treatment or examination, relative to the injury or the disability resulting therefrom. ('13 c. 467 § 21, amended '15 c. 209 § 9)

1915 c. 209 § 9 amends this section by adding a subsection, to be known as subsection 5, as above.

8216. Settlement and payment of compensation—Submission to judge of district court—(1) The interested parties shall have the right to settle all matters of compensation between themselves. But all settlements shall be substantially in accordance with the provisions of Sections 13 and 14 of this act [8207, 8208], and shall be approved by a judge of the district court. When so approved such settlements shall be filed with the clerk of the district court and in case of default by the employer in the payment of any compensation determined or agreed upon and the continuation of such default for the period of thirty (30) days after payment is due and payable, the employé may upon five (5) days' notice in writing to the employer of his intention to apply to the court for judgment, cause judgment to be entered on such settlement or determination for all compensation due and payable and unpaid; and such judgment shall have the same force and effect, and may be satisfied as other judgments of the same court. There shall be but one fee, of twenty-five cents (25c) charged by said clerk for services in each case under this subsection and said fee shall cover all services performed by him. * * * ('13 c. 467 § 22 subd. 1, amended '15 c. 209 § 10)

Cited (161+224; note under § 8222, post).

The statute does not require that the employé make a demand on the employer, or that the employer make overtures to the employé, and either party may take the initiative, and, if neither will do so, there is a "failure to agree upon a claim for compensation" (129-423, 152+838). Master and Servant, ~~§~~ 398.

8217. In case of alien dependents—In case a deceased employé, for whose injury or death compensation is payable, leaves surviving him an alien dependent or dependents residing outside of the United States, the said judge shall direct payment of all compensation due to the deceased or to his dependents to be made to the duly accredited consular officer of the country of which the beneficiaries are citizens, if such consular officer reside within the State of Minnesota, or if not, to his designated representative residing within the state, and such consular officer or his representative shall be the sole representative of such deceased employé and of such dependents to settle all claims for compensation and to receive for distribution to the persons entitled thereto, all compensation arising hereunder. The distribution of said funds to be made only on order of the district court. Such consular officer or his representative shall furnish, if required by the district court, a good and sufficient bond, satisfactory to the court, conditioned upon the proper application of the moneys received by him. Before such bond is discharged, such consular officer or representative shall file with the court, a verified account of the items of his receipts and disbursements of such compensation.

Such consular officer or his representative shall before receiving the first payment of such compensation, and at reasonable times thereafter upon request of the employer, furnish to the employer a sworn statement containing a list of the dependents with the name, age, residence, extent of dependency, and relationship to the deceased of each dependent. ('13 c. 467 § 23, amended '15 c. 209 § 11)

8219. Duties of labor commissioner—The commissioner of labor, and the officers and employés of the department of labor and industries upon demand of an employer, or an employé or his dependent shall advise such party or parties of his or their rights under this act and shall assist so far as possible in adjusting differences between the employé or his dependent and the employer under Part 2 hereof, and are hereby empowered to appear in person before the court in any proceeding under Part 2 of this act as the representative or adviser of any such party; and in any such case such party shall not be required to be also represented by an attorney at law. The commissioner of labor shall observe in detail the operation of the act throughout the state and shall make report thereof to each session of the legislature, together with such suggestions and recommendations as to changes as he may deem necessary or advisable for the improvement thereof. ('13 c. 467 § 24A, amended '15 c. 209 § 12)

8220. Payment in lump sum—The amounts of compensation payable periodically hereunder, either by agreement of the parties, so approved by the court, or by decision of the court, may be commuted to one or more lump sum payments, except compensation due for death or permanent total disability, or for permanent partial disability resulting from total loss of hearing or from the loss of an arm or a hand or a foot or a leg or an eye or of more than one such member. These may be commuted only with the consent of the district court.

In making such commutations the lump sum payments shall, in the aggregate, amount to a sum equal to the present value of all future installments of compensation calculated on a six per cent basis. ('13 c. 467 § 25, amended '15 c. 209 § 13)

The court has no authority to commute the periodical payments by awarding a lump sum judgment in lieu thereof, unless the parties agree (134-16, 158+713, L. R. A. 1916F, 957). Master and Servant, §385(20).

8221. Settlements to be final—Exceptions—

161+224; note under § 8222, post.

Upon a sufficient showing of newly discovered evidence, a judgment awarding compensation may be opened (134-189, 158+825). Master and Servant, §411.

8222. When compensation payable periodically may be modified—

Upon a sufficient showing of newly discovered evidence, a judgment awarding compensation may be opened; § 7786, ante, applying (134-189, 158+825). Master and Servant, §411.

Cited (161+388) as bearing on question whether judgment in common-law action for death was a bar to proceedings under the compensation act.

This section applies only to cases where the capacity of the injured man has increased or decreased since the award was made, and is not a remedy for the correction of errors in fixing the compensation (161+391). Master and Servant, §419.

Under this section and §§ 8220, 8221, an award is subject to readjustment as an award of an amount payable periodically for more than six months, when the payments voluntarily made prior to the award under a concession of liability, and taken into consideration in making the award, together with those directed to be made by the award, exceed periodical payments for such period, though the payments directed by the award to be made are not for so long a period as six months (161+224). Master and Servant, §419.

8225. Procedure in case of dispute—Procedure in case of dispute shall be as follows: Either party may present a verified complaint to said judge setting forth the names and residences of the parties and the facts relating to employment at the time of injury, the injury in its extent and character, the amount of wages being received at the time of injury, the knowledge of the employer or notice of the occurrence of said injury, and such other facts as may be necessary and proper for the information of the said judge, and shall state the matter or matters in dispute and the contention of the petitioner with reference thereto.

Upon the presentation of such complaint, it shall be filed with the clerk of the district court of the proper county, and the judge shall fix by order a time and place for the hearing thereof, not less than three (3) weeks after the date of the filing of said complaint. A copy of said complaint and order shall be served as summons in a civil action upon the adverse party within four (4) days after filing the complaint. Within seven (7) days after the service of such complaint, the adverse party may file and serve a verified answer to said complaint, which shall admit or deny the substantial averments of the complaints, and shall state the contention of the defendant with reference to the matter in dispute as disclosed by the complaint. Within five (5) days after the service of the answer the complainant may file and serve a verified reply admitting or denying the matters set forth in the answer.

At the time fixed for hearing, or any adjournment thereof the said judge shall hear such witnesses as may be presented by each party, and in a summary manner decide the merits of the controversy. This determination shall be filed in writing with the clerk of the said court, and judgment shall be entered thereon in the same manner as in causes tried in the said district court and shall contain a statement of facts as determined by said judge. Subsequent proceedings thereon shall only be for the recovery of moneys thereby determined to be due, provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed as limiting the jurisdiction of the supreme court to review questions of law by certiorari. Costs may be awarded by said judge in his discretion, and when so awarded the same costs shall be allowed, taxed and collected as are allowed, taxed and collected for like services and proceedings in civil cases, provided, that if it shall appear that the employer, prior to the commencement of the action, made to the person or persons entitled thereto a written offer of compensation in specific terms, which terms were in accordance with the provisions of this act, then no costs shall be awarded or taxed against such employer. Whenever any decision or order is made and filed by the judge upon any matter arising under Part 2 of this act, the clerk of the court shall forthwith make and forward to the commissioner of labor a certified copy of said decision or order with any memorandum of the judge and of any judgment entered. No fee or other charge shall be collected therefor. ('13 c. 467 § 30, amended '15 c. 209 § 14)

Nature of proceedings—Proceedings under this section are summary, and when the real parties in interest have pleaded, and a reasonable time has been given to all to prepare for trial, the court may proceed to hear and determine the controversy (133-402, 153+615). Master and Servant, ¶394.

Time and place of hearings—Notwithstanding §§ 176, 177, 183, and 184, fixing the time and place of holding court in St. Louis county, hearings under this section are to be held at the time and place fixed by the judge, regardless of the time and place of holding the regular terms of the court (129-423, 152+838). Master and Servant, ¶409.

Review—The supreme court cannot review an order overruling a motion to set aside a judgment of the district court awarding compensation, as certiorari will lie to review a final order only; such order being intermediate (132-100, 155+1057). Master and Servant, ¶417(3).

Upon certiorari issued on the relation of the one against whom judgment fixing the compensation is entered, the claimant cannot have the record reviewed (132-249, 156+120). Master and Servant, ¶417(3).

Findings of trial court, in absence of settled case, are presumed to be within issues litigated, whether presented by the pleadings or not (129-156, 151+910). Appeal and Error, ¶931(1).

Fees and costs allowed—The allowance of attorney's fees is not authorized by the act, but the court may allow statutory costs, although designated in the order as attorney's fees (129-423, 152+838). Master and Servant, ¶420.

Judgments reopened when—Upon a sufficient showing of newly discovered evidence, a judgment awarding compensation may be opened, and § 7786, ante, applies (134-189, 158+825). Master and Servant, ¶411.

Evidence—Where the employer and insurer filed a joint answer alleging that defendants were ready and willing to pay the compensation due plaintiff under the act, together with reasonable hospital and medical expenses, plaintiff was not obliged to prove compliance with the provisions of the act necessary to make the insurer liable directly to the injured workman, and defendants are barred from resisting the claim for medical expenses on the ground that their own physician was ready to perform the services (161+391). Master and Servant, ¶401, 403.

Findings of the trial court to the effect that claimant was injured while engaged in the work of his employment, and that the employer had actual knowledge thereof, and that the injury rendered claimant totally disabled, held sustained by the evidence. A finding that the employer had "actual notice" of the injury is equivalent to a finding of "actual knowledge" thereof (132-251, 156+278). Master and Servant, ¶405(1).

8227. Insurance of risks of employers—Conditions—Any employer who is responsible for compensation as provided under Part 2 of this act may insure the risk in any manner then authorized by law. But those writing such insurance shall in every case be subject to the conditions in this section hereinafter named.

If the risk of the employer is carried by any insurer doing business for profit, or by any insurance association or corporation formed of employers, or of employers and workmen, to insure the risks under Part 2 of this act, operating by the mutual assessment or other plan or otherwise, then insofar as policies are issued on such risks they shall provide for compensation for injuries or death according to the full benefits of Part 2 of this act. But nothing herein contained shall prevent an employer from insuring only a particular class or classes of employés or of risks.

Such policies shall contain a clause to the effect that as between the workman and the insurer, that notice to and knowledge by the employer of the occurrence of the injury shall be deemed notice and knowledge on the part of the insurer; that jurisdiction of the employer for arbitration or other purposes shall be jurisdiction of the insurer, and that the insurer will in all things be bound by and subject to the awards rendered against such employer upon the risks so insured.

Such policies must provide that the workman shall have an equitable lien upon any amount which shall become owing on account of such policy to the employer from the insurer and in case of the legal incapacity or inability of the employer to receive the said amount and pay it over to the workman or dependents, the said insurer will pay the same direct to said workman or dependents, thereby discharging all obligations under the policy to the employer and all of the obligations of the employer and insurer to the workman; but such policies shall contain no provisions relieving the insurance company from payment when the employer becomes insolvent or discharged in bankruptcy or otherwise, during the period the policy is in force, if the compensation remains owing.

The insurer must be one authorized by law to conduct such business in the state of Minnesota, and authority is hereby granted to all insurance companies writing such insurance to include in their policies in addition to the requirements now provided by law the additional requirements, terms and conditions in this section provided.

No agreement by an employé to pay to an employer any portion of the cost of insuring his risk under this act shall be valid. But it shall be lawful for the employer and the workman to agree to carry the risks covered by Part 2 of this act in conjunction with other and greater risks and providing other and greater benefits such as additional compensation, accident, sickness or old age insurance or benefits, and the fact that such plan involves a contribution by the workman shall not prevent its validity if such plan has been approved in writing by the commissioner of labor. Any employer who shall make any charge or deduction prohibited by this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

If the employer shall insure to his employés the payment of the compensations provided by Part 2 of this act, in a corporation or association authorized to do business in the state of Minnesota and approved by the insurance commissioner of the state of Minnesota, and if the employer shall post a notice or notices in a conspicuous place or in conspicuous places about his place of employment, stating that he is so insured and stating by whom insured, and if the employer shall further file copy of such notice with the labor commissioner of the state of Minnesota, then, and in such case, any suits or actions brought by an injured employé or his dependents shall be brought directly against the insurer, and the employer or insured shall be released from any further liability.

Provided that in case of insolvency or bankruptcy of such insurance company the employer shall not be released from liability under the provisions of this act.

The return of any execution upon any judgment of an employé against any such insurance company unsatisfied in whole or in part, shall be conclusive evidence of the insolvency of such insurance company and in case of the adjudication of bankruptcy or insolvency of any such insurance company by any court of competent jurisdiction, proceedings may be brought by the employé against the employer in the first instance or against such employer and insurance company jointly or severally or in any pending proceeding against any insurance company, the employer may be joined at any time after such adjudication. Where an employer insures his workmen under this section, it is not necessary to the maintenance of an action against the insurer that the notice provided for be filed in the office of the labor commissioner before the accident which causes the injury occurs (133-402, 158+615). Master and Servant, ¶383.

Effect of joint answer of employer and insurer, alleging readiness and willingness to pay hospital and medical expenses, as to right of defendants to dispute the employé's claim for medical expenses incurred for the services of a physician other than the regular physician employed by defendants (see 161+391; note under § 8225, ante).

This section has reference to cases where a third person is also subject to the compensation statute, and not where he is not so subject. The fact that the third person is an officer or agent of a corporation which is subject to the statute does not render the statute applicable, unless the officer was acting in the course of his authority for the corporation, and to such an extent as to render the corporation liable for his act (132-344, 157+506). (b) "Child" or "children" shall include posthumous children and all other children entitled by law to inherit as children of the deceased, also step-children who were members of the family of the deceased at the time of his injury and dependent upon him for support. (g) The terms "employé" and "workman" are used interchangeably and have the same meaning throughout this act, and shall be construed to mean:

(1) Every person in the service of a county, city, town, village or school district therein, under any appointment or contract of hire, express or implied, oral or written; but shall not include any official or any county, city, town, village or school district therein, who shall have been elected or appointed for a regular term of office, or to complete the unexpired portion of any regular term.

(2) Every person, not excluded by Section 8 [8202], in the service of another under any contract of hire, express or implied, oral or written, including aliens and also including minors who are legally permitted to work under the laws of the state. Subd. (a)—This act is not prospective, and the limitation provided by § 8, adding to the former act a section to be numbered 20a, does not affect causes of action which had accrued at the passage of the act (134-21, 158+715). Master and Servant, ¶349.

Subd. (b)—A child adopted by a widow after the death of her husband is not entitled to the benefit of subd. 9 of § 8208, ante (133-265, 158+250). Master and Servant, ¶388.

Subd. (c)—A widowed daughter of deceased held entitled to compensation, though she was 30 years of age and was not physically or mentally incapacitated to earn money (134-131, 158+798). Master and Servant, ¶388. See note under § 8208(3), ante.

Subd. (d)—This provision does not confine the relation of employer and employé within narrow limits, the ordinary test as to that relation being applicable. Test for determining relation of master and servant stated (128-43, 150+211). Master and Servant, ¶88(1).

The dependents of a fireman of a city, killed while in the performance of his duty, are entitled to recover under this act. The fact that a city fireman was a member of a firemen's relief association, the funds of which were derived from a state tax, from a portion of insurance premiums collected, and from voluntary contributions of members of the association, did not prevent the dependents of the fireman, killed in the performance of his duties, from receiving compensation under this act to the full amount (134-26, 158+790). OFFICIAL AND OTHER BONDS—FINES AND FORFEITURES

8231. Bonds, etc.—Sureties, qualifications—

8233. State and county officers—Uniform bond—

A statutory bond, containing the statutory conditions, and also other conditions, will be so construed as to give effect to the statutory conditions, unless the language of the bond precludes such construction (122-504, 142+899, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 945). Bonds, § 50.

8235. Surety companies—

A corporation, in the business of executing bonds as security for a consideration or premium, is entitled to the benefit of the equitable right of subrogation (126-188, 148+55). Subrogation, § 33(1).

8243. Official bonds, security to whom—Actions—

Cited (162+1054).

Sureties on an official bond are liable for unfaithful or improper conduct of the officer in the performance of acts or duties authorized or required by law, including trespass on person or property while performing official acts; but they are not liable for acts wholly outside the scope of the official duties of the principal (133-274, 158+394). Officers, § 129.

8244. Leave to bring action—Indorsement on execution—

Liability on bond given under this section dependent on construction of contract (see 135-9, 159+1075).

County ditch contractor's bond—County ditch contractor's bonds held valid statutory obligations only to the extent of the fair import of their conditions (125-211, 146+359, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 688). Drains, § 49.

Rural highway contractor's bond—The bond required to be given by a contractor for the construction of a state rural highway, and conditioned as required by this section secures the payment of labor, skill, and material furnished in repairs upon tools and machinery employed in the work, and also for the reasonable value or agreed price of the use of appropriate tools and machinery furnished during and in the construction; but it does not secure payment of the price of tools or machinery sold to the contractor and which become a part of his equipment, although the same are sold for the particular contract and are necessary and appropriate for that purpose (133-336, 158+432). Highways, ~~§~~113(5).

Subrogation by surety—A surety on a contractor's bond, who has paid the claim of the creditor under compulsion, is entitled to subrogation to the rights of such creditor in the fund retained by the state, and such right was superior to the rights of a bank which had loaned money to the contractor (126-188, 148+55). Subrogation, ~~§~~7(2), 33(2).

8249. Limit of time to bring action—

The notice required by this section is not applicable to a drainage contractor's bond given under §§ 5497, 5537, ante (133-90, 157+998). Drains, ~~§~~49.

This section held not applicable to a bond given by a contractor to a city before the amendment of 1909, and which bond was governed by a provision of the city charter as to notice to the contractor and surety before action on the bond, though such charter provision was repealed during the life of the bond (134-121, 158+802). Municipal Corporations, ~~§~~49, 348.

This section has no application to the bond of a ditch contractor given under § 5537 (126-435, 148+454). Drains, ~~§~~49.

[8252—]1. Subrogation of surety, etc.—Whenever the surety upon the bond of any state officer shall have fulfilled the conditions of such bond and compensated the state for any loss occasioned by any act or omission of such officer, such surety shall be subrogated to all the rights of the state and if there shall be any property, evidence of indebtedness, or other obligation, or evidence thereof, in the possession of any official of the state and which shall have been received in connection with the transaction wherein such loss shall have occurred, the governor upon satisfactory proof that such loss has been so paid and the obligation of such bond fulfilled by said surety, shall thereupon by sufficient instruments of transfer, assign, transfer or convey to such surety any such property, evidence of indebtedness or obligation. CHAPTER 87

SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS

8266. To whom issued, etc.—

When will lie—Nature of duty to be commanded (121-182, 141+97, 46 L. R. A. [N. S.] 9).

The supreme court will not issue a writ of mandamus to compel a district judge to settle a case presented after the lapse of the statutory period, there being no abuse of judicial discretion (132-146, 155+905). Appeal and Error, ¶571.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel a court to proceed with the trial of an action over which it has jurisdiction, when the only ground of reversal is that it is within its discretion to decline to exercise jurisdiction (126-501, 148+463, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 198). Mandamus, ¶31.

Mandamus is the proper remedy to compel a municipal court to assume jurisdiction of a case removed to it by change of venue from another municipal court (128-225, 150+924). Mandamus, ¶31.

Mandamus as proper remedy to compel county auditor to exercise his discretion in letting bids for the construction of a state rural highway where he refuses to act, not because the bids are not acceptable, but on the erroneous ground that the project has been abandoned by the county board (see 132-36, 155+1048). Mandamus, ¶92.

Mandamus will not issue to compel the revocation of a building permit for a defect which has been corrected or which the parties are ready and willing to correct (134-73, 158+730). Mandamus, ¶15.

Compelling city council of Brainerd to entertain citizens' petition to remove city officers (121-182, 141+97, 46 L. R. A. [N. S.] 9). Mandamus, ¶76.

While mandamus will not lie to control the discretion of a city council in issuing a liquor license, it may issue where the council in denying a license, acts on the assumption that it is prohibited by an initiative ordinance, and not in the exercise of its discretion in respect to the particular license (134-355, 159+792). Intoxicating Liquors, ¶74.

Mandamus will not lie to control the action of a private officer in matters depending upon judgment or discretion; but, if the admitted facts show that it is his duty to perform an official act, he may be compelled to do so by mandamus (126-367, 148+306). Mandamus, ¶71, 72.

In view of § 6183, giving a stockholder the right to inspect the corporate books, mandamus will lie under this section, at the instance of the president and majority stockholder of a corporation, to compel an inspection of the books of the corporation, to enable relator to resist a charge of embezzlement of the corporate funds; a mere charge of crime not putting him in the attitude of one coming into court with unclean hands (135-479, 160+486). Mandamus, ¶129.

Necessary showing—A person seeking to compel by mandamus a town board to exercise its discretion in repairing a public road must show a clear right to the relief demanded (133-160, 157+1092). Mandamus, ¶94.

Who are parties—In mandamus to compel the repair of public roads, the persons composing the town board may properly be made defendants (133-160, 157-1092). Mandamus, ¶151(2).

Plaintiff in an action in a municipal court, not being party or privy to the judgment in mandamus proceedings, was not bound thereby (126-264, 148+66). Judgment, ¶707.

8267. On whose information, and when—

Where a judgment was reversed without specific direction for a new trial, and plaintiff's motion in the court below for amendment of the findings and for judgment in her favor was granted, whereupon defendant filed a motion in the trial court to vacate the order so made or to grant a new trial, and such motion was overruled, defendant's remedy is appeal, and not mandamus in the supreme court to compel the award of a new trial (128-530, 149+1070). Mandamus, ¶4(1).

Special interest of relator (121-182, 141+97, 46 L. R. A. [N. S.] 9). Mandamus, ¶22.

8268. Alternative and peremptory writs—Contents—

A petition and writ seeking to compel the members of a town board to repair a public road held to be too vague and indefinite to show a clear right to the relief demanded (133-160, 157+1092). Mandamus, ¶154(3).

Where it is obvious that the reason for the action of the city council in refusing to issue a liquor license is not within the personal knowledge of the relator, he may allege such reason on information and belief (134-355, 159+792). Mandamus, ¶154(3).

Mandamus will not issue to compel a railroad company to comply with an ordinance directing it to lower its tracks at a crossing and construct a bridge for street traffic, where the lowering of the track will affect many other crossings in the vicinity, and the ordinance is silent as to such streets (135-277, 160+773). Mandamus, ¶15.

8271. Answer—When and how made—

In mandamus to compel construction of extension of street railway in obedience to municipal ordinance, answer held to present issue of reasonableness as against demurrer (122-163, 142+136). Mandamus, ¶165.

8272. Default—New matter—Demurrer—

Scope and effect of demurrer (121-182, 141+97, 46 L. R. A. [N. S.] 9). Mandamus, ¶166½.

8273. Pleadings—Issues, trial, etc.—

What constitute pleadings; motion for judgment on (129-181, 151+970). Pleading, ¶350(1).

8276. Jurisdiction of district and supreme courts—

In view of this section, an original application to the supreme court for a writ directing the district court to transfer an action to another county will not be entertained, the clerk's refusal to transmit the papers not being the refusal of the court; and mandamus to coerce him is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the district court (125-522, 146+480). Courts, ¶207(4).

Dismissal of appeal on question becoming moot (see 129-535, 152+654). Appeal and Error, ¶781(1).

161+164; note under § 4200.

The writ lies where a court is about to exercise judicial power in a matter in which it never had jurisdiction, and where there is no adequate remedy by appeal, certiorari, or writ of error (135-99, 160+198). Prohibition, ¶10(2).

HABEAS CORPUS8283. Who may prosecute writ—

One imprisoned under an excess sentence improperly imposed under § 8491, because the former conviction was not alleged in the indictment, may, after serving the maximum term provided by the statute denouncing the offense of which he was convicted, sue out habeas corpus and secure his discharge, since the judgment, to the extent of the excess sentence, was rendered without jurisdiction, and petitioner was not required to resort to appeal or writ of error (132-295, 156+127). Habeas Corpus, ¶30; Indictment and Information, ¶114.

Ordinarily the object of the writ is to inquire whether one is restrained of his liberty legally, but in cases involving the custody of an infant the personal freedom of the infant is not involved. In such case the writ is used, not merely to determine the legal right of custody as between applicants therefor, but to accomplish the best interests of the child. The juvenile court act (§§ 7162-7175) does not abrogate the remedy by habeas corpus to determine the custody of infants; and the general plan of that act, in respect to delinquent and dependent children, is not interfered with by a determination in habeas corpus which secures the welfare of the child (123-508, 144+157). Habeas Corpus, ¶99(3).

The proceeding is of a civil nature distinct from the criminal prosecution concerning which the writ issues (123-84, 142+1051). Habeas Corpus, ¶1.

One at liberty on bail who voluntarily causes one of his bondsmen to surrender him into custody is not entitled to sue out writ of habeas corpus (162+353). Habeas Corpus, ¶11.

The courts will not try the question of a prisoner's guilt or innocence, nor will they, on the ground that the proceedings were instituted in bad faith or from ulterior motives, review the action of the Governor in granting an extradition warrant (126-38, 147+708). Habeas Corpus, ¶92(2).

8284. Petition—To whom and how made—

It is the practice of the supreme court to refuse to issue the writ in ordinary cases unless the circumstances are exceptional. Proceeding entertained, where all parties consented thereto, and an early determination of the question presented seemed desirable (127-102, 148+896, L. R. A. 1915B, 95). Habeas Corpus, ¶41.

Petitions for writs of habeas corpus, unless made to the supreme court, should be addressed to the district court; and, while the court commissioner may grant them, they should be tested in the name of the presiding judge, though attestation in the name of the court commissioner is mere defect of form, cured by § 8288 (124-456, 145+167). Habeas Corpus, ¶47(2), 53.

8297. Held under process, when discharged—

The determination of a committing magistrate will not be disturbed on habeas corpus, where the record discloses evidence reasonably tending to support it (124-456, 145+167). Habeas Corpus, ¶102.

Where respondent justifies under a commitment showing a valid conviction, but an unauthorized sentence, it is proper, in releasing petitioner from detention, to remand him to the proper court for further proceedings (125-304, 146+1102). Habeas Corpus, ¶109.

8300. Notice—To whom given—In criminal cases, if the prisoner is confined in a town, village, city or county jail, notice of the time and place at which the writ is returnable shall be given to the county attorney of the county from which the prisoner was committed, if such county attorney is within his county; if the prisoner is confined in a state institution, said notice shall be given to the attorney general, whose duty it shall be to appear for the person named as respondent in said writ; in other cases, like notice shall be given to any person interested in continuing the custody or restraint of the party seeking the aid of such writ. (Amended '15 c. 227 § 1)

An appeal from an order denying a writ and remanding the prisoner does not stay the criminal proceedings, so as to prevent commitment under the conviction (123-84, 142+1051). Habeas Corpus, ¶113(8).

An order discharging relator is appealable, though no stay was obtained in the court below (135-320, 160+858). Habeas Corpus, ¶113(3).

8312. Hearing on appeal—

Relator, having made no application under this section, is in no position to invoke its provisions (124-456, 145+167). Habeas Corpus, ¶113(6).

CERTIORARI

8313. Within what time writ issued—

If an appeal lies under § 8001, certiorari is not an available remedy (161+1055). Certiorari, ¶5(1).

Certiorari, based on stipulation, and not on judgment entered, dismissed (127-519, 148+1082).

It is not necessary that all the petitioners in a ditch proceeding sought to be reviewed on certiorari be named as respondents (161+714). Drains, ¶37.

A writ issued to the judge of a district court, instead of to the district court, is not erroneous (161+714). Certiorari, ¶45.

A judgment awarding compensation under the workmen's compensation act may be opened on sufficient showing of newly discovered evidence, even after the lapse of the 60-day period for review by certiorari (134-189, 158+825). Master and Servant, ¶411.

Appealability of order denying motion to dismiss (see 129-300, 152+541). Certiorari, ¶70(1).

8314. When served—

On certiorari to review the action of respondent judge in a ditch proceeding, it was not necessary to serve a copy of the order allowing the writ. On certiorari to review the proceedings of respondent judge in a ditch proceeding, service of the writ upon the attorney for the petitioners in such proceeding was sufficient notice to them (161+714). Drains, ¶37.

8315. Surety for costs in civil case—

8317. When dismissed—Costs—

Appealability of order denying a motion to dismiss (see 129-300, 152+541). Certiorari, ¶70(1).

ASSIGNMENTS FOR BENEFIT OF CREDITORS

8326. Requisites—

An assignment is the exercise of a common-law right, and the assignee derives his title and power of sale from the deed of assignment, and not under the statute; and absence of approval of a sale by the court does not render the sale void, but only voidable (125-24, 145+404). Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, ¶240, 244, 246.

A sale of land by an assignee, in which all parties interested acquiesced, is not open to objection more than ten years thereafter, where the assignee was discharged after such sale was made on the ground that he had fully performed his trust (125-24, 145+404). Assignments for Benefit of Creditors, ¶250.

CONTEMPTS

8353. Direct contempts defined—

8355. Power to punish—Limitation—

The maximum sentence that may be imposed for a direct contempt by the Minneapolis municipal court is a fine of $20 or two days' imprisonment in the county jail (125-304, 146+1102). Contempt, \S 72.

8363. Punishment—

The maximum sentence that may be imposed by the Minneapolis municipal court for a direct contempt is a fine of $20 or two days' imprisonment in the county jail (125-304, 146+1102). Contempt, \S 72.

WITNESSES AND EVIDENCE

WITNESSES

8369. Definition—

130-256, 153+324; 130-256, 153+593.

8370. Subpoena, by whom issued—

131-116, 154+750.

8373. Contempt—

131-116, 154+750.

8375. Competency of witnesses—

Subd. 1—Under this section a wife is not a competent witness against her husband in a prosecution for adultery (131-97, 154+735). Witnesses, \S 58(1).

Where one accused of murder attempted to create the impression by his testimony that his wife was unduly intimate with a witness for the prosecution, and that the wife and the witness had plotted to secure defendant's conviction, it was not improper to ask defendant, on cross-examination, if he would consent to his wife testifying for the state (128-422, 151+190). Witnesses, \S 76(3), 277(1).

Action of county attorney in calling wife as a witness against her husband was not misconduct requiring a new trial, though defendant notified the county attorney before the indictment that he would object to the evidence of the wife (128-187, 150+793, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 360). Criminal Law, \S 700.

Subd. 4—A patient may waive his right to prevent his physician giving testimony which is privileged under this subdivision; and if he fails to object to a question which necessarily calls for testimony which is privileged, after a fair opportunity is given him to object, he waives the right to object (131-209, 154+960). Witnesses, \S 221.

This subdivision merely prescribes a rule of evidence, and does not prevent action for money had and received to recover money paid by the patient to the physician in consideration of the latter's guaranty to cure him of a certain disease, which consideration fails (123-468, 143+1133). Money Received, \S 6(6).

The physician is in no position to urge the statute as a bar to the action, where he has been allowed to testify fully in regard to the transactions involved (123-468, 143+1133). Witnesses, \S 219(5).

Where waiver of the privilege under this subdivision was procured by fraud, it is error to allow the privilege to be claimed; and hence the trial court's finding that such waiver, executed by a juror whose sanity during the trial was challenged on a motion for a new trial, was procured by misrepresentation, should be sustained (123-173, 143+322). Witnesses, \S 219(4).

The testimony of a physician as to the instructions given his patient, and as to whether the patient obeyed them, is within the privilege conferred by this section (124-466, 145+385). Witnesses, \S 211(2).

A patient does not waive his privilege by bringing an action to recover for the injuries for which the physician treated him, unless the action is against the physician for malpractice. Neither does he waive such privilege by presenting evidence in support of his claim, where such evidence is confined to matters outside his transaction with the physician (124-466, 145+385). Witnesses, *§*219(4, 5).

Where, in a will contest, the issue was as to the mental condition of testator, the exclusion of the evidence of a physician will not be disturbed on appeal, where there was no offer to show that the ailment which the doctor was treating had any relation to testator's mental condition (126-275, 148+117). Wills, *§*322.

The testimony of physicians making an examination of plaintiff to ascertain his physical ability to work, their information not being obtained for the purpose of treating or acting for him, is not privileged (128-360, 150+1091). Witnesses, *§*209.

8376. Accused—

The action of a court in calling the attention of the jury to the fact that accused had not been present in court during the trial was a violation of this section, though no direct reference was made to the failure of the defendant to testify (126-45, 147+822). Criminal Law, *§*856(1).

It was not prejudicial misconduct on the part of the county attorney to comment on the fact that defendant had refused his consent to the placing of defendant's wife on the stand as a witness for the state (128-422, 151+190). Criminal Law, *§*721½(1).

An alleged allusion by the county attorney to defendant's failure to testify is not ground for reversal, unless the record directly states that the allusion was made (129-402, 152+769). Criminal Law, *§*1086(11).

Extent of cross-examination of accused as witness in his own behalf (see 135-159, 160+677). Witnesses, *§*277(1, 2).

Charge as to interest of accused testifying in his own behalf, disapproved (see 130-84, 153+271). Criminal Law, *§*822(15).

8377. Examination by adverse party—

In general—Where a party is afforded ample opportunity at the trial to cross-examine a witness, error in denying him the right of examination under this section is not prejudicial (131-152, 154+954). Appeal and Error, *§*1048(6).

Where plaintiff fully cross-examined defendant when he appeared as a witness in his own behalf and dismissed him from the stand, there was no error in refusing to permit plaintiff to call defendant for cross-examination under this section (126-426, 148+457, L. R. A. 1915A, 104). Witnesses, *§*283.

Examination as precluding claim of prejudice in instruction (122-20, 141+810).

Who may be called—The right to call an officer of an adverse party for cross-examination under this section is to be determined as the situation is at the time of trial; and there is no right to examine one not an officer at the time of trial, though he was an officer at the time of the transaction involved (132-404, 157+643). Witnesses, *§*276.

The motorman of a street car is not a "managing agent" of the company within the meaning of this section (162+298). Witnesses, *§*276.

Executor, also husband of a devisee, propounding a will for probate, is a mere nominal party, not so interested as to constitute him an adverse party to contestants, within this section, so as to give adversary right to examine him as if under cross-examination (162+515). Witnesses, *§*276.

Where an election is contested on the ground that the contestees voted illegally, such contestees may be called as adverse parties for cross-examination (126-298, 148+276). Witnesses, *§*276.

Scope of examination—Where a party is an unwilling witness, considerable latitude should be allowed in examining him (123-476, 144+154). Witnesses, *§*275(1).

Contradiction and impeachment of witness—The party calling his adversary under this section may impeach or contradict him, and the attention of a witness may be called to testimony given by an adverse witness, and he may be asked if such testimony is true (126-239, 148+102, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 888). Witnesses, *§*276, 324, 400(2).

In a civil action for assault, the court did not abuse its discretion in permitting plaintiff to be interrogated as to a prior independent assault committed by her on a third person, to shake her credibility; but defendant was improperly permitted to subsequently introduce testimony contradicting the answers so elicited (124-284, 144+956). Witnesses, *§*349, 405.

In what actions or proceedings—This section has no reference to proceedings for the appointment of a guardian for an incompetent person under §§ 7433-7435 (128-324, 151+130). Insane Persons, *§*33(1).

8378. Conversation with deceased or insane person—

Who competent—In an action to set aside a deed to defendant, executed by plaintiff's intestate, defendant's wife may testify as to conversations had with intestate (132-254, 156+263). Witnesses, *§*159(1).

Since the enactment of § 6814, giving the wife a right to convey her real estate by her separate deed, the husband, in an action involving real estate not the homestead, to which action the wife is a party, is not prohibited by this section from testifying to a conversation with a person since deceased (132-242, 156+260). Witnesses, *§*159(1).

Persons interested in administrator's action to set aside decedent's contract to sell realty may testify as to deceased's conversations and declarations to show loss of memory and delusions as bearing upon her competency; this section being strictly construed (102+1070). Witnesses, *§*159(14).

The agent of defendant insurance company, to whom the insured gave a note for the first premium, and to whom defendant sent the policy after its issue, held not interested in the event of the action, so as to prevent his testifying to conversations with the insured, now deceased (127-215, 149+292). Witnesses, *§*140(16).

Heirs are not incompetent to give in evidence declarations or conversations of the deceased where neither they nor the estate can be made liable for the result of the action (126-58, 147+714, L. R. A. 1915E, 822). Witnesses, *§*140(7).

In a will contest it was improper to permit a legatee to testify to statements made by the testator at the time he executed the will (128-17, 150+213, L. R. A. 1916C, 1214, Ann. Cas. 1916D, 1101). Wills, *§*297(1).

Devisee, voluntarily entering upon a contest opposing probate of a will, asserts such an interest in the issue as to preclude his testimony as to conversations with testator as to his intention in disposing of his property (162+515). Witnesses, *§*140(6).

Offer to show incompetency of witness under this section, on the ground of "interest in the event of the action," held insufficient, as importing merely a nudum pactum (124-386, 145+116, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 734). Witnesses, *§*140(9), 182.

Conclusions of witness—Deductions or conclusions of witness from conversation with deceased party prohibited (121-352, 141+481). Witnesses, *§*144(1).

Waiving objections—One entitled to object to evidence of conversations with a deceased person waives such right by calling the witness to such conversations and cross-examining him in reference thereto. Such waiver takes place, though the questions propounded to the witness are confined to the question as to what the witness said to deceased (128-277, 150+914). Witnesses, *§*181.

By cross-examining an interested party relative to conversations with a deceased person, the cross-examining party waives the right given by this section to exclude such testimony; and the party examined may give further testimony as to such conversations at any appropriate time in the trial, though not questioned relative thereto on redirect (133-136, 157+1073). Witnesses, *§*181.

DEPOSITIONS

8393. Informalities and defects—Motion to suppress—

Motion to suppress for refusal of witness to answer material questions on cross-examination must be made within ten days from notice of return of the deposition (128-525, 151+416). Depositions, *§*83(4).

8395. Deposition, not used when—

Where the deposition of a witness is taken outside of the state, and in it the witness testifies that he is a nonresident of this state, no further proof of cause for using the deposition is required (162+449). Depositions, *§*90.

JUDICIAL RECORDS—STATUTES, ETC.

8414. Printed copies of statutes, etc.—

Both the daily printed journal and the permanent journal are made evidence of the legislative proceedings by this section (130-424, 153+749). Statutes, *§*285, 286. See notes under § 41, ante, and under Const. art. 4 § 21.

DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

8423. Official records—Certified copies—

This section has no application to foreign records and documents, when authenticated and certified in accordance with the act of Congress (129-347, 152+729). Evidence, *§*348(2).

8437. Account books—Loose-leaf system, etc.—

In an action on account, a loose-leaf ledger page was admissible as evidence of payments entered thereon; there being no evidence that the moneys so received were entered in any other place than in such ledger (127-535, 149+647). Evidence, *§*354(2).

When one party offers in evidence the books of account of the other party as admissions, it is not necessary to lay the foundation required by this section when the party offers his own books of account; but it is sufficient if it appears that the books offered are the books of account of the party regularly kept in his business (126-464, 148+459). Evidence, *§*376(2).

Need not be verified by the clerks who made the entries (128-422, 151+190). Criminal Law, *§*444.

8441. Minutes of conviction and judgment—

Where the judgment roll, offered in evidence to show defendant's prior conviction, appears fair on its face, it will be presumed in full force and effect until the contrary is shown (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, *§*1202(2).

8448. Bills and notes—Indorsement—Signature to instruments presumed—

The provision of this section that every written instrument purporting to have been executed shall be proof of execution until the person executing it shall deny his signature under oath applies to an instrument purporting to be executed by a corporation, and to a contract of employment by the corporation, and the fact that one of two corporate officers executing it has died before the trial does not render the statute inapplicable; the statute not being confined to promissory notes or bills of exchange (131-386, 155+214). Pleading, § 291(2).

This section applies to instruments executed by corporations, and denial of execution must be by the oath of an officer or representative of the corporation who is shown to have sufficient knowledge of the facts to be able to state authoritatively that the corporation did not execute the instrument (132-211, 156+265). Pleading, § 291(2).

Denial of execution of an instrument by a stockholder of the corporation executing it is insufficient under this section, where it is not shown that such stockholder possesses any knowledge concerning the corporate business transactions (132-211, 156+265). Pleading, § 301(3).

Where a corporation denies the execution of notes, and one of its officers, shown to have authority, testifies that such notes were not executed by the corporation, this section does not make the fact that the notes purport to have been executed by the corporation evidence of such execution (134-445, 159+1078). Corporations, § 519(3).

8449. Indorsement of money received—

To make this section applicable, the burden of proof is on the holder of a note containing an indorsement of payment to prove by evidence dehors the indorsement, that the payment was made at a time when it was against the interest of the holder to make it (133-289, 158+391). Bills and Notes, § 496(3).

8450. Land office receipts, etc., evidence of title—

Section 6880 imposes upon the examiner under the Torrens act the duty to make his investigation full and thorough, and he is not justified in relying upon a receipt or certificate issued to an entryman by a local land office as establishing that the United States has parted with its proprietary title (130-456, 153+871). Records, § 9(10).

123-48, 142+1042.

[8456—]1. Abstracts of title—In any action wherein the title to real property is in controversy, any abstract of title thereof, duly certified by any bonded abstractor or by any Register of Deeds of any county wherein said real property is situated, shall be received as prima facie evidence of all instruments therein referred to, together with the records thereof as recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of such county. ('15 c. 283 § 1)

8459. Fact of marriage, how proved—

Evidence held insufficient to establish a common-law marriage. Elements of such a marriage stated (122-407, 142+593). Marriage, § 18, 40(4), 50(5).

8462. Confession, inadmissible when—

Evidence held insufficient to show that accused burned prosecutor's barn, so as to support his conviction, based solely on an alleged confession (128-163, 150+787). Arson, § 37(1).

8463. Uncorroborated evidence of accomplice—

To make a witness an "accomplice," it must appear that a crime has been committed by the person on trial, either as principal or accessory, and that the witness co-operated with, aided, or assisted in the commission of the crime, either as principal or accessory (135-159, 160+677). Criminal Law, § 507(1).

A woman to whom liquor is furnished, contrary to § 3148, is not an accomplice of the person selling the liquor (124-408, 145+39). Criminal Law, § 507(1).

The corroborating evidence need not be sufficient in itself to support a conviction (122-493, 142+823). Criminal Law, § 511(1).

The corroboration of an accomplice need not be sufficient, standing alone, to make out a prima facie case of guilt, nor is it necessary that it should cover every fact necessary to proof of the crime; but it is sufficient that the testimony, independent of that of the accomplice, tends in some reasonable degree to establish guilt of defendant. Evidence held sufficient to corroborate the testimony of an accomplice, so as to sustain a conviction (131-276, 154+1095). Criminal Law, § 511(1).

A confession may be sufficient corroboration (131-276, 154+1095). Criminal Law, § 511(7).

Rulings of trial court in giving and refusing instructions as to accomplice testimony held not erroneous or prejudicial (135-159, 160+677).

8465. Divorce—Testimony of parties—

Sufficiency of corroborative testimony (see 126-65, 147+825). Divorce, § 127(4).

CRIMES, CRIMINAL PROCEDURE, IMPRISONMENT, AND PRISONS

CHAPTER 93

GENERAL PROVISIONS

8467. Meaning of words and terms—

127-510, 150+209.

8477. Principal defined—

One purchasing intoxicating liquor sold contrary to law for the purpose of prosecuting the seller for an unlawful sale does not thereby become an "accomplice" within this section (162+683). Criminal Law, §507(4).

Evidence held to support a conviction of defendant as a principal to the crime of robbery (122-493, 142+823). Robbery, §24(1).

8490. Attempts—How punished—

An attempt to commit a crime is the commission of some specific intentional overt act, or acts tending directly, in the natural course of events, to the commission of the crime. The mere act of soliciting another to commit a crime, or preparation therefor, is not, in the absence of some overt act looking to its actual commission, sufficient to justify a conviction. In this case evidence held insufficient to show an overt act, essential to an attempt to commit extortion (131-65, 154+737). Criminal Law, §§44, 45; Extortion, §15.

8491. Second offences, how punished—

This section is not invalid as subjecting to double jeopardy (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, §162.

In the absence of statute regulating the procedure, the fact of the prior conviction must be alleged in the indictment, established by proper evidence, and passed upon by the jury (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, §1202(1).

Though alleged in the indictment, it is unnecessary for the state to prove that the former conviction has not been reversed or set aside; it being presumed that it remains in full force and effect, where the judgment roll is fair on its face (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, §1202(2).

To warrant imposition of the excess sentence, the former conviction must be alleged in the indictment; but an excess sentence, imposed without such averment, is not wholly void; but only as to the excess, and after serving the maximum sentence the prisoner may be discharged on habeas corpus (132-295, 156+127). Habeas Corpus, §30(2); Indictment and Information, §114.

8496. Suspension of sentence—

Suspension of sentence for a definite period held proper, and within the discretion of the court (125-529, 147+273). Criminal Law, §1001.

8502. Incriminating testimony not to be used—

See notes under Const. art. 1 § 7.

See note under § [8503—]1.

[8503—]1. Commitment of children in certain cases—Whenever a juvenile court acquires jurisdiction of a child twelve years of age or over, who is charged with delinquency, and transfers such child to a justice, municipal, or district court to be tried for a crime, the trial court, upon conviction, may commit such child to the state training school for boys or the Minnesota home school for girls. ('17 c. 266 § 1)

Section 2 repeals § 8503.

8504. Convict as witness—

Conviction of any crime, whether a felony or petty misdemeanor, may be proved under this section to impeach a witness. The nature of the crime may be shown (128-474, 151+180, Ann. Cas. 1916A, 277). Witnesses, §345(4).

The prosecuting attorney may cross-examine accused, testifying as a witness in his own behalf, as to the circumstances of an assault, of which he testified on direct examination he was convicted (135-159, 160+877). Witnesses, ¶277(1, 2).

Where there is no conviction, evidence to show indictment for crime is properly excluded under this section (130-314, 153+611, L. R. A. 1915F, 11). Witnesses, ¶345(1).

RIGHTS OF ACCUSED

8508. Presumption of innocence—Conviction of lowest degree, when—

Burden of proof on state—Burden not on defendant to explain possession of stolen property (121-405, 141+483). Larceny, ¶41.

What is reasonable doubt—A definition of reasonable doubt, in an instruction, as "not some purely imaginary, fantastic, or chimerical doubt, but doubt based on reason," was not erroneous (135-211, 160+666). Criminal Law, ¶789(2).

Conviction on evidence of daughter as to incest with father, in face of positive denial by father, held not a violation of the rule as to reasonable doubt (123-128, 143+119). Incest, ¶14.

Evidence held insufficient to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that defendant was guilty of burning a barn in the nighttime (130-347, 153+845). Arson, ¶87(1).

Necessity of charge upon the presumption of innocence—Whether the issue of fact be one of intent or other fact, defendant, is entitled to a charge upon the presumption of innocence, and a failure to give such charge is not rendered harmless by giving a proper charge on reasonable doubt; but, if defendant makes no request for such charge, the omission to give it will not result in a reversal (130-84, 153+271). Criminal Law, ¶778(3), 823(9), 824(6).

Presumption of innocence as affecting civil actions—A mere charge of embezzlement against the president of a corporation, who is also a stockholder, will not preclude mandamus by him to compel inspection of the corporate books to enable him to resist the prosecution, since he is presumed innocent until convicted, and he is not in the attitude of one coming into court with unclean hands (135-479, 160+486). Mandamus, ¶129.

Proof that a foreign-born resident has voted, which act without naturalization is a crime, raises a presumption of naturalization, though it arises from the naturalization of the voter's father (123-119, 143+120). Citizens, ¶10.

8510. Dismissal, when—

The phrase "good cause to the contrary" refers to cause shown when the motion to dismiss the indictment is made. A motion to dismiss is properly overruled, where a case was continued from the September to the November term at defendant's request, the trial at the November term resulted in a disagreement of the jury, and defendant moved to dismiss when the case was again called for trial at the following January term (127-505, 150+171). Criminal Law, ¶576(2, 4).

8513. Counsel for defendant—Compensation—Public defender in counties having 300,000 inhabitants—Whenever a defendant shall be arraigned upon indictment or information for any felony or gross misdemeanor, and shall request the court to appoint counsel to assist in his defense, and satisfied it by his own oath or other required proof that he is unable, by reason of poverty, to procure counsel, such court shall appoint counsel, not exceeding two for such defendant, to be paid, upon his order, by the county in which the indictment was found. Compensation, not exceeding ten ($10.00) dollars per day for each counsel, for the number of days he is actually employed in the court, shall be fixed by the court in each case; provided that in counties now or hereafter having a population of 300,000 or over the judges of the district court of such county may by a unanimous vote, appoint an attorney at law, a member of the bar in such county to appear for and defend all persons charged with a felony or gross misdemeanor in such county who are unable by reason of poverty to employ counsel. (Amended '17 c. 496 § 1)

Section 8 repeals inconsistent acts, etc.

Compensation ordered under this section in favor of an attorney for defending an indigent, accused of crime, is not exempt from garnishment, as being fees of a state or public officer (128-264, 148+66). Garnishment, ¶63.

[8513—]1. Same—Duties of public defender—The attorney so appointed as aforesaid shall be known as the public defender of county. He shall appear for and defend all persons charged with any felony or gross misdemeanor whenever it shall appear to the court that the person accused is unable by reason of poverty to procure counsel. ('17 c. 496 § 2)

[8513—]2. Same—To appear before board of pardons and parole—Whenever the committing judge, or the judge in charge of the criminal court, shall deem it advisable he may by order direct the said public defender to appear before the board of pardons, or parole for and on behalf of any applicant for pardon or parole who was committed from such county. ('17 c. 496 § 3)

CHAPTER 96

CRIMES AGAINST PUBLIC JUSTICE

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION

8526. Asking or receiving bribes—

Cited (134-26, 158+790).

8538. Interfering with public officers—

Evidence held to sustain a conviction of resisting an officer in the performance of his duty (135-211, 160+666). Obstructing Justice, ¶16.

PERJURY AND OTHER CRIMES

8576. Resisting public officer—

Where the offense of which defendant was charged was clearly embraced in § 8538, it was proper to refuse to charge on simple misdemeanor under this section (135-211, 160+666).

8582. Criminal contempts—

Criminal contempt defined (see 128-153, 150+383). Contempt, ¶3.

[8596—]1. Criminal syndicalism defined—Advocacy of, felony—Criminal syndicalism is hereby defined as the doctrine which advocates crime, sabotage, (this word as used in this bill meaning malicious damage or injury to the property of an employer by an employé) violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing industrial or political ends. The advocacy of such doctrine, whether by word of mouth or writing is a felony punishable as in this act otherwise provided. ('17 c. 215 § 1)

[8596—]2. Same—Teaching or advocating syndicalism, felony—Any person who by word of mouth or writing, advocates or teaches the duty, necessity or propriety of crime, sabotage, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing industrial or political ends, or prints, publishes, edits, issues or knowingly circulates, sells, distributes or publicly displays any book, paper, document or written matter in any form, containing or advocating, advising or teaching the doctrine that industrial or political ends should be brought about by crime, sabotage, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism; or openly, wilfully and deliberately justifies by word of mouth or writing, the commission or the attempt to commit crime, sabotage, violence or other unlawful methods of terrorism with intent to exemplify, spread or advocate the propriety of the doctrines of criminal syndicalism, or organizes or helps to organize or becomes a member or voluntarily assembles with any society, group or assemblage of persons formed to teach or advocate the doctrine of criminal syndicalism, is guilty of a felony and punishable by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or both. CHAPTER 97

CRIMES AGAINST THE PERSON

HOMICIDE

8601. Defined and classified—

Cited (123-276, 143+782).

8602. Proof of death, and of killing by defendant—

Evidence held not to leave it to conjecture and speculation as to the cause of the death of decedent (123-487, 144+216). Homicide, Ⓒ236(1).

Evidence held sufficient to establish the corpus delicti, and that death resulted from the wounds inflicted (123-276, 143+782). Homicide, Ⓒ228(4).

8603. Murder in first degree—

Evidence held to sustain conviction of murder in the first degree (135-159, 160+677). Homicide, Ⓒ253(1).

Evidence held sufficient to show that decedent's death resulted from poison, but insufficient to show that it was administered by defendant (135-200, 160+491). Homicide, Ⓒ234(1).

8606. Murder in third degree—

Cited in dissenting opinion (131-427, 155+399).

8610. Killing of unborn child or mother—

Evidence held to support a conviction under this section (134-384, 159+829). Homicide, Ⓒ250.

Evidence held to support a conviction of manslaughter resulting from the commission of an abortion on a pregnant woman (131-252, 154+1083, L. R. A. 1916C, 566). Homicide, Ⓒ250.

Evidence held to sustain a conviction under this section (122-91, 141+1113). Homicide, Ⓒ255.

8612. Manslaughter in second degree—

An allegation of an intent to kill is not necessary in an indictment for manslaughter in the second degree, nor is an allegation that the act or neglect with which the defendant was charged was not done without a design to effect death. A parent, who by culpable negligence fails to provide medical assistance for a child wholly incapable of supplying its own wants, and so causes its death, is guilty of manslaughter in the second degree (126-396, 148+283). Homicide, § 78.

A medical man, or one assuming to act as such, is guilty of "culpable negligence," within the third subdivision of this section, where he has exhibited gross incompetency, or inattention or wanton indifference to his patient's safety (127-282, 149+297, L. R. A. 1915D, 201). Homicide, § 78.

An indictment against a physician for manslaughter through culpable negligence need not allege knowledge on defendant's part of probability of consequences from the acts or omissions charged, nor his duty in the premises, nor that his negligence was "culpable" or of any other degree eo nomine, nor set out defendant's acts in any other than general terms and as ultimate facts (127-282, 149+297, L. R. A. 1916C, 584). Homicide, § 134.

The indictment in such case, for manslaughter committed in connection with the operation of an X-ray machine, held sufficient as against a demurrer on the ground that the facts were not stated with sufficient certainty to set forth a public offense (127-282, 149+297, L. R. A. 1916C, 584). Indictment and Information, § 147.

8623. Homicide by other person, justifiable when—

Jury's finding that defendant committing admitted homicide was not acting in justifiable self-defense held sustained by evidence (162+358). Homicide, § 244(1).

KIDNAPPING8628. Defined—How punished—

Subd. 1—Evidence held to sustain a conviction under this subdivision (127-445, 149+945). Kidnapping, § 5.

ASSAULT8631. Assault in first degree defined—How punished—

Cited (132-295, 156+127).

8632. Assault in second degree defined—How punished—

Evidence held to support a conviction of assault in the second degree (128-402, 148+280). Assault and Battery, § 91.

Subd. 3—The word "willfully" means designedly or intentionally, and if the act was intentionally done defendant could be convicted of assault in the second degree, though he did not intend all the consequences of the act. The assault may be made with the bare hands, and without a weapon (135-76, 160+196). Assault and Battery, § 49.

An indictment in the language of the statute sufficiently charges an intent to inflict the harm, as the term "willfully" imports designedly and intentionally (131-427, 155+399). Assault and Battery, § 75; Indictment and Information, § 88.

Subd. 5—To constitute an assault with intent to rape, there must be an assault and an intent to commit the felony (133-425, 158+793). Rape, § 34(1, 2).

There is no distinction between an attempt to commit rape and an assault with intent to commit rape, since the intent must be precisely the same in each case; and hence, where the indictment charged an attempt to commit rape and the evidence showed a violent assault against the victim's will, a verdict acquitting of attempt, but finding defendant guilty of assault in the second degree, must be reversed as inconsistent within itself (133-425, 158+793). Rape, § 60.

Under an indictment for resisting a police officer, a conviction of assault in the second degree held not sustained by the evidence (162+683). Assault and Battery, § 91.

8633. Assault in third degree—How punished—

The words "assault" and "battery" are to be given their common-law meaning. Unlawfully discharging a firearm to frighten another, though intending not to hit him, is an assault and battery, if the other be hit (131-427, 155+399). Assault and Battery, § 57.

That an assault was committed with the fists alone does not necessarily exclude the application of § 8632, subd. 3, defining one of the forms of assault in the second degree, since grievous bodily harm may be inflicted with the naked hands (135-76, 160+196). Assault and Battery, § 49.

An instruction properly defining assault under this section, but which was given as defining an assault in the second degree was without prejudice, even if erroneous as to the second degree, where defendant was convicted of the third degree (131-427, 155+399). Criminal Law, § 1172(8).

In a prosecution under § 8538 for resisting an officer, it was not error to fail to charge on assault in the third degree in absence of a request for such instruction (135-211, 160+666). Criminal Law, § 795(1).

8634. Force or violence, when lawful—

8635. Defined—

Cited (161+595).

Evidence held to support a conviction of robbery (128-40, 150+168). Robbery, \S 24(1).

8636. In first degree, how punished—

Evidence held to support a conviction of defendant as principal in the crime of robbery (122-493, 142+822). Robbery, \S 24(1).

LIBEL AND SLANDER

8645. Libel defined—A misdemeanor—

A publication stating that a candidate for office has the backing of certain corporations in the state that are not in sympathy with the masses is not per se libelous (130-138, 153+258). Libel and Slander, \S 10(1).

[8654—]1. Slander—Every person who, in the presence and hearing of another, other than the person slandered, whether he be present or not, shall speak of or concerning any person, any false or defamatory words or language which shall injure or impair the reputation of such person for virtue or chastity or which shall expose him to hatred, contempt or ridicule, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. Every slander herein mentioned shall be deemed malicious if no justification therefor be shown and shall be justified when the language charged as slanderous, false or defamatory was true and was spoken with good motives and for justifiable ends. ('15 c. 284 § 1)

CHAPTER 98

CRIMES AGAINST MORALITY, DECENCY, ETC.

RAPE—ABDUCTION—CARNAL ABUSE, ETC.

8655. Rape—

The intent is sufficiently alleged by the use of the words "ravish and carnally know" (135-425, 158+793). Rape, \S 21.

Where the indictment alleged an attempt to ravish a female of the age of 14 years, and the evidence showed a violent assault against the will of prosecutrix, a verdict acquitting of attempt, but convicting of assault in the second degree, could not stand, since the verdict is inconsistent within itself, as the same intent is essential to both offenses (133-425, 158+793). Rape, \S 60.

8656. Carnal knowledge of children—

Where the indictment charges an attempt to rape a female of 14, and the evidence shows a violent assault against the will of prosecutrix, a verdict acquitting of attempt, but convicting of assault in the second degree, cannot stand, since it is inconsistent within itself, as the same intent is essential to both offenses (133-425, 158+793). Rape, \S 60.

A conviction may rest on the uncorroborated testimony of prosecutrix, unless such testimony is discredited by facts and circumstances casting doubt upon its truth. In such case defendant will be allowed much latitude in cross-examining prosecutrix, but it is not error to exclude a question as to her testimony before the grand jury, asked for the sole purpose of testing her memory. Requisites of cautionary instruction, as to weighing the testimony of prosecutrix, stated (127-485, 149+944). Rape, \S 52(2), 54(3).

Evidence of acts of defendant tending to destroy the child's modesty and to prepare her physically for coition held admissible, and the evidence was sufficient to sustain conviction (125-315, 146+1115). Rape, \S 46.

Evidence held sufficient to sustain a conviction of carnally knowing a female child of the age of 14 years (162+465). Rape, \S 52(2).

Evidence of other offenses, and election between acts (see 128-187, 150+793, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 360). Criminal Law, \S 369(8), 678(2).

Evidence (see 133-184, 158+48).

CRIMES AGAINST CHILDREN, ETC.

8666. Desertion of child or pregnant wife—Every parent or other person having legal responsibility for the care or support of a child who is under the age of sixteen years and unable to support himself by lawful employment, who deserts and fails to care for and support such child with intent wholly to abandon him; and every husband who, without lawful excuse, deserts and fails to support his wife, while pregnant, with intent wholly to abandon her is guilty of a felony and upon conviction shall be punished therefor by imprisonment in the state prison for not more than five years. Desertion of and failure to support a child or pregnant wife for a period of three months shall be presumptive evidence of intention wholly to abandon. (Amended '15 c. 336; '17 c. 213 § 1)

By 1917 c. 213 § 5 the act takes effect July 1, 1917.

8667. Failure to support wife or child—Every man who, without lawful excuse wilfully fails to furnish proper food, shelter, clothing, or medical attendance to his wife, such wife being in destitute circumstances; and every person having legal responsibility for the care or support of a child who is under sixteen years of age and unable to support himself by lawful employment, who wilfully fails to make proper provision for such child, is guilty of a misdemeanor. But if any person convicted under this section gives bond to the state, in such amount and with such sureties as the court prescribes and approves, conditioned to furnish the wife or child with proper food, shelter, clothing, and medical attendance for such a period, not exceeding five years, as the court may order, judgment shall be suspended until some condition of the bond is violated. The bond may, in the discretion of the court, be conditioned upon the payment of a specified sum of money at stated intervals. Upon the filing of an affidavit showing the violation of any of the conditions of the bond, the accused shall be heard upon an order to show cause, and, if the charge be sustained, the judgment shall be executed. The wife or child, and any person furnishing necessary food, shelter, clothing, or medical attendance to either, may sue upon the bond for a breach of any condition thereof. (Amended '17 c. 213 § 2)

Evidence held insufficient to sustain a conviction for failure to furnish food, shelter, or clothing to minor children (129-389, 152+762). Parent and Child, §=17(6).

8668-A. Same—Proof of relationship—In any prosecution for desertion of or failure to support a wife or child no other or greater evidence shall be required to prove the relationship of the defendant to such wife or child than is or shall be required to prove such relationship in civil action. ('17 c. 213 § 4)

1917 c. 213 § 4 adds a section to this chapter to be known as section 8668-A.

[8683—]1. Distribution or employing minors for distribution of certain literature among minors prohibited—No person shall sell, lend, give away, show, advertise or otherwise offer for loan, gift, sale or distribution to any minor under the age of eighteen years, any book, pamphlet, magazine, newspaper or other printed paper devoted to the publication or largely made up of criminal news, police reports, accounts of criminal deeds, or pictures or stories of deeds of bloodshed, lust or crime; nor shall any person hire, use or employ a minor under the age of eighteen years to sell or give away, or in any manner distribute, or permit any such minor in his custody or control to sell, give away or in any manner distribute, any material herein described. ('17 c. 242 § 1)

[8683—]2. Same—Penalty—Any person who violates any provision of this act is guilty of a misdemeanor. ('17 c. 242 § 2)

8684. Unlawful confinement of lunatic, etc.—Every person who shall confine a lunatic, insane or feeble-minded person in any other manner or in any other place than is authorized by law, or who shall be guilty of harsh, cruel, or unkind treatment of, or neglect of duty toward, any feeble-minded person, lunatic or insane person under confinement, whether lawfully or unlawfully confined, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. (Amended '17 c. 209 § 1)

ABORTION, ETC.

BIGAMY—ADULTERY, ETC.

8700. Incest—

8701. Crime against nature—

Slandorous charge (see 122-525, 142+1134).

8702. Adultery—

The indictment need not show that a prosecution was commenced on complaint of the husband or wife nor that it was commenced within one year from the date of the offense (123-392, 143+971). Adultery, §7.

If no prosecution has been commenced by an examining magistrate, and the indictment shows that the offense was committed more than one year before a return thereof, such motion to quash will lie (123-392, 143+971). Indictment and Information, §137\(1\).

The indictment may be returned at any time within three years from the commission of the offense (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, §147.

Proceedings by an examining magistrate, by which the accused is held to answer in the district court, constitute a commencement of the prosecution within this section (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, §157.

Proceedings by an examining magistrate are required to be certified to and filed in the district court, and thereafter the prosecution is pending in that court (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, §244.

If defendant has been held to answer before an examining magistrate, and the offense proven at the trial was committed more than one year before the return of the indictment, whether such offense was the same offense for which he had been held to answer was a question for the jury (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, §739\(4\).

8703. Fornication—

A man and unmarried woman dwelling together and engaging in carnal intercourse are guilty under this section, though they may ostensibly dwell together for some lawful purpose or attempt to conceal their immoral relations (125-497, 147+663). Lewdness, §1.

('17 c. 211 § 1)

1917 c. 211 § 1 adds a section to this chapter, to be known as section 8703-A.

By § 2 the act takes effect January 1, 1918.

8704. Exposure of person—Public indecency—

2. Shall exhibit upon any public road, street, or other place within view of any minor any of the books, papers, or other things hereinbefore enumerated; or

3. Shall hire, use, or employ any minor to sell or give away, or in any manner distribute, or shall permit any minor in his custody or control to sell, give away, or in any manner distribute, any of the articles hereinbefore mentioned—

Shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor, and be punished by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year nor less than ninety days, or by a fine not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by both. (Amended '17 c. 241 § 1)

Uttering obscene language at a public assemblage held a violation of a city ordinance denouncing obscenity, though the language was a quotation from a standard work on theology (130-532, 153+305). Obscenity, ¶8.

8712. Keeper of disorderly resort—

Cited (126-95, 147+953).

Acts not sufficient to constitute an offense under this section may render a saloon keeper liable on his bond for failing to keep a "quiet and orderly house" (131-136, 154+795, L. R. A. 1916E, 269). Intoxicating Liquors, ¶86, 87.

Time is not an essential element of the offense defined by this section, and it is not necessary to prove the commission of the offense within the time laid in the indictment (123-451, 143+1126, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 792). Disorderly House, ¶13.

Evidence held to support a conviction (127-505, 150+171). Criminal Law, ¶741(1).

8717. Houses of prostitution, etc., nuisances—

Nature of statute.—This act was intended by the legislature to be a civil and not a penal statute, as the criminal aspects of the act against which the statute is directed were already covered by existing statutes (126-95, 147+953).

This act is not penal with reference to forfeiture and sale of personal property used in maintaining the nuisance or with reference to any of the other penalties imposed (126-95, 147+953).

Who are liable.—Under this section owners of a leasehold estate, who sublet the premises to one who, with their knowledge, maintains a nuisance, are liable to the penalties imposed (135-465, 160+783). Nuisance, ¶82.

An owner of personal property covered by a contract of conditional sale executed prior to the enactment of this statute has no vested right to its use in violation of this act, though prior thereto such sale and use were not unlawful (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Constitutional Law, ¶92.

Constitutionality.—This act does not violate the constitutional guaranty of a jury trial merely because the act denounced constituted a crime at the time of the adoption of the constitution (126-95, 147+953). Jury, ¶10, 12(2).

This statute is not invalid as an unreasonable exercise of the police power with respect to personal property used in a disorderly house (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Nuisance, ¶60.

The act in its remedial details, as well as general purpose, is a proper exercise of the police power (126-95, 147+953). Nuisance, ¶60.

Other remedies.—Aside from this act, equity has power to abate the nuisance therein described (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549; 126-95, 147+953). Nuisance, ¶75.

8718. Same—Action to enjoin—Restraining order—Answer, etc.—

126-95, 147+953; note under § 8717.

The act does not contemplate determination of the rights of defendants to personal property used in the house on application for a temporary injunction (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Nuisance, ¶84.

8719. Same—Trial—Action by citizen, etc.—

126-95, 147+953; note under § 8717.

Constitutionality—Neither this section nor § 8721 authorize interference as to property rights without due process of law (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Constitutional Law, ¶311.

Notice to owner—An owner of property is chargeable with the knowledge of her agent that the leased premises are being used as a disorderly house (131-308, 155+90). Nuisance, ¶82.

Holding that the owner must have notice of the nuisance before he can be charged under the act does not render the statute inoperative (131-308, 155+90). Nuisance, ¶85.

Evidence—Testimony of a detective as to general reputation, based on conversations with taxi drivers, and of an officer who had not been in the vicinity of the house at a time material to the controversy, was improperly received, and its admission prejudicial (131-308, 155+90). Witnesses, ¶37(2).

The character of the premises may be shown by evidence as to how it is conducted. In an action to abate a nuisance denounced by this act, testimony of the general reputation of the premises is competent upon the question of their character and knowledge of it in defendants. Evidence that a hotel was openly and continuously used by streetwalkers for their purposes as occasion required was sufficient to show the maintenance of a nuisance under the statute (131-349, 154+1073). Nuisance, ¶84.

8721. Same—Order of abatement—Personal property—Contempt—Fees—

126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549; note under § 8719.

A holding that the owner must have notice of the nuisance before he is chargeable under the act does not render the statute inoperative. The prohibition against the use of the building for a year affects only those owners who had knowledge of the maintenance of the nuisance (131-308, 155+90). Nuisance, ¶85.

The provision of this section, that claimants of personal property used in maintaining the house must prove innocence "to the satisfaction of the court," is not objectionable, in that it calls for more than a preponderance of the evidence (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Nuisance, ¶84.

A motion to vacate a default judgment in proceedings under this act is addressed to the trial court's discretion (131-488, 154+659). Judgment, ¶139.

8722. Same—Duty of county attorney, etc.—

126-95, 147+953; note under § 8717.

This section applies only to defendants convicted in inferior courts, and, if invalid, does not concern defendant property owners, appellants in a civil action alone; the word "now" being a misprint for "not" (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Statutes, ¶64(6).

8723. Same—Intervention by owner—

The provision of this section as to giving bond is not violative of the bill of rights, providing for the obtaining of justice freely and without purchase, or of the provision of the state and federal constitution as to due process of law (131-308, 155+90). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1), 324; Nuisance, ¶60.

This provision is unnecessarily drastic, but the other sections are not affected thereby, even if it be held invalid (126-95, 147+953). Statutes, ¶64(6).

Though a subtenant conducted an abatable nuisance, the tenant having acted in good faith, and the owner having had no knowledge of the improper use of the premises, injunction properly went against the tenant, with privilege of giving the bond provided for by this section (131-349, 154+1073). Novation, ¶84.

8724. Same—Permanent injunction—Penalty and lien—

The penalty affixed is not a tax within the meaning of Const. art. 4 § 10, providing that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house (131-308, 155+90). Statutes, ¶6.

Proceedings under this act, being equitable, do not require a jury trial, and the court, having properly assumed jurisdiction thereof, had power to grant full relief, incidental as well as primary (126-95, 147+953). Nuisance, ¶85.

8725. Same—Owners and agents—Parties to action—

126-95, 147+953; note under § 8717.

Conducting a picture and vaudeville show on Sunday in such a way as not to seriously interrupt the repose and religious liberty of a community is not a violation of this section, and hence a contract for advertising space on the curtain of a theater so conducted, the contract contemplating its use on Sunday, is not void (126-257, 148+100). Sunday, ~~§~~6 (1), 11.

The execution of a contract on Sunday for such advertising space is not void under the conditions stated (126-257, 148+100). Sunday, ~~§~~13.

Negligence, ~~§~~51.

CRIMES AGAINST THE PUBLIC PEACE

8803. Aiming or discharging firearms, etc.—

Discharging firearm without justification to frighten another, though intending not to hit him, but which in fact does hit him, is an assault and battery under § 8633; the act being unlawful under this section (131-427, 155+399). Assault and Battery, § 57.

[8809—]1. Foreign born residents not citizens, etc., forbidden to have firearms, etc.—Penalty—Hunting game animals and birds, when permitted—That it shall be unlawful for any foreign born resident of this state who has not become a citizen of the United States, or who has not declared his intention, in accordance to law, of becoming a citizen of the United States, to hunt for or capture or kill in the state of Minnesota any wild bird or animal, either game or otherwise, of any description, except in lawful defense of person or property, and to that end it shall be unlawful for any such foreign born resident within this state to either own or be possessed of a shotgun or rifle, or other firearms of any make. Provided that any person who has not become a citizen of the United States, or who has not declared his intention, in accordance to law, of becoming a citizen of the United States, may hunt for or capture or kill game animals and game birds subject to the same laws and regulations as govern the taking of game animals or game birds in this state by non-residents.

Each and every person violating the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall upon conviction thereof be punished by a fine of not less than twenty-five ($25.00) dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than thirty (30) days. ARSON

8821. First degree—

The corpus delicti in arson requires proof, not alone of the fact that the building burned, but that the fire originated through criminal agency. In this case, held, that the evidence is insufficient to prove such corpus delicti (128-163, 150+787). Arson, § 37(1).

8822. Second degree—

Circumstantial evidence may be sufficient to convict and to establish the corpus delicti (132-225, 156+280). Arson, § 37(1).

Evidence held insufficient to support a conviction of burning a barn (130-347, 153+845). Arson, § 37(1).

Evidence held to sustain a conviction (128-481, 151+186). Larceny, ~~§~~55.

EXTORTION OR OPPRESSION

8894. Written and verbal threats—

An attempt consists of some specific intentional overt act tending directly, in the natural course of events, to the commission of the crime; and the mere act of soliciting another to commit the crime, or preparation therefor, is not, in the absence of some overt act looking to its actual commission, sufficient to justify conviction. The evidence in this case held insufficient to show an overt act (131-65, 154+737). Criminal Law, ~~§~~44, 45.

FALSE PERSONATION, ETC.

8901. False statements to obtain credit—

This act is not invalid because its title is broader and more comprehensive than the subject-matter of the act (135-89, 160+204). Statutes, ~~§~~118(2).

This act does not contravene Const. art. 4 § 33, as being class legislation, nor the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution, though the act is aimed at those only who make or use false statements to obtain credit from banks, savings banks, and trust companies (135-89, 160+204). Constitutional Law, ~~§~~205(1), 208(1); Statutes, ~~§~~76(1).

('13 c. 51, amended '15 c. 309 § 1)

1915 c. 309 is entitled "An act to amend Chapter 51, General Laws of 1913," etc., although it does not expressly amend the same.

[8903—]1. Same—Dairy and food commission to enforce—Duty of county attorney—The duty of a strict observance and enforcement of this law and prosecution for any violation thereof is hereby expressly imposed upon the Dairy and Food Commission of the State of Minnesota, and it shall be the duty of the county attorney of any county wherein a violation of this act shall have occurred, upon complaint being made to him, to prosecute any person violating any of the provisions of this act. ('15 c. 309 § 2)

8907. Selling or concealing mortgaged property—"Chattel mortgage" defined—Every person who, with intent to place mortgaged personal property beyond the reach of the mortgagee or his assigns, shall remove or conceal, or aid or abet in removing or concealing, any such property, and any mortgagor of such property who shall assent to or knowingly suffer such reremoval or concealment, or, at any time before the debt secured by a chattel mortgage has been fully paid, shall sell, convey, or in any manner dispose of the personal property so mortgaged, or any part thereof, without the written consent of the mortgagee or his assigns, or without informing the person to whom he shall sell, convey, or dispose of the same that it is mortgaged, and the true amount then due on the debt secured by such mortgage, shall be punished by imprisonment in the state prison or county jail for not more than one year, or by fine of not more than five hundred dollars.

Chattel mortgage within the meaning of this act shall include every written instrument whether in form a chattel mortgage or contract of conditional sale, whereby the title of personal property therein described is mortgaged, held or reserved as security for a debt; mortgaged personal property shall include all personal property which is described in or covered by any such instrument; and the provisions and penalties of this act shall apply to all vendors and vendees of personal property, the title to which is so held or reserved, in the same manner and with the same force and effect as applicable to mortgagors and mortgagees. (Amended '17 c. 90 § 1)

FALSE WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

8913. Using false weights and measures—

124-307, 144-962.

Under an ordinance declaring that one knowingly selling commodities at short weight shall be fined, knowledge is an essential element of the offense, and where complaint did not charge that sale was by short weight to defendant's knowledge, and no evidence thereof was offered no violation was shown (162-451). Weights and Measures, ¶12.

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF—INJURIES TO PROPERTY

8932. Interfering with dam, etc.—

One who destroys a boom materially obstructing a navigable river is not liable to prosecution under this section (130-229, 153-532, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 267). Malicious Mischief, ¶1.

8934. Injury of property—

An indictment was not bad because it failed to charge that defendant acted "maliciously" (127-510, 150-209). Malicious Mischief, ¶4.

CHAPTER 102

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

8956. Cruelty in transportation—

Evidence held to justify finding that defendant railroad company was negligent in the care of live stock unloaded in the course of transportation (123-495, 144-220). Carriers, ¶230(4).

MISCELLANEOUS CRIMES

[8965—]1. Sale of certain narcotics prohibited—Exceptions—On or after the 31st day of December, 1915, it shall be unlawful for any person to possess or sell or otherwise dispose of any opium or preparation or manufacture thereof; any morphine or salt or ester or other derivative thereof; any heroin or salt or ester thereof; any coca leaves except decocanized coca leaves; any preparation or manufacture of coca leaves except decocanized preparations or manufactures; any cocaine or salt or ester or other derivative thereof; any alpha—or beta—eucaine or salt or ester thereof; or any chloral or any salt, or ester thereof; or any synthetic substitute for any of the aforementioned substances. Provided that nothing contained in this section shall apply:

ord shall set forth the facts above required to be stated, shall be deemed a satisfactory compliance with the provisions of this paragraph. Whenever required to do so by the authorities charged with the duty of enforcing this act any person selling or distributing the aforementioned substances shall render to such authorities requesting it a true and correct statement verified by affidavit setting out the quantity of such drugs received by him during a period immediately preceding the request, not exceeding three months, as the authorities may demand, the names of the persons from whom the said drugs were received, the quantity in each instance received from each of such persons, and the date when received.

(i) To the administration, sale or other disposal of any of the aforementioned substances by a legally licensed physician or dentist for or to a patient upon whom he is in professional attendance; provided that said physician or dentist shall keep a record of the name and address of the patient, the date of the sale or other disposal, and the amount of the drug transferred; provided that the making and preserving of any record required by any other law of this state or of the United States, which record shall set forth the facts above required to be stated, shall be deemed satisfactory compliance with the provisions of this paragraph; and provided further that any of the aforementioned substances dispensed for the use of a patient by a legally licensed physician or dentist shall be delivered in a container labeled with the name of the patient, the date of the delivery, and the name and address of the dispenser.

(j) To the administration of any of the aforementioned substances to a lower animal and not to a human being by a legally licensed veterinarian, or to the prescribing, sale, or other disposal of the aforementioned substances for administration to a lower animal and not to a human being, by a legally licensed veterinarian; provided that said veterinarian when selling or delivering any of the aforementioned substances shall keep a record of the name and address of the person to whom he delivers any of the aforementioned substances, the kind of animal for whose use the aforementioned substances are delivered, the date of the delivery and the amount of the drug transferred in such instances as he may deliver of any of the aforementioned substances more than two full adult medicinal doses for the kind of animal specified, and provided further that any of the aforementioned substances delivered by a legally licensed veterinarian shall be delivered in a container labeled with the name of the person to whom the delivery is made, the kind of animal for whose use the medicine is intended, the date of the delivery, and the name and address of the dispenser.

(k) To the sale by manufacturers, wholesale dealers, legally licensed pharmacists, druggists, physicians, surgeons, dentists or veterinarians or by retail dealers licensed by the board of pharmacy to sell bona fide medicinal preparations intended for internal use, which do not contain in one fluid ounce, or if a solid or semi-solid preparation, in one avoirdupois ounce, separately more than two grains of opium or the extractive of two grains thereof, or more than one-fourth grain of morphine or any salt thereof, or more than one-eighth grain of heroin or any salt thereof, or more than one grain codeine of [or] any salt thereof, or 120 grains of chloral or salt or ester thereof, or of any bona fide medicinal preparation suitable for external use only, which does not contain cocaine or any salt or derivative thereof or any synthetic substitute therefor, or alpha—or beta—eucaine or any salt or derivative thereof or any synthetic substitute therefor, or heroin or any salt or derivative thereof. ('15 c. 260 § 1)

By § 7 the act takes effect December 31, 1915.

[8965—]2. Same—Physicians and dentists forbidden to prescribe for habitual users, etc.—It shall be unlawful for any physician or dentist to furnish to or prescribe for the use of any habitual user of the same any of the substances enumerated in Section 1 of this act [8965—1]; provided that the provisions of this section shall not be construed to prevent any legally licensed physician from prescribing in good faith for the use of any patient under his care for the treatment of a drug habit such substances as he may deem necessary for such treatment; provided that such prescriptions are given in good faith for the treatment of such habit. ('15 c. 260 § 2)

he in good faith believed to be a prescription of a licensed physician, licensed dentist or licensed veterinarian issued for a lawful purpose. ('15 c. 260 § 3)

[8965—]4. Same—Licenses revoked on second conviction—Whenever any legally licensed physician, surgeon, dentist, veterinarian, pharmacist, druggist, manufacturer, wholesale or retail dealer or institution, shall have been twice convicted in a court of proper jurisdiction of any felony under this act, the officer or board, having power to issue licenses to any such licensed person, may, after giving such licensee reasonable notice and opportunity to be heard, revoke the license of said licensee. ('15 c. 260 § 4)

[8965—]5. Same—"Person" defined—The word "person" as used in this act shall be construed to mean and include a partnership, association, company or corporation, as well as a natural person. ('15 c. 260 § 5)

8969. Frauds on innkeepers, etc.—

Cited (135-89, 160+204).

8971. Advertisement soliciting divorce business—

This section is not invalid as depriving attorneys or others of a vested right (123-227, 143+780). Constitutional Law, ¶92.

An advertisement by an attorney, "Law Specialties, divorce and corporation matters; confidential advice; free booklet on organization and promotion of corporations; references," was a violation of this section (123-227, 143+780). Attorney and Client, ¶33.

Violation of this statute by an attorney, being a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, is ground for suspension from practice (123-529, 143+1135). Attorney and Client, ¶39.

8973. Trusts and combinations—

123-17, 142+930, L. R. A. 1915B, 1179, 1195.

Monopolies—The violation of the statute by the formation of a combination is not excused by facts tending to justify the act, and which would have been proper and legal had the members acted independently. The combination of several persons and corporations, all independent dealers in the milk and cream business, to raise the price thereof is a violation of the statute, though the increased price was necessary to afford them a profit (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Monopolies, ¶17(1).

For the violation of this and the following section for entering into a combination to raise the price of commodities, a domestic corporation is not subject to the penalty imposed by this section, but only to the forfeiture prescribed by § 8974. The original statute, 1899 c. 359, imposed both fine and forfeiture of charter, but the revision of 1905 changed the statute in this respect, thereby making the penalty of forfeiture of the charter the exclusive punishment as to domestic corporations (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Monopolies, ¶26(1).

An indictment under this section, charging that defendants, several concerns and corporations, "were jointly and severally" engaged in a certain occupation, and in violation of the statute formed a combination for increasing the price of their products, held to charge that defendants were to some extent independent dealers, and not jointly associated in business as one concern. Evidence held to support a conviction under this section (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Monopolies, ¶31.

Contracts in restraint of trade—An advertising contract to prepare and furnish premium catalogues in which certain articles should be listed, merely tending to prevent plaintiff from furnishing such catalogues and merchandise to certain parties in defendant's locality, was not in restraint of trade (162+887). Contracts, ¶117(2).

A covenant in a bill of sale of a transfer business not to engage in the same business in a certain city held not in restraint of trade (124-49, 144+415). Contracts, ¶117(5).

Acquiescence as barring right to appeal—After defendant, a foreign corporation, changed its plea of not guilty to violation of this section, and entered a plea of guilty, and paid the fine imposed without protest as to the amount, it could not appeal from the judgment of conviction (127-252, 149+286, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 618). Criminal Law, ¶1131(4).

8974. Domestic corporations to forfeit franchises—Foreign corporations—

The revision of this and the preceding section in 1905 changed the pre-existing statute, so as to make a penalty of forfeiture of the charter the exclusive punishment as to domestic corporations. A domestic corporation is not subject to the penalty imposed by § 8973, but only to the forfeiture of its charter as prescribed by this section (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Monopolies, ¶26(1).

8988. Milk, etc.—Discrimination between different localities prohibited—Evidence—Any person, firm, co-partnership or corporation engaged in the business of buying milk, cream or butterfat for the purpose of manufacture who shall, with the intention of creating a monopoly or destroying the business of a competitor, discriminate between different sections, localities, communities or cities of this state by purchasing such commodity at a higher price or rate in one locality than is paid for the same commodity by said person, firm, co-partnership or corporation in another locality after making due allowance for the difference, if any, in the actual cost of transportation from the locality of purchase to the locality of manufacture shall be deemed guilty of unfair discrimination and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500), or by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed six months.

Proof that any person, firm, co-partnership or corporation has paid a higher price for milk or cream in one locality than in another, after due allowance for the cost of transportation has been made, shall be prima facie evidence of violation of this act. ('13 c. 230 § 1, amended '17 c. 337 § 1)

[8989—]1. Monopolization of food products declared criminal conspiracy—Any combination of persons, either as individuals, or as members or officials of any corporation to monopolize the markets for food products in this state or to interfere with or restrict the freedom of such markets, is hereby declared to be a criminal conspiracy. ('17 c. 381 § 1)

[8989—]2. Same—Penalty—Any person found guilty of violating this act shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than $100, or imprisonment in the county jail for a period not to exceed ninety days. ('17 c. 381 § 2)

9010. Boarding moving engines or cars—

[9014—]1. Rendition of "The Star Spangled Banner" when prohibited—The playing, singing or rendering of the hymn commonly known and designated as The Star-Spangled Banner, in any public place or at any public entertainment, or in any theatre or motion picture hall, restaurant or café in the State of Minnesota, except as an entire and separate composition or number, without embellishments of national or other melodies, and the singing or playing of said hymn or any part thereof as a part or selection of a medley of any kind, and the playing of said hymn at or in any of the places mentioned, for dancing or as an exit march, is hereby prohibited. ('17 c. 247 § 1)

[9014—]2. Owner of theatre, etc., forbidden to permit—No owner, proprietor or manager of any theatre, moving picture hall, restaurant, café or other place within the State of Minnesota, where the public gathers, shall submit or allow anyone playing, singing or performing therein, to play, sing or render the said hymn in violation of the provisions of this act. ('17 c. 247 § 2)

[9014—]3. Same—Penalty—Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. ('17 c. 247 § 3)

1. A person who, being an habitual drunkard, abandons, neglects or refuses to aid in the support of his family.

2. A person who has contracted an infectious or other disease in the practice of drunkenness or debauchery, requiring charitable aid to restore him to health.

3. Every male person who lives wholly or in part on the earnings of prostitution, or who in any public place solicits for immoral purposes. A male person who lives with or is habitually in the company of a prostitute

- and has no visible means of support, shall be deemed to be living on the earnings of prostitution.

4. A common prostitute who shall be found wandering about the streets, or loitering in or about any restaurant, lodging house, saloon, or place where intoxicating liquors are sold.

5. Every female who shall be found wandering about the streets and addressing male persons for the purpose of soliciting the commission of any lewd, indecent or unlawful act, or for the purpose of enticing any male person into a house of prostitution or assignation, bedhouse, room, or other place for any unlawful purpose.

6. Fortune tellers, and such other like imposters.

7. A person known to be a pickpocket, thief, burglar, "yeggman" or "confidence man," and having no visible or lawful means of support, when found loitering around any steamboat landing, railroad depot, railroad yard, banking institution, broker's office, place of public amusement, hotel, auction room, store, shop or crowded thoroughfare, car or omnibus, or at any public gathering or assembly. Provided, however, that this act shall not apply to any such person unless he has been convicted of the offense which would make him known as such person, and shall not apply to any person who has been in prison for such offense, who, after being released from such imprisonment has been engaged in lawful employment, and shall not in any case apply to any such person until more than thirty days have elapsed since being released from such imprisonment.

8. A person engaged in practicing or attempting any trick or device to procure money or other thing of value, if such trick or device is made a public offense by any law of this state, or any person engaged in soliciting, procuring or attempting to solicit or procure money or other thing of value by falsely pretending and representing himself to be blind, deaf, dumb, without arms or legs, or to be otherwise physically deficient or to be suffering from any physical defect or infirmity.

9. A person wandering about and lodging in taverns, groceries, ale-houses, outhouses, market places, sheds, stables, barns or other uninhabited buildings or in the open air and not giving a good account of himself.

10. Any person not blind, over sixteen years of age and who has not resided in the county in which he may be at any time for a period of six months prior thereto, and not having visible means to maintain himself, lives without employment or wanders about and begs, or goes from door to door or places himself in the streets, highways or public passages to beg or receive alms.

Every such person shall upon conviction thereof be punished by imprisonment not exceeding ninety (90) days or by a fine not exceeding one hundred dollars ($100.00). (Amended '17 c. 292 § 1)

[9032—]1. Itinerant persons forbidden to place animals or to camp on highways, when—It shall be unlawful for any itinerant person or persons to hitch or turn loose on any public highway in this state any horses, cattle or other animals for the purpose of feeding the same or for the purpose of temporarily camping on such public highway for a period to exceed twelve hours and within six miles of the previous camping place of said person or persons. ('15 c. 279 § 1)

[9032—]2. Same—Penalty for violation—Any resident in this state may enter complaint before any court having jurisdiction against any person or persons violating this section and it shall be the duty of such court to issue a warrant for the arrest of such person or persons complained of, and have them brought forthwith before said court for examination, and if found guilty of such violation as charged, said person or persons shall be punished by a fine not exceeding fifty ($50.00) dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than thirty days. ('15 c. 279 § 2)

CRIMINAL PROCEDURE

SEARCH WARRANTS

9035. To whom directed—Contents—

A description of the place to be searched meets the requirements, where it furnishes data from which the officer is enabled to definitely locate the place. The description in this case held sufficient (132-260, 156+130). Searches and Seizures, ¶3.

EXTRADITION

9038. Warrant of extradition, service, etc.—

To overcome the effect to be given the governor's warrant, the evidence must clearly and satisfactorily demonstrate that the person therein named was not in the demanding state at or about the time the crime was committed (135-320, 160+858). Extradition, ¶39.

In habeas corpus proceedings, the burden of proving that he is not a fugitive from justice is upon the prisoner; the warrant being prima facie evidence against him (128-38, 147+708). Habeas Corpus, ¶85(2).

ARRESTS

9066. Without warrant, when—Break door, etc., when—

EXAMINATION OF OFFENDERS—COMMITMENT—BAIL

9072. Process, by whom issued—

The determination of a committing magistrate will not be disturbed on habeas corpus, where the record discloses evidence reasonably tending to support it (124-456, 145+167). Habeas Corpus, ¶102.

9088. Certifying testimony—

Proceedings by an examining magistrate are required to be certified to and filed in the district court, and thereafter the prosecution is pending in that court (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, ¶244.

GRAND JURIES

9100. Exemptions—Disqualifications—In addition to the persons otherwise exempted therefrom by law, the following persons shall be exempt from service as grand jurors: United States officers, judges of courts of record, commissioners of public buildings, the state auditor, treasurer, and librarian, all county and city officers, including members of school boards in cities of the first class, constables, attorneys at law, ministers of the gospel, preceptors and teachers of high and graded schools and academies, one teacher in each common school, practicing physicians and surgeons, duly licensed embalmers, one miller to each grist mill, one ferryman to each licensed ferry, all acting telegraph operators, all members of fire companies organized according to law, all engineers actively engaged as locomotive or stationary engineers, all persons more than sixty years of age, all persons not of sound mind or discretion, and all persons subject to any bodily infirmity amounting to disability. All persons unable to speak and understand the English language, all persons whose names have been placed on any jury list at the request or suggestion, direct or indirect, of any person other than the officer charged with preparing such list, and all persons who shall have been convicted of any infamous crime, shall be disqualified from serving as grand jurors. (Amended '15 c. 15 § 1)

INDICTMENTS

9134. Contents—

Technical form is not important (121-381, 141+526). Indictment and Information, ¶75(1).

Verbal inaccuracies not ground of demurrer (121-381, 141+526). Indictment and Information, ¶79.

Matters of description or inducement need not be stated with the same particularity in an indictment as the facts constituting the essential elements of the crime are required to be stated (124-34, 144+417, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Indictment and Information, ¶90.

Repugnant allegations in an indictment, which negative each other, do not vitiate the indictment, if neither of the repugnant allegations is necessary (126-396, 148+283). Homicide, ¶128.

It is proper to charge acts constituting manslaughter in the second degree in the conjunctive (126-396, 148+283). Homicide, ¶309(1).

9135. Form—

Technical form not required (121-381, 141+526). Indictment and Information, ¶75(1).

9138. Different counts—

An allegation in an indictment for manslaughter in the second degree of acts which constitute a more grave degree of homicide do not vitiate the indictment under this section (126-396, 148+283). Homicide, ¶139.

9139. Time, how stated—

Time not being an essential element in the offense of keeping a disorderly house (§ 8712), it is not necessary to prove the commission of the offense within the time laid in the indictment (123-451, 143+1126, 49 L. R. A. [N. S.] 792). Disorderly House, ¶13.

9140. Erroneous allegation as to person injured—

Idem sonans (see 129-409, 152+775).

9141. Words of statute need not be followed—

127-510, 150+209; 131-427, 155+399.

9142. Tests of sufficiency—

127-510, 150+209; 131-427, 155+399.

The indictment need not show that a prosecution was commenced on complaint of the husband or wife, nor that it was commenced within one year from the date of the offense (123-392, 143+971). Adultery, ¶7.

9143. Formal defects disregarded—

Technical form is not important (121-381, 141+526). Indictment and Information, ¶75(1).

Variance as to names; idem sonans (see 129-409, 152+775).

Repugnant allegations in an indictment, which negative each other, do not vitiate the indictment, if neither of the repugnant allegations is necessary (126-396, 148+283). Homicide, ¶128.

Error of the court in indulging in argument on the facts in its charge to the jury is not rendered harmless by this section (122-479, 142+801). Criminal Law, ¶922(5).

9150. Limitations—

The indictment may be returned at any time within three years from the commission of the offense (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, ¶147.

9157. Larceny by clerks, agents, etc.—Evidence—

Pleading and proof as to agency (see 130-10, 153+123).

9185. Grounds of demurrer—

Verbal inaccuracies not ground for demurrer (121-381, 141+526). Indictment and Information, ¶79.

9196. Place of trial—Change of venue—

Where evidence was conflicting as to whether alleged offense was committed within county named in indictment, it was not error for court to refuse to read to jury statute fixing boundary line of that county (162+465). Criminal Law, ¶772(4).

ISSUES AND MODE OF TRIAL

9200. Issue of fact—How tried—Appearance in person—

Defendant, who had not challenged either of two jurors, and who did not object on account of his absence to the judge's inquiry in chambers if they had been tampered with, could not complain of such action (162+465). Criminal Law, ¶660.

9204. Juror may testify, when—View—

Admissibility of testimony of jurors as to information gained on a view in a former trial, the verdict in which was set aside for misconduct of the jury in conducting experiments without authority (127-510, 150+209). Witnesses, ¶78.

9205. Questions of law and fact, how decided—

A request to charge that a witness was an accomplice as a matter of law held properly refused (135-159, 160+677). Criminal Law, ¶780(1).

The construction of a writing, such as an advertisement alleged to violate § 8971, is for the court, when the intention of the writer is to be gathered wholly from the writing itself (123-227, 143+780). Attorney and Client, ¶33.

Argumentative instructions condemned (122-479, 142+801). Criminal Law, ¶807(1).

9207. Charge of court—

Necessity to request instructions—Necessity of requests for instructions (122-91, 141+1113). Criminal Law, ¶824(1), 825(1).

Failure to request instructions, or to object to the charge as given, precludes review (122-493, 142+823). Criminal Law, ¶1038(1, 3).

When the court reviews the evidence, defendant is entitled to a charge that the jury are the exclusive judges of all questions of fact; but a failure to so charge, no request being made, will not result in a reversal (130-84, 153+271). Criminal Law, ¶782(3), 824(14).

In a joint trial, where evidence given voluntarily by one of the defendants is offered in evidence against such defendant, an instruction that such evidence was to be considered solely against the defendant who gave the testimony should have been given; but it was not error to fail to so instruct, in absence of a request for such a charge (127-445, 149+945). Criminal Law, ¶824(11).

Where the statutory definition of an offense is given to the jury, if defendant desires a more specific statement as to the elements of the offense he should make a request therefor (124-58, 144+410). Criminal Law, ¶825(2).

In a prosecution for resisting an officer, under § 8538, it was not error to fail to charge on assault in the third degree, in absence of a request for an instruction thereon (135-211, 160+666). Criminal Law, ¶824(3).

Argument in charge—It is not the province of the court to indulge in argument in its charge (122-479, 142+801). Criminal Law, ¶807(1).

Reviewing evidence in charge—The trial judge in criminal cases may review the evidence in his instructions, and may state to the jury that it tends to prove certain facts. The only restriction upon the right is that the review should be fair and impersonal, and not in a manner naturally to confuse the jury, or to lead them to a particular result (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Criminal Law, ¶763, 764(5).

9208. Jury—How kept while deliberating—

The separation of jurors is presumptively prejudicial, unless it clearly appears that no prejudice has resulted, and though the law cannot regard trifling and technical irregularities (124-515, 145+385). Criminal Law, ¶927(2).

9213. Verdict for lesser offence—

Cited (128-396, 148+283).

CALENDAR

9223. Register—

Cited (123-392, 143+971).

CHALLENGING JURORS

9224. Challenge defined—Kinds—Defendants to join—

134-309, 159+789.

9225. Challenge to panel—

An objection that the two judges of the municipal court of St. Paul had no power, without the participation of the "president of the common council," an officer no longer existing, to select a jury list, was in the nature of a challenge to the panel (134-309, 159+789).

Prejudice of individual jurors is not ground for challenge to the panel (124-162, 144+752, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 377). Jury, ¶116.

9226. Exception to challenge—

134-309, 159+789.

9227. Denial of challenge—Proceedings—

134-309, 159+789.

The action of the trial court on challenge to the panel, based on questions of fact, held sustained by the record on appeal (124-162, 144+752, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 377). Jury, ☞ 70(1), 75(2).

9228. Challenge to individual juror—

Act of trial judge, during a recess and in the presence of counsel for defendant and state, though in defendant's absence, in calling two jurors, neither of whom had been challenged, into his chambers separately and inquiring if either had been tampered with, was not prejudicial to defendant's rights (162+465). Criminal Law, ☞655(9).

9232. Particular causes of challenge—

In a civil case, the finding of the trial court that a proposed juror was not subject to challenge for actual bias held final (130-3, 153+250). Appeal and Error, ☞968.

9233. Causes of challenge for implied bias—

It is not a good cause of challenge that a proposed juror is in the employ of a corporation, the majority of the stock of which is controlled by another corporation, and so on down to a final holding corporation, which holding corporation in the same way controls the majority of the stock of the defendant corporation; such holding corporation not owning stock in either, and neither owning stock in the other (130-3, 153+250). Jury, ☞92.

APPEALS AND WRITS OF ERROR9242. Removal to supreme court—

Where a defendant, after a plea of not guilty, procured the court to hold a special term of court, and at such term entered a plea of guilty, and paid the fine imposed, without objection, defendant lost his right of appeal from the judgment so entered (127-252, 149+286, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 618). Criminal Law, ☞1131(4).

Where the court refuses to grant a stay of proceedings, to enable defendant to appeal, until the fine imposed is paid, the payment of the fine is not a voluntary payment, precluding appeal (125-332, 147+109). Criminal Law, ☞1026.

9245. Return—

The verity of a proper authenticated return cannot be attacked on appeal (124-58, 144+410). Criminal Law, ☞1111(3).

9246. Bill of exceptions—

In general—Necessity of exception at trial (122-91, 141+1113). Criminal Law, ☞1166½.

Necessity for objections, request for instructions, or presentation of questions in motion for new trial (see 133-184, 158+48). Criminal Law, ☞841, 1064(7).

Newly discovered evidence—The granting of a new trial for newly discovered evidence rests in the sound discretion of the trial court (134-384, 159+829). Criminal Law, ☞938(1).

No abuse of discretion in denying a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence is found, where such evidence is unsatisfactory, and merely corroborative and cumulative of positive and certain testimony of several witnesses on the same matter (126-402, 148+280). Criminal Law, ☞938(1).

In a prosecution for robbery, held, that there was no abuse of discretion in denying a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence (128-40, 150+168). Criminal Law, ☞938(2).

Misconduct of jury—The act of a juror in reading newspaper comments of the trial held not ground for new trial (122-493, 142+823). Criminal Law, ☞925½(4).

A temporary separation of a juror from the others, after a case has been submitted to them, is not ground for a new trial, when the circumstances exclude the suspicion or presumption that the juror has been tampered with (124-515, 145+385). Criminal Law, ☞927(2).

Misconduct of court or prosecuting attorney—Misconduct of county attorney and remarks of court at trial held not ground for new trial (128-187, 150+793, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 360). Criminal Law, ☞655(3), 706.

Failure of the county attorney to call a witness present at the killing, and statement by such attorney that he had examined the witness and did not care to use him, held not such misconduct as to require a new trial (123-487, 144+216). Criminal Law, ☞721½(1).

Conviction against the evidence and contrary to law—A conviction of assault in the second degree held not against the evidence nor contrary to law (126-402, 148+280). Criminal Law, ☞938(1).

9247. Proceedings in supreme court—

130-53, 152+1103.

Where the record contains none of the evidence or proceedings at the trial, they are presumed to be sufficient to sustain the conviction (123-392, 143+971). Criminal Law, ☞1144(16).

The rule that new trials in criminal cases should not be granted, unless the substantial rights of the accused have been violated, applied (135-159, 160+677). Criminal Law, ☞913(1).

Misconduct of county attorney in argument does not require a new trial, where defendant was not prejudiced thereby (123-128, 143+119). Criminal Law, ☞1037(1).

Where the appellate court entertains grave doubt of defendant's guilt, a new trial will be awarded, though the trial was free from technical error (130-347, 153+845). Criminal Law, ¶1159(1).

Error in instructions requires reversal, where evidence of guilt not conclusive (121-405, 141+483). Criminal Law, ¶1163(4).

Newly discovered evidence as ground for new trial (see 129-402, 152+769).

PART V

CONSTRUCTION OF STATUTES AND EXPRESS REPEALS

CHAPTER 107

STATUTES

THE REVISED LAWS AND THEIR EFFECT

9398. How cited—When to take effect—Session laws not affected—

130-397, 153+758, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 157.

Cited and applied (131-332, 155+107).

9399. Former laws not revived—Vested rights not affected—

The repeal of 1899 c. 265 by this section did not affect payments ratified and validated by the statute (130-462, 153+876).

9402. Continuation of former laws—

The statutes embodied in a general revision are presumed not to have changed the former laws, unless such intention clearly appears (133-326, 158+606). Statutes, ¶231.

9405. Same—Powers of commission—Copyright—

The legislature of 1905 did not enact the statements contained in the report of the commission (130-256, 153+324; 130-256, 153+593).

9406. Same—Published laws as evidence—

In ascertaining the intention of the legislature, recourse may be had to the report of the revising commission, taken in connection with the history of the law, the purpose sought to be accomplished by it, and the action of the legislature in changing or not changing the act as reported to them (133-326, 158+606). Statutes, ¶231.

CONSTRUCTION

9408. When to take effect—

A statute enacted without the usual declaration as to the time it shall take effect, but which acts upon certain specified classes or persons at different dates, as to some from the date of enactment and as to others at a future date, goes into effect as an entirety and at the time prescribed by law for the taking effect of statutes after approval by the governor (133-178, 158+50). Statutes, ¶248.

9409. Revision to operate as repeal, when—

135-145, 160+253.

9411. Rules of construction—

In general—Where two sections of a statute are inconsistent, the one must stand which best conforms to the intent and policy of the statute (134-131, 158+798). Statutes, ¶207.

An amendment of a law is presumed to have been made with an intent to effect a change in the existing law (134-131, 158+798). Statutes, ¶181(1), 230.

Effect of amendment of statute "to read as follows" stated (see 134-131, 158+798; 134-334, 159+798, L. R. A. 1917A, 1223). Statutes, ¶164.

Subd. 1—The language of a statute is to be constructed in harmony with the ordinary rules of grammar, except where such construction will lead to a result obviously contrary to the intention of the legislature (124-34, 144+417, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 244). Statutes, ¶189.

Subd. 3—Where three referees are appointed by the court to make a partition of real estate, a partition reported and concurred in by two of them is valid (133-49, 157+908). Partition, ¶94(1).

There being now no "president of the common council" in the city of St. Paul, the direction in the municipal court act of that city that such president and the two judges of such court shall meet and select a jury list is complied with by the meeting and action of the judges alone, in view of this subdivision (134-309, 159+789). Jury, ~~§~~66(2).

9412. Particular words and phrases— * * *

9413. Newspapers—Qualifications—

The proof of publication must show that the newspaper has a circulation of at least 240 copies at the place where the notice is given, and a mere statement that the newspaper has the requisite number of paid subscribers, without showing where the papers are actually circulated, is insufficient (130-202, 153+517). Taxation, ~~§~~706.

A newspaper qualified to publish legal and official notices held a newspaper of "general circulation" (123-1, 142+886). Newspapers, ~~§~~3(1).

9418. Affidavit required—Evidence—

The affidavit required by this section to be filed with the county auditor is prima facie evidence of the qualification of a newspaper only in case it states "the required facts"; and showing that such an affidavit has been filed, without showing the facts stated therein, does not establish such qualification (130-202, 153+517). Taxation, ~~§~~706, 707.

[9419—]1. Certain defective affidavits—Curative—That all affidavits of the fact of the publication of any and all legal notices in any newspaper in this state heretofore made which omit to state, "That said newspaper has been circulated in and near its place of publication to the extent of at least two hundred and forty (240) copies regularly delivered to paying subscribers," such affidavits being in other respects in the form required by statute are hereby declared to be legal and valid and the record of such affidavits heretofore actually recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the proper county shall be in all respects legal and valid and such record shall have the same force and effect in all respects for the purpose of legal notice and evidence and otherwise as may be provided by law in other cases. ('17 c. 506 § 1)

CONSTITUTION OF THE STATE OF MINNESOTA

ARTICLE 1 BILL OF RIGHTS

§ 2. Rights and privileges of citizens—

Who are citizens—Infant child of naturalized father is citizen, though born abroad (121-376, 141+801). Citizens, ¶9.

Class legislation—The workmen's compensation act held not unconstitutional as class legislation (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶208(7).

G. S. 1913 § 2634, limiting speed of motor vehicles, while passing horse-driven by specified persons, to four miles an hour, is not invalid as class legislation (128-460, 151+275). Constitutional Law, ¶208(3).

G. S. 1913 § 1786, requiring notice before suing cities for injuries from contaminated water, is not unconstitutional as discrimination against private parties operating waterworks (130-41, 153+121, L. R. A. 1915E, 749). Constitutional Law, ¶85.

G. S. 1913 §§ 3349, 3355, held not class legislation, because based upon an arbitrary distinction between widows of common-law marriages and widows of ceremonial marriages (126-332, 148+279). Constitutional Law, ¶208(3).

Ordinance requiring weighing of coal held not discriminatory or unreasonable (121-202, 141+106, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 678). Constitutional Law, ¶211; Weights and Measures, ¶5. Violation of ordinance as crime (121-207, 141+110; 121-525, 141+112; 121-526, 141+112).

1915 c. 105, which provides that a contractor misusing moneys paid him by the landowner is guilty of crime, is not invalid as class legislation (134-35, 158+829). Constitutional Law, ¶208(6).

Infringing right of contract—G. S. 1913 § 3858, requiring notice of assignments of wages to be given to the employer, is not unconstitutional as infringing the right of contract, or as class legislation (125-211, 146+359, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 688). Constitutional Law, ¶89(4), 208(7).

G. S. 1913 §§ 3136, 3137, are not unconstitutional on the ground that a prohibition of soliciting of orders for the sale of liquors is a reasonable restraint upon the liberty of contract (126-68, 147+829). Constitutional Law, ¶89(1).

This section is not violated by a statute which applies only to persons falling within a specified class, if it applies alike to all persons within such class, and reasonable grounds exist for making a distinction between those within the class and those without (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶211.

G. S. 1913 §§ 6083-6088, providing that the county board or auditor may license any voter in the county as an auctioneer, and providing a penalty for selling property at auction without such license, is not violative of this section (127-150, 149+9, L. R. A. 1915B, 151). Constitutional Law, ¶89(1).

The inheritance tax law, as amended by 1911 c. 209, is not violative of this section (128-371, 150+1094, L. R. A. 1916A, 901). Constitutional Law, ¶119, 229(1).

§ 3. Liberty of the press—

Qualified privilege of newspaper in discussion as to official misconduct determined (123-136, 143+260). Libel and Slander, ¶50½.

The interest which every citizen has in good government requires that the right be not unduly curtailed to express his opinion upon public officials and political leaders, to seek and convey information concerning their plans and purposes, and to freely criticize proposed methods and measures. In this case a publication affecting a member elect of the legislature, held not libelous per se within the rule stated (131-355, 155+212). Libel and Slander, ¶10(2).

§ 4. Trial by jury—

Not entitled to jury trial—There is no right to a jury trial in an equitable action; and an action to charge defendant as trustee for his acts in wrecking a corporation by conspiring with others to cause it to be adjudicated a bankrupt, and to purchase its assets for a small fraction of their value, is an equitable action, as to which there is no right of trial by jury (130-252, 153+527). Action, \S 25(2); Jury, \S 10, 14(5).

This section does not give the right of trial by jury to persons charged with petty offenses under the ordinances of a city (129-383, 152+777, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 845). Jury, \S 23(1).

Where a party is ordered to interplead, and his right to a fund paid into court by a defendant depends upon the power of the court to relieve him from the legal consequences of an accepted bid, he is not entitled to a jury trial (135-115, 160+500, L. R. A. 1917D, 741). Jury, \S 13(19).

Where one defendant held title to land impressed with a trust in favor of plaintiff, and conveyed to his codefendant, who had notice of the trust, and the latter conveyed to a third person, who had like notice, held, that plaintiff had no cause of action at law for damages against the defendants and was not entitled to a trial by jury (133-452, 158+707). Jury, \S 14(5).

Proceedings under G. S. 1913 \S 6646, for an assessment against stockholders of an insolvent corporation, are summary and informal, and the stockholders are not entitled to a jury trial of the questions involving the authority of the court to order an assessment (132-9, 155+754). Jury, \S 14(1).

On appeal from the probate court to the district court from the allowance of a will the parties have no constitutional right to a trial by jury of the issues of testamentary capacity and undue influence (131-439, 155+392). Jury, \S 17(3).

Mixed actions—In a mixed action, seeking both legal and equitable relief, a party is entitled to a jury trial of the legal issues (130-252, 153+527). Jury, \S 13(14).

To secure a jury trial of legal issues in a mixed action demand must be made that the specific issues proper for trial by jury be so tried (130-252, 153+527). Jury, \S 25(2).

Five-sixths jury verdict—The five-sixths jury law applies in a state court though the action is based on a federal statute (126-260, 148+106). Trial, \S 321½.

Where a verdict is unanimous the defeated party cannot raise the question of the constitutionality of the five-sixths jury law (132-391, 157+650).

Invasion of province of jury by court—For the court to indulge in argument on the facts, in its charge to the jury, is an invasion of this section (122-479, 142+801). Criminal Law, \S 807(1).

It is improper for the trial court to indicate its belief as to the credibility of witnesses (122-301, 142+812, 48 L. R. A. [N. S.] 842, Ann. Cas. 1914D, 804). Trial, \S 29(2).

Failure of the court in a ditch appeal to charge the jury that they should not consider the amount of damages awarded by the viewers held to invade the province of the jury (122-392, 142+802). Drains, \S 36(4); Trial, \S 133(1).

§ 5. Excessive bail and fines—Cruel or unusual punishment—

G. S. 1913 $\S\S$ 8717-8726, relating to abatement in equity of disorderly houses, held not violative of this section (126-95, 147+953). Criminal Law, \S 1214.

§ 6. Rights of accused—

126-386, 148+458.

Cited in dissenting opinion (128-163, 150+787).

G. S. 1913, $\S\S$ 8717-8726, providing for abatement of disorderly houses by suit in equity, held not violative of the guaranty that one accused of crime shall be confronted by the witnesses against him (126-95, 147+953). Criminal Law, \S 862(1).

The "speedy public trial" contemplated by this section need not be within the time and under the conditions mentioned in G. S. 1913 \S 8510 (127-505, 150+171).

§ 7. Same—Due process of law—Bail—Habeas corpus—

121-431, 141+806.

Twice in jeopardy—"Twice in jeopardy" and "twice in jeopardy of punishment" mean the same thing (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, \S 161.

The statute providing for increased punishment of persons previously convicted of a similar offense (\S 8491) is not violative of this section, as placing the accused twice in jeopardy (123-413, 144+142). Criminal Law, \S 162.

Acquittal of the charge of carnal knowledge of a female under the age of consent on January 16, 1914, is not a bar to another prosecution for the same offense committed by defendant on the same female on July 16, 1914, there having been three indictments found prior to the former trial, one of which charged the date July 16, 1914, but defendant having been put on trial under the indictment charging the date January 16, 1914, and the evidence on that trial having been confined to acts of intercourse occurring prior to but not after January 16, 1914; but the prosecution would have been barred if the state had been permitted to introduce evidence under such indictment of an act of intercourse occurring July 16, 1914, without being first compelled to elect to stand on the indictment charging an offense on January 16, 1914, but if an election is made, the introduction of evidence of other acts as tending to prove the act relied on will not prevent a subsequent prosecution (161+590). Criminal Law, \S 186, 198.

Self-incrimination—The evidence of one of several defendants, voluntarily given on a former trial, was properly received in evidence against such defendant, as against the objection that it was self-incriminatory (127-445, 149+945). Criminal Law, \S 539(2).

None but a legal voter could raise an objection that an answer to the question how he voted, might tend to incriminate him, and the court was not required to inform him that he might claim this privilege (126-268, 148+276). Witnesses, \S 306, 307.

The fact that in an investigation by a grand jury of a charge against another party the defendant has been required to give evidence which would tend to show that he himself had committed another crime cannot give him perpetual immunity from prosecution for the offense committed by himself and which may be proven by independent evidence (126-521, 148+471). Criminal Law, ¶42.

Election contestant cannot invoke for alleged illegal voters rights to refuse to testify on the ground of incrimination; privilege being personal (162+522). Witnesses, ¶306.

Deprivation of property—Vested rights—A conditional vendor of personal property, whose contract was executed prior to the enactment of G. S. 1913 §§ 8717-8726, had no vested right to the use of such property in violation of such statute, though prior to the enactment of such statutes such sale and use were not unlawful (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Constitutional Law, ¶92.

G. S. 1913, § 8971, making it an offense to advertise any business relating to procurement of divorces, is not invalid as depriving of a vested right (123-227, 143+780). Constitutional Law, ¶92.

As between the state and members of a fire department a pension is a gratuity which may be taken away at any time before it accrues without affecting a vested right (125-174, 145+1075, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 749). Constitutional Law, ¶102(2).

Where a member of the Minneapolis Fire Department Relief Association is determined by the association to be disabled, within the meaning of the constitution and by laws of such association, such member obtains a vested legal right to such benefit, of which he cannot be deprived except by due process of law (124-381, 145+35, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1018). Constitutional Law, ¶102(2).

An ordinance of the city of St. Paul requiring the St. Paul City Railway Company to construct a new and additional car line, in accordance with a reserved power in the franchise ordinance, held not to violate any of the constitutional rights of the railway company (127-191, 149+195). Constitutional Law, ¶133.

Statutes curing contracts tainted with usury do not impair vested rights (132-19, 155+765). Corporations, ¶657(1).

Due process of law—G. S. 1913 §§ 2820, 2823, imposing on a school district, pupils of which attend another district maintaining a special school for agricultural and domestic science training, liability for tuition of such pupils, is not violative of this section (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1).

Failure to name the owner of an interest in land in the plat and notices under G. S. § 1567, in proceedings to condemn land for the widening of a street, held not a deprivation of property without due process of law, in view of the provision of the statute that the names of owners shall be stated "so far as they can readily be ascertained" (161+231). Constitutional Law, ¶281; Eminent Domain, ¶167(2).

G. S. 1913 §§ 2348, 2349, providing for reassessment by the tax commission on complaint, are not invalid as a denial of due process of law (121-421, 141+839). Constitutional Law, ¶284.

1901 c. 167, providing that a village council may, on its own motion, order a sidewalk constructed, is not unconstitutional, because it does not give property owners an opportunity to be heard as to the propriety or necessity of the proposed sidewalk (124-471, 145+377). Constitutional Law, ¶289.

St. Paul City Charter tit. 3 c. 6 §§ 7, 23, as amended, relating to local assessments, does not violate due process of law, in that it permits an enforcement of the assessment without a sale of the property, a redemption being permitted (123-1, 142+886). Constitutional Law, ¶290(7).

G. S. 1913 §§ 7036, 7037, in giving one transporting and storing property at the request of the owner a superior lien to a chattel mortgagee, does not take property without due process of law (124-144, 144+750). Constitutional Law, ¶300.

G. S. 1913 § 4314 et seq., imposing upon a common carrier a penalty for failure to adjust claims for damages, held not unconstitutional as denying due process of law (126-138, 147+960, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 823). Constitutional Law, ¶303.

G. S. 1913 § 7735, providing for service on a soliciting agent of a foreign railroad company maintained in this state, held due process of law, as applied to service of process in a suit growing out of business solicited and obtained by such agent in this state (129-104, 151+917, L. R. A. 1916E, 232, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 335). Constitutional Law, ¶309(3).

G. S. 1913 §§ 8719-8721, relating to the presumptions arising from the maintenance of a disorderly house, are not violative of due process of law, being merely a change in procedure, without reference to whether the cause of action or rights to which it would apply were already in existence or would accrue thereafter (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Constitutional Law, ¶311.

G. S. 1913 § 5284, in rendering a purchaser of timber liable on a resale without a hearing, held not to deprive the purchaser of due process of law (122-400, 142+717). Constitutional Law, ¶318.

The workmen's compensation act does not deny due process of law (128-221, 150+623). Master and Servant, ¶347.

G. S. 1913 § 8143, requiring action to set aside a foreclosure sale or defense thereto for certain defects to be brought or interposed within a certain time, is not a denial of due process of law, as applied to one in possession when the statute was passed, and who does not claim under the chain of title affected by the foreclosure (130-520, 153+997). Mortgages, ¶330.

The provision of G. S. 1913 § 6646, authorizing the court, in proceedings for collection of an assessment against stockholders of an insolvent corporation, to receive evidence by affidavit or otherwise, is not unconstitutional as depriving stockholders of property without due process of law (132-9, 155+754). Corporations, ¶269(2).

The provision of G. S. 1913 § 8723, as to giving of bond in order to resume the use of property under the abatement law, is not invalid as a denial of due process of law (131-308, 155+90). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1), 324; Nuisance, ¶60.

Effect of decisions of United States supreme court as to due process of law (129-204, 151+917, L. R. A. 1916E, 232, Ann. Cas. 1916E, 335).

G. S. 1913 §§ 8717-8726, held not invalid as an unreasonable exercise of the police power with respect to personal property used in the maintenance of a disorderly house (126-78, 147+951, 52 L. R. A. [N. S.] 932, Ann. Cas. 1915D, 549). Nuisance, ¶60.

G. S. 1913 §§ 4268-4271, requiring railroad companies to keep ditches open, is not invalid as an invasion of the property rights of the company (132-265, 156+121). Railroads, ¶108; Waters and Water Courses, ¶119(4).

§ 8. Remedies for wrongs—

The provision of G. S. 1913 § 8723, as to giving of bond in order to resume the use of property under the abatement law, is not violative of the provision that justice shall be obtained freely and without purchase (131-308, 155+90). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1), 324; Nuisance, ¶60.

G. S. 1913 § 8723, relating to the right of an owner of premises to obtain release from a decree of abatement by giving bond and paying costs, is unnecessarily drastic (126-95, 147+953).

The workmen's compensation act held not to violate this section (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Master and Servant, ¶347.

§ 10. Unreasonable searches and seizures—

A description of the place to be searched meets the requirements, where it furnishes data from which the officer is enabled to definitely locate the place. The description in this case held sufficient (132-260, 156+130). Searches and Seizures, ¶3.

A search warrant fair on its face protects the officer, though the complaint on which it was based is insufficient (132-260, 156+130). Sheriffs and Constables, ¶98(1).

§ 11. Attainder—Ex post facto laws—Impairment of contracts—

G. S. 1913 §§ 8717-8726, providing for abatement of disorderly houses by suit in equity, held not violative of this section, as being a bill of attainder and ex post facto law (126-95, 147+953). Constitutional Law, ¶197.

G. S. 1913 §§ 7036, 7037, in giving one transporting and storing property at the request of the owner a lien superior to a chattel mortgage, does not impair the obligation of the mortgage contract (124-144, 144+750). Constitutional Law, ¶161.

1913 c. 587 (§ 5541), does not impair contracts let for drainage work prior to the passage of the act, since such contracts are subject to the control of the legislature, the county being a mere state agency in conducting the drainage proceedings (123-59, 142+945). Constitutional Law, ¶121(2).

The inheritance tax law, as amended by 1911 c. 209, is not unconstitutional as impairing the obligation of contracts (128-371, 150+1094, L. R. A. 1916A, 901). Constitutional Law, ¶119.

The workmen's compensation act does not impair the obligation of contracts of employment existing at the time of the enactment of the statute (128-221, 150+623). Constitutional Law, ¶146.

§ 12. Imprisonment for debt—Exemption from execution—

1915 c. 105, making it larceny for a contractor to misuse, with intent to defraud, money paid to him by the landowner for improvements under G. S. § 7020, is not invalid as involving imprisonment for debt (134-35, 158+829). Constitutional Law, ¶83(3).

A person who furnishes material for the construction of a building on a homestead has no claim or lien on money constituting proceeds of insurance on the building after its destruction by fire (132-372, 157+504). Homestead, ¶79.

Exception of debt incurred for labor from exemption right cited in (161+413). Descent and Distribution, ¶140. See note under G. S. § 8182.

§ 13. Private property for public use—

Property damaged—Under this section, as amended in 1896, a property owner may recover for special pecuniary damage to private property through the construction and operation of a railroad, though the damage is consequential and results from structures or operations that do not invade his land; but the right of recovery is based on the existence of an actionable wrong at common law, and if a railroad erects a structure which constitutes a private nuisance as to property in the neighborhood, the owner thereof may recover, though the instrumentality causing the injury is not a public nuisance, and is reasonable and necessary from a public standpoint, is not negligently constructed, and is authorized by statute (161+501). Eminent Domain, ¶90.

Damaging private property abutting upon a highway by constructing an embankment in the highway is an invasion of the rights of the owner, for which this section requires compensation (130-359, 153+738). Eminent Domain, ¶90.

Under this section a city is liable for damages caused by change of grade of a street (123-300, 143+906). Eminent Domain, ¶101(1).

If the operation of a railroad in the ordinary manner creates a private nuisance upon adjacent property, such property is thereby damaged within the purview of this section (125-224, 146+353, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 1017). Eminent Domain, ¶104.

The construction of a commercial railroad across a street in front of a lot imposes an additional servitude for which the property owner is entitled to compensation (206 Fed. 122, 127 C. C. A. 89). Eminent Domain, ¶119.

Where the property itself is not taken, but merely damaged, the right of the owner to go into court and compel the municipality which invades his rights to make compensation satisfies the requirement of this section (130-359, 153+738). Eminent Domain, ¶271.

The obligation to pay consequential damages to property not taken rests upon the political division of the state which invades the right of property, where the legislature has made no other provision; and where a county, under G. S. 1913 §§ 2584-2586, constructs a bridge, in building which abutting property is damaged, the duty to make compensation was on the county and not the village in which the bridge was located (130-359, 153+738). Eminent Domain, ¶285.

Riparian owner, in front of whose property a railroad company places a fender to direct navigation under its bridge, held not entitled to compensation, the work being authorized by the federal government (125-380, 147+431). Navigable Waters, ¶39(5).

Under this section an abutting owner is entitled to recover damages arising to his property from the improvement of the street, such as removal of lateral support, depression of the street below grade, and prevention of access (129-59, 151+532). Municipal Corporations, ¶385(4).

Taking private property without compensation—The power of eminent domain defined (125-194, 145+967). Eminent Domain, ¶4.

St. Paul City Charter § 251, making compensation awarded a public charge recoverable by the property owner, held not violative of this section (128-432, 151+144). Eminent Domain, ¶70.

St. Paul City Charter tit. 3 c. 6 §§ 7, 23, as amended, relating to assessments for local improvements, held not violative of this section because permitting an enforcement of the assessments without a sale of the property, redemption being permitted (123-1, 142+886). Constitutional Law, ¶200(7).

G. S. 1913 §§ 2820, 2823, imposing liability on one school district for tuition of pupils attending a special school for training in agriculture and domestic science maintained in another district, is not violative of this section (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1).

Necessity of condemnation is not subject to judicial review (121-376, 141+801).

An ordinance of a city establishing a residential district, and prohibiting the erection therein of certain business establishments, including stores, held, as applied to one who had erected a store building under a permit duly issued, and who applied for a permit to install therein an electric lighting system as required by ordinance, invalid, as taking property without compensation, such ordinance not being within the police power of the city to restrict the erection of building injurious to the public welfare (134-226, 158+1017). Constitutional Law, ¶278(1); Eminent Domain, ¶2(1); Municipal Corporations, ¶625.

A city is without power to condemn land, ostensibly for an alley, but with the intention to turn over the land to a private person for the construction of a switch track to his land; and the truth of the declaration in the petition that the land is sought to be acquired for an alley may be inquired into by the court (133-221, 158+240). Eminent Domain, ¶13, 57, 66, 67.

An abutting owner may enjoin the operation and maintenance of a commercial railroad on the street, which has been constructed without having obtained the right by condemnation or otherwise to occupy the street (131-183, 154+948). Eminent Domain, ¶276.

One injured in his private rights by commercial railroad's use of public street, as is the owner of fee of street, is entitled to relief against such use (162+453). Municipal Corporations, ¶671(10).

Failure to name the owner of an interest in land in the plat and notices under G. S. 1913 § 1567, in proceedings to condemn land for the widening of a street, held not a taking of property without compensation, in view of the provision of the statute that the names of owners shall be stated "so far as they can readily be ascertained" (161+231). Constitutional Law, ¶281; Eminent Domain, ¶167(2).

A resolution of a municipal council to take property for an alley has no validity in absence of an assessment of compensation (135-436, 161+154).

The workmen's compensation act does not violate this section (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶208(7).

Measure of damages—Measure of damages for taking part of leasehold premises, removal of front wall which landlord is not required by lease to rebuild, and where lease is terminable on 60 days' notice and payment of a specified sum, stated (see 135-389, 160+1021). Eminent Domain, ¶147.

NAME AND BOUNDARIES

§ 3. Acceptance of enabling act—

In view of this section, land, title to which is in the United States, cannot be registered under the Torrens act (130-456, 153+871). Courts, ¶489(5); Records, ¶9(1, 4, 13).

ARTICLE 3

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

§ 1. Departments of the government—

Legislative questions—Necessity of exercise of power of eminent domain is a legislative and not a judicial question (121-376, 141+801). Eminent Domain, ¶88.

An ordinance relating to a purely legislative matter cannot be made the subject of a suit to restrain its enforcement (131-424, 155+397). Injunction, ¶85(1).

The question of the necessity or propriety of an order of the county board in changing the boundaries of a school district under G. S. 1913 § 2677, is legislative and not judicial (135-439, 161+152). Constitutional Law, ¶70(1).

The provision of G. S. 1913 § 3142, forbidding the sale of intoxicating liquors within one-half mile of a town or municipality which has voted no license, is constitutional (126-5, 147+660). Intoxicating Liquors, ¶14.

A determination of the legislature that a sufficient distinction existed between two classes of persons to apply different rules concerning them is binding upon the courts, unless the distinction is purely fanciful and arbitrary (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶7.

The courts will not interfere with the discretion vested in the county board by G. S. 1913 § 2696, in dividing the school funds between an old district and a new district created therefrom (126-209, 148+53). Schools and School Districts, ¶41(1).

What accommodations are reasonably necessary is legislative and administrative, and not judicial, and the courts can interfere only where the exercise of the power oversteps constitutional or other limitations (124-533, 144+771). Railroads, ¶9(2).

The function of the railroad and warehouse commission in ordering the construction of a suitable depot at a village or city is legislative or administrative, but the reasonableness of such an order is a judicial question (135-19, 159+1089). Railroads, ¶9(2).

1913 c. 567 § 5541, held not invalid, in so far as it affects contracts entered into before the statute was enacted, on the ground that the provision as to payment of compensation is unwise and does not subserve a public purpose; the question of the wisdom and propriety of the provision being solely for the legislative determination (123-59, 142+945). Constitutional Law, ¶103, 121(2).

Whether charitable associations are to be excluded from the requirement as to guarding dangerous machinery is for the legislature and not the courts to determine (122-10, 141+837, 46 L. R. A. [N. S.] 548). Charities, ¶45(2).

Construction favoring validity—Where a law is within constitutional limitations it cannot be said to be against public policy (124-300, 145+21). Constitutional Law, ¶38.

Rule requiring that statutes be so construed as to be consistent with constitutional limitations, if possible, applies to home rule city charters (129-40, 151+545, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 189). Constitutional Law, ¶48.

In the enactment of statutes the legislature is presumed to intend to keep within constitutional bounds, and unless the statute is unconstitutional beyond a reasonable doubt it must be sustained (126-95, 147+953). Constitutional Law, ¶48.

Statutes are presumed to be valid, unless they clearly transgress some constitutional limitation (126-286, 148+71, L. R. A. 1916D, 412). Constitutional Law, ¶48.

While the courts are not bound by the legislative determination of what is a reasonable license fee, they will not hold a legislative act invalid, unless it is clear that it infringes some right guaranteed by the constitution (124-498, 145+383, 51 L. R. A. [N. S.] 40, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 812). Licenses, ¶7(9).

Policy or wisdom of legislation—The wisdom of the workmen's compensation act is for the determination of the legislature, not of the courts (128-158, 150+620). Constitutional Law, ¶70(3).

The courts have no concern with the wisdom of a provision of the Duluth city charter relating to preferential ballot (125-407, 147+815, L. R. A. 1915B, 401). Constitutional Law, ¶70(3).

The courts cannot question the wisdom of G. S. 1913 § 1340, providing that the classification of cities shall be determined by the state census alone (124-126, 144+756). Constitutional Law, ¶70(3).

Executive questions—The courts will not on habeas corpus review the action of the governor in granting a warrant in extradition proceedings (126-38, 147+708). Habeas Corpus, ¶92(2).

G. S. 1913 §§ 6083-6088, authorizing the county board or county auditor to license any voter in the county as an auctioneer, is not invalid as delegating legislative powers to the officers named (127-150, 149+9, L. R. A. 1915B, 151). Constitutional Law, ¶63(3).

The acts creating the tax commission and conferring on it certain powers are not invalid as a delegation of legislative power (121-421, 141+839). Constitutional Law, ¶80.

1915 c. 367, amending G. S. 1913 § 4353, is not violative of this section, in that it delegates legislative power to the railroad and warehouse commission (134-217, 158+982). Carriers, ¶2; Constitutional Law, ¶62.

The discretion of the mayor of a city to revoke licenses is not subject to judicial control, except that a court may inquire as to whether a fair legal discretion has been exercised (131-195, 154+964, L. R. A. 1916C, 224). Theaters and Shows, ¶3.

What is judicial power and what are judicial questions—Judicial power is vested alone in the courts, and consists in the adjudication of the rights of persons or property, and to that end declares, construes, and applies the law. The action of a town board in granting or withholding permits to operate trades or employments in which noisome odors may arise is not judicial, but is an exercise of the police power of the state. The proceedings of a license board in such cases is, however, quasi judicial (130-474, 153+869). Constitutional Law, ¶67.

It is not for the court to make statutory law, but to construe and enforce it as it finds it (125-174, 145+1075, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 749). Constitutional Law, ¶70(1).

Whether railroad rates fixed by statute are reasonable or unreasonable and confiscatory is a judicial question, exclusively for the determination of the courts (130-144, 153+320, L. R. A. 1916B, 764). Carriers, ¶18(1).

While in a proper action the reasonableness of an established rate may be the subject of judicial investigation and adjudication, courts are without authority to fix by injunction, or otherwise, rates for public service corporations (130-71, 153+262, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 286). Constitutional Law, ¶70(3).

Whether an order of the railroad and warehouse commission is reasonable is a judicial question (130-57, 153+247). Constitutional Law, ¶73.

In the exercise of the power of eminent domain, the only questions for the determination of the courts are whether the use is a public one, and whether proper compensation is given (125-194, 145+967). Eminent Domain, ¶66.

Inconsistencies arising from the application of the inheritance tax law, not affecting its constitutionality, do not call for action by the courts to remove such inconsistencies (124-508, 145+390, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 262, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 861). Taxation, ¶858.

Whether the purpose for which private property is to be taken is a public one is a judicial question, which may be determined by the courts (125-403, 147+273). Eminent Domain, ¶66.

The courts cannot interfere with the legislative discretion in the formation of senatorial and representative districts, except when there has been a clear and arbitrary departure from the requirements of equality (125-336, 147+105). States, ¶27.

Under the statutes relating to public service corporations it is the duty of the court to determine in each particular case whether the taking of designated property is necessary and whether such property may lawfully be taken for the purpose (127-23, 148+561). Eminent Domain, ¶66.

The workmen's compensation act is not violative of this section, in that it encroaches on the judiciary (128-221, 150+623). Constitutional Law, ¶78.

The Elwell road law (G. S. 1913 §§ 2603-2609) is not unconstitutional, as conferring legislative powers on the judiciary (129-165, 151+899). Constitutional Law, ¶61.

G. S. 1913 § 7998, forbidding the direction of a verdict over the objection of the adverse party, is not violative of the constitutional authority of the courts to determine whether a cause of action or defense exists, but merely regulates the exercise of the power (129-4, 151+412). Trial, ¶171.

1911 c. 207 (G. S. 1913 § 2688), relating to proceeding for the consolidation of school districts and to appeals therein, is not violative of this section as an attempt to confer upon the courts questions of a purely legislative character (122-383, 142+723). Constitutional Law, ¶61.

While the necessity and propriety of condemning land for a public purpose is a legislative question, the courts have power to inquire as to the intended use to be made of land which a city is seeking to condemn ostensibly for a public alley; and if the evidence clearly shows that the city intends to devote the land to a private purpose, its petition for condemnation will be denied (133-221, 158+240). Eminent Domain, ¶66.

The drainage act of 1909 (G. S. 1913 §§ 5523, 5525, 5553), conferring jurisdiction on the district court to entertain a proceeding to establish a ditch located wholly within one county, and not benefiting or damaging land in an adjoining county, is not unconstitutional, as conferring legislative and executive powers on the court (131-43, 154+617). Constitutional Law, ¶70(1), 74; Drains, ¶26.

Powers that may be delegated by the legislature—Power to make regulations as to use of general standard of weights and measures fixed by legislature may be delegated (121-202, 141+106, Ann. Cas. 1914C, 678). Constitutional Law, ¶60.

ARTICLE 4

THE LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT

§ 2. Number of members—

This section does not require that each district shall contain the same number of inhabitants, the legislature being vested with a wide discretion in forming such districts, and a mere variance in population does not render the apportionment unconstitutional (125-336, 147+105). States, ¶27.

§ 9. Members not to hold certain offices—

Members of the legislature which enacted 1913 c. 400 (G. S. 1913 §§ 294-297), are not prohibited by this section from becoming candidates for nomination for state auditor at the ensuing primary election; there being no increase made by that law in the compensation of the office at the time the act took effect (125-104, 145+794). Officers, §29.

§ 10. Revenue bills to originate in the house—

The penalty imposed by the abatement law (G. S. 1913 § 8724) is not a tax, the bill for imposition of which must originate in the house (131-308, 155+90). Statutes, §6.

§ 15. Exclusion of convicts from civil rights—

This section does not forbid the legislature from providing that a violation of any provision of the corrupt practices act shall bar a candidate from holding an office to which he is elected (126-378, 148+293). Elections, §270.

§ 20. Reading bills—

No particular formality is required to dispense with the requirement as to readings; and action of the house, the necessary effect of which was to order a third reading of the bill on the same day that it had been read a second time, and to place it on its final passage, and the passage of the bill by a vote of more than two-thirds of all the members of the house, operated to dispense with the rule. "Two-thirds of the house," as used in this section, means two-thirds of the whole membership of the house. The provision as to dispensing with the reading of a bill on three different days is mandatory, and an act passed without the required readings on different days, and without dispensing with the rule, is invalid (130-424, 153+749). Statutes, §15.

Presumption as to compliance with requirement as to readings (see 130-424, 153+749). Statutes, §285, 286. See, also, notes under Const. art. 4 § 21, and G. S. 1913 §§ 41, 8414.

§ 21. Enrolling and signing bills—

The fact that a bill was enrolled, authenticated by the presiding officers of each house, signed by the governor, and filed with the secretary of state is not conclusive that it was passed in a constitutional manner, but the courts may look to the legislative journals to ascertain that fact. The presumption arising from such enrollment, etc., is a strong one, requiring clear and strong evidence to overcome it. Mere silence of the journals is not sufficient to overcome the presumption, but it must affirmatively appear on the face of the journal that some constitutional requirement was not followed. And where the daily printed journal is silent on the subject, and the permanent journal shows an adverse vote on a combined motion to suspend the constitutional requirement as to readings of bills and also certain rules of the house, made before necessity had arisen for suspension of the constitutional requirement as to the particular bill in question, there was no affirmative showing that such requirement had not been complied with when the occasion did arise (130-424, 153+749). Statutes, §37, 286.

Relative weight as evidence of printed daily journal and permanent journal (see 130-424, 153+749). Statutes, §285, 286. See, also, notes under G. S. 1913 §§ 41, 8414.

§ 23. Census—Apportionment—

This section imposes a duty upon the legislature to make a reapportionment, and, if not made at the first session after the census, it may make the reapportionment at some subsequent session (125-336, 147+105). States, §27.

§ 27. Laws to embrace but one subject—

Construction in general—This provision is to be construed liberally, and all doubts resolved in favor of the sufficiency of this title (124-307, 144+962). Statutes, §105(1).

A law is not invalid because its scope is not as broad or all-inclusive as its title indicates (135-89, 160+204). Statutes, §126.

Specific statutes—1905 c. 204 (G. S. 1913 § 5258 et seq.) is not violative of this section (128-300, 150+912). Statutes, §117(1).

That penal provisions of G. L. 1909 c. 201 (4624-4635) are not expressed in its title does not render the act unconstitutional (121-381, 141+526). Statutes, §109.

The title of 1909 c. 503 (G. S. 1913 § 6863) does not so limit or restrict the act as to exclude the subject of vacation of plats or streets (129-306, 152+643). Statutes, §123(4).

1911 c. 156 (G. S. 1913 §§ 4611-4623), establishing a department of weights and measures, does not violate this section (124-307, 144+962). Statutes, §118(1).

The inheritance tax law as amended by 1911 c. 209, is not violative of this section (128-371, 150+1094, L. R. A. 1916A, 901). Statutes, §121(4).

Title to 1911 c. 250 held sufficient (124-136, 144+748). Statutes, §110½(1).

1913 c. 140 (G. S. 1913 §§ 48, 49) is not violative of this section, in that its subject-matter is not expressed in its title (126-110, 147+946). Statutes, §119(3).

1913 c. 389 (G. S. 1913 § 336) is not violative of this section, as embracing more than one subject (125-238, 146+364). Statutes, §107(5).

1913 c. 389 (G. S. 1913 § 336) is not violative of this section, in that its subject-matter is not germane to the statutes amended (125-238, 146+364). Statutes, §131.

1913 c. 389, § 2 (G. S. 1913 § 336), amending certain sections of R. L. 1905, as the same were amended by subsequent session laws, and repealing certain session laws, the subject-matter of all such laws being primary elections, which chapter refers in its title to the sections amended by number only, without reciting in its own title the general subject of the legislation, is not violative of this section (125-238, 146+364). Statutes, §125(5).

G. S. 1913 §§ 3136, 3137, held not violative of this section (126-68, 147+829). Statutes, §118(1).

§ 32a. Submission of laws for taxation of railroads—

Cited (125-407, 147+815, L. R. A. 1915B, 401).

Cited (131-287, 155+92) on the proposition as to whether illegally marked ballots are to be counted in determining whether a majority of the votes cast have favored the measure submitted. Intoxicating Liquors, §35.

§ 33. Special legislation prohibited—

In general—This section does not deprive the legislature of power to classify districts of the state for purposes of legislation, if the basis of the classification is germane to the purpose of the law (124-126, 144+756). Statutes, §92.

The word "modify," as used in this section, is synonymous with "enlarge" and "extend," and a statute which removes or takes from a special statute a distinct and severable part is not a modification thereof (133-178, 158+50). Statutes, §134.

The amendment adopted November 8, 1881, did not operate on a franchise granted after that date, but before the amendment took effect in January following (128-314, 150+917).

Laws passed prior to amendment of 1892—Sp. L. 1891 c. 423 took effect prior to the amendment of this section (133-178, 158+50). Statutes, §102(2).

1903 c. 294, was a repeal in part of the special law, but was not a modification thereof, within the meaning of this section (133-178, 158+50). Statutes, §140.

1911 c. 250 § 4, providing for compensation of clerks of the district court of certain counties, held not to extend or amend Sp. L. 1891 c. 423, fixing the compensation of the clerk of the district court of Otter Tail county (124-136, 144+748). Statutes, §134.

Matters subsequent to amendment of 1892—The classification in 1911 c. 250 §§ 4, 5, held not arbitrary or unreasonable (124-136, 144+748). Statutes, §93(10).

1913 c. 257, relating to the construction of a railway for the use of the University of Minnesota, is not unconstitutional as special legislation (125-194, 145+967). Statutes, §97(1).

1913 c. 389 (G. S. 1913 § 336), relating to primary elections, is not violative of this section, as special or class legislation (125-238, 146+304). Statutes, §101(2).

1913 c. 567 (§ 5541), relating to payment of compensation on drainage contracts, held, not violative of this section on the ground that the classification made by such act is arbitrary (123-59, 142+945). Statutes, §97(3).

G. S. 1913 § 3191, making it unlawful to sell liquors to minors, held not unconstitutional as special legislation, in that a general law can be made applicable (124-162, 144+752, Ann. Cas. 1915B, 377). Statutes, §76(5).

G. S. 1913 § 8901 is not violative of this section, as being class legislation, though the act is aimed at those only who make or use false statements to obtain credit from banks, savings banks, and trust companies (135-89, 160+204). Constitutional Law, §208(1).

North Dakota act, imposing on "every common carrier" liability "to any of its employes" for injuries, held not violative of N. D. Const. N. D. art. 1 § 11, providing that all laws of general nature shall have uniform operation, and § 20, prohibiting class legislation (121-431, 141+806).

§ 34. General laws—

124-136, 144+748.

§ 36. Cities and villages may adopt charters—Classification of cities for legislative purposes—

Cited (125-407, 147+815, L. R. A. 1915B, 401).

Home rule charter provision cited (129-240, 152+408).

Election—The six months within which a proposed home rule charter shall be submitted to the mayor extends from a date earlier than the date of appointment of the last member of the charter commission (129-181, 151+970). Municipal Corporations, §48(1).

Cited (131-287, 155+92) on the proposition as to whether illegally marked ballots are to be counted in determining whether a majority of the votes cast have favored the measure submitted. Intoxicating Liquors, §35.

Mandamus to compel calling of election for submission of home rule charter returned by charter commission (129-181, 151+970). Mandamus, §74(2).

Newspaper duly designated for the publication of official notices held a newspaper of "general circulation" within the meaning of this section (123-1, 142+886). Newspapers, §3(1).

Classification—The legislature has power to provide that, for the purposes of classification of cities, population shall be determined by the state census alone. The power of the legislature to fix the test by which the classification of cities according to population shall be determined implies the power to change that test, though such change may result in shifting cities from one class to another. The legislature has no power to adopt a test which is arbitrary and evasive of the constitution. But it cannot be said that G. S. 1913 § 1340 is thus arbitrary and evasive (124-126, 144+756). Statutes, §92.

1909 c. 503 (G. S. 1913 § 6863) held not invalid, as making an arbitrary classification of municipalities, in that it excepts cities of the first class having a special charter from its operation, for, irrespective of the proviso, such cities would not have their special charters repealed or affected by implication (129-305, 152+643). Statutes, §93(4).

Powers under charter—The requirement that the charter shall provide a legislative body for the city is not violated by conferring the power of the initiative and referendum upon the electors of the city after establishing such legislative body (134-355, 159+792). Municipal Corporations, §108.

The adoption of a home rule charter by the people of a city is legislation, and the authority which it furnishes to city officers is legislative authority (134-296, 159+627). Municipal Corporations, ¶48(2).

The powers which cities may take to themselves by virtue of home rule charters are subject to the paramount power of the legislature, and may be suspended or abrogated whenever the legislature sees fit to exercise its reserved power. The county option law (1915 c. 23), as to cities operating under home rule charters, does not infringe the rights granted by this section (132-298, 156+249). Intoxicating Liquors, ¶14.

The provisions relative to home rule charters do not authorize a city to grant its city council the right to punish a witness called before it for contempt, as such power cannot be inferred (131-116, 154+750). Municipal Corporations, ¶60.

The provisions of the St. Paul commission charter directing the mayor to designate one of the councilmen as commissioner of education, to have supervision of the schools and libraries of the city, is not violative of this section (128-82, 150+389). Schools and School Districts, ¶10.

St. Paul City Charter tit. 3 c. 6 §§ 7, 23, relating to assessments for local improvements, are not violative of this section (123-1, 142+886). Municipal Corporations, ¶407(2).

THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

§ 4. Powers and duties of governor—

There being a vacancy in the office of municipal judge, because of an unconstitutional statute, the governor was authorized to make an appointment (131-401, 155+629). Judges, ¶8.

THE JUDICIARY

§ 1. Courts—

Cited (133-124, 158+234).

The municipal court is a state court within the meaning of this section (130-492, 153+963, L. R. A. 1916B, 931). Courts, ¶42(5).

§ 2. Supreme court—

G. S. 1913 § 357, conferring original jurisdiction on the supreme court to review the action of canvassing boards and election officers, is valid as a grant of jurisdiction in one of the remedial cases permitted by this section (125-249, 146+733). Courts, ¶206.

§ 6. Judges of supreme and district courts—Qualifications—Compensation—

A layman is not entitled to have his name placed on the primary ballot as candidate for district judge, though he has filed with the secretary of state an affidavit under G. S. 1913 § 339, and paid the requisite fee (125-533, 147+425). Judges, ¶4.

§ 7. Probate courts—

Cited (130-240, 153+520).

Jurisdiction of probate court—The jurisdiction of the probate courts is entire, exclusive, and plenary, and the court has fully equity powers necessary to the settlement and distribution of an estate, and it may apply the law to the facts, whether the law be statutory, common law, or the principles of equity (133-124, 158+234). Courts, ¶200¼.

Where the person alleged to be deceased is in fact dead and in fact left an estate within the probate court's territorial jurisdiction, it had jurisdiction over the subject-matter of administering such estate (162+454). Executors and Administrators, ¶9.

The administration of the estate of a deceased person is a proceeding in rem (162+454). Executors and Administrators, ¶20(1).

G. S. 1913 §§ 7416, 8175, do not take away from the probate court jurisdiction and control over matters pertaining to a fund resulting from the statutory liability for wrongful death (123-165, 143+255). Courts, ¶199.

The probate court has exclusive jurisdiction of the settling of accounts of administrators, and to correct errors in its orders settling such accounts, or to set them aside for mistake or fraud (126-445, 148+302). Courts, ¶472(4).

Jurisdiction to determine heirship and descent of allotment on White Earth Indian reservation, where allottee dies before approval of his allotment (130-487, 153+961). Courts, ¶489(5).

— How invoked—The jurisdiction of the probate court conferred by this section must be invoked by petition as required by G. S. 1913, § 7227 (128-112, 150+385). Executors and Administrators, ¶22(3), 29(1).

Term—1915 c. 168, providing that clerks of district court, elected in 1912, shall hold over until January, 1919, and that their successors shall be elected in November, 1918, held to create a vacancy commencing in January, 1918, in view of art. 6 § 13, and art. 7 § 9 (132-426, 157+652). Clerks of Courts, ¶7.

§ 9. Election of other judges—

Under this provision, by virtue of which the municipal court of Duluth is created, the office of municipal judge is elective, and the term of office, fixed by the legislature, cannot exceed seven years. A hold-over provision in a statute, the effect of which may prolong the incumbent's term beyond the seven years, may be valid for the constitutional term. This provision does not prevent the legislature from extending a fixed term of office by a provision that the incumbent shall continue in office until his successor is duly elected and qualified, if the necessary effect of the statute does not prolong the term beyond the seven years. If a statute has that effect it is unconstitutional (131-401, 155+629). Judges, ¶7, 9.

§ 10. Vacancies—

A successor to one appointed municipal judge should be elected at the next general election, and a statute providing otherwise is unconstitutional (131-401, 155+629). Judges, ¶8.

Where, at the expiration of the time for filing nominations for district judge at the primary election in June, there were but two vacancies, but subsequent to that date another vacancy was created by resignation, it was the duty of the county auditor to prepare the primary election ballot so as to indicate that there were three vacancies to be filled at the November election (126-525, 147+426). Elections, ¶126(5).

§ 13. Clerk of district court—

Cited (131-401, 155+629).

1915 c. 168, amending G. S. 1913 §§ 809, 810, by providing that clerks of the district court, elected in 1912, shall hold over to the first Monday in January, 1919, and that their successors shall be elected in November, 1918, thus extending the terms of present incumbents, and creating a vacancy to be filled by appointment is violative of this section and art. 7 § 9 (132-426, 157+652). Clerks of Courts, ¶3, 7.

§ 14. Pleadings—Process—Conclusion of indictments—

Cited on question of meaning of word "process" (132-389, 157+642). Holidays, ¶5.

§ 15. Court commissioners—

A court commissioner is without power to vacate a judgment rendered by the district court, and an order made by him purporting to do so is a nullity (131-129, 154+748). Court Commissioners, ¶4.

ARTICLE 7ELECTIVE FRANCHISE*§ 1. Persons entitled to vote—

Cited (132-48, 155+1064).

The legislature may prescribe such safeguards in respect to the right to vote as are reasonably necessary to prevent fraud, to limit the election to those possessing the requisite qualifications, and to insure a free and explicit expression of the will of the voter; but, where good faith is shown, mere failure to comply with statutory regulations, unless such regulations are declared mandatory, will not invalidate the ballots (125-417, 147+275). Elections, ¶118.

The preferential system of voting provided by the Duluth charter, whereby first choice, second choice, and additional choice votes are permitted, and are counted in a manner therein provided, is violative of this section. The term "vote," as used in this section, means a choice for a candidate by one constitutionally qualified to exercise a choice. It does not mean that the ballot of one elector, cast for one candidate, can be of greater or less effect than the ballot of another elector cast for another candidate (130-492, 153+953, L. R. A. 1916B, 931). Elections, ¶15.

The provisions of the Duluth city charter, relating to a preferential ballot, by which the voter can indicate a first, second, and additional choice, held not in conflict with this section (125-407, 147+815, L. R. A. 1915B, 401). Elections, ¶27.

§ 2. Persons not entitled to vote—

This section does not forbid the legislature from providing that a violation of any provision of the corrupt practices act shall bar a candidate from holding an office to which he is elected (126-378, 148+293). Elections, ¶270.

§ 6. Elections to be by ballot—

The preferential system of voting provided by the Duluth charter, whereby first choice, second choice, and additional choice votes are permitted, and are counted in a manner therein provided, is violative of this section (130-492, 153+953, L. R. A. 1916B, 931). Elections, ¶15.

§ 7. Eligibility to office—

125-104, 145+794; note under art. 4 § 9.

The corrupt practices act is not violative of this section, in that it authorizes the exclusion of a person from office for corrupt practices in the election thus adding qualifications of eligibility to office not warranted by this provision (126-378, 148+293). Elections, ¶270.

§ 8. Women—

The provision of the St. Paul commission charter that the mayor shall designate one of the members of the council, elected by the male voters of the city, as commissioner of education, with charge over the schools and libraries of the city, is not violative of this section (128-82, 150+389). Elections, ~~§~~13.

§ 9. Official year—Terms of office—General elections—

Plaintiff claims to have held over in the office of municipal judge of the city of Duluth after the expiration of his term. The statute (1913 c. 102) creating the office contained no valid hold-over provision (162+1075). Judges, ~~§~~9.

G. S. 1913 §§ 809, 810, fixing the terms of certain county officers, and operating prospectively, is not violative of this section, in view of art. 11 § 4 (133-66, 157+907). Counties, ~~§~~65.

1915 c. 168, amending G. S. 1913 §§ 809, 810 by providing that clerks of the district court elected in 1912 shall hold over to the first Monday in January, 1919, and that their successors shall be elected in November, 1918, thus extending the term of present incumbents, and creating a vacancy commencing in January, 1917, is violative of this section and of art. 6 § 13 (132-426, 157+652). Clerks of Courts, ~~§~~37.

The provision of this section fixing the official year does not affect the provision in the municipal court act as to holding over by the judge of that court (131-401, 155+629). Judges, ~~§~~9.

Where a county superintendent of schools was defeated for re-election, and unsuccessfully contested the election on the ground that her opponent had violated the corrupt practices act, and then surrendered the office, and the contestee qualified and assumed the duties of the office, but was thereafter ousted on appeal, and resigned, there was a vacancy in the office; contestant's right to the office having expired under this section (131-1, 154+442). Schools and School Districts, ~~§~~48(3).

ARTICLE 8SCHOOL FUNDS, EDUCATION AND SCIENCE*§ 1. Uniform system of public schools—

The legislature has the power to establish in local communities schools teaching other than the common branches, such as special training in agriculture and domestic science (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Schools and School Districts, ~~§~~9.

This provision, construed with § 3, requiring the legislature to make provisions for raising funds for school purposes, is mandatory, and not a mere grant of power (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Schools and School Districts, ~~§~~10.

The St. Paul commission government charter, in providing that one of the six commissioners elected shall be designated by the mayor as commissioner of education, is not violative of this section as introducing nonuniformity in the state educational system (128-82, 150+389). Schools and School Districts, ~~§~~10.

§ 2. School and swamp lands—School funds from sale of—Revolving fund—The proceeds of such lands as are or hereafter may be granted by the United States for the use of schools within each township in this state shall remain a perpetual school fund to the state; and not more than one-third of said lands may be sold in two years, one-third in five years, and one-third in ten years; but the lands of the greatest valuation shall be sold first: Provided, that no portion of said lands shall be sold otherwise than at public sale. The principal of all funds arising from sales or other disposition of lands or other property, granted or intrusted to this state in each township for educational purposes, shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished; and the income arising from the lease or sale of said school land shall be distributed to the different townships throughout the state, in proportion to the number of scholars in each township, between the ages of five and twenty-one years; and shall be faithfully applied to the specific objects of the original grants or appropriations. Suitable laws shall be enacted by the legislature for the safe investment of the principal of all funds which have heretofore arisen or which may hereafter arise from the sale or other disposition of such lands, or the income from such lands accruing in any way before the sale or disposition thereof, in interest-bearing bonds of the United States, or of the state of Minnesota issued after the year 1860, or of such other state as the legislature may by law from time to time direct. All swamp lands now held by the state, or that may hereafter accrue to the state, shall be appraised and sold in the same manner and by the same officers, and the minimum price shall be the same less one-third, as is provided by law for the appraisal and sale of the school lands under the provisions of title one of chapter thirty-eight of the General Statutes. The principal of all funds derived from sales of swamp lands as aforesaid shall forever be preserved inviolate and undiminished. One-half of the proceeds of said principal shall be appropriated to the common school fund of the state; the remaining one-half shall be appropriated to the educational and charitable institutions of the state in the relative ratio of cost to support said institutions.

A revolving fund of not over two hundred fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) may be set apart from the fund derived from the sale of school and swamp lands, to be used in constructing roads, ditches and fire breaks in, through and around unsold school and swamp lands and in clearing such lands, such fund to be replenished as long as needed from the enhanced value realized from the sale of such lands so benefited.

As amended November 2, 1875, November 8, 1881, and November 7, 1916.

Rights acquired by school district in condemnation proceedings for the appropriation of state land are equivalent to a public sale and the statute authorizing the appropriation is not violative of this section (124-271, 144+960). Eminent Domain, ¶46.

§ 3. Public schools in each township—No appropriation for sectarian schools—

This provision is mandatory on the legislature, and not a mere grant of power. G. S. §§ 2820, 2823, providing that one or more rural school districts may become associated with a high school for the purpose of affording education in agriculture, etc., and such associated school may charge tuition for nonresident pupils, which shall be a charge against the school district from which such nonresident pupils come, is within the legislative power. The power of the legislature in establishing schools in local communities is not confined to the common branches (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Schools and School Districts, ¶9, 10.

St. Paul commission government charter, in providing that the mayor shall designate one of the members of the council as commissioner of education, is not violative of this section, in that it introduces nonuniformity in the state school system (128-82, 150+389). Schools and School Districts, ¶10.

§ 4. University of Minnesota—

The university is a governmental function, and property may be taken for its use under the power of eminent domain (125-194, 145+967). Eminent Domain, ¶40.

§ 6. Investment of school funds—The permanent school and university fund of this state may be invested in the bonds of any county, school district, city, town, or village of this state, and in first mortgage loans secured upon improved and cultivated farm lands of this state. But no such investment or loan shall be made until approved by the board of commissioners designated by law to regulate the investment of the permanent school fund and the permanent university fund of this state; nor shall such loan or investment be made when the bonds to be issued or purchased would make the entire bonded indebtedness exceed 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of the county, school district, city, town or village issuing such bonds; nor shall any farm loan, or investment be made when such investment or loan would exceed 30 per cent of the actual cash value of the farm land mortgage to secure said investment; nor shall such investments or loans be made at a lower rate of interest than 3 per cent per annum, nor for a shorter period than five years, nor for a longer period than thirty years, and no change of the town, school district, city, village or of county lines shall relieve the real property in such town, school district, county, village or city in this state at the time of issuing of such bonds from any liability for taxation to pay such bonds.

Adopted November 3, 1896. Amended November 8, 1904, and November 7, 1916.

That resolution, under G. S. 1913 §§ 1882, 1885, provided that first of series of bonds should mature in less than five years, did not invalidate bonds, where subsequent resolution changed form of bonds so as to comply with requirement of constitution (122-59, 141+1105). Schools and School Districts, ¶97.

§ 7. Timber lands—State forests—Such of the school and other public lands of the state as are better adapted for the production of timber than for agriculture may be set apart as state school forests, or other state forests, as the Legislature may provide, and the Legislature may provide for the management of the same on forestry principles. The net revenue therefrom shall be used for the purposes for which the lands were granted to the state.

Adopted November 3, 1914.

ARTICLE 9

FINANCES OF THE STATE, AND BANKS AND BANKING

§ 1. Power of taxation—

132-232, 156+128.

Generally—The state may require its municipal subdivisions to raise and disburse money for the performance of duties of state concern (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Municipal Corporations, ¶64.

A license tax imposed by a city on vehicles, the proceeds of which are to be used in maintaining the city streets, is not unreasonable as to resident owners of vehicles habitually used on the city streets, because all the licenses issued expire at the same time, and because it fixes a minimum of one-quarter of the annual tax for use for a portion of a year (134-296, 159+627). Licenses, ¶7(1).

The legislature has power to impose a wheelage tax upon vehicles, and to provide that the proceeds shall be used for the maintenance of highways (134-296, 159+627). Licenses, ¶5.

"Local improvements"—An assessment for special benefits from a public ditch is a "local improvement" within this section (162+686). Drains, ¶82(5).

Special assessments—Special assessments for improvements must be limited to benefits, and, if in excess of benefits, there is a taking of property without compensation (129-40, 151+545, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 189). Eminent Domain, ¶2(11).

G. S. § 6286, exempting cemetery associations from assessments for local improvements, is not violative of this section (134-441, 159+962). Municipal Corporations, ¶407(1, 2).

The exemption of public school property from taxation does not apply to special assessments for local improvements (133-386, 158+635, L. R. A. 1916F, 861). Municipal Corporations, ¶426.

Sections 2348, 2349, G. S. 1913, do not contravene this section because a person may be singled out by a disinterested complainant, and his property reassessed on a basis different from that of other property (121-421, 141+839). Taxation, ¶40.

St. Paul Charter tit. 3 c. 6 §§ 7, 23, as amended, relating to assessments for local improvements, held not to discriminate between different property owners, in violation of this section (123-1, 142+886). Municipal Corporations, ¶407(2).

An assessment for a sidewalk made on the basis of frontage is not illegal (124-471, 145+377). Municipal Corporations, ¶469(4).

City charter provision for assessment of cost of sewers and street improvements on the abutting property according to frontage does not infringe the requirement as to uniformity, where the requirement that the assessment shall not exceed the benefits is not violated. Apportionment of cost of improvement of side street between corner lot and inside lots to center of block is not violative of the requirement as to uniformity (129-40, 151+545, Ann. Cas. 1916B, 189). Municipal Corporations, ¶407(2).

Equality and uniformity—An ordinance imposing a wheelage tax on vehicles, the proceeds of which were to be applied to the maintenance of the city streets, does not violate the provision of this section requiring uniformity of taxes on the same class of subjects (134-296, 159+627). Licenses, ¶7(2).

G. S. 1913, requiring a school district, sending pupils to another district maintaining a school for training in agriculture and domestic science, to pay a tuition charge for such pupils, is not violative of the requirement of uniformity of taxation (122-254, 142+325, 47 L. R. A. [N. S.] 200). Taxation, ¶40(4).

To construe G. S. 1913 § 1974, as including a membership in the Duluth Board of Trade, would not violate the equality clause of this section (124-398, 145+108, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 255, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 538). Taxation, ¶40(7).

The classification for taxation must be reasonable, and such as is based on essential differences. Section 1988, G. S. 1913, does not involve an unreasonable classification (128-384, 150+1087). Taxation, ¶394.

Double taxation of memberships in the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce (see 161+516). Taxation, ¶47(1).

Double taxation; gross earnings tax (129-30, 151+410). Taxation, ¶47(7).

§ 3. Property subject to taxation—

A membership in the Duluth Board of Trade is property which the legislature, under the constitution, may tax (124-398, 145+108, 50 L. R. A. [N. S.] 255, Ann. Cas. 1915C, 538). Taxation, ¶87.

§ 5. Public debt may be contracted—

An order of a county board, establishing a state rural highway under G. S. 1913 § 2603 et seq., is not affected by the amount to the county's credit in the state road and bridge fund for the current year (125-325, 146+1110). Highways, ¶99.

1913 c. 257, authorizing the construction of a railway for the use of the University of Minnesota is not violative of the inhibition as to internal improvements; that prohibition not extending to the performance of the state's governmental functions (125-194, 145+967). States, ¶119.

§ 8. Application of loans—

G. S. 1913 § 2696, directing a division of the funds in the hands of treasurer of a school district between the old district and a new district created therefrom, is within the legislative power (126-209, 148+53). Schools and School Districts, ¶41(1).

§ 9. Payments out of treasury—

This section has no application to the issuance by the state auditor of a warrant on the state treasurer for the distribution of the gross earnings tax imposed on suburban railroad companies by G. S. 1913 § 2235 (125-67, 145+607). States, ¶130.

§ 10. State credit not to be loaned—

1913 c. 567 (§ 5541), in so far as it changes the mode of payment of compensation under existing contracts for the construction of drainage works, held not invalid as the bestowal of a private gratuity out of the public funds without the subserving of a public purpose (123-59, 142+945). Counties, ¶153½.

§ 14b. Municipal debts in aid of railroads—

125-351, 145+609, 50 L. R. A. (N. S.) 143.

An order of a county board establishing a state rural highway is not affected by the amount to the county's credit in the state road and bridge fund for the current year (125-325, 146+1110). Highways, ¶99.

ARTICLE 10CORPORATIONS HAVING NO BANKING PRIVILEGES*§ 3. Liability of stockholders—

132-9, 155+754; 127-346, 149+462, Ann. Cas. 1916C, 565; notes under G. S. 1913, § 6176.

Liability in general—Where a mercantile corporation sold products to a telephone company, and took stock in the latter company in payment, and the transaction was conducted by the authorized officers of the mercantile company, and was acquiesced in by its stockholders for nearly five years, the mercantile company is estopped to deny its liability as a stockholder under this section (161+713). Corporations, ¶262(1), 269(3).

What is a "manufacturing corporation"—The sale and transfer of his stock does not release a stockholder from the liability imposed by this section for debts of the corporation existing while he was a stockholder; but such liability is secondary to that of the transferee, and the liability of both is secondary to that of the corporation, and hence such stockholder stands in the position of a surety, and he may be released by the act of a creditor in granting an extension of time to the corporation, without his consent. The burden of proof of lack of such consent is on the stockholder, and in the present case, held, that the evidence does not show want of consent (135-339, 160+1014). Corporations, ¶244(1).

A corporation organized to conduct a general manufacturing business, and to generate and distribute electric energy, and to furnish electrical appliances of all kinds, and to act as electrical contractor and engineer, as well as other business specially authorized, is not a manufacturing corporation within this section; and its stockholders are liable to corporate creditors to the amount of their stock (161+223). Corporations, ¶219.

A corporation organized to generate electricity for distribution to the public is a "manufacturing corporation" under this section, though it possesses the power of eminent domain (125-20, 145+611). Corporations, ¶219.

Limitations in favor of stockholders—Accrual of action—Cause of action under this section accrues, so as to set limitations running, at time of declaration of insolvency and appointment of receiver, and not merely from date of assessment against stockholders (161+498). Limitation of Actions, ¶58(4).

§ 4. Lands taken for public way—

124-271, 144+960.

Where a side track becomes a part of the trackage of a railroad, to be operated as a part of its railway system, the taking of property therefor is a taking for a public use (135-323, 160+866). Eminent Domain, ¶20(5).

§ 3. Organization of townships—

The township constitutes a political subdivision of the state, and its powers and the manner of the exercise thereof is under legislative control, and it can exercise no powers not expressly or impliedly granted by statute; and the authority of its officers is likewise limited (133-270, 158+392).

§ 4. Election of county and township officers—

132-426, 157+652; note under art. 7 § 9.

G. S. 1913 §§ 809, 810, fixing the terms of certain county officers at four years, and operating prospectively, is not violative of this section or of art. 7 § 9 (133-65, 157+907). Counties, ~~65~~.

Sections 2348, 2349, G. S. 1913, authorizing appointment of a special assessor by the tax commission, is not violative of this section (121-421, 141+839).
